Students of the Willimantic State Trade school have erected the first of four large signs that will tell of the advantages of Willimantic at the main entrances. The sign just installed is 25 feet long and 12 feet high and is located at the town farm on West Main street where the Hartford, New York and Springfield highways merge into Main street. When weather permits the inscription to be painted on the sign will be: "Willimantic, Educational Center of Eastern Connecticut. Welcome. Chamber of Commerce." The sign is to be illuminated at night.

Word was received today of the death in Lewiston, Pa., Sunday night, of M. J. Heiss, of Newark, N. J. Mr. Heiss, who was known in this city, died almost instantly following an automobile accident. Mrs. Heiss received injuries and remained a patient in a hospital until today. The deceased, who was an engineer, had charge of the installation of two boilers at the American Thread company plant here. One boiler was installed about a year ago and the other last summer. Mrs. Heiss came here with her husband, both becoming well known here.

The mercury dropped as low as ten to 12 degrees below zero in exposed thermometers hereabouts, putting this morning on record as the coldest this season. The average reading about the city was three to two degrees below the zero mark. Storrs reported eight below at daybreak. Warrenville ten below and Scotland about ten below. The ice on ponds in this vicinity ranges from eight to ten inches in thickness.

The appeals to superior court filed by William Hunt and Walter Solenski of South Coventry from a judgment in the Coventry town court November 14, have been withdrawn and the accused paid the amount of their assessments to Justice of the Peace Albert B. Gilman. The two men were found guilty of breach of the peace charges and for trespassing on property of Peter Mittesoski, each being fined a total of $16.20.

IF LOVE COULD BE BOUGHT NONE WOULD BE AVAILABLE

Money will buy lots of things; things to eat; things to drink; things to wear; but it won't buy love and respect, for they are priceless.

At Christmas time it is possible and desirable to demonstrate one's appreciation for kindnesses which cannot be bought with money, nor paid for in any way.

A kindly thought of remembrance, accompanied by some little souvenir of appreciation, will carry one's message of love and respect to the ends of the earth.

At this time our store is filled with articles which should appeal to those who are seeking something suitable for Christmas givir
It would be a pleasure to show them to you.

DANIELSON

MAY RATIFY PLAN TO FINANCE NEW HOMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 12.—Walter Anderson, president of the Danielson Building and Loan association, said today that he anticipates that the organization at its meeting next Tuesday evening will ratify a plan under which a new series of shares would be issued in January, instead of in April, and an organized drive launched to sell 5,000 shares as the first major movement in a program to provide Danielson with a sufficient number of homes for those who work here and who wish to live here, though forced at present to live in various other communities.

Mr. Anderson said this morning that he has been advised that J. W. Powdrell of Powdrell & Alexander will make a personal effort to place 1,000 of these shares with persons not resident here, thus introducing new and outside capital. Mr. Powdrell also will personally canvass his employes for subscriptions and to establish how many of them desire to have homes here, to be built under the Building and Loan association arrangement. It is also forecast that some business concerns and some individuals will subscribe for a sufficient number of shares to permit of starting construction on several of the new homes early in 1930. All of the shares of the new series will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, as do all outstanding shares of the association.

The sale of 5,000 shares would produce an income of $5,000 monthly for the construction of new homes, and this is sufficient to proceed with the building operations on a very considerable scale. At least 50 new houses are required to meet Danielson's present needs. The proposed houses likely will in many cases provide homes for two families each. It is believed that this type of house can be built for a price somewhere near $6,000.

With the support already assured and with the organized effort to be made to place shares, it appears that there will be a building boom on here during the spring.

Eastern Star Elects Officers

The annual meeting of Danielson chapter, No. 77, Order of the Eastern Star, was held last evening at the Masonic home. Reports by the secretary and treasurer showed gains in membership and that the finances of the chapter are in good condition. Two dozen articles have been contributed to the O. E. S. hospital and $65 to the Robert Morris and O. E. S. hospital funds. The following officers were elected: Worthy matron, Dorothy M. Wild; worthy patron, Louis S. Ingalls; associate matron, Winifred Carver; associate patron, Charles B. Carver; secretary, Sidney W. Bard; treasurer, Ida E. Armington; conductress, Marie T. Birch; associate conductress, Calista B. Gardner. The other officers are to be appointed by the worthy matron. The officers are to be installed at the next meeting of the chapter, Jan. 8, when Associate Grand Matron Mrs. Jennie E. Stevens, Greenwich, will be the installing officer. Grand Marshal Mrs. Ethel J. Ingalls of Danielson will act as marshal.

Returns Home With Father

Peter Hudson, 13, a guest at the state police barracks on North Main street the past 24 hours, was turned over to his father, Pietro Hudson, to take back to the family home in Providence today. The boy told state officers yesterday when they questioned him after he had been picked up on the West Side by Elmer Brindamour that his home was in Hartford. That was a fanciful tale, for the family is resident in the Rhode Island capital. Officers here learned that the boy has been an inmate of a reformatory in the neighboring state.

Ice has reached a thickness varying from 3 to 5 inches on some of the ponds in outlying territory from which a supply is taken each winter by farmers and others who require it in dairy or other business enterprises, and today cutting was underway in some places.

Norwich Truck Hits Hydrant

A heavy truck left standing outside the lunch cart just south of the Main street crossing about 9 o'clock this morning started rolling backward and diagonally across the street while the driver was having a lunch. Opposite Michael Dascoli's place of business in the Winkelman building the truck struck a hydrant and snapped it off close to the curb line and diverted the big machine from crashing into the building. A Crystal Water Co. official said that replacement of the hydrant will cost about $100. The truck that figured in the affair belongs to the Norwich Paper Stock Co.

Lowest Reading 10 Below Zero

For the first time this season in this section of eastern Connecticut the mercury dropped below zero this morning. At many places in the central section of Danielson thermometer readings between 6:30 and 7 o'clock were exactly zero. From other sections came reports of 4 and 6 below, while at the James Danielson farm on the River road the reading was 10 below. The mercury ascended steadily after sunrise and at the noon hour was just under the freezing point.

Twelve-inch ice taken from Quinebaug lake this morning was being distributed to consumers in the borough today. Ice of this thickness was obtained by the effective expedient of cutting out an area of six-inch ice that now covers the pond, sinking it and pushing it under uncut ice and allowing the two thicknesses to freeze together during the night. This afternoon a pump was put to work at the pond to flood a large area, that the freezing may be hurried along. Jerome Keech said that the pump would be kept going all night tonight. With a few more days of continued cold weather harvesting of the year's crop at the lake can begin. Since September until recently ice has been shipped in here from Massachusetts to supply the trade.

Next Tuesday Miss Mary Garner of Pleasant Hill academy, in Tennessee, is to speak before the members of the Westfield Women's association at the Congregational church.

This was a day of many troubles for many motorists. Frozen radiators were numerous. A bursted engine block was the lot of one man. This engine will be replaced.

Due warning is being given by officers here that no car carrying 1929 registration numbers may be operated after Dec. 31, legally. And their advice is that car owners apply for 1930 registrations at once in order to avoid the rush for them that will be on during the closing days of the year.

Arthur Bernier, who has been employed at a local manufacturing plant, has obtained a position with another mill in Putnam.

MOOSUP

Fidelity class of the M. E. church met Tuesday evening at the girls' club rooms. The hostesses were Mrs. Floyd Main, Mrs. Gladys Symington and Mrs. Laura Francis. The calendars are to be called in during the next meeting. The Christmas tree celebration was held last evening.

Miss Evelyn Cranska is home from California, where she was working in behalf of the Judson fund.

Sunday morning the Baptist Men's Forum, in charge of Thomas Hope, considered world interest events, as presented by Everett Codlin. The men voted to dig the coal pocket outdoors at the rear end of the church adjoining the furnace room. It is to be built of cement with iron doors, one on the ground surface to admit coal, and one in the foundation wall of the furnace room, from which coal may be fed to the furnace.

Sunday evening the Baptist Young People held an election, choosing Charles Roper, president; Phyllis Sanderson, vice-president; Charlotte Kitchen, secretary-treasurer. Miss Winogene Pratt, the former president, presided until the new president took the chair. Russell Gallop, Bernice Gallop and Otis Remington are to be present next Sunday evening. Otis Remington is to give readings.

Tuesday afternoon the Baptist Ladies' Aid society met at Mrs. H. A. Roberts' to consider business as they tied a quilt. The members voted to take charge of the women's program at dedication and to help with the dedication banquet. They voted to invite the women of neighboring churches to the women's night program Tuesday evening, Jan. 14, during dedication week, Jan. 12-19; also to make the choir vestments, after the committee has decided on the kind of vestments needed.

Welcoming Party

Tuesday evening, a welcoming party was given Paul W. Roper and family at the Baptist church. It was a hearty and hilariously happy event with songs, games, contests and refreshments. Songs were rehearsed that are to be sung during the dedication banquet Thursday evening, Jan. 16. Balancing pie plates and coins on the head while walking from one end of the room to the other seemed very easy for Faith Batty. A great deal of fun was derived from initiating about 40 candidates in the Roper tribe. Five captains of musical teams were selected: Miss Evelyn Cranska, Paul Roper, Jr., Mrs. A. H. Denison, Thomas Seaton and Mrs. Paul Roper, who led their teams in simulating the sounds and motions required to play certain instruments, all five teams playing the Long, Long Trail together as an orchestra. Shifting gears in order to rotate in the instruments used was confusing but very amusing. The pastor expressed the hope that moving and settling in the new home would not be too much of an unsettling experience. Paul W. Roper responded in behalf of the family, saying they had lived on the farm since 1895 and that it was no easy thing to leave the old home. Mrs. Thomas Seaton, Miss Evelyn Cranska, Mrs. Mack Mott, Mrs. Edward Mortimer, Marjorie and Dorothy Mortimer, Phyllis Sanderson and June Playdon assisted with the refreshments.

Thursday evening there was a world tour, half way round the earth, the trip to be finished the following Thursday evening. Miss Evelyn Cranska, who has visited many of the places and countries mentioned, told something interesting about her experiences.

PUTNAM

TRUST FUND OF $30,000 TO DAY KIMBALL HOSP., PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 12.— A trust fund amounting to $30,000 has been presented to the Day Kimball hospital by Dr. Albert G. Paine of Pasadena, Calif., who is a former North Woodstock boy. The gift was made by the Californian physician in memory of his brother, John M. Paine, who died in Woodstock, May 18, 1918. The fund is in the form of a note bearing interest at 6 per cent, payable semi-annually, March 1 and Sept. 1. In creating the trust fund Dr. Paine states: "The gift is made as a memorial to my beloved brother, John Merrick Paine, who departed from this life at Woodstock, Conn., May 18, 1918."

The gift has been received and accepted by the members of the hospital board. A fund of about $1,000 was given to the hospital about three years ago by Dr. Paine. This amount the hospital board has set aside for special purposes.

CASE OF DR. TETREAULT CONTINUED TO FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 12.—Through a motion of Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam, counsel for Dr. Philias Tetreault, local physician, the doctor's appeal from the state board of health, in which he is seeking to repossess his license to practice medicine, will be heard Friday morning in superior court at Willimantic. Dr. Tetreault's license was suspended on Feb. 1, 1924, by an eclectic board of the state department of health. Because of his association with the Middlesex college of surgery and medicine Dr. Tetreault is widely known throughout eastern Connecticut.

The case was assigned for a hearing in superior court today. Upon the opening of court Judge E. M. Yeomans announced that the hearing of Dr. Tetreault's appeal had been continued one day. His announcement was not accompanied by any explanation.

The annual meeting of the Women's Relief corps of Putnam was held yesterday at Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street. Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Mrs. Hattie Miller, president; Mrs. Gladys Benoit, senior vice president; Mrs. Belle Liard, junior vice president; Mrs. Ardelle Chapman, secretary; Mrs. Ethel Tourtellotte, treasurer, and Mrs. Mary Willis, chaplain. Reports of outgoing officers were read and accepted, showing the organization to be in good standing socially and financially.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Addie E. Parks

Mrs. Addie Elizabeth Parks, 76, matrons of the Windham County Temporary home in the Sawyer district since 1913, died this morning at her residence shortly after 10 o'clock. Death came following a heart attack, suffered earlier in the day.

Mrs. Parks had been ill for nearly a week. On Wednesday, her condition came to be regarded as extremely critical and physicians attending advised that a specialist be consulted. A heart attack suffered this morning, coupled with pneumonia, which the affectionate matron had contracted a few days ago, lessened her chances for recovery and brought on death.

Mrs. Parks was born in Worcester, September 17, 1853, the daughter of Augustus and Elizabeth Hawkins Houghton. In her early years the family removed to East Putnam, where Mrs. Parks attended schools. She was united in marriage with Dewitt Clinton Parks, May 10, 1876. Of this union three children were born, the late Alice E., wife of John F. Fallon, of Westfield, N. J.; Clinton Dewitt, who died a number of years ago and Helen Mertice, wife of Eben W. Holden, of Grove street. In 1913, the county commission appointed Mr. and Mrs. Parks as superintendent and matron of the children's home in the Sawyer district.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks entered into their responsible positions with a high degree of affection and interest in the numerous child inmates of the institution and soon won the admiration of all confined there. After eight years as superintendent, Mr. Parks was taken ill and died in March, 1921. Mrs. Parks was appointed to succeed her husband as head of the home.

The parental affections of Mrs. Parks towards the orphaned inmates of the home soon won for her the estimable title of "Mother" Parks. Bringing joy and happiness to the flock of youngsters entrusted to her care and unbringing was a paramount objective in her life. The trials and tribulations of a mother were hers two fold. In sickness and in health, Mrs. Parks administered to her "children" with the unfaltering vigilance of a mother and the fruits of her labors are depicted in the face that only one child died while an inmate of the home and in this instance the victim had contracted a disease previous to his admission.

Mrs. Parks' high record of proficiency established during her career of 16 years duration is known throughout the state and many times she has been commended for her venerable efforts by high officials of the state. Only a few weeks ago Mrs. Parks was hostess to Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Ernest C. Rogers and a staff of county and state officials, who extended their praise for the manner in which she conducted her responsible charge.

Besides a daughter, Mrs. Parks is survived by three granddaughters, Mrs. John F. Cronin, formerly Miss Alice Fallon of the Sawyer district, and Mrs. Theodore Gagne, formerly Miss Ruth Fallon, of Grove street, Mrs. William H. Mansfield, Jr., of Ring street, and a ward, Miss Agnes Champagne.

In the death of Mrs. Addie E. Parks, Putnam and the county at large, witness the passing of a leading and respected citizen whose brilliant success in her high capacity adds lustre to a personality marked by the true worthiness and culture of a mother.

Ice companies hereabouts were preparing for an early harvest today as ice on ponds measured eight to ten inches in thickness.

Sheriff Charles A. Gates, Deputy Sheriff Lester H Bilsh, Frank Shea and Attorneys William E. King and Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic were in this city today attending a session of superior court.

The December session of superior court, opened at Willimantic last week, convened at Putnam at 10 o'clock this morning with Judge Edward M. Yeomans presiding. Four cases were assigned for trial, two of which were re-assigned for a hearing on December 31. The case of Wilfred Viens of Danielson vs. Clotilde Filteau, resident of Wauregan, went to trial today. The plaintiff charged alienation of affections of his wife by Mrs. Filteau, whom he named defendant in the action to recover damages. Viens was represented by Attorney Arthur G. Bill of Danielson, while Harry E. Back, also of Danielson, was retained by the defense. Viens alleged that Mrs. Filteau, his mother-in-law, had adopted such an attitude toward him as to induce his wife to leave his household. After introduction of evidence by counsel for the plaintiff, Attorney Back in a message to the court moved that a motion for non-suit be entertained on the grounds that the plaintiff had failed to make out a substantial case. Judge Yeomans granted the motion of the defendant following a brief period of deliberation.

Attorney Irving H. Miron, counsel for Burton D. Bosworth of Pomfret, defendant in a divorce action brought against him by his wife, was granted a continuance until December 31, when the case will be heard before Judge Yeomans in this city.

Chauncey E. Genung, chief special deputy of the state department of domestic animals, was in this city today in connection with an investigation in search of dogs thought to be affected with rabies. A dog, which made its way out of the Thompson woods wandering into this city where it attacked two persons, was captured last week and killed by Warden Ernest L. Chandler of this city. Warden Chandler said today that a report from the domestic animal department indicated the animal was suffering from the incurable disease.

Mrs. Joseph Shepherd and her son, James, of Prospect street, were bitten by the dog, while endeavoring to administer to it. Both victims of the canine's ruthless attack have been accorded the Pasteur treatment for rabies.

The monthly meeting of the public school teachers was held at the Putnam high school auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Frederick S. Camp, director of urban education in the state, spoke on the subject, "Interpreting Course of Study."

Members of the hook and ladder and the hose companies at the central fire station in Union square responded to a box alarm yesterday morning for a chimney fire in a two tenement dwelling on Woodstock avenue. While fighting the blaze, Fireman Edmond Gilbert of the hose company slipped on a snow-covered roof and fell to the ground, but was uninjured. No property loss occurred, the fire report said.

Magazine dealers in the city experienced a profitable day Thursday when a detective "thriller" containing the story "Who Killed Bill Jackson?" was placed on sale. Many copies of the publication were disposed of during the course of the day. State officials who were associated with the sensational murder of County Detective William E. Jackson of Willimantic, after reading the magazine account of the murder, said many incidents surrounding the case were revealed to the public for the first time. Photographs of principals in the murder case were contained in the "true" story.

Alvin Jarvis, Dominick Bove and Isadore Weiss, well known basketball stars, have entered the professional side of the sport and have signed up with a professional team of Hudson, Mass., for the 1929-30 season. Bove and Weiss are former Putnam high school stars and Jarvis was a member of the championship "Five Aces" of three years ago.

The mercury fell to a mark of 10 degrees in urban sections this morning and dropped considerably lower in the rural territory to establish record low temperature readings. The cold wave which followed Tuesday's snowstorm was accompanied by heavy frosts which coated everything exposed to the elements and froze scores of automobile radiators. Water pipes suffered from the cold attack and local plumbing concerns were busy this morning thawing out waster lines in residences and in two instances in public buildings.

NEW YORK'S FIRE

Many people take the view that the time to lock the stable door is after the horse has been stolen. Just at the present time two executives of a film studio in New York are facing prosecution as the result of a fire which swept through their place of business and caused the deaths of ten persons.

It was only a piece of carbon from a light that fell into a flimsy curtain that started the fire but that was enough. There was just the kind of material in sufficient quantity there to furnish the makings of a bad fire and the effect was perhaps much worse than might have been expected.

To say that all might have gotten out had they responded to the situation and fled at the first warning doesn't eliminate the fact that a condition existed there which should have been safeguarded. It was a condition that was recognized more than six months ago by the head of the fire prevention bureau of that city and orders were given for the establishment of automatic sprinklers as a protection.

New York has a law which requires the compliance with such an order in case more than five films are kept in the studio. Under the claim that this new studio was not keeping more than five there, there was a refusal to carry out the instructions and apparently the fire prevention bureau was powerless to enforce its edict.

The dangerous condition was continued and for a number of months nothing happened. The time came this week, however, when that combination of circumstances developed which can be depended upon to start something, and it did. Now the effort is being made to prosecute and to bring about a change in the law so that when an order is issued by the fire prevention bureau calling for the establishing of a sprinkler system it must be obeyed.

The disaster has served to emphasize the mistake that was made in not backing up good judgment by the means of proper enforcement. The prevention bureau was right. It had no difficulty in recognizing the danger and had its order been followed the ten lives would probably not have been sacrificed. Dependence was placed upon the fire department instead of adequate prevention and that is by no means the wisest course.

A NEEDED REBUKE

The impression has been given by those members of the senate who have been backing a policy of delay and obstruction that they were laboring in behalf of their constituents and that what they did had their backing.

As if the time had come to correct any such impression which the rest of the country may have gotten, it is a significant move that was made by nearly 15 newspapers in Minnesota and neighboring states in publishing a full page advertisement in a Washington newspaper repudiating the conduct of their senators. It was a statement of their views, a call for fair play, a rebuke to the insurgents and notice to the effect that there must be a change in their tactics.

The attitude has been taken by certain of the insurgents that they demanded tariff legislation only for agriculture and in order to get it they proposed to hold up everything else. That does not appeal to the people back home. In their appeal, which was addressed particularly to the senate, they insist that the northwest does not ask for a tariff bill that is based upon an indiscriminate slashing of industrial rates, but believes the best interests will be served by giving adequate protection to agriculture, fair consideration to industry and a speedy passage of such a tariff.

One report declares that the senate was stirred by the advertisements. It had reason to be. It threw a much-needed light upon the situation and indicated the sort of tactics that were being employed. It shows what that particular section thinks of the waste of time and money in the special session and the efforts which succeeded to a large part to obstruct the efforts of the administration. While this small part of the senate, which had gotten the support of the democrats, was doing its utmost to give a wrong impression of demands from the northwest, it convinced those who sent them to Washington that they were being misrepresented.

Under the circumstances they could have made their position known in no more effective way than that which was pursued. They have done their duty and it is time their representatives did likewise.

IMMIGRATION SUGGESTIONS

When Secretary Davis of the department of labor hands the president his annual report he has considerable to say in regard to immigration. Immigration has for years received much attention. There are the advocates of restriction and there are those who believe that the bars should be let down and less restrictions should be enforced.

From the results of the laws now in effect Secretary Davis makes a number of suggestions. He draws attention to the fact that there is a considerable number of aliens seeking citizenship because of their desire to bring their wives and children to this country. Instead of that being the situation, he believes that it would be preferable if the desire for citizenship were due to a real attachment for the country. This is a point that might stand much argument from both sides. It can be appreciated that a man might indicate himself a better subject for a citizen if he desired to have his family come here and be with him than would be the case if he wanted to become a citizen and leave his family elsewhere under less favorable conditions.

In the opinion of the secretary there is an opportunity for the amendment of the immigration law so that there can be greater selectivity among Europeans. He finds that there are obstacles to the admission of needed workers and he believes that authority could be so conferred that this situation might be met when occasion required.

When it comes to the matter of immigration from countries in the western hemisphere he believes that a modified quota system might be put into operation. This is a matter which will gain support when looked at from one direction and will arouse opposition when studied from another.

It is no secret that there are many coming into the country from the south which do not measure up to the qualifications of those coming from the north. It might be possible to establish a quota that would mean a restriction to one and not to the other, but such a step is never accompanied by what can be considered as a good feeling on the part of those countries to which it is applied. Less objection could be raised to the regulation of immigration from Mexico than from Canada.

ANTI-POLLUTION WORK

For a number of years Connecticut has been urging the purification of its streams. Commissions have been at work upon the problem and communities have been getting and seeking advice and it is gratifying to note from time to time that they are responding to the situation.

But it is not Connecticut alone that is recognizing the need of such action and moving toward such a goal. It has been noted that Rhode Island has a commission that is actively at work in this direction. It hasn't accomplished all that might be desired but it is going forward. The problem is a large one and progress must of necessity be slow. Keeping ahead of the yearly tendency to worse conditions means something.

In the state of Pennsylvania there is ground for the relation that is felt over the hiring of an expert to design and supervise the construction of a sewage disposal plant at Norristown. That city has apparently been impressed by the completed plant at Bridgeport, across the river, while it also had the opportunity to study the results obtained or anticipated from similar anti-pollution efforts in other cities.

Because rivers in the past have been large enough to overcome the pollution, doesn't mean that they can do so forever, or that they are able to increase in size as cities grow. It is this increase in sewage from cities and manufacturing establishments that has brought about the deplorable conditions. Some rivers have been little better than open sewers. It has meant considerable expense to improve them but it has been shown that it can be accomplished.

ANOTHER PINCHOT MESS?

What the developments may be in Pennsylvania as the result of the refusal to seat Vare remains to be seen, but it has been announced by the man who was refused his seat that he will be a candidate for the senatorship when it comes up next May in the primary and there are also rumors to the effect that ex-Governor Pinchot will also throw his hat into the ring.

Time may effect some changes but it cannot be forgotten that the previous Vare campaign and election were due to the part that was played by Governor Pinchot. Had the latter kept out of the contest and refrained from dividing the support that could be expected by Senator Pepper, who was running for reelection, there would have been no opportunity for Mr. Vare to have projected himself into the contest with any promise of success. It was when Pinchot's opposition to Pepper divided the anti-Vare forces that Vare gained support which he could not have gathered in any other way. Thus it was indirectly the Pinchot effort that must be regarded as responsible to no small degree in depriving Pennsylvania of half its representation in the senate for the past three years.

To think of a resumption of any such a primary campaign next May cannot be pleasing to the people of Pennsylvania. Those who voted for Pinchot in his effort to go to the senate long since have realized that they threw their votes away and contributed encouragement and assistance to Vare, a step which was directly contrary to their wishes, since it was very much of a wet-dry contest and Vare was unqualifiedly wet. That will not be overlooked if Pinchot undertakes to project himself into the picture when the next campaign rolls around.

EDITORIAL NOTES

With the grand jury refusing to act on it, that story told by Senator Brookhart becomes a dud.

The man on the corner says: It takes all kinds to make a world and it requires much room to get them all together.

With the democrats and insurgents urging the early disposition of the tariff there is received the bill of over $910,000 for the special session, during which they were interested only in obstructing it.

An Arizona man convicted of slaying his wife and sentenced to be hanged had it commuted to life imprisonment. He has now successfully sued for the insurance on his wife's life and if his life sentence amounts to no more than it does in some cases he will soon be at liberty and having a high time on the proceeds.

QUITE A SHOCK

It was a drowsy morning. Dot's spirits sagged. Her mind made groping gestures toward an appetizing menu for the evening dinner. No particular inspiration came to her and so she thought, "I believe I'll run down to the Taystee Shoppe and buy everything except the steak already cooked." Just then Mina Rybolt called over the phone.

"Don't tell me, Dot Perkins, that you are dated for this afternoon."

"It happens that I'm not," returned Dot. "Why?"

"Because you are coming to my house," declared Mina. "Just a little extemporaneous get-together. The same old crowd, with the exception of Eloise. Bert's starting out for a two weeks' trip tomorrow night, and she says she is laundering his silk shirts and simply can't get away. Can you imagine a girl in this advanced day and age laundering her husband's shirts?

"Believe me, I let her know how amazed I was, but I fear that she is beyond reforming, because my scorn did not faze her in the least. She only hastened to inform me that Bert, the dear boy, could tell the minute he put on a silk shirt whether she had done it or whether strange hands had been at work on it. Isn't it perfectly shocking how susceptible some women are to flattery?"

Dot put down the phone. Interest stirred mildly within her. Maybe Eloise was a goose. It certainly was not the fashion now to bother about husbands or households, with electric appliances, shops bulging with prepared food and enlightened ladies always putting one next about how to do things without doing them at all. No, in this advanced age it was more the fashion to be harnessed to one's whims than to one's husband and home.

"Let's see, though," mused Dot, by way of returning to her duty of the moment. "I was starting down to the Taystee Shoppe," and she opened the coat closet door in order to get her wraps. But the telephone again interrupted her plans. This time Bob's voice sang hilariously over the wire.

"Say, Twinkles, whom do you think I bumped into this morning but Hiram Bangs! Haven't seen that old top since school days. Same Hi, bachelor, too. I made him promise to park his feet under our dinner table tonight. Sorta wanted to show that bird what a real little wife does in the way of a good square meal."

"But—" interrupted Dot.

"That poor guy looks as though he's half starved," continued Bob, without seeming to notice the intended interruption. "You should have heard the sendoff I gave you. And what I called so early for was to ask you to make one of those puddings that you steam half a day before eating. I'd like Hi to taste such a heavenly concoction. It's bound to increase his respect for matrimony. You don't mind, do you Twinkles? A chap likes to show off what a smart wife he has."

"Oh," faltered Dot. "No, I don't mind, darling." But the moment the receiver was back on the hook she experienced a sense of impending calamity. One way or another her reputation was at stake, either with her husband or with the girls.

She could imagine what the girls would say if she told them that she was renouncing the party to make a pudding. But on the other hand, if one happened to possess a husband who appreciated one's talents, was it right to discourage such inclinations?

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—You will find no official record of the fact that congressional proprieties were violated the day the regular session of the seventy-first congress convened.

There was much in the papers that day as to the way the house gave the senate the horse laugh on receiving the routine information "that the senate is ready to proceed to business."

A spatter or ironic applause started on the republican side as the secretary of the senate read the words from his place in the center aisle. A few democrats joined in at first, but quickly subsided. A perfect roar of laughter arose, punctuated with whoops and satirical shouts, all on the republican side. The democrats sat silent.

But does the meticulous Congressional Record make any report on these occurrences?

It does not. It does not even put the receipt of the announcements from the senate in their proper chronological order.

So, if the senators feel any resentment at being razzed in the house over tariff bill delays, they will have to act on hearsay evidence.

That is, unless they call on Senator Wesley Jones, assistant majority leader of the senate. He was seated with his republican colleagues in the house during the show and grinned cheerfully.

Gay Raiment

Aside from this, the most notable thing about the opening of the house in regular session was the strawberry-roan habiliments in which John Garner, minority leader, appeared.

It is a rather startling sartorial departure for the ruddy faced Texan, with his mop of rebelliously curly white hair.

The Bystander had difficulty recognizing him out of his long familiar gray suitings. Garner by no means poses as a Beau Brummel of the house.

An inquiry developed that the strawberry-roan effects were not of his choosing. They were picked for him by Mrs. Garner, who was compelled to resort to strategic means to lure him into a tailor shop for the purpose.

It is to be noticed, however, that despite his new dignities as democratic leader with undivided powers (since Garrett, of Tennessee, left the house), John does as he's told by the boss at home when it comes to clothes.

After Jobs

Incidentally, Garner barged right off into his leadership duties trying to snare a few more desirable committee jobs for his democratic supporters.

He wanted to add a couple of members to each of the important committees of the house. What was involved in the organization of the house was the percentage of committee representation the democrats were to have with their 165 house seats.

When the democratic representation totalled 181, the major committees with 21 members, were divided into seven democrats and 14 republicans. To meet the situation Garner proposed adding one republican and one democrat to each such committee.

Majority Leader Tilson assured Garner there was no intention of removing any democrat from any committee post he formerly held, even where an 8-13 ratio existed.

"There might come a time when generosity can be extended by somebody else, then in power," Garner said, and hih democratic colleagues shouted, "There will!"

YOUR HEALTH

Health Pays Big Dividends.

By Louis I. Dublin, Ph. D., Statistician New York.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The improved health of the American people is probably more than any other single factor responsible for the prosperity and the high level of well-being which prevails. Formerly, one-quarter of all the babies born died during the first year of life; today in American communities, only about 7 per cent. die and there is every indication that the number of these deaths will be still more reduced. Diphtheria is a disease which we are now able to control; and if we apply our knowledge, there is every possibility that we will soon be able to completely wipe it out. Typhoid fever has been almost erased from our mortality roll. People no longer live in dread of the plague, of cholera, of yellow fever, of smallpox, or of malaria. So, whereas an infant born around the middle of the last century could expect to live only about forty years on the average, one born now may expect to survive about sixty years, and the people are happier and more prosperous than ever before.

At the same time, there still are many places in which a further saving of lives is possible. Tuberculosis, although it has been reduced over 50 per cent. since the beginning of the century, still causes 100,000 deaths each year and is responsible for a loss of two and one-half years in the average expectation of life. By strengthening and extending the anti-tuberculosis activities which are now being carried on, further reductions in mortality from this disease must inevitably follow. Heart disease now stands first as a cause of death. Much could be accomplished if we could cut down the toll of sickness and death that it causes, especially at the younger ages. Public health work is efficient and can do great things. Yet the total annual expenditure of the American people for health work is negligible. Less than 50 cents per capita is being spent for preventive health work! $2.50 per capita, constructively employed and wisely directed, would considerably reduce the annual death rate and correspondingly increase the average expectation of life.

There is a growing realization that preventive health work is one of the most important phases of medicine and that medical schools must, in the future, place greater emphasis upon methods of keeping people well. At present, most of their activity is devoted towards the cure of disease, and that approaches the problem from the wrong end. In many American communities health departments are undermanned; the workers are not sufficiently trained or skillful and their tenure of office is insecure; nor do they have adequate staffs of nurses and other assistants. At the same time parents wait until they or their children are sick before they think of the importance of being well—and keeping well.

Until this careless attitude is changed we shall suffer from our own defects. As we grow wiser we shall spend more in public health work, take better care of ourselves by regular health examinations, and in the process save money, gain length of years, increase our happiness. Health work pays big dividends.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Millions of Chinese Never Eat Rice.

Will the Chinese eat American wheat?

That question has been raised in newspapers following the proposal to buy American wheat to be sent to starving Chinese.

"Irrespective of the merits of this relief measure, the popular idea that every Chinese has a bowl of rice in hand three or more times a day is false," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"About 150,000,000 Chinese, it is estimated, live chiefly on wheat. That is, there are more Chinese who lean on wheat as the staff of life than there are Americans who eat bread.

"No accurate statistics of China's grain production ever have been gathered. The United States department of commerce estimates that the annual wheat production of China lies somewhere between 200,000,000 and 600,000,000 bushels. Wheat is grown in practically all the provinces from the southern to the northern borders. But the northern provinces are China's true wheat belts. Manchuria is in the same longitude as Minnesota, but wheat ripens weeks earlier than in the Red River valley. Mukden, capital of Manchuria, is already a milling center, the Minneapolis of China.

"China already uses considerable qualities of American wheat, mostly as flour, since she does not yet grow enough to supply her own needs. During the first three months of 1929 the United States shipped to China 1,016,256 barrels of wheat flour valued at $5,356,000. This year starts out like a record year for flour exports to the Far East. During 1928 the United States sent 1,957,297 barrels valued at $10,567,000.

"Shensi and Kansu, provinces most affected by famine are in north China, the region best adapted to wheat raising. Szechwan province on the Tibet border reports an average of 25 to 30 barrels per acre. In the Nanking region two crops of wheat are raised annually with an estimated production of 66,000,000 bushels. Shantung, famous for its rice, raises 47,000,000 bushels of wheat per year.

"But it is Manchuria that has the biggest wheat future. Chinese are moving north into the unbroken plains of Manchuria like American pioneers moved into the middle west one hundred years ago. Twenty million Chinese have gone into Manchuria in twenty years. It is one of the major migrations in the history of the world. Yet half of the arable land is still vacant.

"Soy beans, which are used for soy and Worcestershire sauce, come first in importance, then wheat. With larger farms to work, the new farmers of Manchuria find they can use American farm machinery: tractors, harrows, plows and trucks.

"Many Chinese students in American universities return to teach school, practice medicine or some profession. One young man has broken from this tradition. After graduation in America he took up a 7,000-acre farm in Manchuria. He is reported doing very well with his big farm run on modern methods. Like the pioneers of the American middle west he has been compelled to organize a private militia or vigilante band to protect his property from bandits.

"World wheat statistics generally exclude China and Russia from their estimates. China has never been an important factor either in import or export and Russia has ceased to be the big wheat exporting nation it was before the World war.

"Stabilization of conditions in both countries would change the picture. The estimated Chinese production, 200,000,000 to 600,000,000 bushels, puts it well up among the wheat growing nations. The United States in 1928 raised 902,000,000 bushels of wheat. Argentina, an important country in the world trade, raised 275,000,000 bushels.

"The increasing amount of wheat flour being shipped to China in face of apparent increased acreage, is believed to show a growing demand among the Chinese for bread."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Reddy Thinks of a New Plan

Who plans with care is in the end.
Most sure to have success attend.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox kept away from the farm where the turkeys were for some time. To begin with, for a few days he was pretty sore. You see, he had been shot. Fortunately he was hit by only a few of those little shot, and these did little more than go through the skin. They had not prevented him from running with his usual speed. Mrs. Reddy was leading a dog away. Reddy knew that she must have heard that terrible gun and must have guessed that it had been fired at him. So he was not surprised when he knew by the sound of the dog that Mrs. Reddy was coming back. He waited for her and presently she joined him and he told her what had happened. Together they managed to fool the dog so that he lost their trail completely; then they returned to their home in the Old Pasture.

While Mrs. Reddy licked Reddy's wounds they talked matters over. "We can never pull that old trick again," said Reddy. "If we are going to get another turkey we shall have to get it in some other way."

Mrs. Reddy agreed. "We can't afford to take too many chances," said she. "That farmer is going to be on the watch. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he took that dog around afternoons to see if he can find our scent anywhere near."

"We'll keep away from there for a while," replied Reddy. "We've had one good feast and now we can live on mice for a while. Meanwhile we'll try to think of some other plan. Listen!"

Mrs. Reddy cocked her ears. "That's only Hooty the Owl," said she. "I wonder how he would like a turkey dinner."

Reddy looked up quickly. A sudden thought had come to him. "For goodness sake, don't tell him about those turkeys! If he should find those turkeys and kill one, it would put an end to our chances of getting another."

"Don't worry, my dear," replied Mrs. Reddy. "I haven't the least idea of telling him about those turkeys."

"I wish Hooty would come over here" said Reddy.

"What for?" demanded Mrs. Reddy.

Reddy grinned. "I'm beginning to think of another plan," said he, "and Hooty fits into that plan. When I've got it all thought out, I'll tell you about it. Thank you, my dear, for licking my wounds. I guess I was lucky. I might have been badly hurt. I can tell you one thing, my dear, and that is that I never want to get nearer to a terrible gun than I was tonight."

"I do hope you'll be all right, Reddy," said Mrs. Reddy anxiously.

"I will," he promised. "Probably I'll be a little lame, but I'll be all right soon. Now I'm going to try to work out a plan to get another turkey and you do the same thing, my dear. We must have one more turkey anyway. Hooty sounds hungry, doesn't he? I'm afraid he isn't having very good hunting."

Reddy grinned. "I'm beginning to think of another plan," said he

Stories That Recall Others

Thankful

James had a party on his sixth birthday, which came the day before Thanksgiving, and 12 children were his guests, seated around the table. There seemed to be nothing worth talking about, they were so busy eating, so one of the grownups present asked them to tell what they were thankful for. In turn they said they were thankful for a lot of things.

One little girl said she was thankful there is a Santa Claus, and a five-year-old boy said: "I'm thankful I'm not a turkey."

Where There's Smoke

Junior was out walking with his mother one of the first cold mornings of winter. He looked in amazement at what appeared to him to be smoke coming from his mother's mouth when she spoke.

"Look at the smoke coming out of your mouth," exclaimed the little two-year-old. "You must have swallowed a little piece of fire."

Rain or Shine——
No More Sore Aching Joints

No Matter What the Weather Rheuma Is Guaranteed to Relieve All Your Rheumatic Aches and Pains or It Costs You Nothing.

Refuse to be one of the vast army of men and women whose joints swell, stiffen and throb with nasty, twitchy, shooting pains every time the weather changes. For they are the unlucky people who through neglect let their rheumatic condition become chronic.

Any time you feel the slightest pain or discontent in your knee, elbow or wrist, in your fingers or in any muscle in your body, go right away to the handiest drugstore for a bottle of Rheuma—a wonderful pain destroyer that contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs.

There is nothing like Rheuma to drive out the poisons before they have a chance to settle in the joints and muscles. Yes, Rheuma drives them out three ways—through the pores, the kidneys and the bowels. It stops rheumatic aches and pains the first day and quickly brings about a complete recovery.

If your attack is already under full headway and the least movement of the affected parts is an aching torture, and you face days, weeks or even months of crippling pain and incapacity for work, by all means try Rheuma. It's just the thing to stop the hot, feverish, throbbing pains and cut short the length and severity of the attack.

Rheuma is a scientific, up-to-date combination of powerful ingredients whose effectiveness in the relief of joint and muscle infections is well known to the medical profession. Remember that Rheuma is not an external relief, but an internal remedy that is sold by Lee and Osgood and all good druggists with guarantee that it will end all your rheumatic suffering or it costs you nothing.

A Clear Complexion

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes — most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

CHRISTMAS ATMOSPHERE AT CHELSEA SAVINGS BANK

Attractive decorations which have been arranged at the Chelsea Savings bank give a Christmas atmosphere there. Two large trees, with silver tinsel decorations have been placed on either side of the main entrance and in the big window over the front door hangs an immense Christmas wreath tied with a red bow and with colored electric light bulbs for night display.

A prettily decorated tree inside the bank does its part in creating the Christmas atmosphere there.

RING BROS. MAKE $25 GIFT FOR FIREMEN

Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department has received a check of $25 from Ring Bros., in appreciation for services rendered by the firemen in extinguishing the blaze in their building on Chestnut street. The fire was in the part occupied by Patrick F. Sweeney, contractor. The check has been turned over to City Treasurer Charles Coit to be added to the firemen's pension fund.

SECRETARY PILCHER TAKES POSITION IN WORCESTER

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce has resigned to take a position with the Worcester chamber of commerce, to which he is going soon after the first of the year.

News of Mr. Pilcher's acceptance of the Worcester position became known early this week and his resignation here was presented at the directors' meeting on Tuesday evening when it was accepted with regret. The officers of the chamber are now engaged in an effort to secure another secretary.

Secretary Pilcher has held the position here since Aug. 1, 1927, coming here from Rochester, N. Y. His service in Norwich has been marked with unusual fidelity and energy and a number of notable steps in advance have been arcomplished by the chamber while he has been secretary. Included among these was the successful completion of the $20,000 three-year membership campaign and the building up of the Merchants' bureau and the credit rating bureau to one of the best of its kind in the state. During his term of office, also, two of the major activities of the chamber of commerce were the advocacy of the revaluation of the grand list and the campaign for the erection of the Norwich Inn, both important developments in the city's business life.

The good wishes of his many friends will follow him as he takes up his new position in Worcester.

$3,000 WATER DAMAGE TO STOCK AT BOSTON STORE

A broken water pipe on the second floor of the Boston store caused damage to stock amounting to $3,000 early Thursday morning. Charles McNeil, the night watchman at the store, had his attention attracted to the women's cloak room by rupning water and investigating discovered that a T joint in a stand pipe attached to the sprinkler system had frozen and burst. The water leaked into the floor below and damaged a quantity of stock. The fire department was notified and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan with a firemen, went to the store and shut off the water.

ROAST PIG SUPPER BY WHITE CROSS COUNCIL

White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., had its annual supper Thursday evening at the K. of C. home on Broadway with an attendance of about 100. Roast pig was the menu this time, done to a turn by Chef Frank Watson, and accompanied by mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, roast sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, boiled onions, rolls, pickles, celery, cake, coffee, ice cream and cigars.

The supper room was gaily decorated in the Christmas colors and the evening was an enjoyable one for the membership of the council.

Mrs. John Cantlin of Broadway entertained the Thursday Afternoon Pinochle club this week. Prizes were taken by Mrs. Elizabeth Bjorn and Mrs. Mollie Coles and the consolation went to Mrs. Myrtle Geer.

NORWICH MANUFACTURERS ELECT OFFICERS AND HEAR TWO SPEAKERS

The annual meeting and banquet of the Norwich Manufacturers association was held Thursday evening at the Wauregan hotel with an attendance of about 40 members and guests, and addresses by two officials of the Connecticut Manufacturers association as the special features of the evening.

The menu served was the following, with which the manufacturers expressed great satisfaction:

Mumford Cove oysters on half shell
Stuffed celery Green olives
Toasterettes
Cream of tomato soup Saltines
Broiled Porterhouse Steak, Marcelle
French fried potatoes
Fried onions Parisienne
Stuffed green peppers, Viennese
Corn Muffins
Salted nuts Macaroons
Sultana roll
Coffee
Cigars Cigarettes

Music, during the banquet, was by radio through the courtesy of the Ferguson Radio Salon and when cigars were reached President A. M. Van Wagenen introduced as the first speaker W. A. Dower, industrial secretary of the state body, who spoke of general conditions in manufacturing in the state, viewing the present prospects with a fair degree of optimism.

He was followed by Charles L. Eyanson assistant to the president of the state association, whose topic related to tariff conditions in general and he also spoke briefly of transportation in relation to tariff. As Mr. Eyanson has been at Washington where his association with Senator Bingham was the cause for much criticism in the senate, his talk was listened to with much interest. He covered the subject in a general way as there was such a varied line of manufacturing interests represented in the membership of the Norwich association and he did not attempt to go into particulars in any special line. As to when or what would be the outcome of the present attempt to frame a tariff bill he did not attempt to predict.

At the business meeting of the association, the following directors were elected: A. M. Van Wagenen, Charles A. Saxton, Charles J. Twist, Frank B. Ricketson, F. E. Ballou, Herbert G. Hitchon, Joseph C. Worth and Philip A. Johnson.

A subsequent meeting of the directors elected the following officers: President, Albert M. Van Wagenen; vice president, Charles A. Saxton; secretary-treasurer, Charles J. Twist.

The banquet committee consisted of E. La Rue Bliven, Mr. Saxton and Mr. Twist.

HOLLISTER NAMED BY STATE POMOLOGISTS

Sherman P. Hollister, professor of horticulture at Connecticut Agricultural college, was elected president of the Connecticut Pomological society Thursday afternoon at the final session of the society's thirty-ninth annual meeting at Hartford.

Henry C. C. Miles of Milford was re-elected secretary and William H. Cowles of Manchester was chosen treasurer. A. B. Plant was elected vice-president.

Professor Hollister was born in Medina, Ohio. His family removed to Washington, this state when he was a year old. He attended the Gunnery school, Washington, and was graduated from the Connecticut Agricultural college in 1905 and from Cornell university in 1909 with the degree of bachelor of scientific agriculture. He taught for two years, 1909-1911, at the Hampton Normal school, Virginia, and came to the Connecticut Agricultural college in 1911. Mr. Hollister is a past master of Uriel lodge F. & A. M., of Mansfield, and a brother of George H. Hollister, superintendent of Hartford parks.

In his talk on "What Shall We Use in Place of the Fourteen-Quart Peach Baskets?" now forbidden by the federal government, S. A. Edwards of the bureau of markets, Connecticut department of agriculture, summarized 874 replies he had received from circulars sent out. The replies were: Sixteen-quart peach baskets, 327 tub bushel baskets, 185; eight-quart peach baskets, 150; twelve-quart baskets, 71; half-bushel standard box, 50; Connecticut standard bushel basket, 40; other containers, 51.

At the meet ing Wednesday afternoon, Professor Hollister introduced A. R. Anderson of Bloomfield, a student at Connecticut Agricultural college, who was high man in the recent judging contest at the annual New England fruit show.

Philip Garman, assistant entomologist at the Connecticut agricultural experiment station, in his talk on "The Use of Parasites to Control the Oriental Peach Moth in Connecticut," described the office of the Macros parasites, which burrow into the eggs of the peach moth and thus destroy the moths. A female Macros will lay from 384 to 786 eggs in its life span.

ZERO WEATHER MAKES THURSDAY COLDEST MORNING

An arctic blast that swept over Norwich Wednesday afternoon and night brought zero weather, the coldest of the present season, with it. Mercury readings late Wednesday night and early Thursday morning were subzero in many sections of the city and in surrounding towns. At East Great Plain thermometers recorded from 5 to 6 below zero between 5 and 7 o'clock. At 7:45 o'clock Thursday morning it was two below on Water street. Taftville early morning readings averaged 4 below zero and at Franklin square at 7:30 Thursday morning the mercury registered zero.

Towns north of Norwich reported sub-zero readings throughout the night and early morning. Five below was the reported reading in Jewett City, 8 below in Plainfield and Putnam, evidently the coldest section of eastern Connecticut for the 24-hour period, reported readings as low as ten below zero.

The mercury began to climb Thursday morning and during the afternoon registered well up in the twenties. About 7:15 o'clock Thursday evening light snow started to fall over Norwich, but the storm up to an early hour this (Friday) morning amounted to little or nothing. At one o'clock this morning the light snow fall showed signs of a complete let up.

DEMOLISHED WATER TOWER AT NEW HAVEN STATION

The water tower near the New Haven railroad station was knocked over and demolished shortly before 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon when a south-bound freight car on a passing freight train jumped the tracks. The train, operating between Worcester and New Haven, was passing the railroad station, when the car, due to a loose wheel on the rear trucks, left the rails, was dragged 500 feet and then thrown across the tracks almost in front of the station.

The derailed car tore away a guard rail, a switch, tore up ties, twisted a section of the track and then crashed into the water tower. As the car was derailed it hit a frog just north of the station, and shot from the main line to the westerly track, while the other part of the train continued along the easterly track. The trucks of the derailed car bumped over the ties for a considerable distance, the car gradually working to the left until it finally cleared the tracks. Then the wheels of the car jumped through the pit, at the water tower and a flood of water was let loose when the big pipe was broken off.

A wrecking crew was soon at work clearing up the wreckage. Trains were routed over a track around the wreck while the main line was tied up.

Pinochle At Colonial Club

At the pinochle party conducted Thursday evening by the Colonial club, ten tables playing, the following were the prize winners: Mrs. Hoelck 8710, Mrs. Senser 8070, Mrs. Haring 7280, Mr. Palmer 7590, J. Kane 7470, Mr. Beetham 6990.

The mule is the most stubborn of all animals—but man is a close second.

JOSEPHINE BIGELOW FUNERAL HELD AT OLD LYME

Funeral services for Mrs. Josephine Roteh Bigelow, member of one of Boston's oldest families, who died Tuesday at New York, in a seeming suicide pact with Henry Grew Crosby, Paris poet and nephew of the late Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Bigelow's aunt, Miss Katherine Ludington in Old Lyme. Interment took place in the Ludington plot in Duck River cemetery.

The services were conducted by Rev. W. D. Hoag of Old Lyme, who also officiated at the marriage of the deceased woman to Albert S. Bigelow, Harvard graduate, and former hockey star, which occurred June 21 last at the home of Miss Ludington. The wedding, a social event of the season, was a collegiate affair and was attended by many prominent persons who gathered to witness the annual Yale-Harvard regatta which was held the same day. Mrs. Bigelow and her family were very well known in Old Lyme and the circumstances surrounding her death have caused no end of discussion there.

Two possible motives— a suicide pact or liquor—were advanced Thursday by detectives seeking to determine why Crosby killed himself and Mrs. Bigelow in an artists' studio in New York. Their bodies, fully clothed, were found in an apartment at the Hotel Des Artistes. The weapon with which the poet shot the woman and then killed himself was an automatic pistol of Belgian make.

Stanley G. Mortimer, Jr., portrait painter, who lent his apartment to Crosby, waited there for Mrs. Bigelow and Crosby Tuesday afternoon, it was learned. Mrs. Bigelow arrived at 1:10 p. m., and the poet five minutes later. Crosby, he said, showed the effects of liquor, and soon after arriving opened a quart bottle of whiskey which he had brought. Mortimer said he did not drink, but when he left the apartment at 4:40 p. m., it was said the poet and Mrs. Bigelow had almost finished the quart. An empty bottle and two glasses stood on a table near the bed when they were found Tuesday night.

In the discovery of erotic verses from the pen of Crosby, which were found by members of Mrs. Bigelow's family at the town house of Miss Ludington in New York, detectives are also seeking to establish a solution of the mystery surrounding the death of the pair. Miss Ludington was quoted as saying that before the tragedy none except Mrs. Bigelow, had known of the volume's existence.

The grief stricken husband of the slain woman announced Wednesday that he would ask the police to fully investigate the dual tragedy. He said he believed his wife was an unwilling partner in the double death and expressed the belief that Crosby "was a mad poet who had lured her to the Trust company, dressed in Boy Scout uniform with long flowing beard and whiskers. The scouts are collecting toys from folk all over the city, and after school hours they repair and paint them. Two bushel baskets full of toys have been repaired and placed on display in the window at the Thayer building, and another bushel basket full is being worked on by the scouts in the scout headquarters, Room 304, Thayer building. But, according to Scout Executive Sellman, the supply of toys is running low and unless some more calls are received and some more old toys sent in or called for, the scouts will have no more toys to repair.

Some of the repair work already accomplished consists of: Replacing leg in toy sofa, fixing spring so a small cradle will rock, painting hair on five dolls heads, putting together an airplane, fixing two engines so they'll run, painting two toy cannons, repairing three beds, sewing up the legs and arms of four teddy bears, putting a mirror in a dresser, fixing a carpet sweeper, sewing arms on dolls, polishing erector set, fixing two automobiles, painting ladder, etc., etc.

Families having old toys to give away to the poor kiddies are invited to call scout headquarters or get in touch with the nearest scout.

ZONING BOARD GRANTS PERMISSION FOR GAS PUMPS

At a hearing of the zoning board of appeals for the city and town of Norwich held Thursday morning, John Eyberse of the Gallows Hill road, Canterbury Turnpike, was given permission to erect four gasoline pumps at his new station on the Norwich Town-Taftville highway. Mr. Eyberse is the first person to secure a permit from the zoning board to install pumps. In the past, persons desiring to locate pumps applied to the mayor in the city and the first selectman in the town for such permission, but under chapter 289 of the public acts, passed at the 1929 session of the legislature, applications must now be submitted to the zoning boards of cities and towns, where such boards are in existence.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS FOR BUSINESS SECTION STREETS

With Christmas only 12 days away the merchants and public works department of the city are bending every effort to put the city in an appropriate holiday appearance with the decoration of stores and streets with Yuletide trimmings. Up to the present time no great flourish of decorations have come to light, but with the commissioners of the gas and electrica department voting to have the business section decorated it is only a matter of time when the appearance of the city will be changed.

Two large Christmas trees, one at Franklin square and the other at the municipally-owned park on Laurel Hill, have been erected by the public works department and within a short time will be trimmed with vari-colored lights, to be lighted at night. The tree on Franklin square has been put up in the center of the safety zone and is 20 feet in height, while that on Laurel Hill is ten feet higher. The gas and electric department will have charge of stringing the trees with lights, the lights for the Laurel Hill tree to be furnished by Mrs. William H. Oat. The electricity for both trees will be supplied by the G. and E. department.

About 6,000 feet of stringers of lights are to be put up throughout the city, it has been announced by Charles W. Tazgart, general manager of the G. and E. department. Of this 3,900 feet are to be strung in the business section, in Main street, Franklin square and part of Broadway, Franklin and Shetucket street. Work in stringing the lights, 2,600 in number of 10 watts, will be begun the first of next week.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Charles T. Hatch of Wellfleet on Cape Cod, who was pastor of the Baltic Methodist Episcopal church in 1904 began his service in the ministry on Dec. 21, fifty years ago. This month is also the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Hatch who observed the anniversary Wednesday with a reception at the Methodist parsonage at Wellfleet, where Rev. Mr. Hatch has been pastor for three years.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hatch are in excellent health. Mrs. Hatch was formerly Miss Lottie H. West. They have had eight children, six of whom are living and are: Mrs. Everett C. Lewis of Newton Highlands; Mrs. Charles W. Moreton of Quincy; Miss Charlotte W. Hatch, a registered nurse, who is housemother at Perkins School of Adjustment at Lancaster, Mass.; C. Thatcher Hatch, Jr., of Albion, Mich., superintendent of a large steel products corporation; Robert B. Hatch of Stoughton, credit expert of the Vacuum Oil company, Boston, and Raymond W. Hatch of Cleveland, O.

Rev. Mr. Hatch has been pastor of the Methodist church in Wellfleet for the past three years. It was on Dec. 21 fifty years ago, that he began his long career as a minister of the Methodist church, when he became pastor of a parish in Orleans on Cape Cod. Since then he has filled pastorates in many places, including Brockton, Stoughton, Wareham, Truro, Edgartown, Oak Bluffs and several other places in Massachusetts, as well as in Mystic and also Baltic and North Grosvenordale in this state. Mrs. Hatch has been an able assistant to her husband in his work in behalf of his parishes and both have endeared themselves to a large number of parishioners in the many places in which they have lived and labored. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hatch are of Mayflower ancentry. Mr. Hatch was born in Falmouth and his wife is a native of Osterville.

EAST HAMPTON VETERAN CELEBRATES 88TH BIRTHDAY

Andrew Flood, East Hampton's most active Civil war veteran who had the honor of shaking hands with Abraham Lincoln twice, once at Bolivar Heights, Va., again in the hospital in Washington, D. C., where he was recovering from a severe wound received at Bristo station, and also with General Grant, put on his G. A. R. uniform Thursday and brought out his war relics as it was his 88th birthday.

Among his relics was a pocket mirror which he purchased in Centerville, Va., and carried in the left side pocket of his trousers on October 14, 1863, when he was severely wounded at Bristo Station. The bullet was removed from his thigh after it struck the mirror. How much will you take for the mirror, he was asked and he said, "There is no price on that mirror; I wouldn't part with it."

The G. A. R. veteran then began to fight in some of the great battles of the Civil war in which he fought gallantly. Mr. Flood enlisted on July 23, 1862 in Middle Haddam with twenty other East Hampton boys. He was 20 years of age. George Crosby, the recruiting officer, was made a second lieutenant for recruiting twenty-one men.

Mr. Flood served with Company K, 14th Connecticut Volunteers. He took part in the engagements at Gettysburg on July 1, 2 and 3 in 1863 and was slightly wounded at Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Hatches Run, and Bristo Station, where he was severely wounded. He lay on the battlefield from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 o'clock that night. He was helped on to a horse and rode until the next morning when he was loaded on an ambulance train which happened to be a box car. The ambulance train moved on to Washington, where he entered the hospital On November 1, 1863 he was promoted to the rank of corporal for his fine service as a soldier.

He was present at Appomattox Courthous, Va., and saw General Robert E. Lee surrender to General Grant. General Lee was the finest general that served in the war, Mr. Flood said. What other general could have held out as long as he under such a handicap?

He was discharged from the service May 30, 1865, and he returned to East Hampton and on December 29, 1867, married Lizzie Dutton. Three sons and one daughter were born to them. His wife died three years ago. All his children are living and he has eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

In 1870, he took up his trade as a carpenter and for many years rated as one of the most skillful workmen in East Hampton. The skill of his handicraft can be seen in his home in Skinnerville. There are tables, chairs and cabinets which he made by hand. At the age of 87 he built a desk for his granddaughter Barbara Harbour. It is considered a fine piece of work by all who have seen it. Even at his advanced age he is not contented unless he is at work with his carpenter tools.

After the war, Mr. Flood has kept up the friendship with many of his comrades with whom he fought by attending a great many encampments. He has hardly missed an encampment since 1868. He never has missed a state encampment or roll call of his regiment. He never has missed attending a Memorial Day service in East Hampton since he returned from the war. Among the encampments he has attended were at Boston, Mass., Saratoga, N. Y., Philadelphia, Rochester, N. Y., Denver, Col., Portland, Maine, and Washington, D. C. Of all the encampments he attended he enjoyed the one at Denver the most. "The people out there are different, he said, "and the hospitality they showed us boys was wonderful." He has visited every battlefield which he fought in the south and has been on the battlefield of Gettysburg six times. He recalls the occasion of a visit to the Gettysburg battlefield in company with Hayden Clark of East Hampton and he showed him the very spot where he was wounded, the location of Pickett's battery and many other places of interest. Mr. Flood had an enjoyable time at a reunion of his family on Thanksgiving day and has planned to have another reunion at Christmas time.

192ND FIELD ARTILLERY WILL OBSERVE ORGANIZATION DAY

Plans for the celebration of organization day for the 192nd Field Artillery at Camp Trumbull, July 13, the middle Sunday of the camp period, were discussed Sunday at a luncheon given at Lighthouse inn at New London, by Lieut. Col. C. Hadlai Hull.

Those present were Col. M. J. Mogensen of New Haven, commander of the regiment; Lieutenant Colonel Hull, executive officer; Maj. Otto H. Schroeter, commanding the First Battalion; Maj. G. J. Schoen of Danbury, commanding the Second Battalion, and Lieut. Col. Nathan Horowitz, Field Artillery, U. S. A., instructor of the regiment.

The citizens of Connecticut have never had opportunity to become acquainted with their artillerymen of the 192nd, the only field artillery unit in the state. Since its organization about ten years ago it has always been ordered outside of the state for its annual period of field training. For several years it went to Fort Eustis, Va., and for the last few years to Camp Tobyhanna, Pa. This year arrangements have been made for it to camp in its home state at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, from July 5 to July 19.

In order to properly mark this event it has been decided to celebrate the organization of the unit on Sunday, July 13, at the camp and all Connecticut will be invited to attend. The camp will be open for inspection of visitors during the morning. Competent guides will be provided to escort parties through the battery streets and gun parks.

In the afternoon there will be a regimental parade, followed by a pageant consisting of tableaux, depicting in a few chosen episodes some of the striking features of the history of the regiment from its organization as a unit of Colonial militia in 1739 to the present day.

TALK ON LAW BEFORE LIONS BY JUDGE PETTIS

Judge H. H. Pettis addressed the weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon, at the Wauregan hotel, on "Common Law." The luncheon meeting, held at 12:15 o'clock, was presided over by President Charles W. Cassidy, and had the usual large attendance. L. M. Crandall asked the blessing, William R. Frisbie was the song leader and Frederick Geer presided at the piano. Max Hanover gave a report for the annual New Year's party committee, Manager R. B. Hamilton of the Palace theatre has nearly completed arrangements for the children's party to be held at the theatre on Saturday morning, Dec. 28. The club voted to send an expression of sympathy to Louis Fontaine, whose wife was recently claimed by death.

Judge Pettis spoke on common law as compared with Roman law. He stated that common law has come down to us from England. Most European countries followed some parts of the Roman law which originated about 1,500 years ago, but the American people, he said, adhere to the common law system.

Common law, Judge Pettis said, is the theory of law which teaches that government derives its power from the consent of the governed. Under the common law the people are the ones who actually make the laws through their representatives of their own choosing. Judge Pettis pointed out that is why the American people live under the most liberal form of government on the face of the globe. The speaker said that the American people have the distinction of not existing for the benefit of the government but that our government exists for the benefit of the people who invested the officials with power, whereas under the principle of Roman law the power comes from above and the people must submit.

POSTMASTER BAILEY APPROVES CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES

In a word of approval to the local committee, he said Thursday: "Buy tuberculosis seals. The money derived from the sale of tuberculosis seals is wisely spent for a most worthy cause."

Labor's approval of the Christmas seal sales is given by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor when he writes: "The Christmas seal sale of the National Tuberculosis association provides an opportunity to place upon every communication of the holiday period a symbol of the spirit of good will between men. The anti-tuberculosis movement is one of constructive purpose and method. Dissemination of health information is the sure way to check the white plague and this may be promoted by buying Christmas seals.

"Everyone can contribute in accord with his ability and I hope that wage-earners will do their part.

"The association has put a special emphasis on preventive work among wage-earners because the highest mortality is among our fellow workers. This is an added reason for workers to encourage the sale for 1929 by endorsement and by purchasing the seals.

Met With Roosevelt Ave. Members

The T club held its weekly meeting Thursday night at the home of the Misses Stasia and Stella Daniluwicz of Roosevelt avenue. Plans were made for a Christmas party next week with Miss Peg Carbray. After sewing, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

FUNERALS.

George H. Stanton.

The funeral of George H. Stanton, for years a deputy sheriff of New London county, was held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at his home, No. 37 Hamilton avenue, and the service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends including town and city officials and a number of the New London County Bar association. There was a wealth of very beautiful floral tributes. The interment was at Maplewood cemetery and the committal service was conducted by the Modern Woodmen of America.

The honorary bearers were Hon. Nelson J. Ayling, Henry H. Pettis, John H. Walker, clerk of the superior court, and Attorneys Charles L. Stewart, V. P. A. Quinn and Andrew B. Davies. The active bearers were William R. Shaw, James C. Shelly, John Fitzgerald, William H. Sandbourg, Charles H. Raynes and J. H. Corcoran. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Rev. William B. Olmsted

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon for the Rev. William Beach Olmsted, headmaster of Pomfret school, since 1897, who died at Pomfret Tuesday evening. The services were held from Pomfret school chapel at 3:15 o'clock.

Mrs. C. L. Backus

The funeral of Mrs. Marion Elizabeth (Jacobs) Backus, wife of Charles L. Backus, was held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Andover Congregational church. Burial was in the family lot in Andover cemetery. Besides her husband, Mrs. Backus leaves three sons, Edmund S. Backus of Thompson, Dr. Harold S. Backus of Hartford and Charles R. Backus of 162 West Town street, Norwich Town; a daughter, Mrs. C. G. Bostwick of Hartford, ten grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

45,000 Telephone Directories

The next issue of the New London district telephone, which goes to press Dec. 28, will consist of about 45,000 copies.

Delivery of the new directory will be made in February and it will be effective upon receipt by subscribers in the 16 exchanges in the district.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Lack of interest caused bond prices to drift lower today. Volume of trading was about $2,000,000 above yesterday's but much of the increase was in the share privilege section, which weakened on the decline in stock prices. Dealings in high grade bonds of relatively low yields were light. For several days there has been a tendency to restrict commitments pending the award of the $100,000,000 issue of treasury bills. Bids for these short-term securities must be in by tomorrow afternoon, but it is not expected that the results will be known until Saturday. Government listings were dull and irregular today. Time money held at 4 3-4 to 5 per cent, with most of the business again being done at the latter figure. Call funds were plentiful at 4 1-2 per cent and a 4 per cent rate was quoted in the outside.

First grade and secondary rails maintained a firm tone, although the business which affected the general list after mid-day pared small fractions from the quotations on numerous issues. Utilities and industrials were irregular. Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s lost 2 points net and Lehigh Coal & Navigation 4 1-2s dropped 2 5-8. Both on minor sales. The old issue of Southern Bell Telephone first 5s fell 1 5-8, also in thin dealings.

Among the convertibles, where late selling was fairly heavy, American Telephone 4 1-2s registered a net loss of 2 1-4 points. International Telephone 4 1-2s sold off 4 3-4, Reading Coal & Iron 6s yielded 1 3-4 and American Natural Gas 6 1-2s, with warrants, lost 4 1-4. Chicago & Northwestern 4 3-4s and Texas Corp. 5s were firm.

The trend of foreign bonds was downward and losses of 1 to 3 points developed in some of the more speculative obligations.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—(AP)—With better export demand evident, wheat prices here went up double quick in the late dealings today, and closed at the top figures reached. Easier money rates in Great Britain had a notable stimulating effect, whereas unexpected weakness of Liverpool closing quotations on wheat today counted as only a dependent influence here, and was ascribed to selling orders from this side of the Atlantic. Both Great Britain and Spain were said to be purchasing wheat today from North America.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were firm, 1 1-8c to 1 7-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn showed 1-8c to 1c up, oats varying from 1c decline to 3-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to 25c down.

Brisk upturns in Chicago wheat values took place both at the outset of the day as well as toward the last. Early gains here were promoted not only by announcement that the Liverpool wheat market was advancing but also by dispatches saying buyers abroad were more confident on account of cheaper money conditions there. Advices were also at hand that official crop estimates in Australia had been greatly curtailed, and that the Australian wheat yield this season would be only 96,000,000 bu. compared with 149,000,000 bu. a year ago. It was not until later that less bullish crop figures from Australia became current.

Word from India that persistent drought had been broken was virtually ignored by Chicago wheat traders, the news being regarded as much more than offset by slashing of Australian crop estimates. On a temporary downward swing of prices here, however, the market went to about 13c a bushel below last week's top level. At this stage values were approximately down to the federal farm board wheat loan rate, and offerings became scarce. Then, with North American export business estimated at 600,000 bu. or more, many speculative traders turned to the buying side of future delivery, and a rally ensued as the day drew to an end.

Corn prices showed independent strength, especially for December contracts. Stormy weather, unfavorable for the crop movement, was a factor. Oats averaged higher, sympathizing with other cereals.

Provisions went lower on account of scattered selling, although hog values were steady.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady, 4 to 8 points lower. Spot steady, middling 17.25.

MYSTIC MARRIED WOMAN DRINKS-- TAKEN IN BY NEW LONDON POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 12—A young woman residing in Mystic, has established a bad habit of coming to New London and then partaking of strong drink. While she has made this a practice of late, it was not until this evening that she was arrested. She went to the Firemen's lunch room, Bank street, where she abused all of the patrons with a torrent of vulgarity, her words flowing from her mouth faster than water from a faucet. The woman's conduct attracted the attention of Supernumerary Officer George Goldberg, who happened to come along and upon entering the restaurant he became the subject of abuse, also. Displaying his badge, Goldberg was given another verbal attack whereupon he had a police auto summoned and the woman was taken to police headquarters. Because of the fact that she is married and in a delicate condition, she was allowed to continue to Mystic. It is known, however, that the woman has been to New London before and acted the same way she did tonight in another Bank street restaurant.

Harry Maceland, 78 Washington street, tonight made complaint to the police that last night several underthings, the property of his wife, were stolen from the clothesline in the yard of his home.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters this morning for a chimney fire in the house on Huntington street owned by Perry J. Hollanderskyi. Chief Thomas Shipman and Thomas Hose company responded and the fire was extinguished with chemicals and without damage of consequence.

MONTVILLE HUSBAND CHARGED WITH NON-SUPPORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 12—Ovila Dufour, Montville, was arrested tonight by State Police Officers Charles Hill and John Wallin charged with non-support. Dufour was brought to New London police headquarters and locked up. He will be in the Montville justice court tomorrow.

THREE STAMFORD CROOKS MAY BE HEADED THIS WAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 12—The New London police tonight were requested by the police of Stamford to be on the lookout for three holdup men who entered a garage in the latter city earlier in the night and put over a holdup, but without obtaining money. The crooks entered the place, forced the night man into the rear of the building, where they tied him to a post and then riddled his pockets, but did not find any money. One of the crooks is described as being 21, about five feet six inches in height and weighs about 135 pounds. He wore a reddish brown suit, blue-white cap and was conspicuous because of one prominent front tooth. The second crook is described as 24, about five feet, four inches in height and weighing about 145 pounds. He had a black coat, but no hat. His hair is dark and was slicked. The third man is described as about 25, wearing a blue overcoat and gray trousers.

Guardsman Runs Amuick

A member of the United States Coast Guard ran wild this evening before he was finally located and arrested. He was locked up in a cell at police headquarters and will be in court tomorrow on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. The fellow, who had been drinking diluted alcohol, went to Jefferson avenue where he smashed a window of a store and then entered a residence where he overturned an ice box. Emerging from the house, the coast guarder went to the gasoline filling station, corner of Jefferson and Garfield avenues and threatened the attendant. A telephone call in the meantime had been sent to police headquarters and Patrolmen William Riordan and Braxton Hill arrived at the gasoline station, found the coast guardsman and he was arrested without difficulty.

OSWEGATCHIE DRIVER IS BADLY INJURED

Irving Weeks, Oswegatchie, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital tonight as a result of innumerable injuries sustained last night in an automobile accident, the exact nature of which has not been ascertained, although State Police Officer William Elmer MacKenzie is investigating. Weeks is suffering among other injuries from a possible fractured skull, cerebral concussion, lacerations of the right leg, multiple lacerations of the face, head and arms and abrasions of the body. It is believed that the automobile he was driving either collided with a tree or pole or with another car. Weeks' condition is serious, but he has not been placed on the critical list.

At a meeting of Konomoc Hose company this evening in its quarters, Union street, a large number of members attended and at the conclusion of the transaction of business all relished a chowder. The annual meeting is to be held next month.

MARIONETTES DELIGHT TWO LARGE AUDIENCES

Including a number from Norwich, large audiences in the afternoon and evening acclaimed the delightful performances of Tony Sarg's Marionettes, at Bulkeley auditorium yesterday under the auspices of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service. Children thronged the auditorium in the afternoon and were highly appreciative of the presentation of the Bremen Band and of the Stolen Princess, the first an adaptation of the Grimm fairy tale and the second an extravaganza by Hamilton Williamson. In the evening the poppets played Washington Irving's Rip Van Winkle, under the personal direction of Tony Sarg. The Marionettes came up to the highest expectations of those who have anticipated their coming for many weeks and provided entertainment of an unusual and remarkable sort.

Fifth Snowstorm

The fifth snowstorm of the winter set in here about 6 o'clock this evening and continued well into the night, in a season of unusual severity for the first half of December. The weather will lead to a revision by prognosticators, for December has brought more real winter than any years in a generation has given us. In the past generation there was a fixed opinion that unless the ice harvestors get their crop before the 1st of January they would fail to get it. Then came a change in seasons and no ice was cut during many years until January had got a good start. That sort of weather has generally prevailed for many years. Now another change is apparently taking place for last night the temperature dropped to four degrees above zero. It didn't remain there however for by noon today it had risen to 27 above.

A burst in the water pipes in the old Bronstein building, Pearl and Green streets this evening necessitated the calling of the city's employes of the water department to prevent the flooding of the building.

Painters are finding themselves without outdoor work this weather. They and the carpenters have had a busy season thus far.

Mrs. Ernest Geer and infant daughter of Thames View, Waterford; Mrs. John Noonan and infant son, 108 Blackhall street; Mrs. Harold Heattie and infant son, 28 Lincoln avenue; Harry Wolfenden, 48 Jay street; John Minckler, 128 Squire street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Michael Brycki

The funeral of Mrs. Michaelina Brycki, wife of Michael Brycki, of Montville, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville, the high mass of requiem being sung by Rev. James A. O'Meara. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Uncasville.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Joseph Lepino

Mrs. Philopena Caracausa Lepino, 53, wife of Joseph Lepino, formerly of New London, died last night at her home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Besides her husband, Mrs. Lepino is survived by five children, her mother, Mrs. Antonio Caracausa, Brooklyn; two sisters, Mrs. John Belbruno, New London and Mrs. Frank Minutolo, New York and by a brother, Albert Caracausa of New York.

Grace P. Jackson of Great Barrington, Mass., and Jessie P. Stone, of this city have leased to Russell H. Beckwith, New London and Frederick L. Goss, Waterford, five adjoining garages on Church street. The lease is for two years dating from July 29 and the monthly rental will be $50. A provision of the lease provides for a renewal of the lease for three years and in the event that the renewal is made, Messrs Beckwith and Goss will pay an additional rental of $10 monthly during the life of the renewal.

Doyle Estate to Family

A probate certificate filed for record at the office of the city clerk today reveals that James L. Doyle, late of New Britain, a summer resident for many years at Ocean Beach, New London, bequeathed his real estate at 8 Park street, Ocean Beach, to his wife, Mary A. Doyle and their two sons, Edmond J. Doyle and Walter J. Doyle, respectively, all of New Britain. Mr. Doyle died about a year ago.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of William S. Jensen, 49 Adelaide street and Thomas Manning, 35 Truman street. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the return of the license of Peter Strazzo, 31 Grand street.

But one case claimed the attention of the court today. A fellow who was arrested drunk on Golden street last night by Lieut. James C. Sullivan and Patrolman William Riordan, was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

At a meeting of Emily J. Cole auxiliary to the Spanish War veterans, held in the state armory last Tuesday night, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Elizabeth Abel; senior vice president, Lucille Smith; junior vice president, Harriet Sullivan; chaplain, Rose Minault; patriotic instructor, Annie Burgo; historian, Laura Baker; conductor, Beatrice Roberts; assistant conductor, Jane Reel; guard, Harriet Shea; assistant guard, Jennie Latham. A joint installation of the auxiliary and George M. Cole camp will take place on the night of Jan. 2.

At the December meeting of Trumbull commandery, No. 468, United Order of the Golden Cross last night in Odd Fellows' hall, the election resulted as follows: Noble commander, Mrs. Ella Silva; vice noble commander, Geraldine Burns; worthy prelate, Elizabeth Branche; keeper of records, Max Munsch; worthy treasurer, Robert Vail; worthy herald, Cyrus B. Branche; warden of the inner gate, Mary Dugan; warden of the outer gate, Albert Lundberg; past noble commander, Mary Grace; first trustee, William H. Payne; second trustee, Mary Burrows; third trustee, Charles Staudinger; representative to the grand commandery, Mary Grace; alternate, Ella Silva.

At a meeting of Goff temple, No. 1, Pythian Sisters, held last night in Union lodge rooms, the following officers were elected: Most excellent chief, Miss Elizabeth Loseno; past chief, Mrs. Fanny Selesnitsky; excellent senior, Mrs. Kathrine Noyes; excellent junior, Miss Lillian Cohen; manager, Mrs. Jane Reed; mistress of finance, Mrs. Mina Jeffrey; mistress of records and correspondence, Mrs. Frances Greenman; protector, Mrs. Marie Westie; outer guard, Mrs. Alice Logeno; pianist and press correspondent, Mrs. Florence Maus. The newly elected officers will be installed Jan. 8 by Deputy Mrs. Gertrude Norris.

Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, of Plainfield N. J., has concluded a visit of two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lyons, 134 Montauk avenue.

A whist and pinochle party, conducted by Hiawatha council, No. 15, Degree of Pocahontas, in Odd Fellows hall, Bank street, tonight, was attended by a large number of members. The party was preceded by a business meeting.

OBITUARY

Walter Moran

News has been received in New London of the death in St. Mary's hospital, Waterbury, this week, of Walter T. Moran, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Moran, formerly of New London. Among Mr. Moran's surviving relatives are Miss Catherine Moran, Division street, and Misses May and Marguerite Donohue, Lower boulevard.

Seriously Injured

Oliver Beebe, 16, son of William Beebe, Giant's Neck road, Waterford, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, seriously injured as the result of being struck by an automobile driven by John Guinac, of Mystic, near the boy's home. The boy sustained cerebral concussion, besides multiple abrasions of the body. The accident is being investigated by State Police Officer James Dygert.

Quarrel Over Coat

Frank Cristina, 113 Shaw street, and Albert McNulty, 89 Howard street, both employed as laborers by the city were arrested this afternoon charged with breach of the peace, the pair having engaged in a fight over possession of an overcoat. After having been lodged in cells at police headquarters, Cristina and McNulty decided to call off further hostilities and when it became known that they were ready and willing to resume their labors upon peaceful terms, the men were released in the custody of Superintendent of Streets Courtland R. Darrow. Cristina and McNulty were employed today at the city's dumping ground, Calkins park, and when an overcoat was claimed by Cristina, McNulty also claimed the garment. While the battlers were in the midst of their endeavor to demonstrate ownership of the coat by physical prowess they were arrested by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy.

RAYMOND E. PENDLETON W M. OF PAWCATUCK LODGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 12.—Raymond E. Pendleton was elected and installed worshipful master of Pawcatuck odge, No. 90, A. F. and A. M. of Pawcatuck Thursday evening, at the 750th stated and 67th annual communication of the lodge held in Masonic hall, Westerly.

Other officers, elective, appointive and installed were: Senior warden, Thomas J. Burdick; junior warden, Stanton S. Greene; treasurer, Elbert W. Clarke; secretary, W. Robert D. Vennard, former Secretary W. Frank L. Friend declining by reason of poor health; senior deacon, Arthur E. Peckham; junior deacon, Thomas A. Crawshaw; senior steward, Walter F. Thorp; junior steward, Arthur R. Riley; chaplain, W. Samuel Girven; marshal, W. John T. Johnson; organist, Carol W. Hoxie; tyler, Frank A. Greene; trustees, Elbert W. Clark for

RAYMOND E. PENDLETON, W M.

3 years; W William A. Hillard, for 2 years; W Frank L. Friend, for one year to succeed late M. W. Thomas McKenkie, ceceased. Finance committee, W. Russell Hemphill, M. W. Arthur N. Nash, W. William R. Chapman.

The lodge was opened by retiring Master Robert D. Vennard when the annual reports of the secretary; finance committee trustees of permanent fund, all showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition.

Worshipfu Harry Sutcliffe, assisted by Most Worshipful Arthur N. Nash, as grand marshall, both members of Pawcatuck lodge, presided at the election and installation of the lodge officers.

The tellers were Worshipful Edwin R. Browning of Asylum lodge, No 57, of Stonington, Worshipful Carl F. Burdick of Franklin lodge, No. 20, of Westerly.

Members of Franklin lodge, No 20, F. and A. M of Westerly, were special guests. At the close of the annual meeting a lunch of chicken salad, rolls, coffee, cake and ice cream was served.

ANOTHER CONTINUANCE IN VENNARD-LIHME CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 12.—The third day of the Westerly adjournment of the November term of Washington county superior court with Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh of Providence was delayed in the opening of the morning session by the non-arrival of Court Clerk W. Herbert Caswell from his home in Narragansett. R. I. Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell had word that the clerk's auto had frozen on the way, delaying his arrival.

It was 11:30 when Judge Walsh said Westerly trial calendar will be taken up with the next case, Edward D. Vennard vs. Harold Lihme. Attorney Ferguson is for the plaintiff and Judge Herbert W. Rathbun for the respondent in the suit brought to recover $50,000 damages in a collision between the Lihme automobile and the motorcycle of Vennard at the junction of Elm and School streets, four years ago.

"There's a motion in this case," said Judge Rathbun and Judge Walsh said "The motion will be heard in my private office." He left the bench to hear the attorney and they did not return to the courtroom until 12:05, when Dr Michael H. Scanlon, sent for after a 35-minute wait, also entered the judge's office.

At 12:35 p. m., court adjourned until 2 p. m., at which time the petit jurors were to again report.

When court reconvened at 2, Judge Walsh announced the case of Vennard vs. Lihme passed. This means that the case will not be heard at this court session, but goes over to the February term. This temporary disposal of the case resulted from two motions filed by Judge Rathbun for the respondent. His motion for a change of venue was denied, as was also his motion for trial of the case without a jury. Attorney Ferguson, for Vennard, under the new statute passed by the legislature and operative Sept. 16, should have filed with the court a request for a jury trial as all cases now have to have the application made before the assignment day, and his insistence for a jury hearing of the case, to avoid any possibility of a mistrial on an appeal to the supreme court, carried the case over to the February term for jury trial.

There are two civil cases set down for trial this (Friday) morning: Annunziato Vuono vs. Frank Capalbo and the damage case of Mary Dolt vs. the Westerly hospital. Settlement was announced in the case of Angelo J. Cappuccio vs. Edwin B. Stillman, stipulation to be filed.

The case of J. R. Champlin vs. J. G. Phelps Stokes was passed, but the counter-suit, J. G. Phelps Stokes vs J. R. Champlin, was set down for hearing Tuesday, Dec. 17, as Attorney Roche would be engaged before that time in bankruptcy court in Providence. The suit of Peter Olchowik vs Anthony Tarasevich was announced in process of adjustment, Judge Rathbun to arrange for the release from jail of respondent.

Set down for trial Monday, Dec. 16, was Michelina Vacca vs Louisa DeBartolo and announced as read when reached on Monday will be the case of Louise Leone vs. Harry A. Littlefield.

The last jury case of the session will be William E. Sweet vs. John Binns.

WOMAN OFFICIAL TRIES TO SETTLE DISAGREEMENT

In the strike of the 200 employes of the Bradford Dyeing association in the continuous presence of ten or a dozen troopers of the Rhode Island department of state police, no acts of violence were reported Thursday. More help to fill the places of the striking employes was reported as arriving in Westerly, where the men are now quartered at the Hotel Martin, Alcasa and Elm Tree Inn. Negotiations looking towards a settlement were held Thursday afternoon between the strikers and Anna Weinstock, of Boston, representative of the United States department of conciliation.

ELM TREE IN PROPRIETOR YIELDS $90 TO SHARPERS

The Elm Tree Inn dining room, Pawcatuck, Frank L. Furness, proprietor, was reported as mulcted out of $90 by the slick work of a flim-flam artist recently. A guest at the Inn staying over night, reported himself as representing the American Tel. and Tel. and when he departed left a note for three men who were to be "guests" at the Inn to follow him. Three men were reported as appearing and on opening the note stated that the orders were received to discharge the other two men and as "he was no traveling bank" could not pay the men the $90 alleged as due them. Meanwhile plans were made for a banquet of 40 men at $3 a plate and the man was advanced the $90 required. An examination of the rooms supposed to have been occupied by the three men, on the following morning, disclosed they had taken Spanish leave.

Chimney Fire

The Pawcatuck fire alarm whistle was sounded Thursday at 12:45 from Box No. 63, Liberty and Smith streets, for a chimney fire in the house at 52 Morgan street, owned by Henry P. Walton. Chief Joseph H. Purtill with two pieces of apparatus responded to lay a line of hose from a booster tank which was taken up at the rear of the house to the roof, where the water was poured into the chimney and the fire put out. The lower apartment was occupied by Miss Margaret T. O'Leary and her sisters, the upper apartment was vacant as the family of John C Shea had recently moved to Mr Shea's new home on the Westerly-Norwich road. Damage done was chiefly from smoke. The recall was sounded at 1:26 p. m.

POTTER HILL MILL FIRE—CHIEF FREEZES FINGERS

About 3 p. m., alarm No. 33 for an out of the Westerly fire district alarm was sounded on the Westerly fire whistle for a blaze at the plant of the Potter Hill Woolen Co., Inc., at Potter Hill. Assistant Fire Chief Columbus Pasetti with the Seagraves pumper made a quick run to the plant located in Westerly near the bridge over the Pawcatuck river, on the old state road to Ashaway. William Hare boss dyer, saw flames in the roof, undoubtedly started from some unknown cause in the dryer room, and the wooden roof above the sprinkler system in the dyehouse at the rear of the plant was soon ablaze. Two fire lines were laid by mill employes in the plant system, the fire pump of the plant was started and the lines of hose were directed upon the roof through which in many places the flames had eaten their way. A telephone call to Westerly brought help and a line of hose was laid from the motor pumper. The roof was burned through in several places and the woodwork about the skylights in the roof was burned and charred. John Rollinson, designer, and son of the plant manager, Fred Rollinson, of Wakefield, R. I., estimated the damage done as over $1,000, covered by insurance. Assistant Engineer Pasetti had three fingers on his hand frozen on the cold and icy roof.

Wednesday night, at the meeting of Elm Tree camp, No. 8874, Royal Neighbors of America, held in Caledonian hall, the election of officers resulted as follows: Oracle, Malva Trout; vice-oracle, Mary Prew; recorder, Emma S. Bromley; receiver, Evelyn I. Rock; chancellor, Mary Monty; marshal, Anna Tough; inner sentinel, Charlotte Roode; outer sentinel, Mary La Via; musician, Catherine Murphey; physician, S. C. Webster, M. D.; manager for three years, Jennie Law. These officers will be installed Jan. 8, Past Oracle Ella Spear acting as installing officer. The officers of the Juvenile camp will be installed at the same time.

BRADFORD STRIKE ENDED—PLANT IS NOW OPEN SHOP

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 12.—At the adjournment of the meeting of the Bradford strikers shortly after 1 o'clock tonight at Burdick hall, Bradford, Textile Official Francis J. Gorman made the following announcement as agreed upon by the body and signed by Anna Weinstock at the conference, Thursday at the office of the Bradford dyeing association. The agreement was signed in behalf of the management by Messrs. Danner, Ashbrook, Pauwson and Reid and for the strikers by Messrs. Coates, Tetlow, Stenhouse, Bentley and Simons.

The agreement follows: "No. 1 — The management is always willing to meet a committee of the workers representing the employes for the purpose of adjusting any grievance.

"No. 2—The management agrees that it will not discriminate against any of its employes because of membership in any organization or legitimate activity connected with that organization.

No. 3—Employes are to be re-instated as quickly as production will allow and strikers are to be given preference in re employment before the employment of any new person from this date on."

(Signed) ANNA WEINSTOCK

Commenting on the outcome, Dr. Donald Ashbrook states: "It is an open shop. All persons employed during the strike are to remain in our employ and any others to be added as production permits. We are very well satisfied with the outcome."

Special buses with workers will be convoyed by Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Police Officer Robert M. Kessel Friday morning. Rhode Island state police have been relived from further service at Bradford.

The Westerly arrival of strikers from the Bradford meeting was accompanied by a tooting of automobile horns, flourishing of arms and shouting as they passed through Dixon square.

TANNER AND BROWN FOUND WITH STOLEN ARTICLES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 12—Charged with breaking and entering in the night time and larceny on numerous counts Irving Tanner, 27, of 54 Pierce street, Westerly, and Carol Brown, 41, of Chase Hill, Hopkinton, were arrested and locked up at the Westerly police station Thursday night. Brown was arrested by Sergeant Ernest Stenhouse and Trooper Florence J. Harvey of the Rhode Island state police of the Hope Valley barracks. His arrest was caused by the disappearance of chickens. The state police visited a shack on Chase Hill and found Brown there; also an axe and blanket and some canned goods. Tomorrow they will search for other articles which are supposed to be cached at Chase Hill.

Tanner was arrested at his home on Pierce street by Lieut. George Champlin and Officer Frank E. Knight. It is alleged they found him wearing clothes that had been taken from the shack of John H. Farnsworth, on the banks of the Pawcatuck river on the Westerly side near Meeting House bridge. The stolen articles have been taken to the police station. The two men will be arraigned before Judge Oliver H. Williams in third district court Friday morning.

Some of the articles taken from the home of John P. Browning of Chase Hill consisted of two suits of clothing, soft hat, suitcase and a hat pin, collars and shirts. Brown is believed to have been wearing a number of these articles when arrested. Mr. Farnsworth identified the articles taken from his place.

OBITUARY

Hamilton Benn

Erastus H. Benn, of Downing street was called to New York early Wednesday morning by the death of his brother, Hamilton Benn, of Jersey City. Mr. Benn's death followed a surgical operation at the Post Graduate hospital, New York city. The body was taken to a local funeral home on the arrival of Erastus Benn on the 6:55 Thursday night train.

Isaac Gourlay

Isaac Gourlay, 75, for many years foreman of the New England Granite works of Westerly, died suddenly Wednesday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Larson, at 122 Munson avenue, Watertown, Mass. Mr. Gourlay was born in Dalbeattie, Scotland, Nov. 6, 1854, and came here at the age of 18. He made his home here practically all his life. Since his retirement he had passed the winters in Watertown and the summer months with relatives in Westerly. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum. Mr. Gourlay is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Fred Larson, Watertown, Mass.; Miss Katherine Gourlay, Boston; Mrs. Lawrence H. Hepworth, Grove avenue, and Mrs. Richard Mitchell, 69 Granite street, Westerly, and Mrs. Fred Cole, of Plainfield, N. J. He leaves seven grandchildren.

MYSTIC

When Charity chapter, O. E. S., met in Masonic Temple, Tuesday evening, with a large number present, the degrees were conferred on a class. The annual election resulted in the choice of the following: Worthy matron, Mrs. Anna Evarts; worthy patron, Robert H. Byles; associate matron, Mrs. Alice Clark; associate patron, John G. Paton; treasurer, Mrs. Annie L. Johnson; secretary, Mrs. Emily Small; conductress, Mrs. Elsie Thorpe; associate conductress, Mrs. Maude Byles; trustee for three years, John Carmilla. The incoming matron will choose her officers and the two sets of officers will be installed at a later meeting.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Mary L. Brown of High street, was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb. The devotional services were in charge of Mrs. Charles E. Newberry. The subject for the afternoon was "Temperance and Missions." Mrs. C. F. Davis was leader and her topic under the above subject was "A Broad View of Mission Work." Her subject was divided into three parts, namely, Reminiscence, World View and The Message. Mrs. Davis gave an interesting discussion on the subject. Following this several short articles were read, A Tribute to Prohibition, by Mrs. Wilfred L. Rollinson, a Poem, by Mrs. B. F. Davis; Padlocked Hotel Becomes Home For Girls, read by Mrs. W. H. Lamb. Foundation For Race Betterment, Mrs. C. E. Newberry. Twenty-five million arguments against Alcoholic Drinks, read by Mrs. Mary S. Brown.

Mrs. Burton Gates of New London visited her mother, Mrs. Herbert Colt of Pearl street, Tuesday.

Many local residents, also the bread truck drivers, were forced to go out of their way Wednesday morning, due to the accident on Fort Hill, when a truck coing down the hill, slid sideways into a truck which had also slid back into the ditch, completely blocking the road. The bread trucks which got into Mystic early in the morning, were forced to turn back at Fort Hill and go over through Center Groton, which was not as bad as the people going from this direction. Upon reaching Fort Hill, they were forced to turn back and go through Mystic, Old Mystic and over the other road to New London, unless they wished to try the several side roads which bring one out this side of Center Groton. Then during the day, the snow melted somewhat, and after sundown, the mercury went down, which again made it very slippery. When there is glare ice it means amount to about as much as the tire itself, but if one is in an accident, one perhaps would fare better with the cops if one's tires had on chains.

Parent-Teacher Association Meeting

This (Friday) evening, the Parent-Teacher association of Mystic Academy, is to meet at the school. The Christmas tree party will be at this time, each member bringing a small gift. The program will consist of readings by Mrs. Artis Stoddard vocal solos, Miss Marguerite Duhaime; readings, Mrs. L. M. Allyn and violin solos by Bobby Bendett. The refreshment committee comprises Mrs. Harry Meyers, chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, Mrs. Paul Conant, Mrs. Charles Gremsy, Mrs. Louis Knox and Mrs. Edward Foley.

The Ladies' Aid society of Old Mystic Baptist church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Etta Wheeler. The Woman's Mission Circle also held its meeting with the president, Mrs. Anna B. Caswell in charge. The members sewed on patchwork. The hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. Paul Conant and son visited relatives in Westerly, Tuesday.

Peter Richards is visiting in New York.

Miss Mary Schmitz, supervisor of music in Stonington schools, has resumed her duties, after a short illness.

Mrs. Charles Craig has been visiting in Boston.

A choir rehearsal is to be held at St. Mark's church, this (Friday) evening.

A large crowd attended a supper held at the Methodist church, Wednesday evening. In the afternoon a sale of fancy work was held and this, too, drew a good crowd.

Several local residents went to Ledyard, Wednesday for the chicken pie supper served from 6 to 8 o'clock, at the church. Following the supper hour, there was dancing in Grange hall.

I. O. O. F. Anniversary

When the 84th anniversary and roll call of Stonington lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., was held in Odd Fellows hall, Wednesday evening, 119 members answered the roll and there were seven visitors. At 6:30 a Mystery supper was served by members of the lodge, with John Eaton in charge. This was a great success and a rising vote of thanks was given the workers. After the supper, a fine entertainment was put on by George Channing Darling's Minstrel Five, of Providence. These men have been together for the last 18 years and are in great demand at all social gatherings. Stonington lodge was organized 84 years ago in Stonington and has been flourishing ever since. The present membership is 378. The present Odd Fellows' building was built in 1915-1916. The officers in charge at present are Noble Grand John Koulbanis, Vice Grand John F. Meyer, Recording Secretary C. C. Potter, Financial secretary Jesse B. Stinson. C. C. Potter has held the office of recording secretary for the past 28 years.

The Boy Scout troop of Old Mystic, met in the M. E. parish house, Tuesday evening, with Scoutmaster Haddon in charge.

Washington council, Junior O. U. A. M., met in Mechanics hall Tuesday evening. Twenty-two members of Roosevelt council, Junior O. U. A. M., of New London, were present. Rev. J. Elmer Page, of Roosevelt council, gave an interesting address. The following officers were nominated for the coming year: Councilor, Robert Palmer; vice-councilor, Edward Wolverton; recording secretary, Walter Wolverton; financial secretary, Charles Patterson; treasurer, Charles I. Fitch; conductor, Walter Palmer; chaplain, John Bentley; sentinel, Dewey Schramm; trustee, Stephen Austin. At the close of the evening refreshments were served by Halstead Brown, Edward Morgan, Harrie Park and Frank Schoonmaker, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Fred Rafuse has been a caller on relatives in Westerly.

CATCH OF A GOOSE FISH WITH STRANGE CONTENTS

The boat, Sitting Bull, Capt. Allen Marsh and mate, Arthur Nagle, was out to the fishing grounds and got only four barrels of flat fish and about 25 large cod fish, but they got a large goose fish. This fish has another name, mollygot, but all the fishing fleet call it the goose fish. It is big and has a mouth spread like a subway entrance in New York. This fish will swallow anything that is not nailed down.

Landing at the packing house dock on Sherman avenue, late Tuesday evening, Capt. Marsh noticed that the goose fish was large and had swallowed several things. So Mate Nagle got out the fishing knife, gave Mr. Fish an operation on its stomach, and found two black ducks and several flat fish, also a quart of Johnny Walker whiskey. Not every fisherman could go out without a gun and get two black ducks for his dinner and not fire a shot. "Gee!" George Deveau said, "them two sea-going dogs could light a fire without a match on a windy day!" But Capt. Marsh said, "A real bottle of Johnny Walker! How did that fish find that? Some good ship got sunk in the fog by another boat and the goose fish caught a short forward pass and it never returned." Mate Nagle laughed and claimed the fish ought to have caught a case. So Capt. Marsh broke the seal and gave his friends near at hand a small drop. "Oh, boy!" a voice came back. "That would never burn the letters off a box car! For it was real stuff of long before the law book in Washington put the crepe on page 18th, saying 'no rum or whiskey'." So putting back the cork to have his Christmas spirit with his family on Christmas day, he was some pleased to get a Johnny Walker in 1929. "It is 10 years since that name has been heard and today for a bottle with that Scotch name it would cost $7! So look what I am saving!"

William Franklin told a good one. "What Rip Van Winkle drank over 20 years ago made him wake up, but with what you get today you might not wake up!" That pulled a big laugh among the flat fishermen. The ducks were given to Dave Long for he claimed he never eat a duck in his life and wanted to try his first meal of wild duck. He was given a book of rules for his wife, how to boil the fishy taste from the ducks. The fishermen don't see how this goose fish can hold all these things in its stomach. The mouth is flat, the fish is short and has two horns, one on each side of its head, also it is good eating. These fish are scarce, don't get them only once in a while, get them in the net. A large crowd came down to see the fish that swallows ducks and a bottle of Johnny Walker whiskey. A little boy, no higher than a soap box claimed the fish swallowed enough stuff to hold an auction. Capt. Marsh had to burst out in a laugh over that one. Getting the boat cleaned up, ready to call it a day, after a good catch, Mate Nagle overlooked a black fish that was taken from the water in the net. Some way the fish got under a box on the deck of the boat. The scales don't tell a lie, and Little George Washington did not when he cut down the cherry tree: That black fish weighed 17 pounds, the largest one taken out of the ocean in a long while. Capt. Billie O'Brien holds the record for several years, with a 12 pound black fish caught by hand. Capt. Marsh and Mate Nagle locked up the good ship and started up the road to their homes after a fisherman's luck on the salt water. For they had a real meal waiting; for they could eat a sandwich stuffed with a fire cracker. From 3 o'clock in the morning until 7:30 o'clock makes a long day. Getting near his home the house cat, "Underfoot," came on the run to meet his master to see if he had a fish for him. Capt. Marsh put it in his dinner box but Underfoot found it and he had to give it up, for the cat would bow its head and cry for being disappointed. After putting away a $1.50 meal he told his wife his luck about the goose fish and Mr. Johnny Walker, clear as a dog seeing his shadow in a brook, "Min, that is our Christmas present! We save $7 and if it snows that day we can have Mr. Johnny Walker in the house and wish them all a Merry Christmas, also a Happy New Year. Then the captain took off his boots and went to bed, after a hard day on the water.

Mrs B. Longnecker and sister, Mrs. Kromback, returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., Wednesday, after spending the holidays at their summer home.

Mrs. Mabel Swan, of Preston, and her nephew, Fred Maine, were callers at Billings W. Wheeler's, Sunday.

STONINGTON

At the annual meeting of Asylum Lodge, No. 37, A. F. and A. M., held in the Masonic hall Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected: William C. Brown, worthy master; John Bindloss, senior warden; Christopher C. Moore, junior warden; Frank E. Tracy, treasurer; Allen C. Slade, secretary; Charles Spencer, senior deacon; Burrows Perry, junior deacon; James E. Mathieson, senior steward; Roy Harper, junior steward; William Leland, Jr., tyler; Alvah B. Lewis, organist.

Due to the slippery pavements, the machine of the Atwood Machine Co. and a Ford coupe collided at the corner of Church and Main Wednesday morning, resulting in slight damage.

Dr. James H. Weeks, prominent dentist and citizen of the republican town committee of Stonington, who was stricken with a shock at his home on Elm street Tuesday evening, showed a slight improvement in his condition Thursday.

Howard Briggs, one of the borough men who was severely burned in an explosion at the American Oil Co. plant about three weeks ago, is able to be out. Frank Keane, also burned, is still confined to his bed.

The mid-week prayer and social meeting of the First Baptist church was held in the church parlors Wednesday evening. Rev. P. W. Back was leader.

A. Cecchini, of Fishers Island, N. Y., was a visitor here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Morton Cook and children were recent visitors at Rose cottage, Pendleton Hill.

Chester McAuliffe, of Albany, N. Y., was a visitor here Wednesday.

LEDYARD

Ledyard grange held its meeting Friday evening, Dec. 6, with Carl Goldridge, master, in the chair. It was voted to purchase regalias for the newly-elected executive committee. The lecturer's hour was as follows: "Old Connecticut," solo, Mrs. W. I. Alden (this is the state grange song); "Music in the Home," paper, by Mrs. Robert Percival; "Vacation for Farmers," Paul Holdridge; reading by lecturer from "The Turn of the Century," by Mark Sullivan; "My Blue Ridge Mountain Home," a vocal and instrumental duet, by Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Crouch; Thanksgiving story, interspersed with adjectives furnished by members of the grange, read by Carl Holdridge, which created much merriment. A cake contest, prize for the one telling the greater number of varieties from a tabulated sheet was won by Mrs. Virginia Tubbs. The next grange meeting will be a Christmas night program and each one was requested to bring some small article for a Christmas gift.

Rev. Arthur Adams, of Hartford, preached in the Congregational church Sunday morning. It is expected that Secretary Edwin Hill, of Norwich, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday morning.

The Ledyard Laymor poultry club elected its officers for the ensuing year Saturday afternoon: Gilbert Hagen was the choice for president; Alfred Clark, secretary and treasurer; Albert Mitnick, vice-president. The program for each session for the ensuing year was made up at this meeting.

The Ladies' Aid society gave a chicken pie supper and held a Christmas sale in the vestry of the church Wednesday evening. The supper was of the same high quality which has made Ledyard church suppers so popular and was well patronized by a large assemblage from all the surrounding towns. Dancing followed in Grange hall, an orchestra from Mystic playing.

PRESTON

William Service is spending a few days in Chicago.

The grange held its meeting Tuesday evening with Worthy Master Crary in the chair. The program, in charge of Sister Ethel Krug, was as follows: song by grange; current events, Walter McClimon; solo with encore, Frederick Wilcox; reading, Cynthia Crary; banjo and violin duet, with encore, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hall; reading, Harriett Crary; accordion solo, with encore, Kate Krug; talk, Rev. George Clark; song by the grange. Grapes and nuts were served by the feast committee. The last meeting in December will be omitted owing to the fact that it would come on Christmas eve.

The roast pork supper served by the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church Monday night was well attended, the committee in charge being Mrs. Lydia Foote, Mrs. Louise Woodmansee and Mrs. Hattie Bennett.

The leader of the C. E. meeting Sunday evening was Mrs. Charles C. Zabriskie and the topic discussed was "Christian Giving."

Harold Bennett, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Ruth Bennett and sister, Miss Edythe Bennett, of Stamford, spent the week end with relatives in town.

MAJOR LEAGUE OWNERS VOTE FOR CHANGE IN PLAYER OPTION RULE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—The winter major league baseball profession moved today from one hotel lobby to another but the result was much the same. The American and National leagues, after holding their annual session for two days, combined in a joint meeting but nothing of vital importance to the national game developed from the larger conference.

The club owners of both leagues agreed with Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, that the number of players on option by each major league club should be 15 instead of 8 and that it should be possible to send players out on option for three years instead of two, as provided by the present baseball law. However, the minors will have to agree before a change can be made.

A committee of four from each league will confer with the minors on matters concerning the relationship between the two branches.

In the future players whose contracts are transferred from one club to another must report to their new employer within 72 hours, except in the case of athletes called from the Pacific coast to the east.

The question of "common ownership" of baseball clubs, the so-called "chain store system," came in for discussion, including an extended address by Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, the most extensive dealer in wholesale baseball talent in the game. Mr. Breadon read telegrams from presidents of minor leagues, ranging from A to D, endorsing major league ownership of minor league clubs.

The question of radio reporting of baseball games did not come up.

As a result of efforts launched by the Baseball Writers' Association of America, the scoring rules will be "codified, unified and clarified." The scoring rules in the two major leagues are not in complete accord.

Three appropriations were made totalling $65,000, and to take care of the increase, the baseball commissioner will deduct 15 per cent of the next world series gross, instead of 10 per cent as has been the case in recent years.

The two leagues will continue to support the American Legion program of junior baseball, $50,000 being set aside for this purpose. The National Amateur Athletic federation was voted $10,000 and a part of this sum will be spent in providing expert instruction to coaches of sandlot and school teams throughout the country. Leslie Mann, former major league outfielder and a deep student of the game, will be the instructor. Five thousand dollars was appropriated for the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, an organization devoted to caring for former players no longer able to care for themselves.

ANOTHER BOUT BETWEEN THOMPSON AND FIELDS SIGNED

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—(AP)—Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, who, barring Jimmy McLarnin, is rated as the outstanding challenger for the world welterweight championship, will have a chance to win the title when he meets Jackie Fields, the champion, in Chicago, Jan. 17.

They will fight ten rounds at the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, with Jack Dempsey staging the match. It will be fought in the Chicago coliseum where they battled 10 months ago. That fight almost ended in a panic in which one spectator was killed and several seriously injured.

The panic started when a white man and a Negro spectator started a battle of their own over the merits of the contest in the ring.

The bout will be the third between Fields and the sharpshooting Negro. Fields defeated Thompson in San Francisco a year ago, and again last March, in the bout which the National Boxing association advertised as for the championship.

Since that encounter, however, Fields has won undisputed possession of the title by defeating Joe Dundee, the titleholder, on a foul in their battle at Detroit.

Thompson, rated as one of the hardest hitters in the welterweight ranks, seriously had knocked out Dundee, stopping the then champion in a non-title contest in Chicago. He upset Dundee in a sensational two-round knockout battle.

Ray Alvis, Dempsey's matchmaker, said tonight that Fields' business representative had agreed to the match and would arrive here Sunday to sign articles.

The Illinois State Athletic commission is expected to rescind a rule made by the previous commission frowning upon bouts between whites and Negroes. This ruling was promulgated following the riotous disorder attending the Fields-Thompson match last spring.

PHELAN SIGNS TO COACH AT WASHINGTON

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 12—(AP)—James M. Phelan, who brought to a climax eight years of football coaching at Purdue university by winning the western conference championship of 1929, announced today that he has signed a contract to coach football at the University of Washington for the next four years.

Phelan was reluctant to discuss the salary he will receive at the Seattle, Wash., university.

From persons who have been closely associated with Phelan came information indicating that his salary in the new position will be close to $15,000 a year.

A year ago Phelan signed a three year contract with Purdue university athletic officials. Major Nelson A. Kellogg, director of athletics, declared there was no disposition on the part of Purdue to hold the football coach to this contract.

Phelan is a former Notre Dame player, having learned his football under Knute Rockne.

The Heller Bros. five is again on the way to a sensational scamper through the leading basketball teams of eastern Connecticut. After beating the Norwich Y Thanksgiving day, they stopped the Danielson Armory five Tuesday evening of this week, 33 to 25.

The game was nip and tuck all the way with Sam taking the honors for the Hellers. Danielson took the floor with such men in their lineup as Pop Williams, Mondi Normandin, Johnson of Boston, Armington, Godreau, and Burke, the last three, former Town team players. The All-Hellers used Sam, Abe, Harry and Maxie Heller and Tinker and Ed. Nichols, the last two former Windham high luminaries, who were filling in in place of Hy Heller, who is attending medical school in Chicago this year.

Wesleyan vs. Yale Tonight

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 12—(AP)—With a 51 to 15 victory over Clark to its credit, the Wesleyan basketball team will meet the Yale quintet at New Haven, tomorrow in a confident mood.

Wesleyan will line up with Ward and Howard, forwards; Nye at center, and Millspaugh and Owen, guards.

CHUBBUCK SPRAINS ANKLE IN PRACTICE SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 12—Dan Chubbuck, regular Aggie center, suffered a sprained ankle Wednesday night in a scrimmage between the first and second teams in Hawley armory, was forced out of play, and may be lost to the Aggies for some time. Last year he broke an ankle at midseason, at which time he was leading scorer by many points. The injury sustained last night was to his other ankle and he may now be handicapped during the rest of the season by two weak ankles. These leg injuries are particularly unfortunate for Chubbuck who last spring broke four college track records in his first season of competition, and who is regarded as the best trackman in the history of the sport at the State college. Chubbuck gave up football this year in order to train more intensively for the Decathalon events at the Penn. relays next spring.

Captain Ray Ryan, who has been slowly rounding into form, has been the main cog in the Aggie quintet offence to date. His passing and floor work have been outstanding. Ryan is the only one who has been a regular member of the squard since his freshman year, and is regarded as one of the best all around players in New England basketball.

Billy Darrow, diminutive forward from New Britain, who stands five feet four inches, and who made a regular position on last year's quintet in the last few games, is playing a sensational brand of ball in Hawley armory, and at present leads the candidates for the left forward position. Duffy and Wilson have been used regularly at guards, the latter, who is a sophmore, lacking experience but more than making up for it in aggressiveness and height. He is recognized as the leading contender for the back guard berth.

Other outstanding players who have been used as a unit are Glennon and Goldberg as forwards; Osterling, center; and Lamoureux and Pigdal, as guards. The two combinations have had many close and hard fought scrimmages to date, in which the first group has proved itself to be but little superior.

BLACKHAWKS BEAT MAROONS IN CLOSING MINUTES

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—(AP)—Coming from behind in the last few minutes of play the Chicago Blackhawks defeated the Montreal Maroons 4 to 3, in a rough and sensational National Hockey league game at the coliseum tonight.

Tommy Cook was the hero of the Blackhawk rally, which extended Chicago's consecutive victories to four and blasted Montreal's hopes of gaining first place in the Canadian division.

Trailing two to one at the start of the third period the Maroons quickly took the lead. Smith scored the tying goal on a pass from Boucher after eight minutes and 40 seconds of exceedingly rough play. Less than six minutes later Stewart snatched a pass from Dutton, caught Gardiner out of position and scored what appeared to be a winning tally.

With Miller leading the offensive the Blackhawks came back with a rush. With two minutes and ten seconds left to play, Cook and Miller worked the puck from beneath Gollie Walsh and Cook caged the goal. A minute after that Miller and Cook caught the Maroons out of position and after some brilliant skating Cook passed to Miller and scored the winning tally.

BRUINS COME FROM BEHIND TO NOSE OUT SENATORS

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(AP)—Doggedly refusing to admit defeat, the Boston Bruins, champions of the National Hockey league, came from behind to defeat the Ottawa Senators, 3 to 2, in an exciting game tonight.

The Bruins twice overcame Ottawa leads then went on to win on Eddie Shore's brilliant goal in the final period. The speedy Ottawa front line back checked the Bruins into submission but could not keep them down. Dit Clapper, second string right winger, twice broke through for counters that tied the score and Shore and Hitchman, defense stars, combined for the winning goal. Tiny Thompson, Boston goalie, did great work in halting the Senators, who had the better of the play most of the time.

FIELDS AND JONES MEET AT BOSTON GARDEN TONIGHT

BOSTON, Dec. 12 — (AP) — Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, will encounter rugged competition here tomorrow night, when he tackles "Gorilla" Jones, the stiff punching Akron Negro, in the Boston Garden. The bout will be a non-title affair as Jones will come in a pound or so over the welterweight limit.

Fields is only a slight favorite.

CUBS SIGN UP SCHALK AS COACHING ASSISTANT

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—(AP)—Ray "Cracker" Schalk today signed a contract as coaching assistant for the Chicago Cubs. He will take the place of Grover Land next season.

Schalk, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, and member of the New York Giants coaching staff last season, may catch a few games for the Cubs if Leo Hartnett's arm does not heal.

CAMP TIES TABERSKI BY DEFEATING GREENLEAF

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 12—(AP)—Marcel Camp of Detroit went into a tie with Frank Taberski, defending champion, for second place in the world's championship pocket billiard tournament tonight by defeating Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, former champion, 125 to 112, in 23 minutes.

Camp is 21 years old, the youngest man in the tournament. He has now defeated both Taberski and Greenleaf, and his victory tonight kept Greenleaf from going into a tie for first place with Erwin Rudolph.

RANGERS RUN WILD TO BEAT MONTREAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Piling up five goals in a wild second period, the New York Rangers trounced Montreals Canadiens 8 to 2 tonight in one of the most exciting games of the National Hockey league season.

After a close opening frame, Bill Cook and Frank Boucher broke loose early in the second to lead the way to a 6-0 lead. Boucher was the individual scoring star of the game with two goals and as many assists. The Canadiens did not score until the middle of the third period.

Indians Down Tigers

BOSTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—The Springfield Indians defeated the Boston Tigers, 2 to 1, here tonight in a fast and exciting game in the Canadian-American Hockey league.

BEWARE!

FRIDAY, THE 13TH.

Are you superstitious? If you are you'd better stay right in bed today and then be careful you don't get to sleep and fall out and break an arm.

Watch your step as you cross the street, keep away from the tall buildings, look out for black cats and don't drive the car. Gosh, how can anybody be so superstitious?

And speaking of being superstitious, I had a fast one pulled on me the other day. I thought I prided myself on not being superstitious but someone who signs herself "Susie's Sister Sarah" tells me I am.

In fact she almost proves it. Remember I said she ALMOST proves it. It seems that some time or other I was walking with the said sister and I was telling of a person who was very superstitious about having their picture taken.

I had been saying to Sister Sarah that I didn't see how anybody could be superstitious enough to believe that they'd cash in if they had their pictures in the paper.

I had finished telling this, according to Sister Sarah, when we came to a ladder and I ducks right out into the street with the slush up to my ankles rather than walk under the ladder.

And Sister Sarah says that there's some that are superstitious and know it and there's others who are superstitious and don't know it. Perhaps she's right.

Well, she may call me superstitious for not walking under a ladder. But when you see a ladder propped up against a building and the butt resting on the icy sidewalk what would you do?

And not only that, but on that ladder is a big heavy man with a bucket full of water trying to wash a window that he has to reach for. And besides there's plenty of water dripping down from the rag he's using.

Just because I wouldn't walk through that she says I'm superstitious. She belted right under that ladder like nobody's business but I didn't have the heart to tell her how her coat looked after she'd done it.

I'm not superstitious but I'm cautious.

SCHEDULE OF 18 TILTS FOR PUTNAM HIGH QUINTET

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 13—The Putnam high school basketball team will play a schedule of 18 games this winter, Coach L. F. Noyes announced today. Eleven of the 18 tilts will be played on the local court. The team opened its season yesterday with a victory over the State Trade school quintet. The encounter was featured with the brilliant pass work and scoring feats of Capt. Carmine Leo.

The remainder of the schedule is as follows: Dec. 18, Oxford high at Putnam; Dec. 20, Alumni at Putnam; Jan. 3, State Trade school at Putnam; Jan. 8, Worcester High School of Commerce at Putnam; Jan. 10, Killingly high at Danielson; Jan. 13, Woodstock academy at Putnam; Jan. 27, Oxford high at Oxford; Jan. 24, Stonington high at Putnam; Jan. 28, Chapman Technical at New London; Feb. 7, Chapman Technical at Putnam; Feb. 14, Tourtellotte at Putnam; Feb. 21, Stonington at Stonington; Feb. 24, Plainfield at Plainfield; Feb. 28, Woodstock at Woodstock; March 3, Tourtellotte at North Grosvenordale; March 7, Killingly at Putnam.

The 1929-30 schedule is one of the most difficult in the history of the school. All of the fastest school-boy quintets in the eastern section of the state have been engaged and two Massachusetts teams who were leading contenders for the southern Massachusetts title last year appear on the schedule.

M'LARNIN-GOLDSTEIN BOUT WILL DRAW GATE OF $100,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—The boys who can hit 'em and leave 'em lying there still have a mighty hold on the faithful who pay the boxing freight.

If there is any question about it, two of the heaviest sockers in the ranks of the medium sized gladiators will prove the point in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Jimmy McLarnin, the clouting Celt, will swap belts with Ruby Goldstein, the rejuvenated jewel of the Ghetto. For three days, reserved seats in the battle palace have been sold out. The gate is expected to exceed $100,000.

Last winter, in his last big appearance here, McLarnin packed $200,000 worth of customers into the Garden and turned in a laborious, uninteresting victory over Ray Miller, a blond lightweight from Chicago. The faithful know he can punch, however, through his sensational knockouts here of Sid Terris, Phil McGraw and Sammy Baker.

IOWA STARTS TO CLEAN HOUSE BY DECLARING 14 ATHLETES INELIGIBLE

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 13—(AP)—C. C. Williams, chairman of the University of Iowa's athletic eligibility committee, said tonight that the committee's action in declaring 14 athletes ineligible was not in the hope of regaining the favor of the western conference, but due to the necessity of certifying a list of eligible performers to the non-conference schools with whom the Hawkeyes are to compete in the near future.

"Whether such a move will aid in getting Iowa back into the conference is beside the point" Dean Williams said. "I hope that it will. But the action was dictated by the necessity of certifying our list of eligible athletes to schools with whom we are about to compete this season. We could not claim to be certifying under the rules of the intercollegiate conference, of which we are still a member, if we ignored the opinion of the conference which formed the basis of the action in denying our petition."

Fourteen athletes who had borrowed sums ranging from $15 to $80 from a trust fund which was one of the points on which the conference based its ouster action were crossed off the list of eligible players in five sports. Only one of them had concluded his competition prior to today.

The wholesale action removed four regulars and two reserves from the list of men eligible for Coach Rollie Williams basketball team. Three of these men were expected to play on the 1930 football team. Among them was Mike Farroh, Michigan City, Ind., football halfback and basketball guard, who only last night was elected co-captain with Marcus Magnusson, center of the football team for next year. Magnusson was not affected.

Oran Pape of Dubuque, the spectacular halfback who scored the touchdowns that beat Minnesota both in 1928 and 1929 was on the list. Pape was the object of investigation of charges of professionalism much of the last football season, and clearing of him was said to have been a factor in the Big Ten's refusal to readmit Iowa into athletic relationship.

The athletes involved—and the amounts due the fund are:

Mike Farroh, football co-captain elect, Michigan City, Ind., $45.

Pete Affre, Quincy, Ill., $45.

Lawrence Benson, Michigan City, Ind., $25.

Floyd Mitchell, Highmore, S. D., $45.

Marvin Schmidt, Moline, Ill., $80.

Boyle Plunkitt, Frankfort, Ind., $35.

Francis Wilcox, Fort Madison, Ia., $15.

Theron Boyer, Cedar Rapids, Ia., $25.

Seward Leska, Independence, Mo., $45.

Charles Stewart, Iowa City, $25.

Boyd Liddle, Davenport, Ia., $35.

Homer Musgrove, St. Louis, $45.

Oran Pape, Dubuque, $25.

C. C. Williams, chairman of the eligibility committee, said the names of 14 other men who had borrowed from the trust fund would not be revealed since they had left school.

The men affected in today's ruling are believed to be among those named by the Big Ten conference as athletes who must be declared ineligible if the conference is to again recognize Iowa athletically. The Big Ten's list was said to have contained 22 names, six less than were on Williams' roster.

The action taken today was seen as evidence of Iowa's intention to conform strictly to western conference regulations despite the fact that the Big Ten will not meet its teams in contest, at least temporarily. Indication was given that the Hawkeye athletic board hopes to petition for reinstatement again unless the conference itself invites the Hawkeyes back into the play ground.

CHICAGO SCHOOL KIDS TO SEE BALL GAMES FREE

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—(AP)—Chicago school children, who lack the price of admission to see the Cubs and White Sox play baseball, will not have to search for peek holes next season.

They will be admitted free to three games a week, President William Veeck of the Cubs and Secretary Harry Grabiner, of the White Sox announced today. A charge of 25 cents will be made for other games, except those played on Saturday, Sundays and holidays.

Veeck and Grabiner announced the free admissions following the suggestion of Commissioner K. M. Landis to charge a smaller fee for school children so they would become interested in the game.

CARRIGAN KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT SALE OF RED SOX

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 12—(AP)—Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox said at his home here tonight that he knew nothing of a rumor that the team would be sold within 48 hours.

He also said he had never heard that a Chicago syndicate was dickering with the Red Sox with a view to a merger with the Boston Braves, which had been rumored in baseball circles recently.

TEXACO AND Y. M. C. A. TEAMS WIN AT INDOOR BASEBALL

The Texaco A. C. and the Y. M. C. A. indoor baseball teams were winners in the double header played at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, the Texaco team boating the United Metal team 19 to 6 and the Y. M. C. A. hosing out the Firemen 21 to 18. Both games were exciting and hard fought from start to finish.

Veteran Catcher Dies

During his career, from 1890 to 1900, Buckley was with the New York, St. Louis and Philadelphia National league clubs and with the Chicago Americans.

Will Play U. of Iowa

Y JAYVEES DECISIVELY BEAT BATTERY E. 2NDS

The "Y" junior varsity went to Westerly last night and administered a decisive beating to the Battery E 2nds. At the end of the first half Norwich was trailing by four points but a few minutes after the second half had started the outcome was never in doubt. The "Y" five displayed one of the best passing games seen in some time and worked the ball up for an easy shot time after time.

The junior varsity is composed of mostly Academy players with Leffingwell and Lynch, two of the "Y" first team forwards, playing last night on account of being short handed. These two men scored at ease and carried the brunt of the attack, each scoring sixteen points.

DEATHS IN SENATE BRING FOUR NEW MEMBERS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Death and gubernatorial appointment brought four new senators to the Seventy-first congress before the regular session has gotten off to a good start.

Of the four new comers, three are strangers to capitol hill. The fourth has a good record of eight years service in the house of representatives.

William E. Brock, the lanky candy manufacturer from Tennessee, was the first of the freshman quartet to appear. Governor Horton named him to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Lawrence D. Tyson. Nicknamed, the "Candy Kid" before he had been here a week, the Tennessean already has become established on the hill and enjoys wide personal popularity. It is the first public office Brock has held.

With the death of the "grand old man of congress"—Senator Theodore E. Burton—handsome, well groomed Roscoe C. McCulloch of Ohio returned to Washington after an absence of several years from the house of representatives to a seat in the senate. He immediately joined hands with members of the "baby bloc" of republicans, then in the process of formation in the special session.

From New Jersey came David Baird, jr., to take the place of Walter E. Edge, President Hoover's choice as ambassador to France. Son was following in father's footsteps, for Baird, sr., represented New Jersey in the senate before Edge.

Other similarities, too, were noted in the Baird appointment. It was Edge, the governor, who appointed Baird, sr., to the senate. Baird, sr., later stepped aside to permit Edge to come to the senate in 1919. And when Edge left for Paris it was Baird, sr., who was selected to fill out the unexpired term, his first public office.

Wyoming's governor picked Patrick J. Sullivan to replace the veteran Francis Emroy Warren, whom death claimed recently after a service in the senate longer than that of any man ever to be a member of that body.

No stranger to politics is Sullivan. Since he went to Wyoming 41 years ago he has served 18 years as a state senator, two years as a state representative, six years as chairman of the republican state committee and as mayor of one of the state's larger cities.

BALANCE IS CLAIMED FOR NEW GAS ENGINE

REDLANDS, Cal. (AP)—A new type of gasoline engine for commercial use, claimed by its inventor to remain in perfect balance at any speed, has been developed here by H. A. Johnson.

The principle is the movement in opposite directions of two pistons in the same cylinder. The gyroscopic action of the pistons and opposite whirling flywheels, Johnson says, with the angularity of the connecting rods, keeps the engine in balance and eliminates the vibration which is one of the problems of installing commercial engines in farm machinery.

The experimental engine has developed five and six horsepower with 1,400 and 2,100 revolutions a minute, respectively, under test. It weighs 250 pounds. This weight can be reduced 100 pounds in refinement, the inventor believes.

Friction caused by the additional piston, Johnson pointed out, is more than made up in the elimination of moving parts necessary in other engines.

With multiple cylinder construction, the weight could be reduced to five pounds per horsepower, Johnson says.

"Brace and bit" burglars, who effect entrances with those tools, have been active in San Antonio, Texas.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

CROW PROBLEMS AND POLICIES ARE LOCAL

Unbiased pronouncements of the department of agriculture on the crow problem have been interpreted in some quarters by opponents of thec row as demanding that the bird be protected. Such an interpretation, however, is not warranted by anything that the department has published on the subject, says officials of the bureau of biological survey. Champions of special interest, they say, sometimes forget that an organization like the department of agriculture must take into consideration all aspects of a given problem, and that it must advocate the policy that seems best for all concerned. In its application to the crow situation, this is well illustrated by recent recommendatons of sporting magazines that general campaigns be undertaken against the crow because of its alleged destructiveness to the young and eggs of game birds.

That the crow does harm, that it is a species well able to take care of itself, and that its local control often is advisable are facts very generally recognized. Approval by the department of local control measures, however, does not carry with it approval of country-wide extermination campaigns of intensively organized local drives against this bird. Biologists assert that such forms of control as side hunts have been known to do more harm than good, since they frequently result in the destruction of innocent birds of many other species.

The views of the department of agriculture on the food habits of the crow were arrived at after a study continuing over many years and were based not only upon field observations and testimony but also upon the laboratory examinations of more than 2,100 stomachs. The following summary of the attitude of the department is made from a bulletin on the crow, which presents the results of investigations and not only states in an unbiased way both the harm and the good done by thec row but outlines a policy regarding this bird that the findings seem to justify.

The bulletin states that the crow, when feeding on injurious insects, crustaceans, rodents, and carrion, and when dispersing seeds of beneficial plants, is working largely for the best interests of man; however, when destroying small reptiles, amphibians, wild birds, poultry, corn and some other crops, when molesting livestock and distributing their diseases and when spreading seeds of noxious plants, the bird is one of the farmer's enemies; and when destroying spiders and mollusks, its work appears in the main to have a neutral effect. The misdeeds of which the crow has been convicted greatly outnumber its virtues, but these are not necessarily equal in importance. Much of its damage to crops and poultry can be prevented, while the bird's services in the control of insect pests can ill be spared. At the same time no policy can be recommended that will allow the crow to become so numerous as to greatly accentuate its shortcomings. The crow has such great capacity for both good and harm that extermination of the species would have ultimate consequences no less serious than its overabundance.

Inasmuch as this investigation of the crow and its habit aimed at reaching general conclusions respecting the status of the bird in order that public attitude toward it might be based sound economic principles, biologists of the department state that the laws at present in force in mo t states relating to the crow are altogether satisfactory. It is well, they say that no protection be afforded the bird and that the way be left open for shooting it when actually doing damage. Bounties are not recommended, neither are campaigns of wholesale destruction where complete extermination is the object sought. A reasonable reduction of its number is considered justifiable, however, in areas where the crow is overabundant, and where the evidence of its destructive practices is clear.

The biological survey urges that the attitude of the individual farmer toward the crow be one of toleration when no serious losses are suffered rather than one of such uncompromising antagonism that it results in the unwarranted destruction of birds that at times are most valuable aids to man.

UP TO SPECIFICATIONS

"Oh," gurgled the lady whose line it was to be sweet and feminine, "let her come in—do Mrs. Winnick!"

"Such a darling child!" chirped the lean lady who always echoed.

"Well, I don't know," meditated aloud the hostess of the dinner party, regarding her offspring, standing, feet planted apart, in the archway leading into the hall. Rena had certainly kept little Isabel outdoors much too late. "Company seems to excite Isabel to the most fiendish heights," she went on in explanation. "I never can tell what it may inspire her to do."

"Then by all means," insisted the guest of honor, holding out two beguiling fingers, "have her in. Let's see what she will do—she can't burn down the place. There are too many of us to keep an eye on her."

"No-o-o-o!" demurred her mother with an open lack of enthusiasm. "You'd be surprised, however, taking her day by day. Not that it does to let oneself dwell upon her abilities too much. It is too disturbing. Come in, darling!"

Taking two steps and pausing, flat-footed, little Isabel, aged 3, stared at the assemblage with a marked lack of favor. High scorn sat upon her brow, which wore two grimy spots such as mud makes when swiped off. She wore tiny leather knickers and a minute sweater striped round and round like a stick of candy.

"So sensible of you," cooed the sweet and feminine guest, "to dress her like that so she can have the greatest bodily freedom. She looks just like a small boy."

"Sometimes she acts like ten of 'em," responded her mother with a touch of grimness. "Come here, dear!"

Turning her back on them, Isabel suddenly reached out toward the vase of roses on a nearby table and yanked off the bloom nearest her. She smelled it violently.

"Is there anything," passionately demanded the lean lady, who was also sentimental, "anything so beautiful as a little child and a flower?"

"Several things," declared Isabel's parent, who seemed a great deal of a pessimist. "If that vase had gone over on the rug it would have made a grand spot! Was she good today, Rena?"

In the archway, the nursemaid, who looked strangely weary for one so young, made signs to heaven with face, hands and eyes, expressive signs which seemed somehow oddly lacking in joy.

"Show her off," begged Isabel's father, sotto voce, who had just noticed the advent of his daughter. "Now that she's in here get her to do her frog-hop."

"Oh, do-o-o!" shrieked the sweet and feminine guest. "I adore anything like that!"

"It certainly is," fervently agreed Isabel's mother. "See here, Isabel—do your daily dozen for mother, won't you?"

With an impish grin Isabel surprisingly enough complied with the request. Flinging herself upon the middle of the rug on fat hands and knees she hopped as would a young striped frog down the room, landing with a head-bump against a pair of chiffon knees which obstructed her progress. The shriek of the owner of the chiffon hosiery which Isabel clutched in grimy fingers, was drowned out in the laughter of the crowd.

"Tell her to do it again!" was the cry.

"Why tempt fate?" Isabel's mother firmly shook her head. "Kiss me good night and then run along with Rena, baby."

Ignoring the invitation with a calliope yell, Isabel promptly frog-hopped back down the room and out into the hall, beyond which dim lights showed the dinner table for eight with its pale green damask cloth, its lilies and porcelain figurines, its fragile jade glass.

"Such a healthy, happy child!" reproved the sweet and feminine guest. "How can you infer she is a young terror, Mrs. Winnick? You seem so expectant of something terrible from her—"

Eight persons sprang to their feet at a prolonged, sinister swish, a crashing, tinkling, smashing racket from the region of the dining room. Little Isabel, her hands still clutching the edge of the damask cloth which she had enthusiastically jerked from the table with its complete burden of dishes, glassware and decorations, grinned up at them with sparkling eyes.

"Goo'night!" said little Isabel and ran to find Rena.—Exchange.

Why We Have Favorite Numbers.

If it's got your name and number it'll get you," was the fatalistic philosophy of the doughboy.

We all have our favorite numbers. Some are considered lucky; others, unlucky. Number 13 is usually regarded as unlucky. Some people are so afraid of 13 that they suffer from a mental disease known as Triskaidekaphobia which simply means an abnormal fear of 13. And yet there are those who regard 13 as a lucky number. One man in particular who had gone through the world war safely on number 13 asked to wear that number on his football jersey and went through three years of college football without a mishap. He attributed his good luck to 13.

Speaking of football will remind you that Red Grange made the number 77 famous. Any football player would be glad to wear 77 on his jersey in the hope of repeating Grange's performances.

The numbers 7 and 40 appear frequently in the Old Testament. There is reference to the seven candlesticks, the seven churches, sevenfold, seventy times seven, etc. Seven is the perfect number. The number 40 is the indefinite number. When there is some doubt as

JEWETT CITY

LOW TEMPERATURE AT ALL POINTS THURSDAY

At 5:30 Thursday morning the mercury all through this section had dropped to from 10 to 12 degrees below zero. There have been up to Thursday evening three snow storms, with an aggregate fall of 10 inches, besides a 20-minute baby blizzard Thanksgiving forenoon. As compared with the winter of 1928-9, not once did the mercury drop below zero, and the total snowfall for that winter was only eight inches.

HOW MANILA REGARDS THE FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY

Miss Elizabeth Dealy, a former resident here, has an interesting clipping from the Manila (Philippine Islands) Bulletin of Feb. 21, 1929, which reads: "Tomorrow, Feb. 22, is Washington's birthday. Prolonged search by the Bulletin staff failed to reveal any projects for celebrating the occasion locally. George Washington, a Virginia farmer, was one of the earlier presidents of the United States. He served in the Revolutionary war in which he acquired a considerable reputation having spent an inclement winter in Valley Forge. He was author of various state papers, the best known of which was his 'Farewell Address.' His birthday was formerly observed in many parts of his country. Mr. Washington is sometimes known as the Jose Rizal of America."

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church combined its meeting with a Christmas party in the church parlor Wednesday evening, 24 being present. Mrs. Andrew McNicol presided at the business meeting. It was voted to donate $5 to the Ministerial fund, also to the Salvation Army. The nominating committee appointed was Mrs. L. G. Buckingham, Mrs. F. D. Ballou and Mrs. Walter Marshall. Notices were given of the Christmas party Christmas eve, and of the New Year's parish supper and church meeting the evening of Dec. 28. The net receipts of the recent supper were reported as $45.92. After the meeting had adjourned, gifts were distributed from the tree which, gaily decorated, stood in the parlor. The gifts were distributed by number and were greatly appreciated for their usefulness, especially the gorgeous red dust pan which was a gift to the kitchen. Old-fashioned games, including stunts of various kinds, kept everyone in continuous merriment. Mrs. Faust received a prize for throwing a snowball through a Christmas wreath, and Mrs. Waters captured a dog as a reward for finding a hidden nut. Refreshments were served by Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst, Mrs. F. D. Ballou, Mrs. H. E. Paul and Mrs. Walter Marshall, who arranged this delightful Christmas jollification.

INTERESTING SIGHTS OF TEXAS, MEXICO, TOWNS

From the Hotel Hidalgo, Lordsburg, New Mexico, under date of Dec. 4, the northern tourists write:

We left El Paso this morning at 8 o'clock, reaching here at 3 p. m., over some of the hot roads and some of the poorest roads I ever saw.

My chauffeur drove most of the way and part of the time I was asleep on the rear seat. Coming west out of El Paso, we came through a pass in the mountain. El Paso (the pass) is a very cordial city and across the Rio Grande is the Mexican city of Juarez, pronounced (Warres). We spent the afternoon of yesterday there. Nearly all Mexicans and very few of the ordinary men could understand English. The boys on the street and the clerks in the stores could speak very good English. On the sunny side of the street were most of the barrooms and the crowds (men mostly and not all Mexicans) were loafing and leaning against the walls of the adobe houses.

I could hear music and laughter and song from the bar-rooms and the men were nearly all good natured— just happily drunk.

On the electric car were a good many men smoking. They were not offensive and I think when some of our people seemed to be astonished at their smoking they stopped. I asked a policeman, what was interesting so see, he said. "Our church (founded, I found out afterwards in 1540) "our cote-house" (court house) and he offered to take me to the "yale" (jail) if I wished to go.

The jail was a one-story building of sun-dried brick (adobe) walls, very thick and white-washed. It looked to me to be the cleanest place in the city.

Boys were very numerous on the street and 4 or 5 of them wished to shine my shoes. I let one do so. As I only had two feet I could not employ them all. The boy that did my job had a thin pair of shoes, his toes sticking out of them.

The other boys were jealous of him and as he had pushed a little fellow away that wished to get my work, I said if he would let the little fellow polish my shoes I would pay him double. No use! To keep peace, I gave the little fellow a little more than I paid for the shine.

Now there was trouble indeed—a storekeeper came out to drive the boys away. I said "No"—I tried to settle the matter. Impossible. A policeman came and they scattered. The police seemed to be very numerous and very efficient.

Across the street from the crowd of boys I noticed a number of men come out of a building when the boys were making a good deal of noise. I went across the street afterwards and found the building occupied by El Nationselle Lottery, Inc. The total amount to be drawn was $600,000, the number of billets (tickets) was 20,000 at $100 each or a person could buy 1-20 of a ticket for $5.00.

The drawing was to be on the 15th of December. An intelligent looking man came out of the house and saw me looking at the sheets of "billets" in the window. These sheets had 20 tickets each. He asked me if I wished to purchase? He gave me some advise in the matter.—I did not buy.—I made the suggestion that it would be better to tax the people to raise money for public expense.

He said that "they did not have anything to tax except children"; but he added, that none were so poor they would not take a chance in the lottery. There were a few beggars, persons that were lame or blind or very old. All of the elderly women wore veils around their shoulders and over their heads. The younger people were all well dressed except boys under 14. No one appeared to be working very hard. There were taxis and a good many carriages drawn by a thin horse each. These were for hire. Each carriage had a bell attached over the driver's head and as he came to the corner of the street he touched the bell with the butt or handle of his whip. There were a few cow men (cowboys) Mexicans that had come into town because they were thirsty.

On the plains the dust is very fine and if the wind blows, of course it makes men thirsty.

On the way over here from El Paso, where the road was poor, the dust, when we met anyone, was so thick we had to almost stop for we could not see two lengths of the car.

About half way over here we came to irrigated land, with cotton and other crops growing. There were three thousands acres of this land, all watered by pumps (driven wells).

Saw a horse ranch; I think there must have been hundreds of horses. Two saddled horses were standing beside the road, the bridles with reins dragging on the ground. A little ways off were two men asleep, under a large yucca.

We have seen some sheep, yet near El Paso on irrigated land we saw not hundreds or thousands but acres and acres of sheep.

I think they were brought in from the ranges, as irrigated land would be too valuable for sheep pasture.

William Bitgood, received a letter the 10th of December from George Green. He was in Florida at the Altamontie Springs. If nothing happens he expects to be in Miami in a few days. It is 1400 miles where they are now, and they have got to go 295 more before they get where they started for. They went Dec. 2. Mr. Green wrote Mr Bitgood Dec 7. He got the letter Dec. 10.

Mr. Hickman of Beach Pond was a caller at William Bitgood's Monday. Mr. Hickman is getting from 10 to 12 dozen eggs a day from his pullets.

Charles Douglass is back at Eastern Voluntown for a while. He has been in Plainfield chopping. The man he chopped with is sick.

Mr. Bitgood went to see one of his neighbors a few days ago and he had not seen or heard from him in two or three days. He is an old man, lives all alone except his dog and cats. He has two horses to feed and draw water for. He has to take the water from the well to the barn. He is 86 years old. Mr. Bitgood asked him if he did not want him to help him get some water to the horses. He told Mr. Bitgood he was more able to take to the horses than was Mr. Bitgood, who is quite lame and Mr. Barber isn't. He can walk nine for a man as old as he is.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FUNERAL THURSDAY OF MRS. JOSEPH FISHER

Funeral services for Mrs. Exilda Fisher, 74, who died at her home on Maple street Monday evening after several weeks' illness, were held at St. Patrick's church Thursday morning at nine o'clock. Rev. Felix J. O'Neill, pastor of St. Edward's, celebrated the solemn mass of requiem, with Rev. John J. Weldon, deacon, and Rev. Ernest Bolleau, of Putnam, sub-deacon. Burial was in St. Edward's cemetery.

Mrs. Fisher was born in Canada July 4, 1855, the daughter of Nelson Gilman and Euphemia Fraser Gilman. She came to Stafford Springs at the age of 13. Besides her husband, Joseph Fisher, she is survived by three sons, Mitchell Fisher and Joseph Fisher of this town and Frederick Fisher, of Pencook, N. H. and by a daughter, Mrs. Rose Gingras of Stafford. She also leaves four brothers, James, Fred and Napoleon Gilman, of Stafford, and George Gilman, of Norwich, and two sisters, Mrs. Delia Roberts and Mrs. Rose Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest K. Taft have returned to their home on Fisk avenue after occupying the Whiton house on East Main street for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs William E. Nichols, who have been residing at the Stafford Springs house, have taken the Whiton house.

News has been received of the death of A. B. Paton, a former resident of Stafford Springs, who died recently at the Clifton Springs sanatorium, in New York. Mr. Paton formerly was owner of the Cyril Johnson Woolen company in Stafford Springs. He came to Stafford from Ware, Mass., and purchased the mill from Cyril Johnson, later selling the mill back to Mr. Johnson. For the past 22 years he has been agent of the Sawyer mills of the American Woolen company at Dover, N. H.

Dr. Evelyn Dickinson, of New York, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. G. P. Bard at their home on East Main street.

Mrs. Nida Donley has returned to her home in Worcester, after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Wightman.

Mrs. Lavilla Leach Newton is the guest of Mrs. John M. Leach.

The Johnson Woolen mill closed Wednesday evening for the remainder of the week.

The junior class of Stafford high school is making arrangements for the Junior Hop to be held in the Warren Memorial hall this month. The following committee is in charge of the affair: Cyril Braguay, Janette Foster, Muriel Roberts, Clara Hajosy, Sylvia LaMere, Ruth Reid, Dorothy Hodgson, John Skalnik, Jerry Soukup and Wesley Prucker. The Peerless orchestra of Willimantic will furnish the music.

The meeting of Stafford grange is to be held Tuesday evening.

Bradford Kibbe, U. S. navy, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kibbe. He is on a 30-day leave of absence from his station at the aviation camp at Pensacola, Florida.

Raymond Doyle, of New York, has returned after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. William Ducharme.

TELEPHONE COMPANY MAKES ALL EMPLOYES SALESMEN

The Southern New England Telephone company today has more than 5,000 salesmen and saleladies. This may seem an impossibility for an organization whose employes are limited to that number, but it is nevertheless a fact, for under a plan now in effect every employe has been made a salesman with power to take orders for new telephone installations or additions to service.

Obviously the plan has been devised to increase telephone sales and service in Connecticut, but it is undoubtedly the most unique program of sales ever mapped out by a public utility company and it is one of the first instances in business history in which an entire company organization has been enabled to devote itself to selling in addition to its numerous other duties. Every company employe from the highest official to the office boy has been equipped with cards upon which orders may be entered.

The plan, which is now a permanent part of employe activity in every telephone company office throughout the state, is expected to bring a considerable increase in Connecticut's total number of telephone stations, and this in turn will naturally increase the value of service to subscribers. The more stations that can be brought within reach of each subscriber the greater becomes the value of the service. The company is particularly anxious to bring to the attention of its subscribers through this plan the advantage and convenience of having one or more extensions to the main station in the home.

HAD 242 FAMILIES UNDER ITS SUPERVISION

All departments of the Connecticut Humane society had a busy month in November, according to the reports made at the December meeting held this week at the Hartford headquarters.

Mrs. Nellie T. Brent, supervisor of the family department, reported that the society had 242 families under supervision during the month. These were all new complaints and involved the welfare of 590 children. Seventy children were given hospital or medical care, nine were given temporary shelter, and 27 were placed in homes with relatives, friends, or agencies. Thirteen were assisted by towns or other agencies, three homes were established, one child was legitimatized and living conditions were greatly improved in 52 homes. Thirty-eight petitions were filed for commitment to state care, eight children were committed to the county homes, three to the selectmen, four to Long Lane Farm Industrial school for girls, one to the Connecticut school for boys, two to the Mansfield State Training school, five to orphanages, two to the school for deaf and one to a correctional institution. Twenty-four persons were prosecuted for offenses and crimes committed against children resulting in 23 penalties.

Walter A. Phelps, supervisor of animal department, reported 556 investigations during the month, 24 for beating or cruel treatment; 31 for working when lame or unfit; 47 without food, shelter or bedding; 181 injured, sick or disabled; 4 animals abandoned; 46 stray animals. First aid was given to forty injured animals; 19 taken from work; veterinary care provided for 52; injured small animals cared for 123. Advice given to 155; 846 small animals were destroyed and 18 horses and cattle destroyed. Forty dogs were given shelter; homes were found for 26 dogs, 16 cats and 7 dogs were returned to their owners. Six prosecutions for cruelty to animals were conducted.

Legion Scout Committee Meets

The newly-appointed Boy Scout troop committee composed of Warren Wilcox, Carl Johnson, Dr. Thomas O'Neil and Carl W. Brend and Ed. J. McKay, troop organization, met at the scout headquarters at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and discussed tentative plans for the organization of an American Legion Boy Scout troop. A second meeting will be held next week and it is anticipated that the first meeting for the boys will be held in the first week in January.

The Dolly Madison well, near the birthplace of President James Madison's wife, will be marked by the D. A. R. of Guilford county, N. C.

The Day and the Work

And once, and no more, he is given to travel this way.
And woe if he flies from the task, whatever the odds;
For the task is appointed to him on the scroll of the gods.

There is waiting a work where only his hands can avail;
And so, if he falters, a chord in the music will fail.
He may laugh to the sky, he may lie for an hour in the sun;
But he dare not go hence till the labor appointed is done.

To each is given a marble to carve for the wall;
A stone that is needed to heighten the beauty of all;
And only his hands have the cunning to put it in place.

We are given one hour to parley and struggle with Fate,
Our wild hearts filled with the cream, our brains with the high debate.
It is given to look on life once, and once only to die;
One testing, and then at a sign we go out of the sky.

Yes, the task that is given to each man, no other can do;
So the errand is waiting: it has waited through ages for you.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

She (passionately)—Will you ever love another, dearest?

He (wearily)—No, never, if I get out of this affair!—Montreal Star.

Sonny—Pop, what is back talk?

Ma (interrupting)—Yes, dear, it's like candy and flowers.—Boston Transcript.

"What did mamma's little boy learn at school today?"

"I learned two kids not to call me 'mamma's baby.' "—New York Central Magazine.

City Banker (visiting the farm)—I suppose that's the hired man over there?

Farmer (who had visited a city bank)—No, that's the first vice-president in charge of cows.—Life.

The young husband dashed into the office very late one morning shouting: "I'm a father! I'm a father!"

The pastor was examining one of the younger classes, and asked the question, "What are the sins of omission?" After a little silence one young lady offered:

"Please sir, they're sins we ought to have committed and haven't."—Pullman News.

Wilbur was distracted.

"You know, Bob, I love Sybil frightfully but her father objects to our marriage, and if he doesn't give in I'll—well, I'll have to commit suicide. What would you advise?"

"Well, carbolic acid does very well, I hear."—Detroit News.

"There's a man who knows how to handle women. He makes them work like Trojans for him, and half starves them, and then takes their money and turns them out, mere shadows of their former selves—and he makes them like it."

"Good heavens! What sort of beast is he?"

"He's a reduction expert."

The government pays a bounty of 10 cents for each fish caught of any species which preys upon salmon in certain districts of Alaska.

Two hundred and eighty Catholic students at the University of Oklahoma have organized a parish, the only one composed of and controlled entirely by students in the United States and probably in the world. The letter of incorporation was granted by Bishop Francis C. Kelley, of the diocese of Oklahoma.

C. E. Mills, driving his automobile down a railroad track at Selma, Cal., saw a train coming, but feeling that he had the right of way, as he told the police later, he kept on going. Train and auto met head-on, the impact carrying Mills's machine 209 feet and demolishing it. Extricated from the wreckage and taken to a hospital, he was found to have escaped without a bruise or scratch.

"Safety First," as a motto must have been uppermost in the mind of a stranger who went to the police station at Marysville, Cal., laid six fine good shoves before Dennis McAuliffe, desk sergeant, and asked him to keep them for him until he called for them. The stranger said he was "going on a party." He also left the keys to his automobile which was parked across the street.

Because neither the defendant, plaintiff, nor counsel in a negligence case at Newark, N. J., counted noses, thirteen jurors sat in the jury box for two hours before the error was discovered. The judge ruled that there had been a mistrial. The extra juror was in the box because there happened to be two men named Smith on the panel called for duty. When their names were called both entered the box. The extra Smith found a chair and voluntarily became a member of the jury.

A little man rushed into the private office of Harry Trammall, of the jail at Dallas, Tex. "Quick," he said, "put me in jail." The sergeant was not to be rushed. "What've you done?" he asked. "Nothing," came the reply, "but my wife's after me." Just then a woman came into view. Believing in the principle that men must stick together, Sergeant Trammall worked fast. As the cell door clanged shut the little man declared, "I'd rather be in jail than to have her get me till she's in a better frome of mind."

Beautiful hair!

Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard its color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition.

There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately fragranced liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre.

How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "setting" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer.

Danderine quickly dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant!

Fighter Does Not Succumb to Cold!

Army men learn to take care of themselves, and they don't pamper colds like many civilians. They knock them out between morning and night with a compound that comes in plain, pleasant-tasting tablets. No trouble to carry, and so easy to take; but amazingly efficient, as you'll find out!

Pape's Cold Compound works so quickly you'll think it luck the first time. That achy, feverish feeling simply vanishes; dry, sore nose and throat are comforted; discharge ceases and breathing becomes easy. All druggists have it. Generous packages 35c.

FIRST 50 YEARS HARDEST AVERS NEWEST CORN KING

HOPE, Ind.—(AP)—The first 50 years of becoming a corn king the hardest.

That's the gist of the philosophy of the 1929 King of Corn, L. M. Vogler of Hope, whose 10 ears of Vogler's White Dent were awarded the grand championship at the International Livestock exposition this year.

The corn which brought down the house for Vogler is a variety which he and his father have been 50 years developing on their Indiana farm.

"My father started the process," the corn king said, "and he and I are still carrying on. Growing corn is a process of evolution and processes of evolution do not go forward in the time scheme of human lives."

The average quality of the corn grown in the United States today is vastly higher than it was 25 years ago, Mr. Volger said. The work of thousands of corn enthusiasts—like himself—during the last 50 years has made, he says, a remarkable general improvement in the crop.

"Of course," he said, "the process of selection is still the greatest factor in corn development, but the recent great strides are due just as much to the movement for disease-freed seed."

This latter influence has been his hobby, Mr Volger said, and it is his advice, from his newly-gained throne, to all ambitious corn growers of the world. Disease-free seed is obtained only by great care in selecting it, he said, and not by chemical treatment.

"King Vogler also won the grand championship at the International show in 1925 and has a couple of dozen other more local championships to his credit.

"Iowa?" he said, when asked why the state where the tall corn grows seldom, if ever, achieves the royal honors at the International show. "Well, they only claim to grow their corn tall in Iowa. We grow good corn in Indiana."

SWEARING PERMITTED AMONG PLURAL WIVES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Four polygamous wives who derive special advantages from the plural system have been discovered by Dr. Margaret Mead of the American Museum of Natural History.

Women in that tribe are restrained by custom from giving free vent in strong language to their sentiments about other persons, either of their own families or of outsiders.

But polygamous wives are exceptions. They may say anything they like to each other, call any names, even swear at one another, without reproach.

And says Dr. Mead, they surely do. There are but two men in the whole tribe who have ventured two wives each, and their homes are easy to find by the sounds issuing therefrom.

Onions weighing four pounds each and measuring 19 inches in circumference were grown on the ranch of E. McJimsey near Sugar City, Colo.

EVEN GLASS IS FOUND IN NEW YORK CITY AIR

Auto tires	Leather
Asphalt	Glass slivers
Brick	Horsehair
Excavation rock	Cotton

A few living spores

This table of contents is from a report to the American society of Mechanical Engineers by Dr. E. E. Free of New York, and comes from research officially inaugurated by the city.

Soot from burning coal forms 90 per cent of the particles in each cubic foot of New York air, and the other substances are in extremely minute quantities.

Dr. Free said the glass for long was a puzzle at first mistaken for volcanic ash. Now it is attributed to minute flakes scaled from the glazed tile used on buildings.

THIRTY MILLION LAMPS EQUAL LIGHTNING GLOW

PITTSFIELD, Mass. —(AP)—Thirty million medium electric lights hanging in the sky and burning continuously probably represent the power dissipated in the world by lightning.

He says the lost energy is probably around 1,200,000 kilowatts continuously. Reduced to the fanciful imagery of ancient man, who sometimes thought of his gods as riding winged horses, this is equal to keeping a stable of about 1,600,000 horses always working.

LINDBERGH DISCOVERS TROLLEY AIR BEACON

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's recent remark that, in flying over a city in a fog, he could see flashes from a street car trolley wires sooner than street lights is taking scientists on a new path of research for a airway light of greater penetration.

Capt. D. C. Young, aviation lighting specialist at Nela park here, says experts are investigating the use of arcs of high intensity that flash on and off in great bursts of brilliance.

LEAVES KEEP TINTS AFTER UNTOLD AGES

MEDFORD, Ore.—(AP)—Leaves still bearing the colors of the autumn when they fell millions of years ago have been found in Wheeler county by Dr. Roy W. Chaney.

Preservation of the colors is attributed to minerals in the stone deposit where the leaves were buried. One virtually complete leaf was found, dressed in all its long ago autumn tints. Dr. Chaney says this section of Oregon was a semi-tropical jungle.

MAN COLD FOR LIFE AS TORPEDO RESULT

LONDON—(AP)—An unusual case of "shell shock" dating from war days has come to the attention of medical authorities here.

The victim is a London omnibus conductor who complains he has not been warm for 14 years; that is, not since the day the cruiser on which he was serving in 1915 was torpedoed in far northern waters.

"I still dream of grasping for breath as the icy seas swept over us," he relates, "and I've never stopped shivering since."

Specialists who have investigated the case say it is quite possible that the nervous and physical shock described should make a man cold for life.

RADIUM RAYS OF WATCH NOW CAN BE MEASURED

URBANA, Ill.—(AP)—It is now possible to measure accurately the amount of radium rays shed by the dial of a luminous watch.

The instrument sufficiently sensitive to do this is described in a report to the Radiological society of North America.

It is called an ionozation chamber.

Plate Glass A La Carte

DETROIT—(AP)—Seven hours after it flows from the furnace finished plate glass is delivered at the end of a chain of automatic machines at the Ford plant, says a report of Everett P. Partridge to the American Chemical society.

Armed with rod, reel and line, Clifton H. Wheeler, of Belmont, visited a salmon pool on the Nictaux river in Nova Scotia. He hooked a ten-pound salmon and realized that he was without a gaff to land the fish. He shouted to some friends, who did not hear him. Desperate at the thought of losing the fine fish he had played, he started to pull in line hand over hand. He got the salmon within a few yards of him, then he carefully slid into the water, hauled in more line, and made a lunge at the salmon, hooking a finger through the gills and tossing him

BREAK IN CLOSING HOURS OF MARKET SENT PRICES DOWN FROM 2 TO 22 POINTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—The stock market, which has been faltering all this week, went into a fresh decline today, the most severe experienced since the autumn crash touched bottom in mid-November. The majority of shares lost from 2 to 22 points, and the general price level was reduced approximately to that of the beginning of December.

The market continued to drift, showing considerable resistance to moderate but persistent bear pressure, such as has been in evidence all week, until the final hour of trading, when speculators for the fall finally managed to dislodge a large volume of stock, and prices sank rapidly. Total sales were 4,204,940 shares, of which nearly 2,000,000 were traded in the last hour.

The break came as an emphatic interruption to the rapid recovery of stock prices, beginning November 14 and progressing with but occasional waverings until the end of last week. Conservative traders, however, began to regard the action of the market as unconvincing as much as a week ago. The recovery in prices had covered nearly 40 per cent of the ground lost in the autumn collapse. Secondary reactions have not as a rule appeared after outstanding bear markets of the past several years until about 45 per cent of the initial losses had been regained, but this rally had been unusually rapid.

Bear operators were inclined to seize upon the reported shipments of nearly $20,000,000 in gold to London as a bearish development, but at the same time, the Bank of England reduced its discount rate 1-2 of one per cent to 5 per cent, and sterling sagged below the generally accepted outgoing gold point, so that as a matter of fact, present indications do not point to any large losses of gold.

When the Federal Reserve bank reduced its rediscount rate from 6 to 5, and subsequently to 4 1-2 per cent last month, it was stated in authoritative banking circles that this was done only with assurances from leading central banks abroad that they would make corresponding reductions before any serious inroads upon our gold stock should take place. Huge losses of gold at this season, normally of tightening credit, would be unfavorable, but present gold stocks are so large that many banking authorities welcome a moderate transfer to London, where gold is needed. These authorities hold that such movement would stimulate foreign trade, which may prove an important factor in the revival of industry.

Industrial and corporation news was scarcely of a character to break the market. Julius Barnes, head of President Hoover's economic council, stated that a survey of preliminary reports warranted confidence in early stabilization of business activity, without justifying excessive optimism before the close of a test period of the next few months. Copper stocks increased heavily in November, but large producers are in a strong financial position and are said to remain fairly confident of their ability to maintain the present price level. Passing of the schedule United preferred dividend was not unexpected.

The weekly brokers loan statement showed an increase of $30,000,000, negligible in volume compared to the decline of approximately $2,400,000,000 in the previous seven weeks, but giving a definite clue as to the character of the rather violent bullish activity late last week. The federal reserve condition statements showed further curtailment of rediscounting while credit was liberated by open market purchases of bills and government securities. The New York statement disclosed a heavy seasonal flow of funds to the interior.

Auburn Auto showed the maximum net loss of 22 points, while Standard Gas lost 19, Westinghouse Electric and Columbian Carbon about 17. Stocks losing 12 to 16 included Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Stone and Webster, Sears, Eastman Kodak, Johns Manville, Hershey Chocolate, American Water Works, General Electric, Simmons and United States Industrial Alcohol. United States Steel, American and Foreign Power, American Telephone, American Can, North American and Union Pacific lost 3 to 10. Radio declined 6 points, Standard of N. J. 3, and General Motors 2 1-4.

In the commodity markets, grains were firm in contrast to stocks. Wheat gained 1 to 1 1-2 cents on bullish foreign crop estimates, and corn gained about a cent. Cotton sagged moderately, in sympathy with the stock market.

Foreign exchanges generally eased, with sterling cables declining 3-16 of a cent to $4.88 1-16, or 5-16 under the peak reached earlier in the week.

THE GRANGE'S OPPORTUNITY

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Two or three months ago the lecturer of the national grange suggested 50 different ways in which a grange can act for its own good, the profit of its members, and the benefit of the community.

It was mighty interesting to observe that none of these 50 suggestions called for the entrance of the grange into politics. The nearest approach was in one which treated the question "How the tariff affects agriculture." This, now what both political parties are by their national platforms committed to a more or less protective tariff, can hardly be classed longer as political. And there is no reference in the whole fifty suggestions to such disputed and bitterly partisan subjects as prohibition, woman suffrage, etc.

It is to be regretted that this spirit of mutual toleration doesn't rule in all the actions of all the granges. So long as the grange sticks to its text and doesn't go snooping into the dirty looks of politics, it can, at least, preach a useful sermon. But the moment it undertakes to "take a stand," as the self-appointed arbiters of our morals are fond of calling it, in favor of or in opposition to certain well-defined political controversies, then it sows in itself the seeds of its own disruption.

Take, for outstanding example, this matter of enforced prohibition. There are just as good grangers and just as good farmers in the grange who favor prohibition as there are who oppose it. Because the antis or "wets" happen to be in a slight majority in any local or county or state grange is not sufficient reason why they should assume to pledge the grange to anti-prohibition. Vice versa, the fact that the "drys" happen in any particular case to muster a majority does not justify them in proclaiming their politics a part of grange doctrine.

The less the grange has to do with politics and the less opportunity it offers for partisan controversy, the better it will be enabled to do its own proper work—which is vastly above party politics and wholly foreign to the political spirit.

There are a great many loyal and helpful members of the grange who would be antagonized and alienated if the grange should formally announce itself as either democratic or republican, "wet" or "dry."

These are matters of politics and the minute any organization goes into politics, on whatever side, that minute it involves itself in a dog-fight which common sense counsels the avoidance of.

One of the Lecturer Farmer's suggestions which, I confess, struck me as timely and worth thoughtful consideration, was that of the grange's opportunity to help in restoring the fast dying custom and practice of neighborliness.

Of course, in a broad and highly impersonal sense, the whole world is our neighbor. Railroads and automobiles and airplanes and telegraphs and telephones and radios have brought the very antipodes into elbow reach of each other. But the commoner, restricted sense which defines a neighbor to most of us means those who live in the neighborhood i. e., fairly near by. A neighbor, as most of us understand the word, is one who lives and has his interests in the vicinage; one who sees about the same things we do, every day; is subject to the same local limitations as we are; and has much the same problems to meet that we have.

In the old days, when life was somewhat harsher and sterner, even the obligations of mutual self defense united to enforce a spirit of neighborliness. Each was bound to help the other, not knowing when he, in turn, would stand in need of like assistance.

Those of us whose memory ranges back to the middle of the 19th century recall, with a distinct sense of loss, the various forms in which this feeling of neighborliness manifested itself.

Was Hank about to build a new house or barn? The neighbors made a "bee" to help him raise the heavy timbers and do all the work which Hank couldn't well do alone.

Did Mrs. Hank, as winter was coming on, foresee the need of more and warmer "comfortables" for the family beds? The neighbor women came to help her with the "quilting" on the ancient "quilting-frames" extended in the biggest room of the house.

Did it come to light that Hank's children were having to go to school with inadequate clothing? The "sewing society" promptly met and remedied that state of affairs.

Did Hank get a little behind with his corn? The neighbors organized a "husking-bee" which put the ears in his corn crib and the stalks on his barn mow.

Did Hank and the others find the winter rather dull and eventless? They got up a neighborhood 'coon hunt or turkey shoot or straw ride if the sleighing were good.

Did the youngsters find the long winter evenings lonesome? They with the school ma'm's aid arranged a spelling bee at the old red school house, sometimes a limited competition, and sometimes a free-for-all with no entries barred.

And so on and on. Each and all of these gatherings was based on the doing of some desirable work. But each and all were carried out in the spirit of hearty fun and wholesale hospitality. They were as famous for their joviality as for their usefulness. They brought the neighbors together for a common purpose and in a common interest. Even the coldest shoulders turned warmer and the most crabbed dispositions grew sweeter under their influence.

They weren't perfect and ideal functions. Nothing humanly devised and carried out ever has been or ever will be. But they certainly did help to make neighbors neighborly. That was something rather more important, in the long run, than even making them prosperous.

Well, those days are gone, with most of their institutions and customs. In going they have taken with them some degree of the neighborliness which the world can ill spare. There are still Hanks husking frozen corn with cold-number fingers who would be heartened and helped amazingly by an old-fashioned husking bee. There are still little Hanks toddling through the snow to school who would be vastly more comfortable with one of Aunt Hettie's "lippets," or a pair of Gran'ma Jones' warm, wool-knit mittens. There are still boys and girls struggling with atomic sections of geometrical theorems who would spell better if they faced every winter the competition of half a dozen spelling bees.

"Other times, other manners," says the French adage. We may not want to bring back the old days, with all their deprivations and hardships. But why can't we renew their neighborliness, without their narrowness?

Right there is an opportunity for the grange. I speak from long experience as a granger, both in the ranks and in the lecturer's chair and at the master's desk. Every local grange can be and should be a truly neighborhood gathering, limited only by the interest of all its members in agricultural matters. In these days of automobiles and telephones it can draw from a wider range than was possible in the times when horses were the only helps to travel and conversation was only possible by word of mouth. That is, it can fully meet the larger exigency which modern facilities have created.

The church has its place in rural life, its place and its duties; a place which it is zealously anxious to fill and duties which it is sincerely devoted to doing, despite the croakings of hostile critics. More power to it. The lodges have their place; the omnipresent "movies" have their place; there are scores of functions peculiar to the age, all of which have their special values. They are none of them to be recklessly denounced or disparaged.

But the Grange by reason of its preponderant rural membership, is in a uniquely favorable position to foster the return and revivification of that spirit of neighborliness among country people which was once and should be always the chief glory of country life.

The tendency of the times, in granges as well as everywhere else, is to concentrate upon the purely material aspects of life. Nor is this tendency one demanding wholesale criticism. Life must be built upon the material, and care for material things is as necessary to farmers as care about their foundations is essential with builders.

But a building is more than its cellar walls. Really, they are only things which make the real building possible. They aren't the house itself. Just at present the temptation is to give more attention and spend more labor on the cellar walls of life than on the superposed house walls in which we are to live.

This is putting the cart before the horse, in a very unfortunate sense. It is raising the secondary above the primary. It is a choosing of life in the basement rather than life in the upper and sweeter air.

There were virtues of the past whose loss will not be for the world's benefit, because the neighborly gatherings of all were around the roaring blaze of the open fire-place doesn't necessarily compel us to discard our more effective heaters and go back to those scorch-on-one-side, freezing-on-the-other open fires. Neighborliness doesn't depend wholly upon a four-foot hickory log, crackling on its sturdy andirons. It has a place beside the stove or even the steam radiator.

The grange is already helpful in reclaiming this spirit. But the need is urgent and the danger of wasting its energies by scattering them in too many directions is imminent.

Let one old granger urge on his brothers and sisters a keener interest in the work the grange can do towards a renewal of neighborliness.

THE FARER.

COLUMBIA

Columbia has three honor pupils for the second marking period at Windham High school—Clayton Hunt, Jr., senior class: Ruth Kaplan, sophomore, and Leonard German, freshman.

Mrs. Mary Hutchins, Mrs. Cora Hutchins, Miss Lillian Lyman and Mrs. Clayton Hunt motored to Berlin, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Eugene Lafleur spent the week-end in Meriden, at the home of her parents.

Mrs. John Cannon, of Rockille, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Jennie Hunt.

Several members of the local C. E. society went to Hartford, Sunday, to attend the sessions of the Connecticut Council of Religious education.

There was a slight accident at the intersection of the roads on the green Sunday afternoon. A car going toward Lebanon and one going towards Willimantic collided, overturning both cars and damaging them quite badly. No one was injured.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

Anna Romanoff, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is able to be about the house.

Three of the Moffitt children are having the scarlet fever, in a light form.

The whist which is held once in two weeks at Grange hall, was held Saturday night. Thirteen tables were played during the evening. Refreshments were served.

A teachers institute was held at Lisbon school, last Thursday.

Miss Grace Dawley is ill with the grip.

F. A. Hicks was in Norwich on business, recently.

Dr. Knowlton, of Hartford, and his assistant was in Canterbury looking at the scarlet fever situation.

Walter Wanklewicz and son, Joseph, were in Norwich, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cooper of Tarrytown, have been visiting the latter's parents for a few days, returned home Sunday night. Work is slack at present in Tarrytown.

Mrs. Charles Hart and infant son returned to Plainfield last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dean, of Central Village, were recent visitors at the home of Vienie Williams.

Mrs. Pester—Titus Wadde may be stingy, but he's good to his family. I never see him out in his car without his baby.

Her Husband—That's to save the price of a horse. All he has to do is to pinch the kid and he lets out a howl. —Detroit News.

HAPPY to own it

PROUD to show it

REALLY, you can't blame her. Who wouldn't drag her friends out into the kitchen to show off her new General Electric Refrigerator? There it stands, gleaming white, strong as a safe, incredibly quiet .... the envy of all who see it.

For a gift that gives all-year usefulness, that makes every-day tasks lighter, that safeguards health, the General Electric is really ideal. It makes a generous supply of ice cubes and freezes those luscious desserts which every hostess enjoys planning and serving.

When you buy a General Electric you are choosing the one and only electric refrigerator which has an all-steel cabinet. And all the mechanism is hermetically sealed in a steel casing mounted on top .... out of the way, dust-proof, never needs oiling .... leaving the greatest cabinet area for food storage. It has an accessible freezing regulator which allows you to control freezing-speeds as you wish. It creates no radio interference.

For a record of performance, can any other refrigerator equal this .... 350,000 in use and no owner has spent a single dollar for repairs or service? When you are deciding on the gift that will best serve the whole family, consider the sound value which the General Electric Refrigerator offers and remember that spaced payments can readily be arranged.

Sidewalk Notice City Ordinance

Sec. 11—The owner or owners, occupant or occupants, private corporations, or any person having the care of any building or lot of land bordering on any street, square, or public place within the city where there is a sidewalk graded, or graded and paved, shall cause to be removed therefrom any and all snow, sleet and ice within three hours after the same shall have fallen, been deposited or found, or within three hours after sunrise when the same shall have fallen in the night season.

Sec. 12—Whenever the sidewalk, or any part thereof, adjoining or fronting any building or lot of land, or any street, square, or public place shall be covered with ice, it shall be the duty of the owner or owners, occupant or occupants, private corporations, or any person having the care of such building or lot to cause such sidewalk to be made safe and convenient by removing the ice therefrom, or by covering the same with sand or some other suitable substance; and in case such owner or owners, or other person shall neglect to do so for the space of two hours during the day time, the person or persons whose legal duty it shall be to so clear said walk, and so neglecting, shall be liable to the penalty named in the succeeding section.

Sec. 13—The owner or owners, occupant or occupants, private corporation, or any person having the care of any building or lot of land and whose duty it is to clean the same, who shall violate any of the provisions of the eleventh or twelfth sections of this ordinance, or refuse or neglect to comply with the same, shall pay a penalty of five dollars for every four hours such person, owner or owners, occupant or occupants shall neglect to comply with said provisions, or any of them, after notice from any policeman of said city.

LEGAL NOTICES

At a Court of Probate held at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 12th day of December, A. D. 1929.
Present, NELSON J. ALYING, Judge.

Estate of Antonio Cosentino, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Louisa Conentino, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased alleged to be intestate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 16th day of December, A. D., 1929, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

CAPT. RASMUSSEN DIED IN THE LINE OF DUTY

HARTFORD, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Captain Arthur R. Rasmussen, of the 118th Observation squadron, died in the line of duty when he was killed in an airplane crash on March 24, the special board appointed by the adjutant general has decided. The result of the inquiry was filed with the state board of finance and control today.

Whether the state will honor the claim for compensation filed by the executor of Captain Rasmussen's estate depends on the action of the board of control. Captain Rasmussen, adjutant of the 118th Observation squadron, was killed after taking off from Brainard field on March 24, when his plane crashed in a road near Waterbury.

LANGLEY MEDAL FOR BYRD AND MANLY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.— (AP) — Commander Richard E. Byrd and the late Charles M. Manly today were awarded the Langley medal for pioneer work in aeronautics by the board of regents of Smithsonian institution.

The medal was voted for Commander Byrd "in recognition of remarkable employment of the airplane for north and south polar flights, non-stop flight over the Atlantic ocean, and for scientific achievements associated therewith."

Manly, who died in 1927, was a pioneer engine builder and designer of the engine used in the Langley aerodrome. The posthumous award will be presented to a son, Charles Manly, of Pittsburgh.

The medal for Manly was proposed by Charles Lawrance, Wright Aeronautical Corp. president, who called the pioneer "the outstanding genius of early power plant design."

GOOD WILL BROADCAST BY MEX. PRESIDENT-ELECT

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—President-elect Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, tonight broadcast his first public statement to the people of the United States in a good will message over a nation-wide radio network by the Columbia Broadcasting system.

"I believe it is indispensable for the prosperity of both countries to strengthen more and more the ties of friendship which unite us on a basis of mutual respect," he said.

Teacher Murdered

Rockford, Ill., police are mystified over the slaying of Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, 35, above, linguist and popular figure in Rockford social life, who was found dead in her apartment with her skull crushed. Questioning of Miss Gummersheimer's male acquaintances has failed to bring a solution of the crime.

$2,000 FIRE IN MERIDEN; TWO FIREMEN HURT

MERIDEN, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Damage of about $2,000 was caused tonight when fire swept a storage room at the W. J. Packer Manufacturing Co. plant on Carpenter avenue. The loss was confined chiefly to dried wood used by the company in making patterns for castings. Fireman Dowling and Assistant Fire Chief Heineman received slight cuts during the fire, each needing medical attention.

SISTER EXECUTRIX OF HARRIET JOHNSON'S WILL

The will of Harriet Scott Johnson, late of this city, disposes of her estate to relatives and friends, having been filed in the Norwich probate court.

The will was made in Washington, D. C., Dec. 6, 1927, with Ludia B. Brown, John Hamein, Jr., and Wilson Brown as witnesses. A sister, Maria Johnson Wilmore is named executrix.

FULLER CRITICISES VOTE OF SENATOR GILLETT

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Alvan T. Fuller, former governor, basing his remarks on his belief that "dirty linen should be washed in public," tonight rapped United States Senator Frederick K. Gillett and took a step nearer his expected announcement as a candidate to succeed Senator Gillett, who will retire in 1930.

Speaking at the annual Crow supper of the Malden Deliberative assembly, Fuller said that he did not believe that Senator Gillett was voicing the sentiments of the people of this state when he voted to seat William S. Vare as senator from Pennsylvania. The former governor referred to Vare in as uncomplimentary manner.

Fuller also assailed Senator Gillett for defending Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, who he charged took a representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association and put him on the public payroll to work in and out of the committee arranging a tariff when he (Bingram) was supposed to be working in the interests of the people.

The senatorial situation in Massachusetts was given further stimulation when Frederick W. Manafield, recently defeated in his quest for the mayoralty of Boston, confirmed a rumor that he might be a candidate for the democratic nomination for the senate. He said he was considering the matter but did not care to discuss the situation.

ALFRED E. SMITH TO VISIT WHITE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The white house to which the American electorate denied Alfred E. Smith admission a year ago, may be opened to him tomorrow by his successful opponent in the campaign.

The former governor of New York has an appointment with Secretary Adams tomorrow and at the white house it was said that he probably would call upon President Hoover and be invited for luncheon. Except for a brief visit the democratic candidate paid Mr. Hoover in Florida before his inauguration, the two have not met.

Smith was quoted in New York as saying that he would ask for co-operation of navy engineers in constructing a 200 foot mooring mast for dirigibles on top of the 1100 foot tower of the building to be erected on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria hotel. He is chairman of the board of the Empire State, Inc., which is planning the sky-scraper.

RIOTING AT MEETING OF NEW BERLIN COUNCIL

BERLIN, Dec. 12—(AP)—Rioting marked the first meeting of the new Berlin municipal council tonight. Two hundred outsiders mostly communists, forced their way into the town hall and aided by the 57 communists and 13 fascists in the new council tried to yell down the 66 social democrats members.

A small emergency squad of police was rushed to the place but was unable to cope with the situation. When reinforcements arrived, they came with clubs in hand but were compelled to eject each disturber individually before the council could go on with its meeting.

The leader of the communists told members of that party not to show identification cards and the result was that many men and women communist councillors were forcibly ejected by the police along with the outsiders.

DISCUSSION OF BUSINESS TREND OF ANTHRACITE

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Discussion of the business trend and depression of the anthracite industry and means of combatting it, occupied today's session of the anthracite region economic conference called by the Anthracite Co-operative association.

F. W. Blackwood of Boston, of Lockwood, Green, Inc., industrial engineers, making a survey of this season said industrial development should come from within. He said industries manned by local labor generally obtained better results than those depending upon imported labor.

CHESTNUT HILL YOUTH PASSED WORTHLESS CHECK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 12—Fred Peacus, 20, resident of Chestnut hill, town of Columbia, and employed in a local silk plant, was arrested here this afternoon by the police and later charged with passing a worthless check upon his admission of the accusation. The arrest of the young man brought to a close an investigation that has been underway since about the fifteenth of October, when a fraudulent check, bearing the forged signature of one I. Berkowitz and drawn for the mount of $10 was cashed at the Jordan Hardawre Co. At the time, Officer Arthur Hurley of the police department and County Detective Rowe H. Wheeler began a quiet investigation. A few days ago Peacus secured Henry V. Oehlers of Liberty hill, a mail carrier, to cash a check for $3.95. Oehlers found the check to be fraudulent and later secured payment of $2 from Peacus, he returning the check to the young man.

During a conversation concerning this act today, Mayor Walter R. King, who is connected with the Jordan Hardware Co., pieced certain evidence together and on the strength of his conclusions requested Captain of Police Frank McLean to have the young man, who had defrauded Oehlers, arrested.

Officer Hurley made the arrest and found the check which Peacus had once given to Oehlers, in his possession. Officer Hurley and Detective Wheeler continued the investigation this afternoon and brought Peacus to police headquarters where he was questioned by them, Chief Thomas M. Grady and Capt McLean. He, at first, maintained that his 14-year-old sister had written out the checks but later admitted his guilt and was booked on the charge named above.

Isadore J. Heller, of this city, furnished a bond of $100 for the release of the youth until Friday morning's session of the police court.

BOYS ARRESTED FOR STEALING RED ARROW MONEY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 12.—Mitchell Caron, 17, of 62 South street, and Arthur Cloutier, 18, of 28 Graystone street, two youths already on probation from the local court, were rounded up by State Policeman Charles Bailey, assisted by Officer Terrill Cousens of the Stafford Springs barracks today. Caron was charged with taking a motor vehicle without permission of the owner, while Cloutier was charged with the theft of $1,400 in Red Arrow money.

The owner of both the vehicle and Red Arrow money in question was Abe Rostrofski, of Storrs, by whom Caron has been employed. Caron recently took a Dodge truck owned by his employer without the latter's permission and drove to Willimantic to get Cloutier. The youths went to Storrs and there Cloutier took advantage of an opportunity to steal the Red Arrow money. The truck was slightly damaged on the trip to this city. Cloutier negotiated through a pal to sell the coupons to William Elliott, local barber, for $5. The cases will be heard in the Mansfield town court probably Friday. Both young men are on probation for taking a car without the owner's permission, a charge on which they were found guilty in police court several weeks ago.

In view of the present case being a repetition of the same charge, it is expected that Caron will be bound over to superior court.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A comedy drama full of girls, mirth, dancing and melody and done in techni-color is brought to your very door step by the Palace theater in presenting the new technicolor all-talking, dancing, singing Vitaphone extravaganza, "Paris," starring beautiful Irene Bordoni and handsome Jack Buchanan, Beginning Saturday this charming screen piece will be presented daily for four days, and it is the greatest thing of its kind brought to the talking screen since "The Gold Diggers" blazed a wide path of mirth and melody across the land.

Irene Bordoni is refreshingly different from any other screen actress. An artist from the tips of her fingers to her twinkling toes, she spells delight with a capital "D" and has brought "Paris," her original stage success, to the talking pictures without losing one whit of its original charm.

What do we see in the picture? Well, first of all we see Paris—the dazzling queen city of Europe. We see a Parisian music hall during the performance of one of those glittering revues for which the city of lights is famous. With strongly realistic color effects, the drama is utterly beautiful, and amidst it all—Bordoni, scintillating as the star of Paris—Bordoni at her finest, a jewel of the stage set within a brilliant cast. Saucy, spicy, naughty, loveable. That describes it.

Today for the last time the Palace presents its great double-feature bill, "Big News," a newspaper story of life, love and murder, starring Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard, and "The Girl from Woolworth's," with Alice White and Charles Delaney in the feature roles. It's a great bill, too.

Broadway Theatre

Sunday afternoon in Los Angeles. A big town, maybe, but on Sunday just as peaceful as any valley village. On this particular Sunday, however, with the leisurely strollers and homeward-bound autoists, at an intersection of streets where are located the Garden City's three largest banks, the Sabbath stillness was rudely shattered by the rattle of machine guns, the shrieks of the wounded, the shrill of police whistles, and the scream of the sirens as a masked gang of heavily-armed thugs held up the three banks and made away (almost) with their loot. After the smoke cleared away and the "corpses" of the victims were removed, it developed that this was just one of the stirring scenes in "The Mighty," the blood-tingling all-talking drama opening at the Broadway tomorrow with George Bancroft in the title role. Cast as a gang leader who defies the draft but is bundled into service just the same, and by the battering ram tactics which earned his title in Gangland, is promoted and decorated again and again for stark heroism, Bancroft has the strongest role of his exciting career. The corking cast includes Warner Oland, O. P. Heggie, E. H. Calvert, Raymond Hatton, Morgan Fancey, Dorothy Revier and Esther Ralston. The partial climax comes when as a reward for his service he is offered the police chief's position in his home city, and the big smash when he is summoned at the head of 50 motorcycle police to a pitched battle with the forces of the underworld. Stirring scenes in the heart of Gangland, with some exciting shots on the front during the World war, and a tender romance with dainty Esther Ralston, guarantee plenty of thrills and excitement, as only Bancroft knows how to dish up. The Talking Collegians in their farewell; Miller & Lyles, those "lazy cullud men," in "The Jimtown Speakeasy"; an all-star talking comedy, "Dad's Day," and the latest Paramount Sound news offer an entertaining addition to Bancroft's epic of crookdom.

TAFTVILLE

A meeting of the workers conference was held Monday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church, with the superintendent, Richard Ost, presiding. Among the many items of business considered was the annual entertainment of the children of the church school, and it was voted to hold it on the Monday evening of Christmas week. As usual, the church will be decorated for the event, and there will be a visit from Santa Claus and an exchange of gifts. The general committee named to supervise the affair includes Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Mary Greenhalgh and Miss Elizabeth B. Houston. Those who will have charge of the decorations include Miss Helen Thoma, Miss Gladys Thoma and Richard Ost.

With Chief Ranger William Smith presiding, the regular business meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America, was held Thursday evening at the court rooms on Merchants avenue.

With Chief Ranger William Smith presiding, the regular business meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America, was held Thursday evening at the court rooms on Merchants avenue.

Storrs Weeks and Harold Corcoran of South A street have entered the employ of a lumber firm in Norwich.

Lost letters advertised at the local postoffice are for Desire Couture, Mrs. Fred Ray, Leo Clautier, Walter Newell, Charles Neary and Mrs. H. Corin.

The only safe place for skating in this vicinity is the Mohegan park rink, and Taftville people find the Hunter road entrance very convenient in making their trips to and from the park.

NORWICH TOWN

FIRST CHURCH PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

The Christmas festival of the First Congregational Sunday school has been planned for Monday evening, December 23rd, in the chapel at seven o'clock. A committee to prepare for this festival was appointed the latter part of November and comprises: Misses Eleanor Smith, Rose Durr, Louise Sterry, Louise Avery and Louise P. Bailey. The committee held a meeting recently and made preliminary arrangements. As funds will be needed to put the festival over, and as it is expected every one will want to have a share in making the children happy the committee is asking for financial assistance from any one interested.

Community Tree Dec. 24

Arrangements are well under way for the Community Christmas tree celebration to be held on Norwich Town Green under the auspices of Norwich Rural association and the general supervision of President Willard Haugh. The hour will be seven o'clock Christmas eve. A varied program of instrumental music and songs will be put on to last about a half hour.

Joseph C. Worth is to lea dthe community singing around the gayly lighted tree, which location is also to have a flood light to enable those assembled to read the song sheets which the music committee expects to provide. These are to be distributed by Boy Scouts who also will collect same at the close. Miss Mary E. Rogers, instructor of singing in the public schools, is to assist with the school children, who are to unite in singing Christmas carols and hymns. It is expected by those in charge that all who attend will leave their automobiles and join in the singing around the tree. There will be musicians present to accompany the singing.

The decorating and lighting of the tree this year is under the direction of Mrs. Philip A. Johnson and Flint Brayton.

It is expected that the tree will be lighted during the holiday week as in former years.

Will Receive Bag of Gold

The $200 bag of gold which the West End Community association secured at the Red Arrow auction by making the high bid for it, is to be presented to the association at its meeting next Monday night at the Elizabeth street school.

ALEXANDER CLAIMS ONLY NECESSARY FORCE USED TO PUT OCKOONEFF OUT

The $10,000 damage suit of Sol Ockooneff, a jeweler in New London, against Tax Collector Hibberd N. Alexander and Supernumerary Charles White of the New London police force for an alleged assault by the two men upon Ockooneff when he was in the tax collector's office to pay a tax on July 29, will reach the jury in the superior court at New London next Tuesday.

When the court session opened Thursday morning a special defense of Attorneys J. James Floyd and Arthur M. Brown, counsel for Tax Collector Alexander and Supernumerary White, which was introduced Wednesday afternoon, was read to the jury.

This defense alleged that Ockooneff committed a breach of peace in the tax office July 29, and that the tax collector ordered Supernumerary White to exclude Ockooneff, saying "put this man out." The defense also sets up that no more force than was necessary was employed by White in ejecting the jeweler.

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, who with Attorney Leo Beisheim, represents Ockooneff, told the jury that the plaintiff makes a general denial of the allegations of the special defense.

Defense witnesses were heard in court Thursday morning and all the testimony was concluded. Three arguments were made, Attorney Beisheim opening for the plaintiff and Attorneys Floyd and Brown speaking for the defendants before court adjourned for the day.

The trial will be resumed next Tuesday morning, when Attorney Keefe will close the case for the plaintiff and Judge Simpson will deliver his charge to the jury.

When Tax Collector Alexander took the stand in his own defense Thursday, he denied emphatically that he laid his hands upon Ockooneff or that he called him any names. A witness in the tax office had previously testified that at all times the tax collector was two feet away from the jeweler and that the official did not touch him.

He said he told Ockooneff to get out of the office and when he would not accede to the demand he called the supernumerary and said "put him out." The tax collector said that he supposed that there would be no more to it and started back into the tax office by way of the assessor's office door when he heard the door of the tax jobby slam closed. He said he then went over and opened it. When White and Ockooneff went through, he said, he closed the door and went back into the office.

He said the first he knew there had been a fracas in the main lobby of the city hall was when White came back into the tax office with his shirt torn and his necktie pulled tightly about his throat. He said the officer's face was very red and that he was very much excited and looked "tuckered out". He said the officer was working to loosen the necktie about his throat.

Other witnesses called for the defense were: Kenneth H. Holmes, assistant city engineer; City Manager Holt, Walter Spencer, a photographer, and Mrs. Winifred Reilly, a clerk and stenographer in the tax collector's office.

BOXES IN STORES FOR SANATORIUM HOLIDAY FUND

Gay colored Christmas boxes in which to receive the contributions for the sanatorium holiday fund have been presented by E. La Rue Bliven and Alfred H. COURT OBLIGES MOTHER TO TAKE HER CHILD

Mrs. Marie Morrison, 27, of Groton, was presented in the city court Thursday morning on a charge of abandoning her infant son, born at the W. W. Backus hospital. She was arrested late Wednesday night at her home in Groton by State Police Officer James Dygert and brought to this city for trial. Selectman William S. Murray notified the police of the case and a warrant was then issued.

The child was born at the hospital August 10th. Later Mrs. Morrison left the hospital, asking that the child be kept there for a few days while she regained her strength. She later went to work at the Norwich state hospital but failed to claim her young son. Selectman Murray was notified of the case and each time the woman was approached in regard to the matter she said she would call at the hospital for the child immediately.

After hearing the case Judge Arthur F. Libby ordered the woman to take charge of the child and the infant was turned over to her. The case in court against her was continued for six months.

ACADEMY SENIOR CLASS ELECTS GIBBS PRESIDENT

Ralph H. Gibs, son of ex-Senator Herman J. Gibbs of Yantic, was elected president of the Academy senior class Thursday in the annual elections at school. Gibbs, who is known to his classmates as Chubby, is also the 1930 baseball captain and is a member of Phi Alpha Mu Sigma fraternity.

As a tie existed in the vote for vice president between Miss Catherine Dutton and William Brewer, another election for this office will be held today (Friday). Other officers elected were: Frank Barber, treasurer; Miss Anna Werth, secretary; Peter Morse, prophet; Miss Jane Sullivan, proprietess; Walter Navick, poet; Miss Fay Hill, poetess; Helen Lewitz, historian.

CONGRESSMAN FREEMAN WILL WATCH RIVER DEVELOPMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Representative Richard P. Freeman of Connecticut said today he knew nothing personally about proposed modifications of the pending improvements for the Thames river but assumed what he had read is true. Mr. Freeman, who is ranking member of the rivers and harbors committee, added that no meeting had yet been held and when one is held the report is likely to be submitted. In that case he will do whatever is necessary and best to forward and protect needed river improvements.

POMONA GRANGE WILL CONFER FIFTH DEGREE

New London County Pomona grange, No. 6, Patrons of Husbandry, will have work in conferring the fifth degree at the morning session, when it meets next Thursday at the hall of Norwich grange. In the afternoon programme of the lecturer's hour, the address is to be by J. Arthur Sherwood, who will speak upon the trip to the last national grange session at Seattle. Miss Julia Rodman of Franklin grange is to be song leader and there will be readings, solos and special numbers on the programme.

Dismissals At Backus Hospital

Patients discharged at the Backus hospital Thursday were: Miss Erika Werth, 105 Prait avenue; Douglas Morrison, Groton; Louis Harney, Jewett City, and Mrs. John Gagnon and infant daughter, Taftville.

SCHLEIFER EDITOR OF STORRS COLLEGE PAPER

Sam Schleifer of this city, a senior at Connecticut Agricultural college, was elected editor-in-chief of the Connecticut Campus, the state college student weekly publication, and Nathan Koenig, of Andover, a senior, was elected associate editor, the Campus publishing board announced Thursday. Schleifer, who formerly was associate editor, succeeds Roy W. Bonsnes, of West Haven, who resigned as editor-in-chief Tuesday, because of ill health. Koenig, who formerly was feature editor of the college paper, now fills the vacancy created by the election of Schleifer as editor.

For the last three years at the state college Schleifer has been active in publications work. During his junior year he was editor-in-chief of the Nutmeg, the junior class annual. He is a member of Phi Epsilon Pi, national social fraternity, and Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic society.

Koenig has been associated with the state college student publication four years. During his junior year he was news editor of the paper followed by election as feature editor. Last year he was associate editor of the Nutmeg.

Elections to the associate news board of the Campus as announced by officials, include: Joseph Krumholtz of Hartford, Edward L. Brown of New Haven, and Thomas J. Murphy of Hartford. Brown belongs to Phi Mu Delta fraternity and Murphy to Alpha Phi fraternity. Krumholtz is pledged to Phi Epsilon Pi.

ACADEMY CAMPUS WILL PROVIDE HOCKEY RINK

The south end of the Academy campus, or the outfield on the baseball diamond, has been flooded and weather permitting, Academy students will soon have their own hockey rink. Inter-class games have been planned between the four classes to start in the near future. Boards to hold in the water were set in place the early part of the week and the flooding assignment was given to the fire department, especially Engine No. 3. The campus was previously flooded for skating in 1924 but adverse weather gave the students little chance to use their rink at that time. The Academy rink will make, without doubt, the safest place in the city for skating.

KAPLAN DENIES PURCHASE OF WINCHESTER MILLS

Despite persistent rumors locally that the Winchester mills, Thamesville plant of the American Woolen company, have been taken over or are to be sold to Samuel Kaplan of New York city, Mr. Kaplan denied by wire Thursday night, that he has purchased the mills. Mr. Kaplan, it is understood, has been the principal purchaser of the plant's output of shoddy. Recently the American Woolen Co., according to reports, decided to shut down the Thamesville plant and Mr. Kaplan, it is said, offered to take over or purchase the plant. In answer to a query sent Mr. Kaplan Thursday evening he replied that there is "no foundation for this rumor. Absolutely untrue." According to rumor Mr. Kaplan was to have taken over the plant January 1st.

Route No. 168—Jonathan Trumbull road is under construction from Route No. 3 to the end of the improved road north of Columbia Green and from the end of the improved road south of Columbia Green to the end of the improved road at Lebanon. Travelers are warned to use extreme care in passing through.

Route No. 188—Flanders Village-Chesterfield road is under construction. Grading is being done and culverts are being installed. Traffic will find it difficult to get through this work.

Ashford — Two bridges are being constructed on the Warrenville-Westford road. A temporary bridge is in use. Traffic can pass.

Brooklyn-Pomfret road. An improvement is being made on the Pomfret-Brooklyn road. Traffic can pass with care.

Franklin—A section of the Baltic-North Franklin road is now under construction. Grading is being done. Surfacing is being laid. It is possible for traffic to get through.

Griswold-Preston City road is under construction. Open to traffic.

Putnam-Putnam Heights road is under construction. Open to traffic.

Sterling-Ekonk Hill road is under construction. Grading and surfacing operations are in progress. Traffic can pass.

Voluntown and North Stonington—Pendleton Hill road is under construction. Grading operations and macadamizing are in progress. Vehicles can pass through although travel is rough and delays will be encountered.

FIRE CHIEF THANKED BY SCOUT EXECUTIVE

According to Scout Executive Sellman a letter has been sent to Fire Chief H. R. Taft, which reads as follows. My Dear Mr. Taft: Your cooperation with the Boy Scouts in showing the moving picture at the Court of Honor, Dec. 11, 1929, is greatly appreciated. Your standing by while the film was being shown and your inspection of the machine to insure safety from fire is something scouts will understand as a real good turn. Cordially yours, John L. Sellman.

Held Sewing Club Meeting

The Wednesday Afternoon Sewing club met this week at the home of Mrs. Frank Raymond of 64 Norwich avenue, Taftville. After the hour of sewing on fancy work, a light lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Leo Lemoine of Norwich. The next meeting will not be till after the holidays and will be at the home of Mrs. Arthur DeRosier.

CUB SCOUT COMMITTEE DISCUSSES CUB PLANS

The newly-appointed committee of the Eastern Connecticut council to promote Cub Scouting for boys from 9 to 12 was held at the local headquarters Thursday evening at 5:30. Rev. George Warren Potter, Tom Burdick and A. W. Silverberg of Silberman's met with the scout executive and made tentative plans for the organization of four dens during the month of January.

Bridge Whist At Acanum Club.

The bridge whist team of the Square and Compass club of Westerly is to come here this (Friday) evening to continue its series with the Arcanum club men. The teams that will play for the Arcanum club are: Alex Jordan and A. J. Bailey, Percy Harwood and Allen Latham, Lloyd Cochrane and Julian L. Williams, John Evans and Arthur Ellison, F. K. Noyes and Elmer Pierson, Clarence Barber and Frank Sevin.

Poquetanuck Parent-Teacher Asso.

The December meeting of the Poquetanuck Parent-Teacher association was held in the Poquetanuck school Wednesday evening. Dr. Chas. J. Prohaska, senior supervisor of physical education and health, gave an interesting talk on school and community health education. A vocal duet was given very effectively by Mrs. Fred D. Miller and Miss Marguerite Miller. A vote of appreciation was given the friends who installed the new lights in the school. A social hour followed during which refreshments were served.

Every boy has an idea that if his father had lived at the right time he could have thrashed Goliath.

TRI-CITY ENCAMPMENT WITH ENTERTAINMENT

A tri-city encampment was held Thursday evening at the Odd Fellows building on Main street, when members of Palmyra encampment, No. 3, and the Mystic and New London encampments gathered for a chicken pie supper followed by a brief business session and an entertainment programme. At 6:30 o'clock the local and visiting encampment members enjoyed the following chicken pie menu, prepared under the direction of the local entertainment committee:

Chicken Pie
Mashed Potatoes Mashed Turnips
Brown Gravy
Home-made Pumpkin Pie
Rolls Coffee

At the close of the supper, served in the large hall, the encampment members repaired to the lodge room on the third floor, where there was a brief business session. Chief Patriarch Eugene Woods of Palmyra encampment, presided at the meeting, during which several candidates were favorably voted upon for initiation in Mystic by the Mystic encampment in the near future. Nomination of officers for Palmyra encampment also took place at the meeting.

After the business session there was a delightful entertainment programme, the numbers of which were as follows:

Violin solo, Mr. Brennan; recitation, Carleton Bowers; saxophone solo, Mr. Gladois; vocal selection, Louis Aldrich; banjo solo, Mr. Bowen; recitation, Archibald H. Perry.

These inter-encampment gatherings are regular get-together meetings, held throughout the winter months. The next meeting, in January, will be held in Mystic, and then will follow an inter-encampment gathering in New London, after which Norwich will again entertain the Mystic and New London Odd Fellows.

The entertainment committee in charge of the chicken pie supper comprised William Hopkins, chairman; Carleton Morse, and Edward Smith. The Triple Link social committee is now in the midst of its fall and winter series of Saturday night dances at Odd Fellows hall. The weekly dances are favored with large-sized crowds each Saturday evening.

ANNOUNCES ORGAN RECITAL OF CHRISTMAS MUSIC

A rare treat is in store for those who attend the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock in that Miss Dorothy Birchard Mulroney of Springfield, noted organist and teacher, will be heard in a half hour's recital of Christmas music. Announcement that Miss Mulroney had been secured to appear before a Norwich audience on that date was made by the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., at the Thursday evening service at the church.

Miss Mulroney, who is a native of this city and whose father, A. R. Birchard, and grandmother were both members of the Central church, is recognized as one of the leading organists and teachers of Massachusetts. She has often been heard over the radio, broadcasting her programmes through Station WBZ, Springfield. She is especially gifted in interpretation, has abundant temperament and faultless technique.

Hope often buds when it is cloudy, but it blooms only in the sunshine.

PROSPECT OF SENATE VOTE TODAY ON TAX RESOLUTION

Unable Yesterday to Get an Agreement Limiting Debate—Rejected an Ameidment Proposing $100,000,000 Reduction in Freight Rates on Agricultural Products—The Tax Resolution Was Taken Up in Place of the Tariff Measure By a Vote of 60 to 15.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.— (AP) — Adoption of the $160,000,000 income tax reduction resolution by the senate tomorrow seemed in prospect as an overwhelming majority lined up on the proposal during today's debate.

Inability of republicans to agree on an hour tomorrow for a final vote, however, blocked proposals offered to that end tonight by Chairman Smoot of the finance committee.

The tax resolution was taken up in place of the tariff measure today by a vote of 60 to 15. A substitute of a vote but after Senators McMaster, an, South Dakota, proposing instead of a tax cut that a $100,000,000 agricultural freight rate reduction plan be formulated by the interstate commerce commission was rejected, 60 to 12.

Several times the senate seemed on the verge of agreeing to an hour for a vote but after Senator McMaster, Howell, Nebraska, and Brookhart, Iowa, had withdrawn objections Senator Jones, of Washington, the assistant republican leader, refused to abide by a proposal to vote at 4 p. m. tomorrow and the senate quit for the night. Jones explained that he did not want opportunity shut off for the consideration of amendments.

The republican independents, led by Senators Norris, Nebraska, and Borah, Idaho, looked upon the tax resolution as a bonus to those who had been involved in the stock market collapse and urged instead that the treasury surplus be applied to the reduction of the war debt. This group, however, centered its attention on the proposed one per cent cut in the corporation tax, contending that the corporations already had passed the tax on to the consumers and the reduction in their taxes for next year would just amount to a bonus.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking democrat on the finance committee, supported the resolution, and an almost solid lineup of democrats and republican regulars for the tax slash was apparent in the roll calls.

Senators Smoot and Simmons answered that only in "negligible cases" would the tax reduction amount to a bonus. They urged it as a stimulus to business. Simmons said the resolution was proposed with the thought that the return of this surplus to the taxpayers "will tend largely to remove a psychological situation that threatened serious consequences."

"The people who will get this tax reduction," he continued, "who are not entitled to it will be negligible to those who will get the benefit who are entitled to it."

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, offered his amendment proposing a cut in the capital gains and loss tax from twelve and one half per cent to ten per cent and a vote on his proposition is in order tomorrow.

Senator Brookhart also submitted an amendment to eliminate the proposed reduction in the corporation tax and to substitute for the present corporation rate of 12 per cent a graduated scale of rates based on the present individual income taxes.

Senator McMaster announced that he would reoffer his defeated substitute as an amendment to the resolution. He said his scheme for a reduction in freight rates on agricultural products "will do more to stimulate the purchasing power of the people as a whole than this resolution putting some money into the pockets of the rich."

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, joined in support of the resolution and read statistics which he said indicated the need of the smaller corporations for tax relief.

Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, also announced he would offer an amendment proposing that the government add $100,000,000 to its road construction program for next year and $60,000,000 to the public building plan.

CONDOR WAS KILLED IN ATTACKING AN AIRPLANE

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)— L. H. Garriott was back in New York from South America today with an account of a fight between a huge condor and tri-motored Ford passenger airplane which he was piloting 17,000 feet in the air over the foothills of the Andes.

The condor lost. But when the airplane landed there was a deep dent in one of its metal sheathed wings, less than 10 feet from the wing motor. Handful of feathers were embedded deep in seams and crevices about the dent.

Garriott flies passenger ships between Mendoza, in the Argentine, and Santiago, Chile, for the New York, Rio & Buenos Aires Line, Inc. The flight is up through a pass between two peaks, one 22,000 feet high, the other 24,000. At 17,000 feet he is only over the foothills. He must climb to 18,500 to make the pass.

With six passengers aboard, Garriott was flying over the foothills on Nov. 30, when he saw the condor some distance away.

"It would be hard to say, of course, how big he was," Garriott said, "but he looked as though he must have a wing spread of at least 12 feet.

"As he spotted us, he wheeled around and came over, just as though he had said to himself, 'Let's see what this is all about.'

"The sight of this other big bird must have angered him, for suddenly he wheeled again and came straight toward us—heading right into our nose.

"We were going about 110 miles an hour. The speed was so great that as he got nearer, he was just one big, dark blurr.

"I swerved the ship aside a little—and just in time. With a sound like a shot he hit the wing and dropped like a plummet.

"The wing covering was dented, but not broken. I found after I had landed. And the passengers had a great time grabbing feathers as souvenirs."

DEATH OF POLICE CHIEF NORRIS OF NAUGATUCK

WATERBURY, Dec. 13—(AP)—Chief of Police William T. Morris, 40, of Naugatuck, died tonight at St. Mary's hospital after a week's fight for life. He was operated on December 6 for an intestinal trouble and although he rallied twice, he took a sudden turn for the worse late tonight. Members of his family were at his bedside.

Chief Morris, the youngest police executive in the state was widely known for his initiative and executive ability. He was a member of the Connecticut Police Chiefs' association and the National Association of Police Chiefs, also of the Elks, Knights of Columbus and the St. Francis T. A. B. drum corps.

PROFESSOR OF BIOLOGY REQUESTED TO RESIGN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The resignation of Dr. Horace Calvin Day, as professor of biology at Howard college, a Baptist institution here, was requested and accepted today by Dr. John C. Dawson, president, because of remarks the instructor made regarding the Bible during recent chapel exercises.

The reference to the Bible was made in an address by Dr. Day, the subject of which was "be skeptical" and during which he said to the student body "we should not give a too literal translation to the Bible."

FOUR MONTHS IN PRISON FOR CONCEALING ASSETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—(AP)—Abraham A. Pois, head of Henry Pois, Inc., bankrupt wholesale meat dealers, was sentenced today to one year and four months' imprisonment in the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., on his plea of guilty to concealing $140,000 worth of assets from the estate of his father, Henry Pois

AL SMITH WAS WARMLY GREETED IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.— (AP) — Alfred E. Smith had a rollicking time in the capital today both before and after a conference with Secretary Adams on the advisability of placing a dirigible mast on the 55-story Empire State building going up in his home town.

He arrived in Washington from New York before dawn and left as the day was fading, chuckling over many incidents reminiscent of the exciting presidential campaign last year. Going to and from the office of the secretary of the navy, he was besieged by cheering government workers normally at their desks at the time.

The former governor and democratic party leader, visiting here for the third time in his life, was on business bent, the trip he refused to permit his life-long vocation—politics—to intrude.

"I am interested in constructing buildings and landing airships now," h esaid in response to political questions.

It was an unplanned but highly successful demonstration that greeted the former governor. He had to walk several blocks along the bridle paths of Potomac park after his taxi driver put him out at the wrong place. So he arrived late. But virtually the entire personnel of the navy department waited patiently and as he stepped into the corridors of the building the familiar "Hello, Al," was heard on every side, and "Al" responded with a wave of the equally familiar brown derby and his broadest smile.

The crowd—mostly women—closed about him, cheering, grasping at his hand, and shoving. Guards were necessary to force a way through to the secretary's office. As he left, the demonstration was renewed, and this time the former governor stopped to shake hands with many about him.

CALLES TO BE ACCORDED DIPLOMATIC IMMUNITY

LAREDO, Texas, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The United States government will protect, with armed force if necessary, the passage of Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, through Laredo, John A. Valls, district attorney here, who has threatened to arrest Calles in connection with the slaying of two Mexicans in 1922, was informed today.

Richard Boyce, American consul at Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande in Mexico, called at the office of the district attorney today and notified him officially that the American government would protect with armed force the diplomatic immunity which it granted General Calles when it visited his diplomatic passport.

A warrant, charging Calles with conspiracy in the death of General Lucio Blanco and Colonel Aurelio Martinez here in 1922, is in the hands of the sheriff but Valls announced today that he had notified the state department that he would respect a certificate from that department attesting Calles diplomatic immunity.

PRESIDENT-ELECT OF MEX. TO BE WHITE HOUSE GUEST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP) — President Hoover announced today that President-elect Rubio of Mexico, will come to Washington December 26 and will be a guest of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the white house.

The president-elect is now on a visit to the United States and expects to go to Johns Hopkins university hospital at Baltimore for an examination during his stay.

President Hoover said Rubio would be received as a distinguished guest and that a state dinner would be given in his honor.

The president added that the white house entertainment for the Mexican elect would be confined to the dinner and would not extend to an overnight stay

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP) — Possible defeat for the laborite government's new coal mines bill was seen when the liberal party announced that it would offer a rejection amendment when the measure comes up on December 17 for second reading. As the bill is one of the major measures of the MacDonald cabinet, such a defeat might have far-reaching effects.

PORT AU PRINCE, Dec. 13.— (AP)— Andre Chevalier, former postmaster general, today told an Associated Press correspondent that Haiti would only be satisfied when President Louis Borno is removed. He charged that the Borno administration afforded no personal liberties whatsoever and that this "oppression" existing throughout Haiti was partly responsible for the recent trouble.

TOKYO, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The bombing of the Japanese consulate at Manchuli, Manchuria, by Russian troops operating against Chinese about November 20 was reported in a Harbin dispatch to the Reggo news agency. For several days the Japanese subjects in the area beyond the Khingan mountain in northwestern Manchuria which was overrun by Russian troops in the last days of November as a result of the Chinese Eastern railway controversy with China.

APOLOGY FOR FIRING ON CANADIAN VESSEL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—The most recent incident between the United States and Canada over activities of the American coast guard vessels in their efforts to suppress rum-running has been brought to a close by an expression of "regrets" by the Washington government for the firing on the Canadian vessel Shawnee on September 11.

The apology and an admission that the firing by a coast guard vessel on the Shawnee had been without legal authority was communicated to the Ottawa government through the Canadian legation here. The note containing the American statement of facts on the incident was in reply to a request forwarded to the state department tby Canada and delivered by Minister Massey of Canada.

In conforming with the Canadian request for details, the American communication gave a full report on the case. The report was understood to have been based on details furnished by the coast guard.

MURDERER'S CONSCIENCE DROVE HIM TO SUICIDE

MERIDIAN, Miss., Dec. 13—(AP)—While bleeding to death with his body severed by the wheels of a freight train, a man giving his name as John Meehan of Laurel, Md., told authorities today that he had thrown his companion in front of a train "somewhere up north" and that his conscience drove him to suicide in the same manner.

The man said he and his unnamed companion were bringing race horses from Maryland to New Orleans and during a fight in the express car he had hurled his companion in front of a train.

While the train was entering Meridian, Meehan jumped from an express car in front of a passing freight train. He died when he reached the hospital. He said his sister, Mrs. B. E. Chatman, lived at Laurel, Md.

$13,700,000 HOSPITALIZATION BILL REPORTED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—A move to increase facilties for relief of disabled World war veterans was made today by the house World war veterans' committee in ordering a $13,700,000 hospitalization bill reported.

The group instructed Chairman Eoval C. Johnson of the committee to put the bill before the house so that it might be brought up for early action.

The measure originally began as the Luce bill, to authorize $10,000,000 for hospitalization and later was replaced by the Rogers measure calling for an outlay of $11,500,000. It was revised today by the committee to provide $1,500,000 for a hospital at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and $700,000 for alterations and repairs to existing veterans' hospitals.

BATTLE BETWEEN BANDITS AND MEXICAN TROORS

NOGALES, Sonora, Mex., Dec. 13—(AP)—A clash between a band of 200 bandits and a detachment of federal troop sat Sahuaripa, a village about 100 miles east of Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, in which three men, including the bandit leader, were killed and 20 prisoners executed, was reported here today.

The encounter was disclosed by General Pablo Macias, commander of federal troops in Sonora, who said he had learned that a rebellious band would attempt to capture the village and establish headquarters for operations in Sonora.

HOOVER FAVORS INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—In conformity with a recommendation by the Pan-American conference in Havana last year, President Hoover asked congress today for authority to invite governments of the western hemisphere to send representatives to an inter-American conference on agriculture, forestry and animal industry, to be held in Washington next September.

He transmitted to congress a report by Secretary Stimson advocating legislation to that effect and proposing an appropriation of $25,600 for the conference.

WOMEN ACCUSED OF POISONING HUSBANDS

SZOLNOK, Hungary, Dec. 13—(AP)—An investigation of wholesale deaths in this town of 40,000 inhabitants began today with numerous peasant women accused of poisoning their husbands and other relatives. The bodies of more than 30 persons have been exhumed for examination.

One of the accused women is 81 years of age and most of them are over middle age. One or two, although declaring themselves innocent of murder, admitted administering poison in food.

CONN. ASSISTANT ATT'Y GENERAL FOR D. OF C.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Connecticut has just been accorded the privilege of furnishing an assistant attorney general for the District of Columbia. He is Frank W. Adams, a resident of New Haven, colored, and whose appointment was made on recommendation of Representative Tilson of New Haven, republican floor leader of the house.

Christmas Buying Is As Good As Last Year

Reports Received by Hoover From Dep't of Commerce and Other Agencies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP)— Reports received by President Hoover from the department of commerce and other agencies were said at the white house today to indicate that Christmas buying is fully as good this year as it was in 1928.

The reports were said to show that in some sections the volume of buying was much better than last year.

Do You Play Bridge?

The chap who overbids his hand always loses in the long run. No person can continually bid what he hasn't got and make it.

Business in one way is something like the game of bridge . . . with merchants and manufacturers playing for your patronage. You want furniture and breakfast foods, books and clothes, radios, cigarettes and toys—they want to sell you theirs. They bid with advertising.

The merchant who advertises an unworthy product cannot win. He is simply inducing more people to find out in a shorter time how poor it is. He is overbidding his hand, and is bound to get set. Losing is too costly . . . depend upon it, products that are advertised must be good!

The advertisements in The Bulletin are guides to the finest merchandise of every sort, merchandise carefully and faithfully made, of certain, honest value. You can trust the manufacturers who write them.

It pays to read Bulletin advertisements. They are bids backed by products that can compete in the open . . . and win.

During the past week the following news matter has appeared in The Bulletin's columns for two cents a day:

Bulletin		Telegraph	Local	General	Total
Saturday,	Dec. 7	139	183	391	713
Monday,	Dec. 9	140	138	391	669
Tuesday,	Dec. 10	103	144	349	596
Wednesday,	Dec. 11	114	126	330	570
Thursday,	Dec. 12	129	137	327	593
Friday,	Dec. 13	136	146	387	669
Totals		761	874	2175	3810

The comparison for various sections of the country is uneven, it was said, with some localities showing up better than others.

President Hoover considers these reports as a fair index of the general situation in the United States.

BARNES HAS AROUSED THE IRE OF SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—The program of Julius Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's business advisory committee, for two automobiles and two telephones in American homes was criticised in the senate today by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, as one tending toward luxury purchases.

The Nebraskan contended that instead of this program, Barnes should be advising the public that it should not go in debt for luxuries and that nothing should be purchased on credit unless it was needed in business as a necessity.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, said he had listened to the recent radio address of Mr. Barnes and had observed no mention of agriculture.

"I read yesterday a statement that the American people eat one-half the amount of bread consumed in France and England," Borah added. "If Barnes had made a plea for the American people to eat twice as much bread instead of having two cars and two automobiles that would aid agriculture."

Barnes who has been summoned before the senate lobby committee for questioning next Tuesday in regard to reports that he has opposed the formation by the federal farm board of grain marketing cooperatives, also was assailed by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana.

DECLINED TO REMAIN ON COMMITTEE WITH NEGRO

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—Because of the assignment of Representative Oscar De Priest, Negro republican from Illinois, to the enrolled bills committee, Representative Allgood, democrat, Alabama, resigned today from the committee.

The house accepted the resignation when it was presented by Speaker Longworth.

Explaining his action, Allgood said: "The enrolled bills committee is an honorary committee. I cannot serve my district on it and now that the republican from Chicago has been added to it I do not desire the honor."

De Priest, who also is a native of Alabama, had left for Chicago before Allgood's announcement. He was placed on the committee by the republican committee on committees and the assignment was approved by the house yesterday.

Allgood who has served on the committee several years, said that as soon as he learned of De Priest's assignment he "concluded that I did not desire the honor any longer."

De Priest also has been assigned to the Indian affairs and invalid pensions committees.

INCREASE IN APPLICANTS FOR AUTOMOBILE MARKERS

HARTFORD, Dec. 13—(AP)—With the total number of automobile registrations in Connecticut increasing at the rate of 7 to 8 per cent a year, the number of early applicants for their 1930 markers this year show an increase of between 15 and 16 per cent over the number who applied early for their 1929 markers, according to figures made public today by the motor vehicle department. Numerically, on December 10, the last day for which complete figures are available, the department had received 8841 more applications than on December 10, 1928. The total number of applications for 1930 markers received up to and including that date was 64,230.

FOR FIRST DAY IN YEARS NO DIVORCE IN RENO FRIDAY

RENO, Nev., Dec. 13—(AP)—Friday the 13th brought bad business to Reno divorce lawyers. For the first time in more than ten years an entire day passed without a single divorce case going into the records. The ordinary run of such cases is from 10 to 30 a day without a letup.

KILWINNING, Scotland, Dec. 13—(AP)—Sir James Bell, banker and yachtsman, died today at the age of 79 years. He once contested for the America cup with his yacht "Thistle" which was later acquired by the German emperor and named "Comet."

Miners Arrested On Charges Of Rioting

Yesterday 51 Miners and 16 Women and Girls Were Taken Into Custody.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Seeking to curb disturbances accompanying the National Miners' union coal strike which has resulted in closing six mines in this territory, Christian county authorities today arrested 51 miners and 16 women and girls on charges of rioting and disturbing the peace.

The tiny Christian county jail, with accommodations for only 40 tonight held 60 prisoners, among whom were the leaders of the auto caravan of striking miners which has visited nine coal mines within a radius of 27 miles since Monday night.

None of the mines in Christian county resumed operations today. A small force of miners, who returned to Peabody mine No. at Tovey yesterday, were at work again today under protection of a force of special deputies.

The largest number of arrests was at Nokomis where Sheriff H. C. Hill and 60 deputies held 300 men and women in the business district for three hours until Sheriff D. L. Dunbar of Christian county arrived to identify members of the National Miners' union for whom warrants had been issued.

When the caravan of 74 automobiles and one large truck arrived, the deputies herded the group into a city block and held them there at the point of shotguns, revolvers and a sub-machine gun.

Sheriff Dunbar, accompanied by W. C. Argust, general superintendent of the Peabody mines in Christian county, arrived about 8:30 o'clock and immediately proceeded to arrest the men. Thirty-nine miners were jailed on charges of rioting and inciting to riot.

Henry Carbishley, state secretary of the N. M. U., was arrested at Cello, Ill.

The remainder of today's arrests were made at Bulpitt, near Mine No. 8 at Tovey, by Illinois National Guardsmen in command of Major Kenneth Buchanan of Urbana. Sixteen women and young girls and seven men were arrested by the militia when they refused to disperse.

Today's arrests brought to 51 the number taken during the week. Other arrests were made at Kincaid, Springfield, Pana and Taylorville on similar charges.

LINER BREMEN THREE DAYS LATE, DUE TO STORM

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—(AP)—The north German liner Bremen, speed queen of the Atlantic, docked at her Brooklyn pier today three days late in her crossing from Cherburg because of a battle against a gale of such proportions as never before seen by Capt. Leopold Ziegenbein in all his days on the northern seas.

Waves 50 feet high and a howling gale reduced the run of the Bremen, transatlantic record holder, on one day to a mere 120 miles. She usually makes 700 miles a day.

Captain Ziegenbein said the storm lasted nearly the entire voyage, retarding the liner's time to seven days and seven hours, whereas she usually makes the trip in less than five days.

Reports that 10 or more passengers suffered serious injuries by being knocked about by the storms were denied by the north German Lloyd line officials, who said that Otto Paschlen, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was the only passenger injured. The line officers said his injuries were slight.

TO MAKE NATION-WIDE STUDY ON CHILD CRIME

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—Dr. Miriam Van Waters, referee of the juvenile court of Los Angeles county, California, was designated today to direct a nation-wide study on child crime for the law enforcement commission and the white house conference on child welfare.

Chairman Wickersham of the commission and Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the child health group, said in making the announcement that while youthful conduct might cause a child to be brought into juvenile court, even plain violations of the law did no always indicate the commission of what was regarded commonly as a crime. The whole question, they said, needed to obe approached with "great charity and understanding."

TWINS INCREASED FAMILY TO 13 ON FRIDAY, THE 13TH

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Guss Forest of Kansas City are not superstitious but they were impressed with a strange coincidence on this Friday the thirteenth.

Mrs. Forrest gave birth this morning to thirteen pounds of twins, a boy weighing seven pounds and a six-pound girl. Counting the father and mother there are now thirteen members in the family

STIMULATION OF BUSINESS IN NEW ENGLAND URGED

By Speakers at Meeting of New England Council—F. B. Buckland Advised the People of New England to Show Faith by Investing in Their Own Community—Declared That Only by Owning and Running Its Own Utilities Can New England's Future Be Assured.

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A note of "conservative optimism," for business in the United States, was sounded here today at the 17th quarterly meeting of the New England council by speakers who attended President Hoover's conference on the stimulation of industry.

They translated to the council the findings of the Washington meeting that the structure of business is fundamentally sound and encouraged New England leaders to proceed with a program of expansion.

The council re-elected Redfield Proctor, of Proctor, Vt., as president, and all other officers as well. Dudley Harmon, of Boston, was again elected as executive vice-president; John H. Lawrence, of Boston, treasurer, and Arthur L. Aldred, of Providence, secretary.

Formal approval of Mr. Hoover's efforts to place the nation on a more sound economic basis was contained in a resolution adopted at the morning session. The resolution also urged full co-operation of the six New England states. To spread the doctrine of united effort along this line a second resolution calling upon each community to co-ordinate all its interests for the purpose of stabilizing employment and purchasing power was approved.

A comprehensive review of the work of the New England council was made by E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, who outlined the multifarious activities in which the council has interested itself. Mr. Buckland is a former member of the council.

Ownership of utilities as a vital factor in the future of New England, was stressed by Mr. Buckland.

"All that the New England council can do," he said, "will be in vain unless the people of New England have faith by investing in their own community. Whatever we may plan with respect to increasing the transmission and generation of electric power, consolidating our railroads, improving our industries, will be of little use unless we become and remain the owners of these utilities and these industries and hold on to them as we hold on to our own homes. Too often in the past we have transferred control of great enterprises because of the immediate profit. New England has money enough and brains enough to own and run its utilities and only in so owning and running them is New England's future assured."

He also urged a close relationship with the other sections of the nation and warned against erection of an economic barrier.

SEN. GRUNDY AFFABLE TO FRIEND AND CRITIC

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.— (AP) — Early disposition of the contest facing Senator Joseph Grundy, of Pennsylvania, was planned today as Chairman Shortridge, of the elections committee, called a meeting for Monday to consider the Nye resolution to dismiss the newest senator from membership.

Meanwhile, Senator Grundy, genial and affable to friend and critic, went his way about the senate floor getting acquainted from the inside with the activities on which he has looked for so many days from the outside in his campaign for a high protective tariff bill.

Another of many strange coincidences which have featured Mr. Grundy's sudden entry into public life occurred today, when his first vote as a senator happened to be to displace the tariff bill for which he has labored so hard.

The first roll call confronting him was on a motion to take up the tax reduction resolution and to displace temporarily the tariff. He voted with 59 other republicans and democrats to speed the tax resolution.

DISCLOSURE MADE BY SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON Dec. 13.—(AP)— Inquiring further into the relations between Edwin P. Shattuck and the Cuba company, the senate lobby committee learned today that he probably would be paid about $75,000 in view of his prominence "and his intimacy with President Hoover."

Shattuck was employed by H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company, to advocate a low duty on sugar in the pending tariff bill.

The $75,000 sum was mentioned in a letter Lakin wrote to Verito Cutterres, of the presidential palace, Havana, last March, which was read while Lakin was a witness.

"In view of Shattuck's prominence and his intimacy with President Hoover, I expect that we shall pay Shattuck and his partner something like $75,000," the letter said.

Previously Shattuck had testified that he expected to receive "$25,000 or more," for his efforts against imposing a high sugar duty. The Cuba company which employed him has large sugar holdings in Cuba.

TWO YEARS, SIX MONTHS FOR DEATH CAR DRIVER

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 13.— (AP)— Henry B. Rush, of Ardmore, whose automobile killed Isadore Welensky, of Stamford, Conn., a freshman at Villanova college, on the night of November 17, was sentenced today to two years and six months in the Montgomery county jail.

Rush, a former bus driver, pleaded guilty to charges of involuntary manslaughter, operating an automobile while intoxicated, violation of the prohibition law and failure to give assistance after an accident. Sentence on the last three charges was suspended. His car struck Welensky in Ardmore as the student stepped from an automobile in which he had been given a ride.

TO DEFER MAKING BUYER OF LIQUOR A CRIMINAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—Resolutions suggesting that definite action on the Sheppart bill to make the purchasers of liquor equally guilty with the seller be deferred pending the outcome of the survey by the law enforcement commission were adopted today by the national conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth amendment.

The resolutions declared confidence in President Hoover and pledged unwavering support of necessary legislation to make effective his program for reorganizing the prohibition enforcement agencies.

FORMER FRIEND FAILED TO RECOGNIZE FRANKLIN

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 13—(AP)—Seven residents of O'Neil, Ark., tonight identified the youth who claims he is Connie Franklin, as the Connie Franklin who lived among them a week before he was brought here for possible identification as the man alleged to have been mutilated and burned alive last spring.

The "positive" identification came less than three hours after Coleman Foster failed to recognize the man as the Connie Franklin who was formerly his intimate friend

GOVERNMENT TO ENGAGE EXTENSIVELY IN BUILDING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP)— The house public buildings committee today approved the government's huge building program by voting to report favorably two bills to authorize the appropriation of $239,740,000 for construction in the national capital and throughout the country.

One of the measures would authorize $230,000,000 half of which would be for several new department buildings and other structures in Washington, and the remainder for postoffice buildings in a large number of cities in virtually every state.

The bill as introduced in the house provided for authorization of $213,000,000, of which $115,000,000 would have been for construction in Washington, but the committee in executive session today increased the sum so that an equal amount would be available for work outside the District of Columbia.

An appropriation of $9,740,000 for a new building to house the supreme court, which now occupies crowded quarters in the capitol, would be authorized in the other bill. The court building will be situated near the capitol and the library of congress.

The $115,000,000 to be expended in Washington would enable the government to carry on its extensive development program in the downtown section, which calls for the eventual erection of buildings to house the labor, justice, war, and navy departments, a treasury department annex, the government archives and the independent bureaus.

GIRL TOOK POISON IN CHURCH IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP)— Police are watching at the bedside of a dying girl to learn from her semi-conscious murmurings, if they can, who she is, why she took poison in a fashionable Washington church, and more of the "murder" and "dope ring" she has talked about.

Today her serious condition had been aggravated by the development of double pneumonia and physicians despaired of her recovery. After talking briefly with an assistant rector in the church Wednesday afternoon, the girl, estimated between 22 and 25 years old, took poison.

A baggage check bearing the name "Annette Brewster," Selma, California, was found in her handbag. A Washington man, unnamed by police, said today he thought her name was "Gilda Corron."

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY JUMPING FROM WINDOW

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)— Miss Ruth Roth, 19, an employe in the cashier's office of B. Altman & Co., 5th avenue department store, committed suicide today by jumping out a window on the eighth floor of the store. Her body landed in 34th street, crowded with Christmas shoppers, and narrowly missed striking a pedestrian.

The body was unidentified for some time, until Miss Helen Roth, her sister, employed in the store as a saleswoman, was shown the handbag she carried.

Miss Roth said her sister had been unable to eat and had been steadily losing weight for several weeks. They had lunched together and had returned to the store a short time before the suicide.

DEATH RATE IN STATE FROM AUTO ACCIDENTS

HARTFORD, Dec. 13—(AP)—Despite a record of seven automobile fatalities for the week of December 1 to 7, as compared with 11 during the corresponding week in 1928, figures compiled by the motor vehicle department made public today, show little hope that the automobile fatality record for this year will be better than that for 1928. Including the deaths for the last week reported, the total for this year has been 439, while on the same date in 1928 the death total in automobile accidents was 425.

CLAIM DR. KIEB UNFIT FOR PRISON REFORM PROGRAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP) — The board of directors of the National Society of Penal information today adopted a resolution asking Governor Roosevelt to demand the immediate resignation of Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, state commissioner of correction. The resolution charged that Dr. Kieb was "unfitted" to carry out the governor's prison reform program.

DECISION IN SPECTOR CASE IS RESERVED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 13—The case of Samuel Spector versus Blanchette & Blanchette, a suit for the recovery on a sale of a motor to the concern for the sum of $35, was completed during the short calendar session this morning. Judge Edward M. Yeomans reserved decision in the case and then adjourned court until next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in this city. On that day four jury cases, together with several court cases are to come up for trial.

In the Spector vs. Blanchette & Blanchette action the concern, through Attorney Arthur T. Kelley claimed that the motor in question was purchased on approval and failed to prove satisfactory when installed in one of their delivery trucks. The motor was then returned to the plaintiff.

This morning a settlement out of court was announced in the case of Joseph Bosse versus the Hurteau-Bosse corporation. Attorney Gaucher appearing for the plaintiff and Attorney S. B. Harvey for the defendants.

During the brief short calendar session a foreclosure judgment for the plaintiff for $11,005.50 was awarded in the case of Joseph F. Coombs of West Hartford versus Herbert L. Fortune et als. The date of redemption was fixed for the second Monday in January. Judgment by stipulation for $280 was ordered in the case of Samuel B. Harvey vs. Ruel M. Hyde, both of this city. A foreclosure judgment was awarded the plaintiff in the case of Vine R. Franklin versus Edward Langford, Josephine Langford and Anthony K. Mazall, the award being for $6,150 with the redemptionary period fixed for the first Monday in January. The case of John H. Hambly et als versus the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company, a petition of the ancillary receivers for an order confirming a deed of certain real estate, was presented by Attorney John H. King.

With court coming in at Willimantic next Tuesday and at Putnam Thursday, Judge Yeomans stated that he hoped that there would be no court the week of Christmas.

PEACUS PLEADS GUILTY TO PASSING BAD CHECK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 13—Frederick Peacus, alias Pacos, 20, of Chestnut Hill, Lebanon, pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery at the session of police court this morning and on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry E. Gaucher the case was continued until Monday of next week to allow further investigation. Peacus was charged with forging the name of I. Berkowitz to a check on October 5, last, which he cashed at the Jordan Hardware company. He was arrested Thursday afternoon by Officer Arthur Hurley. Peacus had found a blank check. He signed the name of I. Berkowitz to it and made it payable to "Harry Williams," to the amount of $14. He then endorsed the latter name on the reverse side and went to the hardware store where he purchased two pounds of nails, tendering the check for payment. He received the balance in cash. A modification of the forgery charge is expected in the case as the investigation disclosed that the youth had never been in trouble before and that he was steadily employed.

CARON AND CLOUTIER FINED IN MANSFIELD COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 13—Mitchel Caron, 19, of 52 South street, this city was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $114.30 on a charge of driving a car under a suspended license and Arthur Cloutier, 19, of 28 Greystone street, this city, was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $37.30 for theft, at the session of the Mansfield town court held this afternoon. Both youths pleaded guilty and being unable to pay the assessments were taken to the Tolland county jail. Caron was originally charged with taking an automobile without permission of the owner, this charge being modified to the one mentioned above. Justice of the Peace Byron Houston presided at court and Grand Juror Walter Storrs prosecuted. The cases were presented by State Policemen Charles Daley and Terrill Cousens of the Stafford Springs barracks. The youths were arrested Thursday evening. Caron had taken a truck owned by his employer, Abe Ostrofsky of Storrs and driven it to this city. Cloutier, a friend of Caron's, stole $1,400 worth of Red Arrow money from the Ostrofsky home and later sold the coupons in this city for five dollars. Both boys are now serving probationary sentences imposed in police court here some weeks ago when they were arraigned on charges of taking an automobile without the permission of the owner.

The officers of James J. Shea Post, No. 19, American Legion are to write to the congressmen and senators from this state in favor of the passage of a pension bill to be introduced at the present session of congress, calling for pensions for all disabled veterans of the World war, whether their disability was incurred during their period of service or not. Similar action is to be taken regarding the measure calling for immediate payment of adjusted compensation certificates to all veterans and favoring the adoption of The Star Spangled Banner as the national anthem. The legion has accepted three new members: Trenor A. Rice, Roman Cutko and Alphonse J. Garneau.

The annual two-day Christmas sale of fancy articles, aprons and food, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of St. Paul's church was concluded this afternoon after meeting with splendid response. A fish pond was in charge of Mrs. Charles Conesting, Mrs. Valentine L. Murphy. Tea was served in charge of Mrs. O. R. Nyfeler, assisted by Mrs. Richard Cosman and clam chowder was served this evening by Mrs. Charles Taylor and assistants. The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Mary Lovett.

William Bicknell, 21, of this city, was arrested on charges of assault and intoxication late this afternoon following a fistic encounter with Captain of Police Frank McLean. Captain McLean had gone into a smoke emporium on Union street to evict Bicknell, who was misbehaving owing to his drunken condition. The officer had reached the sidewalk with his charge when the youth suddenly shot out his fist, striking the captain over the left eye and inflicting a bad cut just above the orbit. Captain McLean, who is an old-time boxer got the young man under control and proceeded with the arrest.

The sum of $205.20 in cash and several hundred articles of food, were received at the annual donation day held at the Card Home for the Aged this week. The King's Daughters were in charge of the day and today expressed gratitude for the generous public response.

Electricians are occupied at the town building installing a new switchboard and otherwise correcting trouble that has existed with the lighting system of the building for some time. Owing to the weakness of the system meetings in the town hall and on occasions the superior court have been pitched into temporary darkness by the blowing out of fuses. The new switchboard will have an accessory in the form of a smaller one that will take care of the third floor on which are located the superior court room, common council chamber and tower.

COLCHESTER

NEPHEWS FOR BEARERS AT MRS. BROWN'S FUNERAL

Thursday evening at seven o'clock, Mrs. Charlotte E. Brown, 72, a native of Colchester, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Masterton in Middletown, after a few weeks' illness. Mrs. Brown was born in the Packwoodville section of Colchester in August, 1857, the daughter of Albert and Mary A. Chase Foote. She attended the Unionville district school and Bacon academy and later was with the Colchester Rubber Co. here. About forty-five years ago she was united in marriage with Frederick Brown, of Columbia, who died a few years after their marriage. When the Colchester Rubber Co. went out of business about thirty-five years ago, Mrs. Brown moved to Providence where she was with the Bowen Rubber Co. for a long period of years. Several years ago she left Providence and went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Masterton, in Middletown. Besides her daughter, she is survived by two brothers, Albert Harrison Foote, of Colchester, and Edward Foote, of Gilead and by a sister, Mrs. George B. Miller of Colchester. Mrs. Brown was a descendant of Nathaniel Foote, one of the founders of the town of Colchester.

At the funeral services to be held today, (Saturday), in Middletown, six nephews, Elmer H. Foote of Colchester, Frank Foote of New Haven, Clayton G. Miller, of Middletown, Robert and Arnold Foote, of Gilead and Albert Lyman, of Columbia, will act as bearers. Burial will be in Middletown.

MOOSUP

Sunday evening, at the Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. A. Elwyn Tingley, is to present a story-sermon entitled Cheer and the Grouch, based on The Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens.

At this service the question box will be again opened and the following five questions answered from the pulpit: "If Santa Claus is merely a myth, is it right to teach children to believe in Santa Claus?" "It would seem that Christmas does not mean as much to children and older folks as it once did. If this be so, why is it and what is the remedy?" "Do you believe in the Sunday newspaper in the home? Has it done good or harm," "How about dancing? Is it morally wrong?" "Some hold that Jesus was immersed, others sprinkled. Who is right and which is the better method of baptism?" "Why do church people do so much scrapping among themselves?" "Is the world not coming to an end? What is the nature of that end and where will folks be when it happens?" "Are people today happier than were their grandparents?" "Why are Protestant families growing smaller each year, and do you believe in birth control?" "Do you believe in long engagements among young people?" "Would it be out of the question to have a real revival of religion?"

Sunday evening ,Dec. 22, the New England Trumpeters from the New England Conservatory at Boston are to appear in the Methodist auditorium at 6 o'clock, presenting a program of trumpet music embodying the spirit of Christmas cheer. The service will be public.

COURT DECLARES BEDARD ELECTED AS GRAND JUROR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 13.—A certificate of election as a grand juror of the town of Brooklyn will be presented to Frank M. Bedard of the West side as the result of a decision by Judge Allyn L. Brown, Norwich, of the superior court on a petition of Mr. Bedard for a review of the action of Moderator E. E. Cunneen in failing to declare Mr. Bedard, republican, elected a grand juror at the annual town meeting in Brooklyn on the first Monday in October. All that is now necessary for Mr. Bedard to qualify is to take the oath of office. The hearing was held before Judge Brown in Norwich on November 4, Attorney E. L. Darbie appearing for Mr. Bedard and Attorney Harry E. Back for the town of Brooklyn.

The particular thing that eventually brought this matter into court was a change in Brooklyn's policy, of years standing, of electing six grand jurors at annual town meetings. This year the warning for the meeting clearly specified that only five would be elected. Mr. Bedard, a candidate on the republican ticket, received a lesser number of votes than five other candidates, republicans and democrats, so Moderator Cunneen did not declare him elected.

In presenting his client's case before Judge Brown Attorney Darbie contended that the town of Brooklyn should have gone on record by vote in a town meeting in favor of reducing the number of grand jurors it would elect from six to five, and having failed to do this that the old arrangement remained valid and that Mr. Bodard should have been declared elected when the moderator announced the results of the annual town meeting last October.

It was indicated today that Mr. Bedard will promptly qualify for the office.

Ice Impedes Traffic

The second ice storm within a week quickly coated highways and sidewalks all through this section with a thin film of ice early this morning and left them as slippery as though they had been greased. Within half an hour after this condition developed motor cars began to pile up along the sides of the trunk line highways and to indulge in antics contributing in no way to the peace of mind of the operators. Yet, up to early this afternoon, by which time traveling conditions had materially improved, no accident of a serious nature had been reported. The dignity of a few local people suffered as they slipped and were seen sprawling on icy going, but as with the cars none of these were reported as seriously injured, except in their feelings.

Here and in Brooklyn, announcement of the death of Mrs. Addie E. Parks, matron of the Windham County Temporary home for children in Putnam, is received with deep regret by the great number of persons who came to know her during the years she was resident in Brooklyn, where for a period of years her husband D. C. Park, was in charge of the county jail.

Many trudged to the office of Personal Tax Collector Arthur A. Dean today to square their assessment accounts against the coming of the final day for paying without having a penalty attached. Early this afternoon there were 1200 men and women of this town who had failed to pay. This is taken as almost certainly pointing to the fact that several hundred of these are due to be penalized at least one dollar, making the tax cost $3 instead of the regular $2, and that no inconsiderable number of the list who delay paying beyond another fixed period of time for doing so will be served with alias warrants, with the cost then running in the neighborhood of $10. Assurance is given that prompt action will be taken to collect all overdue personal taxes.

of the group representing the Methodist Episcopal church. The place of the Bible in Religious Education was the evening's subject for discussion.

About the middle of the coming week Danielson's stores specializing in merchandise especially interesting to holiday shoppers will begin keeping open every evening and will continue this arrangement up to and including Christmas eve. This is in accordance with the custom of other years and for the convenience of many from out of town who cannot come here during the day time. Christmas buying was reported as having been brisk the past two or three days and merchants are encouraged.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Barnett will leave during the coming week for St. Petersburg, Fla., and plain to remain there until March 1.

Rae D. Wood has been appointed administrator of the estate of Daniel Wood, who died a few weeks ago at his home on the Green Hollow road.

That today was Friday, the 13th, was mentioned more frequently than is usually the case of days of such supposedly ominous portent, probably because of the dismal weather conditions and difficult traveling.

When members of Mary A. Livermore tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war hold their meeting Friday of next week, officers for the ensuing year are to be elected.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Irwin, who recently left here by motor for Florida, are now at St. Petersburg. Mr. Irwin was professional golfer at the Putnam Country club during the past season.

Postmaster E. H. Keach said this morning that the incoming tide of Christmas mail matter is beginning to make itself felt. Today's mails brought a considerable number of holiday gift packages.

Miss Katherine A. Nettleton, state regent, and Miss Emeline A. Street, vice-regent, will be guests at a reception arranged in their honor for next Thursday afternoon by members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at the Westfield Congregational church. The hostesses will be Mrs. H. C. Keach, Mrs. L. A. Ingalls, Mrs. Albertus Briggs, Miss Flora Keech, Miss Ada Danielson, Miss Nellie Keech, Mrs. Ida Polhemus and Mrs. Frissell.

Frederick A. Jacobs and Attorney Harry E. Back have been named as a committee of the Westcott and Wilcox Old People's home to arrange for leasing the old Westcott house property at the corner of North Main street and Westcott road. It is understood that there is a prospect of a filling station being developed there.

WAUREGAN

The Wauregan Men's class met at the Company hall Thursday evening when the following officers were installed to serve for the coming year: President, William T. Burns; vice-president, George Robinson; secretary, Hermon Gerschi; treasurer, Stanley Stones; members of the executive committee, Robert J. H. Bethel, Edward Leonard, Joseph Greene; amusement committee, Addison Tracy, John Noble, Elmer Johnson; membership committee, Fred Yates, Albert Schimmelpfenig, David Williams. Supper was served by the Earnest Workers committee, with Mrs. J. Arthur Atwood as chairman, Mrs. Avery, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Bethel, assisting. The speaker of the evening was Justice George E. Hinman, Willimantic. Judge Hinman gave an excellent address on the "Regular Fellow," closing with a poem on this type of man. A guest of the evening was also Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, of Willimantic, who addressed the men. The coming year's work is full of promise and means much to the life of the Congregational church in the village.

The Every-Member canvass of the church will be held this coming Sunday; all the necessary teams for the work are assured, and ready for the task.

Much interest has been shown in the sale of Christmas seals at the grammar school and a large number have been sold.

WOODSTOCK

The 72nd annual meeting of Woodstock Agricultural society was held at Agricultural hall Wednesday. The treasurer's report showed that the fair last September had not been quite so successful as that of the previous year, but the premiums had been paid in full and several improvements along sanitary lines had been made. The following officers were elected: President, Alexander Maitland, Thompson; vice president, J. Otis Fox, Putnam; recording secretary, Wm. H. Gallup, Woodstock; corresponding secretary, H. F. Joy, Woodstock; treasurer, John Wetherbee, Hampton R. F. D.; auditors, G. M. Sampson, Woodstock, E. R. Rollins, Woodstock, C. H. Child, Woodstock; directors, J. S. May, East Woodstock, W. C. Child, Woodstock; G. W. Butts, South Woodstock; L. H. Lindsman, East Woodstock; A. Tourtellotte, Putnam; A. S. Clubbuck, Thompson; W. S. Warren, Eastford; S. H. Peckham, East Woodstock; Geo. E. Whitney, Thompson; E. G. Healey, North Woodstock; H. B. Buell, Eastford; A. H. Amidon, Abington.

Steps were taken to change at the next annual meeting the number of directors to be chosen, also to decide upon a new date for the annual meeting as the present date conflicts with the dates of other meetings which some of the members desire to attend.

At the close of the business session those present adjourned to Masonic hall where the annual oyster dinner was served, under direction of Chef George W. Butts and his able assistants. The society was fortunate in securing as the after dinner speaker S. McLean Buckingham, state commissioner of agriculture, whose topic was "Changes in Marketing Conditions and How Best Producers Can Meet Them." Deputy Commissioner Healey was also present and spoke briefly.

Rev. A. W. Millinger of Raleigh, Mass., supplied the Hill church pulpit Sunday.

The girls' basketball team at Woodstock Academy was victorious over the girls' team from West Warwick, R. I., 19 to 2 last Friday evening. This score was very pleasing to the academy girls as the Rhode Island team is a championship team.

PUTNAM

DR. TETREAULT IS RESTORED TO GOOD STANDING

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 13.—At a session of the superior court held at Willimantic today a judgment was rendered for Dr. Philias E. Tetreault of this city in his appeal from an order from the state department of health revoking his license to practice medicine and surgery in the state. The judgment was in accordance with a stipulation filed with the court by the attorneys in the case.

Under judgment Dr. Tetreault has been fully re-instated to all the rights of a physician and surgeon accorded one of the profession by the statutes of the state of Connecticut. The stipulation is as follows:

"It is hereby stipulated and agreed between parties hereto that the appellant in said case be sustained; that the said Philias E. Tetreault be fully re-instated to the right to practice medicine and surgery in the state of Connecticut; that said appellant is not chargeable with fraud or deceit in obtaining his license to practice medicine in Connecticut; and that the order of the state department of health revoking certificate of registration or license of the appellant to practice medicine in Connecticut be declared void and of no effect."

The stipulation, drawn by Attorney Irving H. Miron, was entered in the court and within a few minutes the judgment re-instating Dr. Tetreault was returned by Judge Yeomans carrying out to full extent the conditions in the order of stipulation.

The case of the state vs. Dr. Tetreault originated on the first Tuesday of March, 1924, when Dr. Tetreault took an appeal to the superior court of Windham county from an order issued by the eclectic board of investigators of the state department of health, suspending his license on grounds that he had procured it through fraudulence and deceit.

The appeal to the court remained on the docket since that date through continuances granted, until today when the case terminated with the judgment. Dr. Tetreault, although suspended from the right to practice, has administered his profession without interruption by right of his appeal before the courts.

Dr. Tetreault is one of the few suspended physicians in the state whose appeals were sustained by court judgments.

When the investigations of the specially appointed eclectic board of the state department of health were under way five years ago, the suspension of several Windham county doctors created widespread comment. Dr. Tetreault was associated with the Middlesex school of medicine, where the eclectic board alleged diplomas had been obtained by students through fraud. The contentions of the board have long since been disproved in the case of Dr. Tetreault, who since coming to Putnam has established a large and successful practice which extends throughout the northern part of the county.

OBITUARY

William Fraser

William Fraser, 69, for many years a resident of this city, died Thursday evening at his home on South Main street, following a protracted illness. Mr. Fraser was born in New Brunswick, Canada, on October 5, 1860, the son of Colin and Jane (Dickens) Fraser. After receiving his education in Canadian schools Mr. Fraser entered the service of the Western Union Telegraph company as a linesman. After several years of service he was assigned to duty as a service maintainer on lines running through this section. His duties terminated here a few short years ago when he was retired on pension. A few months later Mr. Fraser suffered a paralytic stroke which confined him to his bed for many weeks. He did not fully regain his health but recovered to such an extent that his death yesterday came as a shock to his many friends and acquaintances in eastern Windham county. Fraternally, Mr. Fraser was affiliated with the Quinebaug lodge of Masons. Mr. Fraser is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marie Fraser, who for a number of years was manager of the local office of the Western Union.

A rainstorm this morning, coupled with freezing temperature, attired the countryside with a cloak of ice that raised havoc for automobilists. Workers, who drive to their places of employment, were forced to stop along the roadside because of the hazardous condition of the highways. Sidewalks were equally as dangerous as roads and pedestrians took every precaution to avoid the possibility of slipping to the pavement, and despite undue care many were seen to go down at the most unsuspecting moment. A late report from the police department tonight indicated that no serious automobile accidents had taken place during the day. The ambulance of the Day Kimball hospital was prepared and held in readiness for any emergency call but the day passed without a casualty occurring which required its services. Sand trucks of the state highway department were manned with additional crews this morning in order to eliminate the ice danger as much as possible and minimize the danger of serious and fatal accidents.

A week has passed since the police commission instructed members of the police department to suppress parking conditions on principal thoroughfares of the city, and since the date of the order no arrests have been necessitated. Captain of Police William Jarvis is highly elated by the co-operation of the motoring public. Public adherence to the publication of traffic regulations has been so great that only in a few instances have the police had to call drivers attention to violations.

Charles T. Thayer, who is Putnam's superintendent of the fire alarm system lays a claim to be managing head of the most penetrating fire warning systems in the state. He even broaders his boast (in which fire officials believe he is justified) to southern New England. Supt. "Cholly" Thayer comes to the defense of his charge only when he is certain in his own mind that he is justified and in this particular instance no one will dispute the testimony of two reputable citizens of the city of Willimantic that the sounding of an alarm in this city is auditable in Windham county's thread center 30 miles distant. Wednesday morning a fire in the north end was reason for an alarm from Box 43. Atmosperic and weather conditions were such at this early hour that sound waves penetrated the ether with remarkable rapidity, according to Chief Thurston's calculations of ratio in proportion, and the beaoning sounds were intercepted by Eugene H. Lafleur at his residence in Columbia Green, a brief space of time after the city's two heroes of peace had been routed from their bunks in the central station. Mr. Lafleur called Supt. Thayer's attention to the fact that he was aware of Putnam's fire long before many of the call men here experienced the dire ordeal of braving zero weather to witness a chimney fire. After Supt. "Cholly" related his interesting story many of the firemen colleagues absorbed the details as a myth—but believe it or not Putnam's guardians of property—four church bells, tell their tales of woe and destruction to inhabitants of Willimantic, thirty miles away and what's more Supt. Thayer who maintains an incessant vigil over the system of fire warning, is proud of its vibratory faculties and isn't afraid to tell the world about it.

Reconstruction of the city water system began a few weeks ago has stopped because of adverse weather conditions, Ralph E. Thurston, chairman of the board of water commissioners, said yesterday. Trees and brush on the water company's plot of land on Oak hill where the large standpipe is to be erected, have been cleared away and everything is in readiness to proceed with the construction of the foundation of the tank as soon as favorable weather conditions are received.

LISBON

Last Friday evening, was artists' night at Lisbon grange. There were vocal solos by Mrs. George Beckwith, of Franklin grange, and Miss Alice Abrahamson, of Preston grange; harmonica and Jew's harp duets, by Miss Mary Lewis and Clayton Lewis, of Pachaug grange, and readings by Frank T. Maples, of Norwich grange. At the next meeting there will be a Christmas program and tree.

The meeting of Lisbon Community club Wednesday evening opened with a selection by the Lisbon orchestra, then all joined in singing Hark the Herald Angels Sing, the orchestra accompanying. The Virginia Reel was put on by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades of the Center school. A group of carols was sung by the upper grade pupils, with Myrtle Schmidt at the piano. Then followed recitation, Christmas Bells, Raymond Helmboldt; song, Jingle Bells, Doris Weller and Arlene Krauss, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. George Weller; recitation, Christmas Carol, Ralph Leupold; recitation, Christmas Day, Harry Kaempffe. Santa Claus then arrived and after warming himself at the fireplace on the stage greeted the children and distributed the gifts which were placed about a beautifully decorated tree. Each child also received a box of candy. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the refreshment committee. The program was announced by George Helmboldt, chairman. Santa Claus was impersonated by George Herrman. There was an attendance of about 250.

Word has been received by friends of the Panovec family who lived in the northern part of the town for a number of years that their son, Franklin Panovec, of Easton, Pa., died recently, leaving a wife and small child. He was on the police force.

VOLUNTOWN

As a result of a slight disturbance at a dance in Union hall Friday night, two Glasgo young men were before Justice of the Peace George B. Sheldon on charges of breach of the peace and intoxication. On pleading guilty each was assessed a fine of $5.00 and costs of $11.10, a total of $16.10, which they paid. Grand Juror McDonald prosecuted, Constable St. John made the arrests.

The assessors have recently been spending some time looking over property in various parts of the town.

The first real hold-up and robbery in Voluntown took place Monday afternoon when two men entered the roadside store near Potter's bridge on the Beach Pond road, kept by John Oldershaw, ostensibly to purchase cigarettes. When Mr. Oldershaw went to make change for their purchase they attacked him and after beating him up got away with $56 in cash; they made their get-away in a car which they had parked near the bridge. The state police were notified at once.

A small twine factory has leased a portion of the Yellow mill and has installed machinery and expects to start work on Monday next.

The American Felt Co. has commenced to move machinery to their plant in the Yellow mill building, which they purchased from the Briggs Mfg. Co. last fall, and will commence to install the machinery at once. Men have been at work for several weeks, preparing the mill for the reception of the machinery.

Wednesday morning, another light blanket of snow covered the ground, making bad traveling for autoists and pedestrians. The brief snowstorm was followed by another cold wave.

Workmen of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. have been engaged during the week, putting cross arms on the electric light poles which they have recently set up in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ray, of Lisbon, called on friends in town Sunday.

RATIFYING DEBT AGREEMENTS

For the most part the United States has concluded arrangements with other countries for the payment of their war debts. It was some time ago that the negotiations carried on between this country and France resulted in an agreement being reached whereby France would pay to this country a sum totaling over $4,000,000,000 over a period of 62 years. This agreement was ratified by France during the past summer, after a long delay and by a small majority, and in his recent message to congress President Hoover recommended its approval.

There has been a strong desire on the part of this country to get this debt adjusted. In our negotiations with the respective countries there has been taken under consideration the ability of the governments to pay and on that basis, with the conclusion of the agreement with France and the completion of the plan that has been proposed to Austria, there will be only the debts of Russia and Armenia that will remain unsettled.

In connection with debt adjustments there have always been those who have insisted upon full payment with interest, quite the same as there have been those who have advocated the cancellation of all the debts. They represent the extremes and it is recognized that neither side can win. The policy of the government has not been to get blood from a turnip. It has not insisted upon a Shylock settlement. It has shown itself ready to compromise on the basis of ability to pay and those are the terms surrounding the French agreement, though there are those in France who are insisting it is too high quite the same as there are those here who maintain that it is too low.

The action of the house in ratifying the agreement by nearly two and a half votes to one should be followed by speedy action in the senate, where the finance committee has already made a favorable report. But when the senate will get to it or what it will do with it remains to be found out. It has gotten to a point now, however, where there ought not to be any needless delay or any waste of time in coming to a vote. It is well to bear in mind what has been said in the past over the delay by France.

RADIO DEVELOPMENTS

In the short space of 28 years radio has undergone a marked development. This week marked the anniversary of Marconi's test which proved that signals could be sent across the Atlantic through the air. He accomplished it over the shortest distance when he stationed himself on Sentry hill, at St. John's, Newfoundland, and heard the letter S as sent from a station in England. But it proved what he was after. His contention was upheld and since that time developments have been coming thick and fast.

Not only is trans-Atlantic radio a common thing these days, but even longer distances are covered, and all over this country listeners were able to hear Marconi's message on the 28th anniversary as he talked over the ocean. They not only heard his account of his early efforts but they heard his prophecy that power might be transmitted through the air in the not-distant future.

Some may be skeptical of such a development. There was plenty of skepticism during the early days of the Marconi experiments, but so much has been accomplished since that time that most people hesitate today to doubt that success will follow some of the seemingly impossible claims.

It was only just preceding this 28th anniversary of sending a wireless message westward across the Atlantic that it was proved that it was possible to talk by telephone from the shore to a vessel 200 miles away. At that time the claim was made that it would probably be possible in time to accomplish this over a distance of 1,500 miles. So many marvelous things have been done with the radio that there is no disposition to laugh at that as wild and irresponsible. Improvements and betterments are being made almost daily. This is displayed in the home radio equipment, so much so that it gets out of date almost from year to year. That being the case, there are good reasons for believing that we face a steady and wonderful development in the years to come. Science has produced much but there is nothing to indicate that there is any likelihood that there will be an exhaustion of its possibilities.

TOO MUCH CODDLING

According to the acting warden at Auburn prison, where the riot took place this week, the trouble was the result of too much coddling. That isn't the only theory that is held, and perhaps one opinion is as good as another in this respect, but it was at Auburn that so much effort was spent in connection with welfare work among the prisoners and the climax seems to have been reached in two outbreaks within a period of a few months.

It is, of course, impossible to judge all of the prisoners by a few. There were the leaders in both of the riots who forced the others to participate but the claim has been made that it is such leaders who have put themselves in control of welfare organizations and direct activities there quite the same as in more desperate moments. It doesn't indicate that the show of greater leniency produces a more satisfied body of prisoners. The more that is obtained the more that is wanted and, strange as it may seem, conditions in the prison appear to have been such during both outbreaks that it was possible for the leaders to so control the situation as to back up their demands by death-dealing weapons.

What the investigations that are underway will reveal will be disclosed in time but it is apparent that with desperate characters able to take command of the situation there isn't much prospect of insuring the proper protection of the public through greater leniency and more coddling. It wasn't new prisons and better food that those leaders at Auburn wanted. It was their freedom. They were long-time prisoners, some sentenced for life, and it seems clear that they should have been surrounded with conditions which would have made it impossible for them to start any such thing. We have gotten to a fine state of affairs if desperate criminals of that character are going to tell the state of New York what kind of penalties they are going to pay or not going to pay.

One demonstration of that kind at Auburn was more than should have been possible. The second most certainly calls for measures that will make others impossible and that doesn't mean by providing the prisoners with clubrooms or by cutting in two the penalties which have been applied.

YOUR AUTO REGISTRATION

When the motor vehicle department calls the attention of the motorists of Connecticut to the fact that all state-owned motor vehicles must have 1930 registration plates on and after Jan. 1, it can be noted by the calendar that that leaves only a little more than two weeks to secure them, if you have not already done so.

That considerable part of the auto owners who desire to retain their numbers from year to year have already looked after this matter. Many others have forwarded their applications and gotten their plates but it will be surprising if the majority hasn't neglected to do anything about it as yet.

There is always a disposition to put such things off until the last minute and then there is an 11th hour rush with many certain to be disappointed. That is one of the reasons why a distribution of this work over a larger number of stations through the establishment of sub-stations in every city of the state would help greatly to relieve the confusion and increase the accommodation to the auto owners.

Unable to get that thus far, the next easiest method is to mail the application, which doesn't have to be sworn to this year, to the motor vehicle department at Hartford and your markers by mail. There should be a large force to take care of the emergency demand during the remaining days of the year, but it is obvious that there is little or no excuse for further delay, while there is a decided advantage in putting your application in so that it will not be caught in the jam on the last few days and remain unreached and unfilled when the closing time comes.

AMBASSADOR CASTLE

While the post of ambassador to Japan is always an important one it is particularly so at this time with the London conference soon to open.

This is fully appreciated by President Hoover and it is reflected in his nomination of William R. Castle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, for that post. Mr. Castle hasn't qualifications which fit him for that place more than others except that he is in close touch with the policies of the administration and the attitude which has been taken leading up to the conference. Thus Mr. Castle will be able to give a clear and prompt interpretation at Tokio of our views as progress is made at London.

It will be only a few days now before the Japanese delegation will be at Washington for the purpose of getting first-hand information relative to the efforts that are underway. It takes this way of getting certain facts established before the conference opens and at such conferences as are held at Washington Mr. Castle will be in attendance. Thereafter, he will soon be required to leave for Japan, since he is scheduled to reach Tokio just prior to the opening of the conference.

While Japan will be in close touch with its representatives at Washington the importance of having the ambassadorship to Japan filled while such a conference is underway can be readily appreciated. This will provide a contact at Tokio that must of necessity be valuable in ascertaining the reaction of Japan to whatever is advocated or done at London and in making it possible for Japan to quickly clear up points that may not be fully understood. That Mr. Castle is equipped to meet the requirements is sufficiently evidenced by his appointment.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Ever since chemistry became a practical science, much has been said about the value of snow. The amount of the first storm is large enough to raise some questions in regard to its importance. Upon this matter science has somewhat modified its former position as to its fertilizing value. And the fact of its keeping the earth warm is not now regarded as a very important asset. In fact it is questioned in some quarters whether it has any value along this distinctive line. If the earth is frozen when it falls it will stay frozen till it melts. The effect of snow upon the atmosphere is vastly more essential than its action on the soil. The snowflake with its thousand spangles filtrating through the atmosphere has the tendency to gather many floating microbes that are better taken care of by the snowflake, than by the respiatory organs of man.

The growing uneasiness of farmers on the uplands in regard to the increasing scarcity of water is taking on a serious aspect with some show of reason. As recently pointed out in these notes that winter rarely sets in without having the springs fully provided for, yet we cannot avoid two obvious facts: First, winter has set in, and, secondly, the earth is frozen. One has sympathy with the farmer with over 40 head of cattle to provide for, who needs all the time of an extra man to haul water for his stock. This is only one man in our vicinity who has to do this and probably similar conditions prevail on all farms on the hills. One has noticed recently that not only farmers but manufacturers as well on smaller streams are in a similar predicament. And yet we need not have sleepless nights over the situation.

Much is said in the Bible about "coming to," "going up," and being "led" to the hills and mountains, also rocks and other elevations are referred to as places where the eye can have unobstructive vision. The Jews of the Old Testament seemed to have a great affection for the "high places." This probably came from the fact that their native Palestine was—for the most part—a hilly country, and every one of those hills was precious in their sight because it had some connection with divine revelation. Mankind will never fail to look up to Sinai where Moses once stood or to Nebo where he departed. The eyes of the civilized world will never cease to look up to Carmel with its mighty Elijah, and when we turn to the New Testament we see Olivet standing forth in its eternal glory. Who can forget the Mount of Transfiguration and especially Calvary?

Statements are being made by platform speakers and by the press of the country in regard to constitutional prohibition. Probably no one admits—certainly no sane person—that prohibition thus far has been an unqualified success, whatever may have been the cause or causes. But some of the arguments used by platform speakers against its constitutionality will "hardly hold water." Is it a fact that the federal government insulted the sovereign rights of the states when the act was written into the Constitution as a part of the organic law of the land? After the act had passed both branches of the government, was it not submitted to each of the 48 states for action? Was not the sovereign will of the American people well represented when 45 of them voted for its adoption and only three against it? As we go by majorities the act was legally adopted.

The means of illuminating our homes and streets has passed through very many gradations within the memory of men now living. But the triumph seems to have been reached when 50 years ago Edison's incandescent lamp capped the climax in this direction. After the passage of half a century since this invention was made, we are apt to forget the amazement of the American people when its probability was realized. We must bear in mind that 50 years ago, and to a large extent, now, the rank and file of people found it almost impossible to realize the difference between combustion in the open air and incandescence in a vacuum. "Why wasn't the charred paper used up as a film destroyed?" was asked by men and women not usually set down as boneheads. But cotton was later used in the place of charred paper. On that eventful day, in 1879, there was a smile on the tired, drawn face of Edison when triumph came to his years of effort.

A new method of education is suggested in the October Scientific Monthly, which has this to say: "The first fact of the situation is, that if you should see an ox-cart, a covered wagon, a day coach, a Pullman express, and an airplane coupled together behind one engine, you would have a fairly just picture of the average American college. The engine is the college professor pulling, tugging and puffing away trying to pull all this conglomerate assortment of vehicles along at the same speed. And there are three distinct tragedies that result." Then the writer goes on to enumerate them. In the first place the professor is actually succeeding in moving this singular mass. Secondly, he seems to be proud of it, and thirdly, instead of traveling at the aeroplane speed as the professor thinks, the whole train is going but a little better than the ox-cart speed.

An article has recently appeared by the director of health education of New York, Frederick Rand Rogers, that is arousing much favorable comment, and that is the present status of college sports. The question is put very squarly whether or not these games are becoming too much commercialized. Are they not assuming too much of a major function in college life? Of course, the major baseball leagues outside of college, are professional. The game itself is the one and only thing for which they are organized and conducted. Games in college are, or at least ought to be, on an entirely different basis; the game ought to be played for its recreational value only. Dr. Rogers is justified in his main criticisms of the dangers of injury by the roughness of football. His allusion to Booth, of Yale, and Marsters, of Dartmouth, who were seriously injured during the present season. The writer, by this article, is justly attracting wide attention.

There is nothing the present generation stands in greater need of than vision. We all of us need to be led "up to the hills whence cometh our help." There is no class of writers that exert a more powerful influence on their own and succeeding generations, than the men of vision. In Old Testament times what tremendous influence did the major prophets exert! They rose like mountain peaks above the rank and file of lesser hills. The great Elijah made kings and princes look like puppets. A whole nation trembled when the imperial Isaiah foretold the doom of those who forgot God. It was the heart cry of a Babylonian captive who said: "Lead me to the rock that is higher than I; not "carry me to the "rock," but "lead" me, for I am willing to pay the price of "ascending the hill of the Lord, if I can only have the vision." The men who have made history and gained immortality are those who have caught the vision.

THAMESVILLE OWES MUCH TO OLD OLD WATER BORNE MOLASSES TRADE.

A newly received budget of correspondence sent to The Bulletin by the Associated Press contains an item which brings vividly to mind the days of 50 years ago and more, when Norwich was an important shipping point in the molasses trade. By far the largest local factor in this trade then was the great Norwich firm of J. M. Huntington and company. To the senior partner, James Monroe Huntington, more than to any other one man, Thamesville, in Norwich, owes its origin.

The Associated Press item is as follows:

"NEW ORLEANS—Almost as important to the American revolution as the flintlock and saber, old fashioned 'Orleens' molasses is pointing again for a place in the country's economic structure.

"H. S. Paine, chemist in charge of the carbohydrate division, bureau of chemistry and soils at Washington, cites a great revival of interest in the golden sugary molasses once found in hogsheads and carrels in every village grocery store and predicts a return of the 'molasses boat' to the Atlantic seaboard.

"Manufactured from Louisiana and Florida sugar cane, the molasses took its name from the fact that it was shipped chiefly from New Orleans. Until recent times, sailing schooners crawling up the coast to New York and Boston with their holds stacked full of barreled molasses were a common sight.

"In colonial days molasses was one of the major articles of commerce. John Adams, the second president of the United States quoting George Washington, wrote:

"'General Washington always asserted and proved that Virginians loved molasses as well as New Englanders did. I know not why we should blush to confess that molasses was an essential ingredient in American independence. Many great events have proceeded from much smaller causes.'

"Paine ascribes the falling off in production of old fashioned molasses as due large.y to improvements in the manufacture of sugar and the consequent greater exhaustion of sugar from molasses, leaving a rather bitter tasting product.

"However, he says, the manufacture of direct consumption sugars on the plantation still yields as a byproduct the sweet grades of molasses which are of fancy quality, besides the 'blackstrap' molasses or final product of raw cane sugar manufacture as practiced in Cuba.

"The bureau of chemistry and soils has established a field laboratory at Houma, La., in the heart of the Louisiana sugar cane belt, to improve methods of clarifying cane juice.

"Clarification, Paine says, is an important step preliminary to recovering sugar from the juice and practically determines the quality of the sugar and molasses obtained.

"Bakers and confectioners already have increased their output of molasses products in the form of cakes and candies. Many bakers are introducing molasses into wholewheat bread, as was done by the colonial housewife.

"One large molasses company on the eastern seaboard again contemplates bringing full schooner cargoes into New York and Boston."

However, though a revived waterborne trade in molasses may mean millions to other Atlantic ports, probably it will never again occupy the position in the commerce of Norwich that it did in the days of J. M. Huntington and company. In those days Norwich, as the railhead of the Norwich and Worcester railroad, was a terminal port just as much as were Boston and New York. Today Boston and New York are still terminal ports; but Norwich is just a way station. The construction of additional steam lines and the improvement in connections following the acquisition of the N. & W., by the New Haven road, have entirely done away with the necessity of trans-shipping through freight at this point. These changes in the relative importance of Norwich as a transportation center were however, far in the future when the firm of J. M. Huntington and company was a great factor in the molasses trade.

The history of this firm's growth is really a history of J. M. Huntington himself. Mr. Huntington was a native of Norwich, great-grandson of Gen. Jabez Huntington. He commenced his business career as a clerk in the drug business of A. F. Gilman. In 1837, when but 20 years old, he was admitted as partner, and in 1840, when Mr. Gilman retired, he formed a new partnership with Jedediah Leavens. In 1846, Mr. Leavens retired and the new firm of J. M. Huntington and company came into existence with Theodore Raymond and J. M. Meech as the other partners. Mr. Meech retired in 1850, and it was the two remaining partners who guided the fortunes of the firm in the years of its greatest prosperity.

Meantime Norwich had risen to the position of a terminal port through the construction of the Norwich & Worcester railroad, which was begun in 1835, and finished in 1840. The additional transportation facilities for through freight that the railroad offered provided J. M. Huntington and company with opportunities for tremendous expansion that they were quick to seize.

In 1856, the firm bought the Cold Spring Iron works in the Thamesville section; and the rapid upbuilding of the neighborhood dates from that time. Later these iron works were to be sold to Mitchell brothers; but just then they were used by the Huntington firm in connection with the shipbuilding plant which it established in Thamesville for the construction of a fleet to carry molasses and other West Indian merchandise.

In all, Huntington and company built 11 craft, 9 of which were steamers, their facilities enabling them to fabricate not only the hulls but the entire machinery. Three of these steamers, the Uncas, the Norwich and the Whirlwind, were in government service during the Civil war.

Better to care for its West India business, the firm also owned a wharf and a bonded warehouse at New London. The Whirlwind, in its service, was the first American merchant steamer ever to touch at Porto Rico, which was then a Spanish possession. The vessel made a trip entirely around the island, putting in at every accessible port.

Besides conducting a great West India business, in which, of course, its molasses trade was a very important item, the firm also operated the keystone line of passenger and freight steamers between Providence and Philadelphia. This line, established in 1866, was sold in 1872, to the Boston and Philadelphia Steamship company and was subsequently operated as under the name of Windsor's line. In addition to touching at these regular ports of call, the Huntington firm's vessels transacted business at some time or other in every port of importance from Newfoundland to Mexico.

As a side line the firm held a contract for transacting all the coal business over the Norwich and Worcester railroad, with an extensive yard and business at Worcester. This contract was in existence from 1852 to 1858.

Individually Mr. Huntington was a large factor in cotton and woolen manufacturing from the infancy of the industry in eastern Connecticut up to the commencement of the Civil war. More than that, he was also heavily interested in an important manufacturing establishment at Worcester, which, during the Civil war, furnished the machinery for all or nearly all the arsenals in the north.

Mr. Huntington died Nov. 17, 1874. The preponderance of his firm in this section as an importer of sugar and molasses is indicated by the fact that in the following year, out of $85,250 of customs dues paid at New London, $34,360 was paid as duties on these commodities brought in from Porto Rico, during 1875, by J. M. Huntington and company.

The business was continued by Mr. Raymond, who had been associated as clerk and partner with Mr. Huntington for 37 years. Jonathan Trumbull, who had been in the employ of the firm for many years, became the junior partner and in 1883, Mr. Raymond's eldest son, George, was admitted. At the time of Theodore Raymond's death which occurred on May 15, 1883. It was reported that the house did a larger importing business than any firm in the state east of New Haven. But trade channels were changing; the Norwich and Worcester was declining in relative importance as a carrier of through freight; and as the Norwich and Worcester declined, so also did the importing and commission-shipping firm of J. M. Huntington and company. In a few years more the name of the firm was a memory, and the railroad became only the Norwich and Worcester division of the New Haven system.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON Dec. 13—There was drama, and a touch of the tragedy of disappointed hopes, about the scene in the senate when William Scott Vare and William Bauchop Wilson, both of Pennsylvania, were turned away from membership in that body by overwhelming votes.

Both are old men as politicians go. Vare 62, Wilson 67. Both are political veterans; both of humble birth. And to each, doubtless, the thought of rounding out his career in the senate has been alluring.

Had party lines held fast on each side of the senate chamber, either man might have been seated. They were that close to attaining their dream.

Yet each heard the mounting total of votes, that excluded him from the senate, then turned to leave sadly.

Vanquished

Vare sat in stoical quiet on the front row center seat of the republican side of the chamber, flanked by his attending physician, as the voting began.

Wilson, round and chubby of face and with a tousled mass of curly hair now almost white, glowered over a public gallery rail on his democratic colleagues below.

And just as the last vote had been recorded on the resolution slamming the door of the senate in Vare's face, as Vice President Curtis reached for the slip that bore the result and prepared to make the announcement that terminated the Pennsylvanian's brief and stormy connection with the senate, Vare thrust himself to his feet.

He went tottering to the door, bent over his cane, amid utter silence. Not until the barrier swing behind him and his doctor did Mr. Curtis announce the vote.

From his gallery seat Wilson looked down upon the scene. His moment had come. The man who had beaten him at the polls was swept off the stage.

If the democrats below rallied to his support, Wilson might have been junior senator from Pennsylvania in another moment, for a few of the irregular republicans from the west were for him.

Another Hope Gone

But only a handful of democratic stalwarts took that course. By a vote even more overwhelming than that which banished Vare, Wilson's contest for the seat was rejected. And then Wilson, stooped of shoulder, fought his way up the stairs out of the gallery against a tide of newcomers rushing in to hear the tariff debate resumed.

Two things about the Vare and Wilson votes impressed themselves upon the Bystander particularly.

One was the largely non-partisan finding in each case. The other was the size of the vote against Vare and the fact that many a usually regular republican found it expedient to oppose his claim to his seat.

With the Newberry and Smith cases still echoing, it seems clear that the senate is moved by some great force to go beyond specific constitutional provisions in judging qualifications of its members.

Is it the voice of public opinion to which the senators harken?

English Like Their 'Obbies

LONDON—It's a rare Englishman who has no hobby, and the politicians are no exception.

Jack Hayes, the ex-policeman who became vice chamberlain of the king's household when the labor party came into power, is an amateur horticulturist in his spare time. He raises red carnations, and wears one to work every day.

Oliver Baldwin, the son of the former prime minister, runs a chicken farm in Oxfordshire when his parliamentary duties are not pressing.

Sir Charles Trevelyan, president of the board of education, is a crack shot with a rifle and delights in playing war games, although his political career has been characterized by ardent advocacy of peace.

Miss Edith Picton-Turbervill, M. P. for the Wrekin division of Salop, confesses archery is her hobby. She won the amateur championship of South Wales with her bow and arrow before her election to the house of commons.

Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, has been widely written about and photographed as the statesman who loves to lay bricks, but he also is a landscape painter.

David Lloyd George, the liberal leader, runs a model farm in Surrey. His daughter Megan, who also is a member of the house of commons, raises flowers.

One of the most exclusive hobbies in the entire field of politics, however, belongs to Arthur Michael Samuel, former financial secretary to the treasury. He is an ardent ichthyologist whose pet particular subject is the red herring.

However, the disadvantage was overcome to some extent at the premiere of Douglas Fairbanks' and Mary Pickford's latest opus. London's most moving-picturesque artist, Curtis Moffat, whose studio is as bizarre as anything of the kind in Hollywood, was commissioned to produce effigies of five stars for whom the theatre's two boxes had been reserved.

Moffat's studio itself would have been an interesting exhibit. It used to be a mansion of the Georgian period. Now part of it has been converted to the deck of a ship, with boat davits, ventilators and all the other maritime trappings. Below-deck is a modernistic bar, the ceiling of which is a glass tank full of goldfish.

A crusade against cocktails has been launched by the university authorities at Oxford.

Drinking of a little mild sherry before dinner will not be frowned upon in the colleges, but the cocktail parties which have become so popular among the undergraduates have been put on the official blacklist.

"American cocktail parties in Oxford," explained one member of the faculty, "have started a decline in the formerly vigorous life of the university."

Sunday Morning Talk

Perfect Peace

That is the secret of peace which the prophets made reveal God keep us. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace" The Bible everywhere teaches this truth of the divine teaching as of all true security and confidence. There is no other keeping that really avails. Of ourselves, when in deep trouble, we are so helpless, there is no refuge. It is when God is our refuge and strength that we can say, "therefore will not we fear, though the earth do change, and though the mountain be shaken into the hearts of the seas." There is a story of a saintly man who desired that the only epitaph on his grave should be the word "Kept." This word contained the whole history of his life. In one of the psalms the lesson is written out for us in full. "The Lord is thy keeper." "He that keepeth thee will not slumber." It is God who keeps us—it is God alone who can keep us—in perfect peace.

Our peace can never be more secure than that on which it depends. Only God is eternal, the same yesterday and today and forever, and only when we rest in God and trust in Him can we have a peace which cannot be disturbed. "Trust ye in the Lord forever; for in the Lord Jehovah is an everlasting rock, a rock of ages." When we are held in the clasp of His love, we are safe, for He is omipotent and our refuge is secure.

We have the same teaching concerning diving keeping in a passage in one of the epistles of St. Paul, in which he gives us the secret of peace. The peace of God "shall guard your hearts and your thoughts in Christ Jesus." The figure in military men sleep in quiet confidence in their tents, in the darkest nights, in time of war, because sentinels wake and watch through the darkness.

God keeps guard over us. His infinite and eternal peace will guard us and keep us in the shelter of His own quiet calm.

Rickets Prevention

By J. Victor Greenebaum, M. D
Cincinnati, Ohio
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Rickets is a nutritional disease with its gross manifestations appearing in the bones. The condition has been recognized for over three hundred years, but even today the exact cause of the disease has not been discovered.

The most widely accepted explanation of its cause is based on the theory that lack of ultra violet rays of the sun produces the condition. Investigators throughout the world have found the disease to exist almost everywhere, but most frequently in the temperate zones.

Many fond and careful parents have been shocked and distressed to have the diagnosis of rickets made on their babies when they believed them to be doing nicely. Fortunately the signs found at this age are only early manifestations of the disease, which can easily be cured. Could anything have been done to prevent its appearance? With the newer knowledge of rickets gained by experimentation during the past ten years this question can be answered in the affirmative.

Many investigators have attempted to prevent this disease by putting the pregnant mother on a special diet, or by giving her cod liver oil, or by ultra violet radiation, but without complete success. Animal experiments seem to have proven that this disease can be prevented in the offspring, but there is no definite proof that this can be done in humans, although proper dietary measures and other procedures will influence the degree of rickets in the offspring. Her investigators have begun anti-rachitic measures during the first month of infancy with the use of cod liver oil, ultra violet rays of the sun, and especial lamps and the newly discovered irradiated ergosterol that is now on the market. These investigators have achieved considerable success by these methods provided they are begun early and continue throughout infancy. Well developed rickets can be demonstrated in the bones of a large percentage of babies during the first two months of life, showing that the factors producing the condition are operative as soon as the baby is born. If, however, anti-rachitic measures are begun early, that is, before one month of age, the appearance of rickets can be prevented. It is hoped that the use of the preventive measures against rickets will become as general, and as successful, as is the use of orange and vegetable juices in the campaign for the elimination of scurvy. Just be sure that your doctor keeps a close eye on the baby, so that neither rickets nor any other ailment gets a strong hold.

Jane, who often visited grandmother, noticed that mother always took the egg shells back to grandmother for the chickens. Ready to leave one day, mother happened to think of the shells. "Oh, we're forgetting the egg shells," she said.

"That's right mother, take 'em back and let 'em fill 'em up again," said Jane.

Leg "Gone."

Seth, past seven years old, his Aunt Alice and Estelle, her close friend, were up in the garret looking at an old piano. The stay was long. Seth grew tired and went to sleep in an old chair. It was dark when auntie and her friend were ready to leave the garret, and they forgot all about Seth. Later they called him and he answered:

It was his first experience of a foot going to sleep.

She:
I adore French pastry! . . .
Now, which one shall I take?
I love this ducky chocolate one—
It looks so much like cake.

And that one—oh, I'm simply wild
To try that kind again.
I had one like it yesterday
When I was here with Ken.

But cocoanut is fattening—
I mustn't, any more.
Oh, here's a rather luscious one
With three plums—no; there's four.

Still, sometimes plus are sour.
I'd try this custard one,
Except that eating custard—well
It simply isn't done.

This absolutely gorgeous one,
All lovely juice and crust!
I'd take it in a minute,
But mother said I must.

Be careful not to get a spot
On my new velvet dress,
For velvet spots just terribly,
I'll give it up, I guess.

In favor of this marshmallow,
A perfect little puff—
But after all, perhaps I shan't
Quite relish such sweet stuff.

This one has almond, did you say?
And this one caramel?
I'll hurry up and pick out one—
It is so hard to tell.

Here's one with icing roses; I Believe I'll just choose that—
But still, for these new slinky lines,
One doesn't dare get fat.

Oh, see this sweet pinapple—
Say, after all, I'll try
That yummy one of chocolate.
He:
Piece of apple pie.

Somber Beauty

The sumach fruit is a faded ember
Under the cope of a dreary sky;
On a gust of the bleak November
The milkweed down is drifting by.

Sway the pines and lean the larches
To the plaintive notes of a piper's tune;
Russet leaves through the forest arches
Dance in a dizzy rigadoon.

To the haven of no returning
Goes the year upon drooping wing.
But still there bides to the eye discerning
Beauty in even the somber thing.

Miss Alice Satterlee accompanying at the piano, and the devotions were led by Mrs. George H. Wright. Roll call and minutes of the last meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Morton E. Crawford. A special thank offering, voted at the last meeting, was taken by the treasurer, Mrs. Courtland E. Colver. It was voted to purchase a new book on devotions for use in the meetings. A temperance article, Captain Robert Dollar on Prohibition, was read by the temperance secretary, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins. Selections from the third chapter, Are You a Victim of the Caste Delusion? from the study book, Blind Spots, were given by Mrs. Colver, and articles, The Other Side and Ethel Harpst Home, were read by Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt. Mrs. Crawford was in charge of the missionary enigmas and presented the numbers on Christmas cards. The auxiliary was invited to meet with Mrs. R. I. Hurlbutt for the next session and it was decided to hold the meeting at 2 o'clock in place of 2:30. The program will be arranged by Mrs. Emil Gunuskey. The hostess served cocoa, pineapple-rice and cake, Mrs. Harold and Miss Matilda Harold assisting. Fifteen members and four visitors were in attendance.

William and John McManus, of New York, visited their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Davidson, of the Stoddard district, over the week end.

C. V. NEW LOCOMOTIVES MAKING FREIGHT RECORD

The ten new freight locomotives of the 700 class on the Central Vermont railway, the 2-10-4 type of 89,900 pounds tractive effort and the largest in freight service in New England at present, have completed 275,552 miles of operation since Jan. 1, 1929, with stops at intermediate terminals only five times for minor repairs. Mechanical Superintendent H. T. Newell has reported to Receivers G. A. Gaston and J. W. Redmond.

This performance Mr. Newell said in his report "is unique in New England" and "constitutes an unbeatable record for the 268 trips made."

The locomotives, which have a capacity of hauling trains of 7,875 tons on the level and 3,000 tons on mountain grades, have been in operation since the first of the year, running from St. Albans to Belleville, Ont., a distance of 258 miles, at which point they are turned and operate from Belleville to White River Junction, 376 miles, and then again at White River Junction they are turned and run to St. Albans where they are held off for terminal attention, making a total mileage from home terminal to home terminal of 751.5 miles. This operation is reported by Mr. Newell as being the longest and most successful freight run of any New England road.

MONTVILLE BAPTIST CHURCH ACCEPTS PASTOR'S RESIGNATION

The resignation of Rev. Edward L. Nield as pastor of the Montville Baptist church, was accepted with regret Thursday evening at a church meeting. Rev. Mr. Nield declined to reconsider his resignation, stating that he though it best for the parish to accept it. He has a call to another church. The parishioners extended him a letter of commendation for his work in the parish.

OBITUARY
Charles H. Boyens

Complications brought on by advanced years caused the death of Charles H. Boyens Thursday night, about 11:15 o'clock at his home, No. 511 Main street. Mr. Boyens had been in failing health for three years and for the past month had been in a very weak condition.

Mr. Boyens was the son of the late Daniel and Mary A. Boyens and was born in Thompson, Conn., July 8, 1847. When he was a small child his parents moved to a farm in Lisbon where he attended the Lisbon schools. He assisted his father until early manhood and for 17 years was employed as station agent at the Versailles railroad station on the Providence division. For the next 33 years he was employed by the Totokett Manufacturing Co., resigning about 18 months ago as overseer of the outside work, because of poor health.

He was a charter member of Mt. Vernon lodge of Jewett City. Mr. Boyens was twice married. His first wife was Mary E. Boyens, of Lisbon, with whom he was united in marriage in 1871. Of this union a son and daughter survive, Frank Boyens of Norwich and Mrs. Elviva Bromley of Lisbon. Mrs. Boyens died in 1908 and on September 20, 1912, he was united in marriage with Mrs. Alida Bird of Spring Valley, N. Y. She survives him, and there are also a sister, Mrs. Ezra Bennett of Norwich, four grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Boyens was a man of fine character and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a lover of nature and of outdoor life and had a wide reputation as a judge of hunting dogs. His numerous friends deeply regret his passing and extend heartfelt sympathy to the family.

Mrs. George R. Swaney

Mrs. Etta P. Swaney, wife of George Robert Swaney, died late Thursday at her home in the Mile Creek section of Old Lyme. She was 71 years old.

Mrs. Swaney was born at Old Lyme, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Mitchell, and had always resided there. She was a member of the Methodist church in the Black Hall section of Old Lyme.

Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by a son, Ernest Swaney of Black Hall.

Miss Mildred Chapman

Miss Mildred Chapman, who had resided most of her life in Montville, died Wednesday at Brattleboro, Vt. She was born in Montville in 1834 and resided there up to within a few years. Miss Chapman had a pleasing disposition and was interested in the affairs of the church and social gatherings. She was an accomplished pianist.

Besides her mother, Mrs. Laura Chapman, she is survived by one brother, C. Everett Chapman; two sisters, Mrs. Florence Perry and Mrs. Laura Furber.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson and Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman are in charge of a D. A. R. dance to be held in Masonic Temple during the holidays.

Miss Isabel H. Mitchell was in New London Thursday to attend the tea given by Mrs. Gerard E. Jensen.

The Tuesday club and friends were entertained on Wednesday this week at luncheon at Lighthouse Inn by Mrs. C. Royce Boss. The artistic decorations were in Yuletide scarlet and green, most effectively arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Keepler, of Laurel Hill avenue were hosts for a dinner bridge of eight tables, Thursday evening. The decorations of the dining room were pink roses against a foil of holiday greenery. In the living room, yellow chrysanthemums and American beauty roses formed the beautiful decorations. At bridge, the prizes were won by Mrs. Roy D. Judd, Mrs. William H. Oat, Mrs. Charles L. Stewart, Mrs. Edgar H. Allen, Miss Minnie Keppler, Roy D. Judd, Mrs. Henry W. Lanz, Lester Greenman, William H. Oat and Henry F. Powers.

YANTIC MILLS AGENT IS GOING TO BERKSHIRE WOOLEN CO., PITTSFIELD

Charles F. Molter, who has been agent at the Yantic mills of the American Woolen company, is about to become superintendent of the Berkshire Woolen company at Pittsfield, Mass., beginning his work with them on Monday. The company is making fine woolen and worsteds, both men's and women's wear, operating 104 broad looms. The company also has two other large mills making fine worsted for men's and women's wear as well as knitted overcoatings and knitted worsted underwear.

Mr. Molter will continue to make Yantic his residence for the winter, but will move to Pittsfield in the early summer.

He has been with the American Woolen company for 29 years, starting to work for this company in 1900 in the Fitchburg Worsted Co., and later going to the Beoli mills of the same company. When the American Woolen bought the Globe mills in Utica, he was promoted to be head designer and superintendent there. After six years there, he went to the Moosup mills of the American Woolen company in this state, where he was superintendent, holding that position for three years until he was promoted to be agent of the Yantic mills, Dec. 15, 1924, continuing in that position to the present time.

The American Woolen company is closing about 16 of its mills, due to the slackness in the textile business at the present time and the Yantic mill is one of them.

A proposal made by Emanuel Kaplan of New York that he might operate the Yantic mill if he could get a certain amount of financial support in Norwich has had no results so far. The Norwich committee which was appointed to confer with Mr. Kaplan has heard nothing further from him since he left here to return to New York and was to submit to the committee a prospectus of his plan to operate the mill.

It is believed here that Mr. Kaplan has been unable to make arrangements satisfactory to him in getting a lease of the Yantic mill.

N. F. A. FOOTBALL SQUAD GUESTS OF HI-Y CLUB

The local Hi-Y club held its regular weekly meeting Friday evening, and had as guests the Norwich Free Academy football squad accompanied by Principal H. A. Tirrell and Coach Courtland Whitney. President Steven Armstrong presided, and Nathan Sears and Harold Robbins acted as song leaders at supper time with Edwin Wigley at the piano.

After the supper President Armstrong presented Coach Whitney, who spoke to the 60 boys about the many elements that Academy boys are faced with as they go to college. Mr. Whitney warned them about the many changes and adjustments that they they will be called upon to make as they go along in life. Because a fellow is popular and successful in his home school, is no sign that he will find the same atmosphere in college unless he can prove himself by putting in some hard work and proving himself. Go to college or out into life prepared to work far harder than you have ever done yet.

Principal Tirrell was presented next and he too brought to mind many of the lessons that one can and usually does learn from his athletic experience. One must be more than an athlete if he ever hopes to get very far in this world of progress. He recalled to memory the name of "Mike" Donohue who played baseball and football at the N. F. A., and later attended Yale. While at Yale, Donohue served faithfully on the scrubs for four years, Principal Tirrell said, but never played a game on the varsity. Nevertheless "Mike" is today a successful physician, and a fine varsity coach at one of the southern colleges. He learned something more than just athletics. Among Mr. Tirrell's acquaintances is listed Alonzo Stagg, director of physical activities at Chicago university. Mr. Stagg was an outstanding pitcher on the Yale baseball team, a very exceptional end on the football team, and a fine track man. He learned many lessons from his athletic experiences which fitted him for life, but above all else it tought him how to be a good sport and a gentleman at all times and in all relationships.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Academy Alma Mater. The supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Amanda Sandberg, assisted by Miss Delaney and Mrs. Johnson.

PARK CHURCH WOMEN HEAR MISSION FIELD TALKS

The monthly meeting of the missions department of Park Congregational church was on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parish house, Miss Edith M. Bliss presiding. After the first hymn, the story of the birth of Christ was read from St. Luke's gospel, followed by prayer and the usual offering. The hymn, O Little Town of Bethlehem, was then sung.

The report of the previous meeting was read by the secretary, Miss Mary A. C. Avery. Announcement was made of a luncheon at the parish house on Dec. 20th at 12:30 to be followed by the annual meeting of the Women's Federation. Miss Bliss said that the "Guest Book" had found a welcome in the homes of 80 families in the church.

Two representatives at Northfield last summer, Mrs. George L. Ingalls and Mrs. James Bidwell, gave most interesting accounts of their experiences and the wonderful inspiration in the classes in religious education, adolescent and primary work. They also spoke of the large number of young people in the classes and their deep interest and of the exceptionally fine leadership in the classes.

Miss Alice Cogswell told of her visit to Athens and going on a hot summer day to the Near East headquarters in the royal palace and to the orphanage and hospital near where many refugee children were cared for. The blind children showed their proficiency in Braille, in mental arithmetic and crafts. Miss Fannie Bliss spoke of Jerusalem and gave a graphic picture of the street scenes inside the Jappa gate, with all nationalities represented in a jostling crowd, and told of the Armenian monastery and church, and of the great number of refugees.

A fine large photograph of the Taj Mahal was shown with its indescribable beauty and impressiveness, and reference made to the prayer strings and bangles hung on a screen in one part. The bangles showing gratitude for answered prayers.

She also spoke of the beautiful lamp given by Lord Curzon. A visit to Dargeeling, 7,000 feet up from Calcutta, was described, and a tree which she saw hung with hundreds of strings of cloth, prayer strings.

An exhibit of embroideries, scarfs and various souvenirs of travel in the east was shown. These were loaned by Mrs. L. O. Smith, Miss Hannah Crowell, Mrs. Wm. Zumbro and Miss Cogswell. Tea was served by Miss Bliss, Miss Trumbull and Mrs. Harrison Gray, Miss Cecile Crowell pouring.

WHIST FOR BENEFIT OF TEACHERS' LEAGUE

A benefit whist for the Teachers' league was held in the auditorium of the Samuel Huntington school Thursday evening.

Twenty-five tables of bridge whist were played and a few tables of whist.

At bridge the prizes went to Mrs. L. Sampson and Miss Alice Drisco, Mr. Potter and G. Buckley. In whist Mrs. Mara took the ladies' prize and Dwight Underwood the gentlemen's.

The committee in charge included: Miss Marie McVeigh, chairman; Miss Elizabeth McCord, Miss Mary Beckley, Miss Eleanor Counihan and Miss Mary Tracy.

Five important paintings in the administration building at Balboa, showing the construction of the Panama canal, have been greatly endangered by mold, but a special paraffin treatment has been devised to preserve them.

MRS. JEROME MAYER NAMED AS HARTFORD WOMEN LEADER

A Hartford paper says: Positions of leadership in many state and national organizations have fallen to women members of Hartford clubs, as is evidenced in an article, "Women Represent Hartford," by Elizabeth W. Wurtz, in the November issue of "Hartford," published by the chamber of commerce. The magazine is for this month devoted to the activities of the city's women.

Mention is then made of three local women among the leaders of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. George B. Chandler, wife a resident of Hartford, was at one time the secretary of the congress, the late Mrs. H. Wooster Webber was a member of the executive board and Mrs. Wilfred H. Dresser served as chief executive of the Connecticut organization.

Mrs. Jerome Mayer is a Connecticut representative on the official board of the National Council of Jewish Women. Mrs. Clarence R. Jonne was president general of the Daughters of the War of 1812. Other prominent workers are named.

GAVE INDIAN PROGRAM FOR WOMAN'S LEAGUE

An instructive and entertaining Indian program was given Friday evening in the assembly hall at the Central Baptist church for the meeting of the Woman's league. It opened with a talk on local Indian lore by Arthur L. Peale, who illustrated his talk with about 75 lantern slides and showed a number of Indian implements such as scrapers, axes, adzes, hammers, pestles and arrowheads. Arnold Smith operated the lantern.

This was followed by a group of Indian dances, done in costume and with great realism by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Laubin, with Mrs. Edward Carey at the piano and Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve reading a brief description of the dances, which included Pipe Ceremony, Sioux Circle, Medicine Man's dance, Great Plains War dance and Buffalo dance. Mr. Laubin also gave the warrior's song, the clear weather song, and the old warriors' song.

Ice cream and cookies were served after the program.

FORECLOSURE FOR $10,724.17 ON OCEAN BEACH PROPERTY

At a short calendar session of the superior court in New London Friday morning, Judge Earnest C. Simpson granted judgment for $10,724.17 in favor of Aaron Lurie of Hartford in foreclosure proceedings brought by him against the Commodore Realty Co. of New London. The judgment is secured by property at Ocean Beach and the court set December 23rd as the time limitation for redemption.

The court granted a motion that John W. Stephens, John J. Silva, and Nicholas Andrell be made party plaintiffs in the case of Raymond and Alexander Lumber Co., against De Franks, et al.

In the case of Mary A. Gardner vs. MacDonald, executor of the estate of Elizabeth Jane Bartlett, appeal from probate, the court granted judgment as per stipulation. By the stipulation the appeal is vacated.

The court reserved decision on the motion to set aside a verdict recently returned in the case of Lavoie vs. Ballou and Nagle Express, et al. This was a defendant's verdict.

In the case of the Puritan Bank and Trust Co., vs. Day, et al., the receiver's report was accepted and his services terminated.

NORWICH PASTOR WAS CHAPLAIN AT AUBURN

Rev. E. W. Gantt, pastor of A. M. E. Zion church on McKinley avenue, had a special interest in the accounts of the mutiny at Auburn state prison in New York because he had been chaplain at the prison for the colored boys who were prisoners there.

He was pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church in Auburn in 1925 and 1926 and during that time was chaplain at the prison for the colored prisoners, of whom there were about 200 among the 1,800 men confined there. He has preached a number of times in the prison, has visited the men there and was well acquainted with Headkeeper Durnford who was killed in the mutiny this week.

WILL ENFORCE LAW ON 1930 REGISTRATION PLATES

All motor vehicles registered in Connecticut in use on and after January 1, 1930, must have 1930 registration plates, the state motor vehicle department announced Friday in calling attention to the state law which provides that markers must be "those assigned for the year when displayed." The law does permit the use of new markers on the last week day of the year, however, so that 1930 registration plates may be displayed beginning Tuesday, December 31, 1929.

Information has also been gathered by the department for the benefit of police departments in the state relative to the regulations governing the use of markers on cars registered in other states. The extension or restrictions in force in other states are as follows:

Massachusetts: Between 12 o'clock noon on December 31 on one year and 12 o'clock noon on January 1 of the following year the number plates for either year may be displayed provided that the vehicle has been registered for both years.

Delaware: 1929 license plates expire at midnight December 31, 1929. No extension of time is granted. Delaware 1930 registration plates may be displayed on and after December 27, 1929.

Missouri: 1929 license plates will be recognized until February 1, 1930.

New York: 1929 license plates expire December 31, 1929. The New York 1930 plates may be displayed on and after December 16, 1929.

North Carolina: 1929 motor vehicle license plates will be recognized until January 1, 1930, and there is no extension of time.

Ohio: 1929 motor vehicle license plates expire at midnight December 31, 1929. The 1930 plates may be displayed on and after December 21, 1929.

Tennessee: 1929 license plates will be recognized until midnight January 31, 1930. The 1930 plates for this state may be displayed on and after December 15, 1929.

Oregon: On account of a change in the registration year a temporary license is to be issued for use during the first six months of 1930 to be used in conjunction with the 1929 license plates. New plates will be issued July 1, 1930 to expire July 1, 1931.

Washington: 1929 registrations expire December 31, 1929. 1930 plates may be used on and after December 1, 1929.

DAVIS-WARNER IN PLAN FOR ADVERTISING CONNECTICUT

Thirty-six Connecticut manufacturers, including the Davis-Warner Arms corporation of this city, are participating in a unique plan to place the state of Connecticut as an industrial community upon the commercial map of the world. They are co-operating in two full-page advertisements in an export trade journal having a foreign circulation of 45,000 and printed in four languages.

The advertisements are to be composed of two columns giving the names, trade-marks, products and addresses of each of the manufacturers and a third column in the center of the page telling the foreign buyer of the superiority of Connecticut's products, the advantageous location which Connecticut enjoys for exporting, and giving a short history of the development of her industrial supremacy. A map in this center column will show the relative locations of the plants of each of the participating manufacturers.

The first appearance of the advertisements will be in the January issue of the export trade journal.

ARRESTED AFTER SMASH AT QUAKER HILL

As an aftermath to an automobile collision on the Norwich road at Quaker hill, Waterford, C. A. Hamilton, of New London, was arrested Thursday night by Troopers Michael Murphy and John Walton of the Groton state police barracks. He is charged with reckless driving and with failure to produce his operator's license upon demand of Michael Koledo, Uncasville, the driver of the other car involved in the crash. Hamilton will be arraigned Monday in the Waterford town court.

It is charged that Hamilton's automobile crashed into the other car from behind and that the local man immediately drove away from the scene after refusing to show his license to Koledo.

ROUND TABLE MEETING HELD WITH MISS FISHER

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Norwich round table was held this week at the home of Miss Amanda Fisher, Williams street. A paper on Historic Churches of New England, was read by Mrs. C. E. Carpenter. Dicken's Christmas carol was reviewed and read by Mrs. Dwight C. Stone, and a humorous reading was given by Miss Susie Whittlesey. Miss Fisher was assisted in entertaining by Miss Mary Henderson. Refreshments were served.

BANKS SHOW APPRECIATION OF NORWICH POLICE DEPT.

Two checks, each for $25, have been received by Alderman Frederick J. Ortman, chairman of the police commissioners, from the Uncas-Merchants National bank and the Dime Savings bank as Christmas gifts for the police pension fund. Alderman Ortmann has turned the checks over to the city treasurer to be added to the fund.

Letters of appreciation have been sent to each bank by the alderman, thanking them for the gifts, and Christmas and New Year's greetings to the banks.

BRONZE MEMORIAL PLACQUE FOR MISS CHARLOTTE GULLIVER

A bronze placque, bearing the inscription, Charlotte Chester Gulliver, 1887-1927, "through her radiant living has come to her a vision of beauty and of truth," has been placed beside room 29, at the Norwich Free Academy, where Miss Gulliver taught for so many years.

Miss Gulliver graduated from the Academy in 1875, receiving her A. B. degree at Smith college in 1883. She was a teacher at the Academy for forty years, from 1887 until the time of her death in 1927.

A fund left by the class of 1927 for the purpose of commemorating Miss Gulliver was used in obtaining this placque.

Organ Recital Programme

The following is the programme of the organ recital to be given at the Sunday evening service of the Central Baptist church by Miss Dorothy Birchard Mulroney of Springfield:

Sonata in style of Handel — Nolstenholme
(1) Largo—Allegro
(2) Largo
(3) Minuet
March of the Magi — Dubois
Christmas in Sicily — Yon
The Holy Night — Buck
Hallelujah chorus, from "The Messiah" — Handel

At the service, the Christmas thought by the pastor, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, will be "Must Christ Forever Be Born in a Barn?" At the 11 o'clock service Dr. Pitt will give the first of three messages on "Jesus and Our Thought of God." The topic will be "Jesus' Own Experience of God."

Mrs. Henpeck—Everything is getting higher.

A farmer visiting his son at college was especially interested in the experiments of the chemical class. "We are at present endeavoring to discover or invent a universal solvent," said his son.

"What's that?"

"A liquid that will dissolve anything."

"That's a great idea," returned the farmer; then, scratching his head he added, "But when you find it, what are you going to keep it in?"—Boston Transcript.

TEACHERS DISCUSS METHODS IN CHILD-CENTERED SCHOOL

Last week an all-day teachers' meeting was held at the Newent school in Lisbon by E. B. Floyd for the teachers of Scotland, Canterbury, Lisbon, Sterling and Voluntown. The meeting was called at 9:30, when Miss Young's children, grades 7 and 8 at Newent, gave an original Greek play which had been the way they summarized the Greeks after having studied about them.

After the play several songs were given by the same group of children Then the teachers grouped around a table for reports and discussions.

The book, "The Child Centered School," was discussed, chapter 3 by the teachers of Sterling and chapter 4 and the phases of teaching it revealed by Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Kenyon, Miss Ward, Miss Davis and Miss Sweeney.

Chapter 3 in general gives the history of a reform in teaching under the leadership of three types of thinkers: 1st, the school and college administration; 2nd, the students of the scientific study of education and 3rd the advocates of the child-centered school. The first wanted to prepare each child for high school and college regardless of developing his native ability, the second wanted to test and classify children in masses according to their mental capacity, while the third wished to teach children as individuals, developing in each that which will make him a useful worthwhile citizen.

Chapter 5 takes up a few of the methods used in the "New School" with the child as the center in comparison to the old school with the teacher as monarch. Freedom of action and expression has been proven to develop more pupil interest with growth and better results than restraint and entire book-worming does. Lessons planned and carried on by pupils and teachers as a social group is better than teacher-enforced work and assignments. A class which can carry on in their classroom a miniature town meeting is much more interested in civics and knows his lesson better than one who simply reads how and tells how such a meeting should be carried on. If a child is made vitally interested in his work and forms the habit of working out his school problems in a group under the guidance of a teacher the results will be attitudes toward school and life, habits of conduct and study, and material learned which will be unquestionably valuable. Pupils who experience doing things find that lessons mean much more than 'o just read how.

During the noon hour the work brought in by the various teachers from their schools was inspected and helpful ideas obtained. The Lisbon teachers made cocoa and coffee to serve with the basket lunches.

Dr. Probaska of the state board of education, physical education director, gave an address in the afternoon. A few of the main thoughts and truths of his address are as follows:

Of the cardinal objectives in education health is prominent. Good health means both physically, mentally and socially. Good health is a basic factor in character so one needs health in order to live well and serve best. The child is the most challenging problem of modern life. The health program in the schools is one of service, one of prevention and protection, one of promotion and one of correction. It is predicted that in 50 years there will be no children's diseases, as children will be able to be made immune from them, as the toxin antitoxin for diphtheria today. Faulty posture so common among children is being corrected by proper seating, games, plays and athletics. The needs in carrying out a physical education program are a suitable sized playgrounds, properly cleared and divided up into areas for games, and a teacher on the playground. A child plays to use up surplus energy. If this natural instinct to play is guided this energy can be put into useful practice in the development of coolness, balance, judgment, fairness and other good habits.

MONTVILLE

Funeral services for the late William E. Tyler of Main street were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Union Baptist church, the Rev. E. L. Nield, pastor, officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and many floral tributes. Four brothers, Henry, James, Thomas and Charles, were the bearers. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Uncasville.

At a meeting held Monday evening, Cochegan camp, Modern Woodmen of America, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Consul, Albert Taylor; advisor, Frank Pachaido; clerk, Lewis J. LaBounty, Jr.; banker, John Lynch; escort, Henry Titisky; watchman, Aime Bergeron; sentry, Nicholas Kornesewicz; trustees, Joseph Marcoux, William H. Pierre, and Lincoln Rogers. Installation of these officers will take place on Jan. 13th.

Mrs. Charles Watson of Uncasville sustained a bad fall on the ice on the hill near her home, hurting her leg and receiving quite a severe shaking up. She was also thoroughly chilled, having laid there for quite some time before being found. It is hoped that she will quickly recover from her fall.

There will be choir rehearsal for members of the choir of the Methodist Episcopal church of Uncasville in the church parlors this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Francis Curtin of Maple avenue is working at the Economy grocery store on Main street.

Herman L. Weisler of Uncasville was granted a license to practice dentistry yesterday by the state dental commission.

The Eastern Star whist was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Hope of Uncasville. Eight tables were in play.

NEW LONDON MOTHER AND DAUGHTER INJURED BY RUNAWAY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 13—Two women, mother and daughter, were injured, the latter seriously today, through the carelessness and negligence of a garage employe, who parked an automobile on a grade and then abandoned it for a short time without applying the emergency brake. The result was that both women were struck for the auto started and ran down the pedestrians. Mrs. Wallace Cobb, 16 Jefferson avenue sustained slight bruises and contusions, but her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Corey, 22, of 26 Hammer street, sustained serious bruises and scratches on the legs. She was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where she may be a patient indefinitely. Mrs. Cobb was taken to her home where her injuries were treated by a physician. Joseph Therrian, 20 Centre street, who was in charge of the auto, was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to properly apply his brake when leaving a car in the highway. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $2,000 and will be in court tomorrow.

Therrian, who is employed at Williamson's garage, Bank street, drove an Auburn roadster from the garage and parked it with the brakes improperly, or if at all applied, in front of the garage. Mrs. Corey and her mother were at the corner of Bank street and Jefferson avenue, having intended to board a bus. The roadster started, unnoticed by the two women. The car gained in speed rapidly and near the corner, it climbed the curbing to the sidewalk. Mrs. Cobb was struck a glancing blow and knocked down, but her daughter was caught between the car and a fire hydrant, being pinned there as the auto came to a stop. Mrs. Corey was extricated by pedestrians and was needed to the hospital, while her mother was taken to her home.

Work for Unemployed

With hundreds of men out of employment, the snow fall of last night and early this morning was welcomed. Throughout the day the city officials had a large number of men and trucks assigned to the task of removing the snow from the business streets. The men applying were given employment.

Mrs. Duncan Dart and infant son, 40 Walden avenue, Mrs. Stanislaw Svadlowski, 23 Potter street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Frank H. Briggs

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Briggs, wife of Frank H. Briggs, formerly of New London, who died at her home in New Haven, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Beckwith Memorial chapel, Cedar Grove cemetery. Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church read the service. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Alva W. Bettison, 40 Spring street, was arrested this afternoon by State Police Officer John Smith charged with reckless driving and will be in court tomorrow.

Peter Palmisano has sold his undivided one-half interest in the business at 862 Bank street, to his partner, Angelo Patti. Patti has since sold the entire business to Forti Patti.

BRAND SCOFIELD DRANK RESULTS IN BRAINSTORMS

Hugh M. Scofield, U. S. Coast Guard, residing on Ashcraft road, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace and was fined $20 and costs. Scofield, who is a member of that branch of the federal service whose duty it is to chase and capture rum runners, would have fared better undoubtedly, if he had drunk the same brand of liquor that the coast guard recently seized in a trio of captures, instead of partaking of moonshine, for it was Scofield's drinking that brought about his arrest and presentation in court. Scofield drank freely yesterday and about 7:30 o'clock and while possessed of a pint of the moonshine, he went to Jefferson avenue and entering a meat market, created a disturbance. During the row, Scofield smashed a window, but he knew enough to make a hasty departure and it is well he did, for the proprietor seized a knife which he intended to use on Scofield, but the proprietor being unable to leave the store, the sailor was enabled to escape. Scofield then went to a nearby residence and as a form of amusement, the sailor deliberately overturned an ice box. Scofield again retreated and went to the gasoline service station, corner of Jefferson and Garfield avenues, where he abused the attendant. The occupants of the house where the ice box was overturned communicated with police headquarters and Patrolmen William Riordan and Braxton Hill went to the garage. Arriving there, the officers were mistaken by Scofield for prospective customers and the sailor at once showed his tendency to fill the police car tank with gasoline. It was while Scofield was endeavoring to arrange the supply pipe in the gasoline tank that the officers alighted and arrested him. When searched at police headquarters, Scofield's pint of moonshine was discovered.

Brought From Paterson

Michael DeFeo, a mason, formerly resident at 24 Winthrop street, was charged with non-support, but the case was continued to next Monday. In default of a surety on his bond of $200, DeFeo was committed to jail. He was arrested several days ago by the police of Paterson, N. J., at the request of the New London police. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh returned to New London early today with his prisoner.

Three U. S. Coast Guard sailors, who were arrested last night on charges of intoxication, were allowed to return to the state pier under guard.

NORWICH GUESTS IN GROUP AT FAREWELL DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schwartz, 21 Faire Harbour place, who with their three children, will leave after Christmas for Miami, where they will remain until spring, were tendered a farewell party at one of the Waterford road houses, last night. An elaborate shore dinner was served and Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz were presented a handsome traveling bag. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. David Trachtenberg, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Schwartz, Abner Schwartz and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lahn, of Norwich; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brown, New York; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schwartz, Attorney and Mrs. Morris Lubchansky, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glassenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Gassmah.

Got Tools Through Fraud

Harvey Dupines, 59 School street, Groton, a steeple-jack, was arrested this afternoon by State Police Officer John Smith charged with fraud. In default of bail of $500, Dupines was locked up pending his presentation in the police court tomorrow. Dupines, it is understood, recently obtained building implements at the store of Eaton & Wilson and in order to obtain the tools, he resorted to duplicity and fraud, for he would not have been given the credit he received were it not for his misrepresentation. When the fraud was revealed, complaint was made at the state police barracks and Dupines was arrested.

At Odd Fellows' hall last night, Hiawatha council, No. 15, Degree of Pocohontas, sponsored a card party. The event was attended by a large number of members for 11 tables were played. Refreshments were served.

FUNERAL

Mildred A. Halliwell

Funeral services for Mildred A. Halliwell, 10, daughter of Mrs. Susie and the late Thomas U. Halliwell, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the child's mother. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiated. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

CHRISTMAS CLUB $400,000 TO BE USED IN MANY WAYS

New London's Christmas clubs turned loose nearly $400,000 a fortnight ago, representing the savings of depositors for the season of gifts. But all that money will not go into trade. If it did find that channel the merchants would experience a revival of business that would astonish them. It is said by a close observer that the savings will be applied for taxes next due and that more of it will go to pay for insurance policies that become due at a time when the insured is not in a financial condition to meet the expense. Those are debts that cannot be carried along and must be met when due. More of the savings will be applied toward providing coal for the winter. Ordinarily the cold weather sets in about Christmas time and if the money for fuel is provided there will be pretty easy going for the winter, so far as the coal bill enters into the problem of expense. So the Christmas club is a blessing to many. It means the first money some folks ever save and is the nucleus of a bank account that never would have been created but for the saving of a dollar or so each week during the year. It is estimated that a quarter of the savings in the Christmas clubs will be re-deposited in the savings banks of this city, that being an incentive for the increasing of the deposit during the year to come.

The city has been fortunate in the snow storms of the winter thus far for in the five storms that have visited New London rain has followed, so that the city was spared the expense of snow removal. Thursday night's storm while a very moderate fall of snow, was cleared away today without any expense to the city for removal.

More than the usual number of stores have resorted to the use of laurel and ground pine for the decoration of places of business. Hawkers are about the streets selling wreaths and ropes of green and report a good business.

NEXT WEEK WILL SETTLE MURRAY SUCCESSOR PROBLEM

The fortnightly meeting of the city council will be held Monday evening when it is supposed a successor to Councilor John F. Murray, deceased, will be chosen. The selection may be postponed, for it is not known that any candidate has been decided upon to fill the vacant office. There has been a vacancy for many weeks, for Councilor Murray's failing health did not permit him to attend the sessions of the council. There is known to be only one avowed candidate for the post, a woman, and the council members are understood to have tacitly decided that the place should be filled by a man. That may be a selfish decision, but it is said to have been reached. Women are taxpayers in New London and they also cast a considerable portion of the vote. They are interested in the schools, the churches and the general conduct of the city, so that if a capable member of their sex is put forward there would seem to be no reason why she should not be considered.

URGENT NEED OF WORK FOR MANY RESIDENTS

If this city is to make any extraordinary expenditure of money to provide employment and to supplement the efforts of President Hoover and his committee of business men and industrialists, the present would seem to be the time for beginning the work. There are many men out of work in this city and they would gladly accept employment at almost any work that is reasonable and that they are able to perform. There is not a diversified volume of labor that can be done out of doors in the winter time, a fact that proves a drawback to providing employment.

Best Informed Carrier

Letter Carrier John A. Blake, who is in Lawrence hospital critically ill, having suffered a shock nearly a week ago, is eligible for retirement in four years. He is 61 and has been a carrier some twenty years or more. He is understood to be the best informed carrier as to foreign residents of the city, for he has been among them many years and has kept informed as to their changes of location. He has also been a life long resident of New London and has a knowledge of foreign-born residents which other carriers do not possess.

During the social gifts were exchanged, Samuel Stewart, Jr., acting as Santa Claus. Refreshments were served by the auxiliary committee, Mrs William Bindloss, Mrs. Joseph Cushman, and Mrs. Edwin Browning. Dancing was enjoyed. Previous to the social a business meeting was held at which Commander Harold M. Hubbard presided. It was voted to attend the district meeting in Taftville, Dec. 19 in a body. Plans will be made at the next meeting to provide Christmas cheer for needy ex-service men and their families.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

For sheer thrills, excitement and smashing action, George Bancroft, that beloved crook-hero, tops all his previous efforts in his all-talking masterpiece, "The Mighty," which opens at the Broadway today. It took four husky M. P's to put him aboard a transport after he had torn up his draft card, but it took his own personality to drive him to the top of the head in "this man's army," from which at the end of the war, he emerged a major, promoted on the field and loaded with medals—a leader of men, who worshipped him like an idol. Bloodtingling flashes of the action along the front lines give place to equally thrilling scenes in gangland, "back home," where the old "mob" is planning one grand coup, involving the robbery of three big Los Angeles banks. Bancroft, who as Greeson, leader of the gang, has accepted a position urged upon him by the deluded citizens, that of police commissioner with supreme powers. The "gang" scents a chance for a wide open town, but to their surprise, Greeson hunts them down and drives every crook out of town, except those in his own "mob." Then comes the struggle, when facing disgrace, the ex-crook makes his supreme decision. Which course does he take?—there's one of the strongest scenes ever filmed and only one of the many amazing flashes that will stir every drop of blood in the audience.

The battle scenes, and the scenes behind the lines are so real that every Legionnaire and Foreign War veteran will thrill just as they did so many years ago, when they had their first smell of powder, and later when the bells and whistles proclaimed "Armistice!" What a picture—what a story—and what a cast!—besides the huge Bancroft, there are Warner Oland, sinister always, Raymond Hatton, O. P. Heggie, E. H. Calvert, Morgan Farley, Esther Ralston, in her finest role, and Dorothy Reviere. As though "The Mighty" were not enough, the management is also showing the latest Paramount Sound News, the Talking Collegians, Miller & Lyles in "The Jimtown Speakeasy," and an all-star talking comedy, 'Dad's Day," a howling comedy with more real laughs than a dozen barrels of monkeys.

Picture at Y. M. C. A., Sunday

At 4 o'clock, tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon, at the Norwich Y. M. C. A., there will doubtless be another large audience to witness the second half of the feature moving picture, "Four Sons." In these days when some of the moving pictures shown are not such as to inspire lofty ideals and ideas, it is refreshing to see a screen production that is positively uplifting and inspiring to those who are fortunate to see it. Such a production is the picture entitled "Four Sons."

It portrays, in a remarkable way, the bravery and courage of a noble mother of four sons, who have left home to enter the World war. The whole story is a beautiful illustration of what a mother may mean to her children, and especially to what extent she will go in her sacrifices for them. This photo play should instill in the hearts of the youth a deeper love and affection for their parents, and lead them to realize what they in turn owe in return.

Breed Theatre.

"Why Leave Home?" the Fox Movietone picture, and the first musical farce to reach the talking screen was adapted from the original stage play, "Cradle Snatchers." It combines six young people with as many older ones who all strive to retain a juvenile outlook.

"Why Leave Home?" has been booked by the Breed theatre for next week, beginning a four day engagement there Sunday night. The cast is headed by Walter Catlett, Sue Carol and Nick Stuart. It's a story of college boys, chorus girls, philandering business men and their wide awake wives.

The same song composing trio which wrote the memorable tunes for the recent "Fox Movietone Follies," Con Conrad, Sidney D. Mitchell and Archie Gottler, attempt to outdo their previous records in this new production.

Walter Catlett, besides playing a feature role, also wrote the dialog for this all talking, singing and dancing version of the great stage success, "Cradle Snatchers."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Oo-la-la, oo-la-la — Madamoiselle from Gay Paree is here—the Madamoiselle herself—here in all-color, all-talking, dancing and singing extravaganza, here on the wings of Vitaphone—here at the Palace theatre—today—for four days only—but what a four days they'll be when Irene Bordoni and her group of crazy, singing, high kicking chorines descend upon the town in the great Vitaphone smash hit of melody and mirth, "Paris,—Paris, the scintillating, Paris, the beautiful, Paris, the wicked, the temptress, the queen city of pleasure.

Yes, whoop it up, for Irene Bordoni has come—come from the French capitol in one of the smartest, spiciest plays of the season—"Paris." And what a treat is in store for Norwich. Not since "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" made husbands forget their wives and wives lose all track of their husbands has any picture so completely taken the American public by storm. Its appeal is tremendous. It has a kick in every scene, a thrill in every foot of film.

"Paris" is the story of a Newton Center family with a Puritanical turn of mind who make a trip to Paris to see how the son, Andrew, is getting along. Andrew, if you must know, came to Paris to learn to paint. He may have learned to paint but that isn't the only bit of knowledge he picked up, for pretty soon, we see his mother appearing on the scene, drawn to Paris in an indignant huff because she learns that Andrew is contemplating marriage with an actress.

The mother arrives, and then there is fun. She meets Miss Bordoni, the actress, and she meets handsome Jack Buchanan, her leading man, who is secretly in love with Irene but appreciates that she seems to like Andrew better. Before this bright merry little tale with all its singing, dancing and —drinking is over, the Puritanical instincts have disappeared noticeably. That is what Paris did for the family from Newton Center. What will it do to you?

Next Week At Park Church.

Tuesday, 7.15 p. m., Troop 12, Boy Scouts' meeting. Friday, Dec. 20, The annual meeting of the Federation will take form of a luncheon served in parish house at 1 o'clock promptly. Reports will not be heard but an account of the year's activities will be given in a novel way. Christmas carols will be sung by a quartette directed by Mrs. Jas. A. Bidwell. All the women of the church are cordially invited.

WESTERLY

CHRISTMAS SEALS SALE TO BEGIN THIS MORNING

This (Saturday) morning the sale of Christmas seals will begin in the Westerly post office, according to announcement made by Miss Mary Augusta Stanton, chairman of the committee conducting the campaign. The booth at the post office will be in charge of Miss Katherine Perry. Today and the Saturday before Christmas, Girl Scouts will be at the office to assist and on other days committees headed by the following will be present:

Monday, Mrs. Harold Livingstone; Tuesday, Miss Phoebe Perry; Wednesday, Mrs. Clifford Campbell; Thursday, Mrs. Edward D. Coy; Friday, Mrs. Daniel F. Larkin. On the second Monday Mrs. Frank Sherman will be in charge and on the day before Christmas Miss Katherine Perry will head the committee of workers.

Thursday evening Harley P. Chase Auxiliary, V. F. W., conducted a whist and social in Vets hall. The prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Knight and L. Willis, Mrs. Stella Keegan and Rosario Bianda, Joseph Wucik and Mrs. Carrie Dowling. Refreshments were served. The committee of arrangements included: Mrs. Florence Riley, chairman; Mrs. George Champlin, Mrs. Olive Dion and Mrs. Stella Keegan.

The L. C. B. A. has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Margaret Marr; vice president, Mrs. Martin Devine; second vice president, Mrs. Harry Bricker; financial secretary, Mrs. Floyd Lamb; recording secretary, Miss Jessie Hughes; treasurer, Miss Nellie Sullivan; marshal, Miss Helen O'Keefe; guard, Miss Eileen Shawyer. After the election a lunch was served and each member was presented a small gift from a Christmas tree.

CONTINUANCE OF HEARING FOR COUNSEL'S CONVENIENCE

Trial of a civil case on a motion to dismiss an action of trespass and ejectment, M. Louise Euall vs. Daniel Webster Jackson, with Attorney Davis for the plaintiff and Roche for the respondent, occupied most of the morning session of the third district court Friday. At the conclusion of the lengthy arguments by counsel Judge Oliver H. Williams denied the motion in the plea in abatement. In setting a time for the hearing of the trespass and ejectment case Mr. Davis informed the court that next Friday the date of the next regular court session, he would be in Florida. Later in January and the first of February he expected to make a business trip to Germany in the interests of a New York client. Final agreement was that the case should be continued to Friday, Jan. 3, 1930, and that judgment would be entered for possession of property and costs of suit if the case was not tried on that date.

Oliver P. Crandall, Westerly, director of public aid, appeared as the complainant against Edward J. Doney, in bastardy proceedings, with Janice Roode as the complaining witness. Doney entered a plea of not guilty and the case was continued one week for trial. John Mackay became bondsman in the sum of $500 for defendant's court appearance.

The criminal docket—Town of Westerly vs. Peter Gaetrella. Continued two weeks. Civil docket—Aerovone Utilities corporation vs. A. L. Pancera and Harry Peckham, each continued one week. Manchester Nurseries vs. Linwood H. Johnson. Continued one week. A. M. Gencarelli Co. vs. Frank Cella. Continued nisi. Standard Oil Co. of New York vs. Frederick R. Savage. Continued one week. Mary E. Thomas vs. Otto Hanaverana. Continued two weeks by agreement of counsel. F. J. Biang vs. Thomas Saddow. Continued one week.

EUALL-JACKSON CASE PARTNERSHIP DISPUTE

In the Euall-Jackson case representations were made to the court that the Euall and Jackson had formed a partnership and had purchased from G. B. Langworthy land near Potter Hill with partnership funds, Aug. 1, 1922, the agreed purchase price being $1000. On this $350 was paid and a note was given for the balance which was subsequently paid for from partnership funds. Jackson occupied the place and sold poultry, pigs and eggs for the partnership with the agreement that Euall should put in an equal amount of work on the farm. The property was recorded solely in the Euall name and Oct. 18, 1928, a pole line easement was sold for $700, retained by Euall and there had been no accounting. As there appeared a purchaser for the property final payment was withheld until occupancy of the premises was terminated. For the plaintiff Mr. Davis claimed but two issues, the ownership of the land and secondly a long book account containing sale of produce and wood. A temporary injunction on sale of property had been denied at Kingston earlier in this session of superior court, and as a matter of compromise, court had declared that the sale could be consummated and that the proceeds of the sale could be given into the court to await the judgment or the outcome of other issues. The plaintiff claims that there appears no agreement in writing about the purchase of the property and as the records show possession of the land, Jackson should be evicted from the premises.

The session of Washington county superior court, Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh of Providence on the bench, was very short Friday. Court came in at 11:15 when Justice Walsh announced that further continuance would be given the Westerly trial calendar. The action at law, Annunziato Puono vs. Frank Capalbo was called, having been set down Thursday as the first case for trial Friday. Attorney John Ferguson announced that the respondent was ready but stated that he had been informed that Attorney M. Walter Flynn for the plaintiff was ill at his home. Mr. Ferguson said he would ask for a dismissal of the case in that Attorney Michael J. Turano appeared as senior counsel for the plaintiff. Judge Walsh granted the non-suit. In the damage case of Mary Ostolo vs. The Westerly hospital, with Attorney Pettine for plaintiff and Attorney Collins for the hospital, there was no answer to the case when called. Judge Walsh remarked "gentlemen of the jury, counsel seem to have no cases ready for us, you are excused to report at Westerly court house next Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock."

At Rhodes Ceremonial

Many Westerly Shriners were at Rhodes-in-the-Pawtuxet Friday evening to attend the Friday, the 13th, Jinx Night and Ceremonial of Palestine Temple, George E. Phillips, potentate. Luncheon was served at 5 p. m. A concert under the leadership of Noble Intlehouse was rendered by Palestine Temple band at 6:30 followed by the entrainment of caravan, band, patrol, drum corps and legion at 7:30. The second section of the ceremonial was begun at 9.

FUNERAL
Hamilton Benn

Funeral services for Hamilton Benn, 46, who died following a surgical operation at the Post Graduate hospital, New York, Wednesday morning, were held at 1:45 p. m. Friday at 46 Granite street. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, conducted a prayer service at the home, where the body was brought on the arrival of the 6:57 train from New York on Thursday evening. Rev. Mr. Tobin also read the committal prayers at the grave, burial being in the family plot in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were Joseph Lannon and H. D. Mallison, of New York, members of the New York Lodge of Elks in which the deceased held membership; Erastus H. Benn and Carl E. Burdick of Westerly.

Previous to his wife's death several years ago Mr. and Mrs. Benn occupied at one time an apartment in Pawcatuck. The former was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 30, 1883, the son of Erastus Hewlitt and Emma Field Benn, of New York. Mr. Benn was an optometrist at the time of his death at 46 Jones street, Jersey City, N. J. The youngest of a family of three children, he is survived by an elder brother, Erastus H. Benn, of Westerly.

David Helme of Missola, Long Island, a summer cottager at Misquamicut, arrived in Westerly Friday night to attend the funeral of Isaac Gourlay, formerly well-known Westerly granite quarry foreman. Mr. Groulay died suddenly in Watertown, Mass., Thursday and whose body arrived in Westerly on Friday noon on the 1:45 p. m. express from Boston.

Misses Ella and Gertrude Brophy were in Providence, Friday.

A. L. Dion has been in New York this week.

Mrs. Fred Lawson, formerly Miss Gene Gourlay, of Watertown, Mass., is in Westerly to attend the funeral of her father, Isaac Gourlay, as is also Miss Katherine Gourlay of Boston.

H. D. Mallison and Joseph Lannon, have returned to New York after attending the funeral services for Hamilton Benn.

Mrs. Fred Cole of Jersey City, is visiting Westerly relatives and friends.

Work has been started on the house being built by Patterson Bros. on Elm street, for Walter R. Palmer. The foundation has been completed and the woodwork is being started.

The True Blue Sewing society met in the Daughters of America hall Thursday afternoon. The session was spent in tying quilts. Plans were made to distribute gifts to the shut-ins at Christmas. At the close of the session refreshments were served and a social hour was spent. Those present were: Mrs. Esther Andrews, Mrs. May Oles, Mrs. Grace Bentley, Mrs. Elizabeth Hobart and Mrs. Gertrude Tourjee.

Thomas Noble has returned to Bridgeport after spending several days with relatives here.

HOW LOST WEDDING RING WAS RESTORED BY RAT

Mr. and Mrs. William Morrey, of Mansfield, N. H., travel in a Ford sedan with their camping outfit in the summer and they have seen every part of the United States. They came to Noank early last summer when the lobstermen were busy taking out the shell fish. Mrs. Morrey was ready to step on the dock when she lost her wedding ring, down through a rat hole. She felt some bad over it, but she saw her first lobster and it was a real treat to see. She took a picture of the lobster to show to her friends back home. Capt. Pat Olong had a real one that weighed 19 lbs., 2 ounces. The claw was big as a policeman's night stick. Mr. Morrey took out a roll of bills that would choke an ox and paid Capt. Olong $25 for the lobster. They were afraid to handle it, so Capt. Olong put it in his auto. Mrs Morrey was telling about her wedding ring, claiming that her husband got it from his cousin Peter Spring, from England, 25 years ago, and it was real England gold. "It had to cross the Atlantic ocean, 3,000 miles and about 4,000 miles to my home and it has a record. If that ring could only talk! If any of you fishermen find it, save that England ring and sent it to my home in New Hampshire, and a reward will be given to the lucky one." In the auto they had a parrot that chewed tobacco and talked all the time and his master, Mr. Morrey, had the parrot, Samson, doing the Harvard Hop as he whistled. The fishermen had a thrill for that day. The parrot would say, "Hey, guy! give me a chew of B. L. tobacco!" and how it would take a chew, like a chopper in the Maine woods on a cold morning. It was a show by itself, for everyone got a kick out of it, and the parrot would say, "Pull that curtain, act 2 is over." Mr. and Mrs. Morrey had a book telling about every place they'd been, and stopped during their 15 years of travel, also they have worn out four Ford cars, on account of the bad roads in different places They bade the fishermen good-bye. The auto was covered with writing on the outside. One line read, "Don't laugh girls, you will be old some day!" another one said, "No smoking in this auto, but when you get off light up an Old Gold!" The last one read, "We have traveled 15 years to all parts of the United States and never had a blow-out." One kind hollered, "Little birdie on that one!" as out of sight went the lizzie and not many cars could pass it.

Recently, as Mate George Deveau was mending a net at the dock, he saw a rat come up out of a hole, looking for something to eat. He saw it had a gold ring around its neck, but at first he thought it was a brass ring. Getting down from the shelf in the fish house, the old fisherman's never-fail gun, Mate Deveau, who is a sure shot, and can light a match about 25 feet away, can hit the bull's eye about 86 out of a hundred. With his left hand, as steady as a watch-maker at work on a Howard watch, counting three, he let go and over fell Mr. Rat, dead as a door nail, shot right through the head. It never hurt the ring, and Straight-Aim Deveau went and got the ring and his eyes were popping, for it was a wonderful one, heavily made from the best gold, and W. M. was inside the England ring. The rat must have got the ring around its neck when young and could not shake it loose. The rate sure had a good collar to keep his neck warm, but did not think that the gold collar came all the way from the other side of the pond. It is over 9 months since the ring was lost and now the lady will be happy and will have a Christmas present that will last her for a long while. Our sharp-shooter of the fishing village sent the ring to Mrs. Morrey before the rush in the mail got too heavy and will get his reward for his good work for killing the rat that had a gold ring around his neck which one fellow on the dock said cost about $250 of anybody's money. Deveau said, "If I don't get any reward I have made somebody happy and her worry is over!" The gang of fishermen gave Straight-Aim Deveau a big hand for getting the rat with the ring.

MYSTIC

Florine Dow camp, No. 6925, Royal Neighbors of America held a social and sale in K. of P. hall, early Friday evening, with very good results. Aprons, fancy articles and candy were on sale and a grab bag proved a source of revenue. Following the serving of refreshments there was dancing. The program included: Sketch, Mrs. Henry Johnson and Mrs. Ellery Burdick; recitation, Miss Barbara Neff; sketch, Mrs. Ira Decker and Mrs. Samuel Higbee; a juggling act, George Wallace and Mr. Demoyne; piano duet, Misses Dorothy Durant and Doris Brown.

Mrs. Rollin Burrows, Mrs. Charles Crandall, Mrs. Leonard Allyn and Miss Hattie Gabriel were also among Mystic visitors in New London Thursday.

Miss Grace Carlson of Waterford visited friends in Old Mystic, Thursday.

The Monday club is to meet next week with Mrs. George H. Miner. The hostess will have charge of the paper for the afternoon.

Miss Anna Larkin is confined to her home by illness.

FUNERAL.
Mrs. Samuel N. Bush.

The body of Mrs. Emma Barnes Bush, 84, who died Wednesday at Montclair, N. J., was brought to Mystic on the train which arrives here at 11.45, Friday. At noon, committal services were held at the grave in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic, Rev. E. P. S. Spencer, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, reading the service. Mrs. Bush was widow of Samuel N. Bush. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Louise B. Maxson, of Montclair.

Polish Priest To Speak.

At St. Patrick's church this (Saturday) evening at 7.30 and again on Sunday morning, a Polish speaking priest will preach to the Polish people of the parish.

There was a fine attendance at the Variety supper at the Old Mystic Methodist church parish house, Friday evening. The annual Christmas sale was also held in connection with the supper, and a good sum was realized from that source.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's church held a whist in Columbus hall, Thursday evening, with nine tables in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. C. LeBlanc and James Hanley, Mrs. Lewis Matthews, of Westerly, and W. McNamara. Cake and coffee were served by the committee. Miss Mary Inderdohnen, Mrs. Leo Martley, Mrs. Maurice Maynard and Mrs. West.

Leggo! Leggo!

(A garter of distinctive velvet elastic, gold-plated trimmings, packed in a distinguished box. It is the last word in leg luxury. Here is something she probably doesn't possess—$2—Magazine Advertisement).

Two dollar garters! Ours to wear
Upon the bustling thoroughfare
In princely ostentation—
We'll lift our trousers to the knee
To show our prodigality
(Also our vaccination).

The garters that we lately wore
Came blushly from the 10-cent store—
Yes, isn't that appalling?—
But, while they were no wondrous sight
And lacked sartorial delight,
They kept our socks from falling.

Now chaste and lovely artistry
Is joined to stern utility
With neatness and precision;
So let the crass and common ranks
Gape on our silk-encircled shanks
And marvel at the vision!

Two dollar garters! Oh what bliss!
To sport such luxury as this
Is simply devastating;
We yearn now only to be kissed
And gently slapped upon the wrist
So, please, don't keep us waiting!

Linsey-Woolsey and Satin Hose.

Lace and satin and powdered hair,
But under the silken garb somewhere
The common heart and the common touch—
Why, lace and satin don't mean so much.
Yes, folk or gentry, howe'er we're dressed.
Put any man to a manly test
And many a Washington you'll find,
Whatever the rank or what the kind.

Linsey-woolsey and feet left bare,
No lace nor satin nor powdered hair,
But under the homespun roughly made
The brotherhood of the unafraid.
Yes, folks or gentry, what craft or creed,
Let the country call, let the nation need,
And many a Lincoln you will find,
Whatever the rank, or what the kind.

Linsey-woolsey and satin hose,
Men never are quite what men suppose;
The rich are rich in the common things,
The lowly soul has an eagle's wings
Yes, folk or gentry, we're kith and kin,
However we're dressed, we're the same within,
And let but a danger dark the skies,
And our Washington and our Lincolns arise.

Always Christmas

Used to think that Christmas was nothing but a day
To get a lot of presents and to give a lot away.
Showed "Merry Christmas" and helped to trim the tree—
Just a day of Christmas was all that I could see.
Since I found that Christmas is more than any day,
Since Christmas came to our house and never went away.

Struck of a sudden that friendliness and cheer
Was meant to be on duty more than one day in a year.
If we're happy Christmas, why not the day before,
An' the day that follows, and so on, evermore,
Got to thinkin' of it—an' that is why I say,
Christmas came to our house an' never went away.

Lots of us go plodding along the road of life
An' think one day of gladness will make up for all the strife.
But the Christmas spirit can show you how you need
To make each day a Christmas in thought and ward and deed.
Used to pack the kindness in camphor balls next day,
Till Christmas came to our house and never went away.

Used to think that Christmas was nothin' but a date,
Till I learned that truly you would never have to wait;
But that it's the spirit that never stays apart
If you let it find you and keep it in your heart.
Since I found that Christmas is more than just a day
Christmas came to our house an' never went away.

We just keep on goin' to strangers and to kin
An' find that what is going out is always comin' in;
Makes the sunshine brighter where we've got to live
To learn that givin's keepin': what you have to give.
Holly in December, violets in May—
And Christmas came to our house—an' never went away.

Sowing Sin

A woman to the holy father went,
Confession of her sin was her intent:
And so her misdemeanors, great and small,
She faithfully rehearsed them all.
And chiefest in her catalogue of sin,
She owned that she a tale-bearer had been.
And borne a bit of scandal up and down,
To all the long-tongued gossips in the town.
The holy father for her other sin
Granted the absolution asked of Him,
But while he for the rest the pardon gave,
He told her this offence was very grave,
And that, to do fit penance, she must go
Out by the wayside where the thistles grow,
And gather the ripest, largest one,
Scatter the seeds: and that when this was done,
She must come back again another day
To tell him his commands she did obey.
The woman, thinking this a penance light,
Hastened to do his will that very night.
Feeling right glad she had escaped so well
Next day but one she went to the priest to tell.

The priest sat still and heard the story through:
Then said, "There's something still for you to do.
Those little thistle seeds which you have sown,
I bid you go and gather every one."
The woman said "But, father, 'twould be vain
To try to gather up those seeds again.
The winds have scattered them both far and wide
Over the meadows, fields, and mountain side."
The father answered, "Now I hope from this
The lesson I have taught you will not miss.
When you are sowing sin in words or deeds
You cannot gather back the scattered seeds
Nor can the mischief once be scandal sown
By any penance be again undone.

THE LEGEND OF THE BAYBERRY DIP

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: Christmas seems to be the time to write about bayberry candles, and Christmas eve the time to speak about the bayberry dip in this letter. Many of the ships show these dips in a neat box which says, "Burn these dips on Christmas night to the socket." "Twill bring plenty to the larder, health to the owner, and gold to the pocket." To learn your luck for the year, they say: Burn a bayberry dip on Christmas And if the flame burns high and clear—
Good luck will be yours throughout the year.

Much pretty sentiment clings about the making and burning of the bayberry dip. In olden days the pretty maiden searched the woods for the fragrant berries and, with her own hands, moulded two slender tapers—one for herself and the other for her lover (who might be far away). On the appointed evening (or on Christmas eve) the candles were lighted and the incense was supposed to drift together as a symbol of their love.

Bayberry bushes grow on sandy soil from New England to Florida. I have seen quantities of them in huckleberry pastures. They do not grow very tall and the time to gather them is after the first frost has touched them. They are covered with a fragrant wax. Some time I will send in how these candles are made. I have an old fashioned candle mould and have seen my mother mould them many times.

Here is another good idea for Christmas: Instead of a Christmas tree, try a Christmas barrel. One family we know grew tired of having the breakfast table, on Christmas morning, littered with wrappings on Christmas day. A barrel was covered with green crepe paper and placed in the hall. As the packages were ready they were dropped into it and taken out by the youngest member of the family. They roll in the barrel as they did the Yule log.

A merry Christmas to all

POWAGET BACK HOME

Editor Social Corner: Dear Sisters of Social Corner club, No. 6, and of other clubs too, Powaget greets you from her home on Post road, after a very sudden journey to Westerly hospital, but thanks to God, a good surgeon and fine nursing am here to say, "howdy" to everyone. Let me thank each and everyone of you for the fine messages I received as they were cheery and as I pick up them now and look them over I can't realize I had so many friends. If ever one needs friends is when one is down flat and has to stay there. I had intended to see you all at Mechanics hall, in November, but don't mind, I'll see you later and I shall long remember the lovely greetings I got, and I take this way of expressing it. Once more, thank you all and Powaget won't forget ever though I can't call you all by name.

MEMORIES

My Dear Friends: I sincerely hope that you enjoy a lovely Christmas.

The very thought of the holiday season brings joy to each one of us. Yes, and down in our hearts is a lonely feeling of loss, for the dear ones who were with us years past.

Daisy Dean: A few short months ago I journeyed by bus and about a mile from Danielson my companion, who had happened to be making a trip at that time, and who told me he would sit beside me if I "behaved myself," told me that there was his former home, and recalled many incidents you mention.

And now, my dear friend, just another memory, just another kind friend gone over the river. Such thoughts bring tears. This morning I received a letter from a loved one in a distant city. Many years ago her home was the restful spot where all could go, find comfort and cheer and welcome. Today she writes, if only one were left to me, I would come at once.

Another aching heart. The world is full of lonely lives, their eyes turned to the hill far away—to the old wooden cross.

THE BANSHEE

BRIGHTENING THE HOUSE

Dear Corner Sisters: Good morning, everyone! Isn't this sunshine simply glorious after all the dreary, dull weather we've been having? Oh, it puts renewed vigor into us, doesn't it, and now we can go after our household tasks with a will.

I always sing on gloomy days (keeps away the blues) and try to bring as much color as possible into the house to take away that cold, gray look. Fall, I think, is the time of the year when most folks "sorta" get the blues, but just think how splendid we can brighten our rooms with the abundance of bitter sweets, winter berry, our late autumn flowers and beautifully tinted leaves that Jack Frost himself has touched up with his skilled brush. Oh, I love autumn and I had a fine time flooding my living room with color. I was busy gathering flowers and things and when the small chore was completed the effect was lovely. It cheers hubby on his return from work. Outside, the air was chill and damp (he has to ride home from work every evening in an open car), it was raining, a slow, uncomfortable drizzle, and the sky was heavy with dark low-hanging clouds. He had spent an unusually hard day at the office and somehow things hadn't gone "just right," but the minute he stepped into the nice, cheery warmth (of course I had a small fire to take off the chill of the living-room) he exclaimed that it was like stepping suddenly into paradise. His mood brightened, he forgot his troubles and was the same happy boy once again. Then he told me about the man who rides with him. He and his wife don't seem to be pulling together at all. She rarely has supper ready for him; the house these last few days has been like an "ice box," simply because she didn't think it was her duty to build fires in the furnace. She has forgotten that hubby loves a tidy, clean, little wife to come home to, for her hair isn't curled up pretty any more and the dainty touch of powder and rouge are lacking, the fresh pink and white checked gingham apron he used to love to see her in has been replaced by an untidy old brown affair, and oh, how badly this disillusioned young hubby did feel; thought he couldn't stand it much longer.

I think I shall run over tomorrow and see if I can find the root of the trouble, her side, and help her regain her happiness, for what is life without love? And love seems to have flown from there.

Oh, "fellow housewives," it means so much; it means all and takes so little extra time to keep the home bright and cozy, and to keep hubby—the one nearest and dearest—happy and contented, too.

Will sign the name hubby loves to call me,

HAPPINESS.

THE OLD TRUNDLE BED

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I am wondering how many of our sisters and readers know what a "trundle" bed is, and how many have slept on one. I presume many of the younger people are raising the question as to what this mysterious kind of a bed may be, as they are not found in the modern homes of today

When I was about five years old, my father built a new house, which was rather small, but large enough for our family of three. On the first floor were three rooms, beside pantry and sink room, and up stairs, two bedrooms and a store room As my folks thought I was too young to sleep alone up stairs and the bedroom down stairs was not large enough for two beds, my father made a "trundle" bed for me as I well remember it. As my father was a carpenter and these trundle beds were home made affairs, it was an easy device for him.

It was made of four pieces of smooth planed boards, about 12 or 14 inches wide, nailed together like a box, but about the dimension of a large crib, with slats to hold the featherbed, of its required size, and rollers, (sometimes called iron castels) underneath each corner, like all ordinary beds. The object of the trundle bed was to utilize space. During the day it was rolled under the large bed, which in those days were higher from the floor than those of present style

At night, the little bed was "trundled" out, and then and there occurred my earliest dreams in childhood sleep.

How apt we are to forget certain things of our younger days, unless something occurs to remind us, and bring back its memory? And so in this case, a short time ago, as Sister Theoda was visiting with me, we went into the Morgan Memorial, on Main St., Hartford, to see the many beautiful things that are there, including a vast variety of amusing and interesting antiques. Here we saw some very old high four post bedsteads all made up and covered with the old-fashioned patch-work bedquilts, which especially attracted Theoda's attention, but as for me, my eye caught sight of a "trundle," partly drawn out from beneath, and at the foot of the bed. I had not seen one before for many years and my thoughts quickly returned in memory to the first bed, my own little trundle, that I could remember of sleeping in.

Best wishes to all, and sympathy to the shut-ins and sick.

SILVER LOCKS BACK HOME

Dear Editor, Sisters and Friends of the Social Corner: Here I am again after my long silence. I read the letters every week and they are all so helpful and interesting.

I went to my daughter's in southern Pennsylvania last April and stayed 'till November. I spent a very pleasant summer going on auto rides and picnics. She has four nice children who helped to make my visit pleasant.

In November I was taken sick so my daughter and husband, from New London, came and stayed a week and I came back with them.

Thanksgiving passed very pleasantly as my son and his wife, from New York, were with us. I think these family reunions are so nice. I was sorry my other daughter and family could not be with us, then our circle would have been complete, but as we are so many miles apart it seemed to be out of the question.

A few years ago I wrote a piece for the Corner entitled "Thanksgiving Fifty Years Ago," about how everything was baked in the brick oven and cooking done by the fireplace. Of course, I know it would not interest the young people, but the older ones many of them, have heard how cooking was done at that time.

Hope all had a pleasant Thanksgiving.

Best wishes to all.

SILVER LOCKS.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Dear Social Corner: — I am too tired after eating a Thanksgiving dinner (with all the fixin's) to write a letter. However, I'll try and do my best, for it is said: "He who does the best his circumstances allow—does well—acts nobly—angels could do no more." We had a bountiful Thanksgiving spread with everything that goes to make a dinner complete. I will not try to speak of anything except the turkey which weighed 11 3-4 pounds, when ready for the oven, and the best I ever tasted. A most excellent cook should be praised for that part of it and the one who raised it certainly should have a vote of thanks. We had no company. The weather was snow and sunshine most of the day. We listened to an excellent sermon on the new Radiola from the text "Man Shall Not Live by Bread Alone." I had many things to be thankful for and hope everybody, everywhere can say the same.

Now we must say goodbye to November—the last month of autumn this year. Christmas will soon be with us again with many things to be done, and the days are too short to accomplish very much. On Dec. 2nd, we listened to "Cherio" this morning. He was too funny for anything. Did any of you hear him? It looks like more snow again, and my letter is too long this time I fear, so will close and hope you all had as fine a Thanksgiving spread as we did.

With all good wishes,

ANN TENNA.

CHATTY LETTER FROM BETSY BOBBETT.

Dear Social Corner: As this is the third time I've begun a letter to the Corner maybe I'll be able to finish. In October I addressed the envelope. In November I wrote perhaps a dozen lines. Don't know yet how luck will turn today. (Much later—it evidently took an ill-turn for the editor).

Wonder how many of the sisters are anathematizing the weather this morning! Not a very good beginning for a club day morning. There's one good thing about this cold weather though, especially for those of us who live in the country. The temperature is so far below the danger line that there isn't much danger of food spoiling. So now when I put left-overs in my pantry I know that it's natural (at present) frigid air will keep them until they are wanted, with no expense for electric current. This idea was suggested by my breakfast, just finished, which was made up, namely, of left-overs. Snowy weather though isn't going to bother me today. Can't go to the club meeting as this week I've vowed me a solemn vow to stay home and make Christmas presents, it being the only chance I'll have as next week am expecting company, which means extra cleaning and cooking. Wish I had some good ideas to share with the sisters in that line (making presents) but my mind this year is as empty of new ideas, as was Mother Hubbard's cupboard, so I'm just making some of the old standbys, which in this case means principally rompers and bloomers.

And I might as well admit it. That is the reason why (lack of ideas) the other letters didn't get written. My brain simply wouldn't function. (It doesn't yet.) But it is like this—with two extra mouths to feed one in the kitchen, the other in the living-room, it keeps me quite busy foxtrotting between the two. And if by any chance I try to think then I forget and the fire goes out. So I've giving up thinking as being too much trouble

As I can't think of anything worth while to write about, will tell you about a fox hunt I witnessed yesterday—saw the whole thing from start to finish, a pretty snappy affair as it didn't last over three minutes. Our neighbor's two dogs, Queen and Prince had been barking on a track back of the house off and on all morning. They had evidently given up and decided to return home, for as I looked out the window to observe the weather, I saw them coming down the road and they were not then on my track. Just then both dogs let out a yell that startled me and both dashed for an old stone wall between the road and our henyard, barking furiously. Our own dog chimed up adding to the din. Over the racket I heard a squall that sounded much like a cat. "Quick, Sonny," I called, "the dogs are killing the cat." He jumped and ran. Got to the spot (not over a hundred feet from the house) just in time to finish off Mr. Grey Fox and keep the dogs from tearing him to pieces. Now I'm wondering if it was Brer Fox who got the turkey we missed just before Thanksgiving.

Speaking of turkeys, I think I have the champion egg-layer among them. She began laying March 27, being then nine months old, finished Oct. 21, and laid about 160 eggs during that time. Can any one beat that? Along about the last of October, everybody began to predict that she would lay herself to death, that she wouldn't have strength left to moult. Well I wouldn't bet anything on any turk's life, it's too uncertain, but she's not dead yet. When the cold snap the last of November came along, she was so near naked, only a few wing feathers left, that I brought her in the house and kept her in a box for a couple of nights. She didn't seem to enjoy it so put her out again and she hasn't frozen yet.

Thanks to Pen and Ink for telling us about "The Harvest of a Quiet Eye." I have enjoyed reading it. And to Jennie for telling us about Bible Rock.

Well, the sun seems to be trying hard to shine through the clouds, so perhaps Club 1 will have a nice day for their meeting after all.

This letter doesn't seem to have either rhyme or reason for its being, so think I'd better quit before the editor throws me out. Anyway it may be useful as a filler to the Corner if it is empty, to the waste basket if it isn't. So a Merry Christmas to all.

BETSY BOBBETT.

MOTHERS

Dear Sisters:, Many weeks have passed since I wrote a letter to the Corner or attended a meeting, but I have not lost my interest. I read all the letters to keep in touch with the writers. Two dear sisters who used to enjoy the meetings, also three other relatives have passed away within the past few months. It seems as though I have had more than my share but I try to go on knowing that He is the Great Burden Bearer also a "very present help in trouble" He will help us to bear whatever He sees best to send.

Experience in life comes to each of us where it requires all our courage and strength but it is a battle we each must fight in our own way. He who gives the sword and shield chooses for us the battle field. When I see a mother with children around her, I sometimes wonder if she realizes what great wealth is hers. What a great responsibility but what wonderful possibilities.

You mothers who have the care of those little ones have your battle field right there.

Angelo Patri says "if you have children to train that is your job." It is big enough to require all the time you can possibly put into it. There is need of great patience and self-denial but it is a battle worth fighting. All mothers who have reared children to be worth-while men and women can look back and feel fully recompensed for all the worry and anxiety involved for they have won out in one of the greatest battles of life.

The greatest battle that ever was fought shall I tell you where and how? It was not fought on the battle field But t'was fought by the mothers of men.

Sympathy to those in trouble and a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all.

NAOMI.

PICNIC TROUBLES

Dear Editor and all the Friends: Some winter today. Hope we get a let up sometime. These are not like picnic days. I well remember one I went to years ago, but it was not in the winter time and it was lucky for me that it wasn't. The children wanted to go to that picnic and so did I with the result that I dressed them all in white to have them look nice. I got me a new white waist, had a light skirt and set off feeling bigger than a great gun. That was all very fine but did we look well coming home!

After we had been there a while someone gave the children some chocolates. It was hot and they began to melt and run all over their hands and faces and down onto their clothes. One of them began to wipe her face on my dress. Then another spilled a bottle of soda on the other side. Well, we went to dinner and when the young man brought the chowder someone knocked his elbow and the chowder went on my shoulder, both front and back. He got a towel and wiped it off the best he could and apologized. After dinner we were a mess and I thought we would start for home. The horse stepped on my toe and took the cap nearly off of my shoe and as I started to hitch up, my toe caught in a bush and over I went under the horse. A young man came to my rescue and as I started to get into the wagon, my shoe caught again and I landed in the wagon on my knees and hands. But I got up on the seat after a while, the young man led the horse into the road and I started. We came to a brook and the horse wanted a drink. It was all mud since there had been so many ahead of me. But I got out to uncheck the horse, caught my toe again and into the brook I went. I came out all mud There were many passing and how they did laugh. I didn't blame them. I got in again and made another start and we landed home tired and sore but the next morning I had to be helped out of bed and I didn't go to any more picnics for a good many years. So when any of you go to picnics take an extra dress along with you.

A merry Christmas to you all

RHYMES FOR GIFTS

Dear Social Corner Folks: The suggestion of Prairie Chicken that a gift described by her be fastened with a clip and a pleasing verse, reminded me that, while I am not keen at making rhymes myself, I have some verses designed by someone to fit many of the popular Christmas gifts. The verse may be written on a Christmas card and tucked into the folds of tissue paper in which the gift is wrapped thus supplying a charm which will enhance the gift a hundredfold.

For an Apron

In a dainty tea apron a girl is disarming,
In one for the kitchen her powers alarming:
She reigns like a queen in Each apron she's seen in:
May this one but make the dear wearer more charming.

Book

Old books like old friends are best,
I'm sure this adage is true
So I've selected (title of book)
To say 'Merry Christmas' to you.

Chain

A chain of pleasant memories
I always have of thee
And so I hope these letters light
Will link thy thoughts to me

Collar and Cuff Set

At first I thought I'd send you, dear,
About a million dollars:
But recollected just in time
Your fad for cuffs and collars

Necktie

To exceed your friendly greetings
I really couldn't try;
So, we'll say that we are even
And call the score a "tie."

Pocket Book

Of all the books the world contains,
Just put them to the test—
The friendly pocketbook's the one
We really like the best.

Ring

With many golden wishes
This little ring I send—
A token of regard that like a Circle, has no end.

Handkerchiefs

There 'kerchiefs hold kind wishes true,
May you find them very useful, too;
I hope they'll match your Sunday clothes,
And if they don't, why then, your nose!

Twice Twenty: Thanks for your "pleasant surprise" should be given Keziah Doolittle instead of me.

Sweet Lavender: How do you like your new home? Let me hear from you.

With best wishes,

PRIMROSE.

GROUP BEHAVIOR

Dear Social Corner Friends: One of our most important jobs now is to improve our methods of training the children in group behavior.

To be convinced of the importance of this we need only to watch the school children.

We are not apt to find a large group all of whom are well trained mentally and socially. Occasionally we know of an accidental death caused because someone had not been trained to be careful and safe when in the company of others.

In transportation the school children are often noisy and rough and accustomed to pitch into some of the smaller children.

This is very unsuitable behavior in this age for, in the excitement, some child may forget or cannot be careful in the traffic and another fatal accident may occur. And no one really is to blame, perhaps, except the parents who have not properly prepared the child to meet safely the hazards of our crowded traffic conditions now.

It is easier to teach group behavior in the school than individually in the home, but it should be taught daily and thoroughly in both places

Teach them to take careful care of themselves. It is a mistake for the young child to learn to expect that someone will take all the care and think for him. Let him feel responsible always and learn to think quickly for himself.

Nearly all children attend church more or less. Use church behavior as the proper model for group behavior on the trolley car or bus and toward each other anywhere.

Provide a suitable place and time when the child can get rid of his surplus nervous activity in regular healthy exercises and without annoyance or injury to anyone.

MARJORY.

KEEPING OUT OF SLACKER CLASS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: If I do not want to be called a slacker or a misfit in the Social Corner, I had better get busy with pen and paper.

As the hands of time move on I find myself again in the home of Aunty No. 1. I had a wonderful time with her and uncle. I missed her who was with us a year ago but that was something we could not contest.

In going around as I do I have the good luck of being with the best of people. They are all so pleasant to meet with. I always feel at home.

Home is to me wherever I hang my hat. One does not realize what a good home is until that home is broken up.

Arbutus: I have just heard junior is not feeling well. I trust he is better soon.

Rose of New England: Too busy to write I suppose. Hope the little ones are all well.

Scottie: I trust you are well. I cannot get to the gatherings very often now.

Nelly Bly: I cannot run in as often as I did once on a time.

JOINS THE CORNER

To Editor of Social Corner: I would like to become a member of your Social Corner I have attended several gatherings and enjoyed them so much I would feel honored to call myself a member. I would assume the pen name

KENNEBEC.

HOW TO MAKE FLOWER TIE BACKS

Dear Social Corner Members:. My plan for the last two years, was, to be a Corner member. If the editor accepts my letter and pen name, I will be delighted to be one of you. After attending a few of your meetings and meeting some of the sisters I wonder why doesn't every one become a Corner member. After all, isn't it like one large family, each one trying to help another? So many helpful hints have appeared on the corner page, and nice chatty letters.

Now at this busy time of the year, every one is hunting gifts for their friends, some making different articles for gifts. Personally, a home made gift carries warm affections As years roll by that bit of handwork is treasured. No doubt some sisters have made the flower tie backs, but for those that haven't it may help them to solve a little of the Christmas problem, as I find most everyone likes them. Any light weight material may be used. I've used voile, organdie and rayon. Cut narrow strips for the band used for the tie back or bias tape if you can match the color does well and saves time. After the bands are sewed, cut circles four and one half inches in diameter, or as small or as large as one desires, turn in the raw edges, and gather quite tight, leaving space in the middle to be filled in with yellow french knots Then sew five or six on each band, make leaves of the same color or a green if you choose, by cutting a square, folding it in half, then turn the top corners down, and gather at the bottom. Sew two on each band, one at either end of the flowers. These are simple but very attractive. I have straight hanging curtains at my windows, so in the bed rooms I have overdrapes of rayon which I tie back with these flowers made from rayon. The effect is a pretty window

Today I saw a friend of mine throw sandwiches out that were left from a party the night before. Then I found the little hint I had known for years was still undiscovered to my friend. So it may be for dozens of such things one does unbeknown to another.

There is nothing that gets to the people like the Corner page. A napkin wrung from cold water then placed over the sandwiches will keep them as fresh as if they were first made.

A very Merry Christmas and prosperous New Year to all Fidelis.

BUSY MEMBERS

Dear Editor and Sisters Thanks, Editor, for my yellow slip. It has been exchanged for a silver dollar for the new baby in our family (not mine, thanks be). I wrote a letter last week but, by some mischance, it wasn't mailed until it was too late to get in so I'll try to do better this time. Last Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Milky Way, Mr. S. my son and myself, went to Norwich to the annual meeting and banquet of the New London County Farm bureau. The Norwich grange furnished the turkey supper which was excellent. I believe the committee from the farm bureau furnished the noise-making instruments and if all the members there would blow their horns as loudly in the membership campaign I'm sure they would be swamped with new members. Certainly the racket beat any July 4th, celebration. Mr. Brundage tried to lead in singing but I don't see how he expected people to sing after that meal. The business meeting was held upstairs after which there was a short sketch which included the annual reports of the county and home demonstration agents and a moving picture, both showing how the farm bureau can help you if you but ask for it.

The next night I went to Stonington grange and saw the Mystic degree team work the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates.

I've been down street everyday so far this week but I hope to stay home long enough to wash tomorrow. I am "nearly" as bad as another S. C. member, who I heard say the other day, that she had to wash at night as she went somewhere every day.

Last Thursday I attended the Club No. 6 meeting in Mechanics hall, where Coonie was hostess. There was an abundance of everything to eat and if every one didn't have enough it was their own fault I guess. I helped serve when I wasn't talking which, I think, was most of the time. American Girl had charge of the programme, which consisted of a reading by Zulleka, tableau of the Birth of Jesus, and singing. Then Santa Claus made a flying visit as this is the last meeting before Christmas. Next month the meeting will be on the third Tuesday as usual, with yours truly as hostess.

Thanks again for the yellow slip and best wishes to everyone.

SUMAC (No. 6).

MAKING CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Dear Social Corner Members: With the first flurries of snow comes the realization that the holiday season is near at hand and we must be up and doing if we bring our plans to maturity.

The greeting card is most essential. It conveys a message of good cheer, best wishes and most of all the thought of remembrance. Several years ago when I had forgotten to send to several who had remembered me, I made a complete list of names and addresses. Each year the list is preserved and placed with the Christmas decorations for reference the next year. In this way no one is ever neglected and the time saved is quite an item when time is at such a premium.

I paint my own cards thus saving money as well as giving a personal touch.

I have a gift suggestion book. Here, after each name, I place the article I wish to purchase for each friend. It sometimes takes the whole year to find out just what the article may be. For example, last year I received a beautiful rose jar—not expensive, but a gift worth while. One of my friends in looking over my gifts said, "Your gifts are lovely, but I surely would like a rose jar like that," so I wrote rose jar after her name. Thus often through conversation one can find out the things people like most and it often means less expenditure than one would otherwise make. The assurance before hand that a gift will bring pleasure makes Christmas ideal for all.

Best wishes to all. CONTENTED

CLUB NO. 2'S CHRISTMAS PARTY

Dear Cornerites: Our hostess at the December meeting of Club No. 2, surely won herself big praise for the way she put over the Christmas meeting. When you entered the hall the transformation was fine crere paper, Santa Clauses all around the room, on the wall and piano, then two toy Santas on the mantle. On the mantle also was red and black crepe paper, a small Christmas tree on the platform and gaily decorated cases of poinsettia, red berries and laurel leaves. A sparkling merry Christmas hung on a cord.

The tables had small Christmas trees, white glass candle holders and red candles on the three tables. Christmas napkins, paper decorations in center of tables, red baskets with candy at each plate. With red bells at the door it surely gave a touch of the holiday season. The dinner table was well laden with all the good things to eat and on the cross tabe a two-tier cake, frosted fancy and a doll, with chiffon ribbon bow, topped it off

All did ample justice to the good things the Corner Sisters know how to make for others to enjoy. At the dinner hour a telegram was received with a check for $5 to be used for ice cream, which was done and enjoyed. A rising vote of thanks was given to "Dad" Shaw, for his thoughtfulness to us. After dinner the programme was given including readings, poems and songs, with Aunt Mary Jane at the piano.

Both Blackeyed Susan and Scottie were called out of town by deaths in their families. Our sympathy is extended to both.

Wishing you all a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year

GREETINGS FROM PALLA

Dear Social Corner Friends: How is everybody? It is some time since I wrote to the Corner but have been very busy getting ready for Thanksgiving, and now for Christmas. My but the year rolls around fast. I just love the Christmas season and still this is the second Christmas that mother has not been with us. It seems I miss her more at holiday time

Auralee: How are you these days? I have been trying to get down there with my family and give your mother a chance to see them again. Did you go to the Christmas entertainment? I did not see you My two girls were in it so, of course, I had to go. Come up when you can.

Lonefather: Why not write to the Corner sometime? Would like to see a letter from you, so get busy I did not go to town last Saturday. I suppose you missed me. Don't know if I will go up this week or not. If I do will surely see you

Best wishes for a merry Christmas to all the Social Corner members is the wish of

PALLA

SOME KITCHEN KINKS

Dear S. C. Friends and Editor: Thanksgiving gone for this year and Christmas will soon be with us. I see the postmaster general has issued some strict rules for us to follow. I have very little ambition for Christmas work. Have had, one nice photo sent to me from Providence of the Waite wedding which took place Oct. 13th, which I prize very highly, the bride being a relative of mine. It will count as one of my Christmas gifts. I am sending a few kitchen kinks. I thought perhaps they might be a help to some one, some where.

A pinch of salt will add flavor to after-dinner coffee.

Salt added to a vase of cut flowers will help them to keep longer.

Pour the coffee drains down the sink, they will clean the pipes of grease and keep them in good condition.

FAIRY GODMOTHER'S GREETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Children: The time has come again for me to greet you all. I welcome all new members who have joined the Social Corner this year. To those that have lost their loved ones I send my sympathy. Their gain is our loss. To the sick I send cheer and good wishes for speedy recovery and to all members I send a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

This year is passing very quickly. Soon we will be writing 1930. I am glad all clubs are having a good attendance and I trust all will enjoy their gatherings. This snow we are having in December we will not have in May.

Wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, I remain as ever.

FAIRY GODMOTHER

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

Dear Editor and Sisters: I have not written to you for a long time. I have been very busy. We are having good weather up here. I got first prize in Baking Powder Biscuit contest. Here is the recipe:

Baking Powder Biscuits: Cream, two tablespoons of shortening, add two cups of flour, well sifted, four teaspoons of baking powder and 3-4 teaspoon salt. Use a knife in mixing, roll out about one inch thick, use a biscuit cutter dipping it in flour. Place biscuits on well greased pan. Bake 10 to 15 minutes.

Myranda: How are you these bright days? Hope to hear from you soon.

Will close with best regards to all.

HONEY.

There is probably nothing purer than the motive of a man who lends money to another when he never expects to get it back.

A SUGGESTION FOR CLUBS OR INDIVIDUALS

Dear Editor: Perhaps some of our members do not know that "Christmas boxes" are very much appreciated at hospitals, sanitoriums, and old people's homes. Bed sheets and pillow cases are always in demand. The sheets should measure 63 inches by 99 inches after hemming pillow slips 20x30 inches hemmed. Pads for under sheets, should be two yards long by one yard wide. Warm patchwork comforts, same size, are fine. "Tucking" small pillows are a blessing. If down or feathers see the ticking is feather proof. Pillows that mount are a daily burden to the attendents. Little pillows, filled with fur-balsam, are always gratefully welcomed. Covers for hot-water bottles, stand runners, baby blankets, and simple baby garments are always needed at the maternity ward. For gifts, a fountain pen, a flashlight small clock, a thermos bottle, pretty wools with crochet hook or knitting needles, a new book of designs, stationery, good puzzles, easy games and books, cards, pictures calendars, indoor bulbs are good

Let us search in the by-ways to find some elderly people who are never remembered at Christmas time. Just a simple cardboard box with a pretty picture pasted on the lid containing mixed nuts and a few mints, fancy candies and a spray or leaf of holly may bring a thrill to some aged person.

Daisy Dean: Glad to read your letter in Corner. May we have a meeting of Club 4, in Danielson, Jan. 8th? So many of our members can reach Danielson easily: more convenient than Plainfield.

Pinky: There are several ways to reduce. Stop eating is one way, but most of us like to eat, so I will tell you the latest method I read about reducing. Eat as much as you need of anything you need for six days in each week, but one day each week you must fast absolutely and drink only water on that day. If this method does not reduce you rapidly, try fasting two days each week say Fridays and Mondays.

Contented: Thank you for reply to my query.

Bug: Sorry I was not at home when you called.

I wish to say happy birthday to all who claim December as their natal time and to wish all members and editor a merry Christmas.

ARIES

EXPERIENCE WITH SUMMER PICNICS.

Dear Social Cornerites: Have just been enjoying hearing Sir Harry Lauder sing over the radio. What a wonderful thing to sit in your home and hear him sing in Los Angeles, Cal.

Truly the radio brings us beautiful music and enjoyable talks and entertainment at all times. I wonder if we remember to be thankful for these great blessings.

I hope you all had as happy a Thanksgiving as I did. We had our family all together and very pleasant guests, and last, but not by no means least, a very appetising dinner. The turkey was raised in Scotland and was delicious. And all the fixings were just O. K. We felt about as "Amos and Andy" did after their Thanksgiving dinner.

Now I am going to say a few words about summer picnics and I know whereof I speak, as I had two at my home—one in 1915 and again in 1916—and they were enough to last me a life time. I had 90 attending the first and 178 at my second. As I had forethought and bought two pounds of sliced ham and four loaves of bread I managed to have enough sandwiches. But beans! Some who were to bring them did not come. I had baked a large pan and one other sister brought a pan. Still not enough, so got canned ones and heated them. After a time dinner was over and I was tired. Then came the task of getting chairs back to the ones from whom I borrowed them and talk about dishes to wash. "This is the solemn truth." At my last picnic I had to furnish 50 with dishes and silver; they had forgotten theirs. My children said: "Mother whenever you say Social Corner picnic our legs ache." Talk about taking up a collection at the picnic. You could guarantee me $25 to have a picnic at my home and I would say: "Declined with thanks, no temptation."

How I roast a turkey. When it is drawn and well washed I cut off the wings and legs. Cut the hip and lower leg apart. Then I place dressing in body and set it in roaster, putting the legs, etc., on either side. I take pork drippings and rub the breast and legs, then place a clean white cloth, wet with water, over all; put cover on roaster and set in hot oven. I baste about five times and each time wet the

Reddy Talks With Hooty

A hint is like a planted seed;
Its growth is marvelous, indeed.
Old Mother Nature.—

Reddy Fox had quite recovered from his wounds. You see, those shot from the terrible gun had little more than gone through his skin. They had smarted and hurt for a little while, but that was all. Reddy wasn't even lame. But he had learned one thing, and this was that he had got to be very careful in approaching the place where he had caught a turkey. He knew that it would not be easy to get another one. The farmer who owned those turkeys was keeping watch.

"I have got to get some one else to catch the turkey for us," thought Reddy. "Neither Mrs. Reddy nor I can climb a tree. If we could climb a tree we might be able to get one of those turkeys while they were asleep. My, it would be easy for Yowler the Bobcat to get one of them. I am glad he doesn't know about them. He would spoil all our hunting. Hello, there is Hooty the Owl hooting! He must be over on his favorite watch tower. I'll drop around that way."

So Reddy left the Old Pasture and trotted through the Green Forest until he came to the tall dead tree which is the watch tower of Hooty the Owl. He could see Hooty sitting very straight on the top of it. He looked almost like a part of the tree. He hooted, and Reddy grinned as he watched him lean forward a wee bit that he might listen better.

"It is good hunting?" barked Reddy.

Hooty looked down and in those great eyes of his were disappointment and anger. He snapped his bill as only Hooty can snap a bill. "What are you doing over here around my hunting ground?" he demanded. "How can there be good hunting with so many hunters around?"

"Oh, I am not going to hunt here," replied Reddy mildly. "I am just passing along through. There is no harm in that, is there? By the way, Mrs. Reddy and I had good hunting the other night. We had the best hunting

"Is it good hunting?" barked Reddy

we've had this winter. He had a feast and it makes my mouth water just to think of it."

Hooty was all attention. He turned his head and looked down at Reddy as if to see whether Reddy meant what he had said or was fooling. "What was that feast?" he asked.

"Turkey," replied Reddy. "Turkey. Did you ever eat turkey?"

"Once, just once," replied Hooty. "You certainly did have good hunting. Were there any more turkeys there?"

"A lot of them," replied Reddy. "But we were lucky to get that one. If only I could climb a tree I could get another."

A sudden gleam came into the eyes of Hooty the Owl. "What has climbing a tree got to do with it?" he asked.

"Oh," replied Reddy, "these turkeys all sleep in a tree. Mrs. Reddy and I were lucky enough to catch one before it had flown up in the tree for the night. But I fear we shall not have another chance like that."

"Where did you say these turkeys are?" inquired Hooty, leaning forward eagerly.

"I didn't say," replied Reddy. "Turkey certainly is fine eating. Yes, sir, it certainly is fine eating. Well, I must be on my way, neighbor. Good hunting to you!" Grinning slyly, Reddy trotted away.

SUNSHINE BOX GREATLY APPRECIATED

Social Corner Friends: I want to thank all those at the December meeting of Club No. 2 that made it possible for my husband and me, who are both shut-ins, to receive such lovely Christmas sunshine cheer in the form of gifts, you all know you sent to me. Calla Lilly and her son brought part and the big gift was delivered next day. May God's blessings rest on and about you all and give each and everyone a merry Christmas and happy New Year.

AUNTY MARIE

UNION

After a beautiful day Saturday, when Sunday morning came everything was coated with ice, and the road, Buckley highway included, were pedestrians. A service was held at church Sunday morning, as usual, although only a small number were out, and in the afternoon, Sunday school was held in the Rock Meadow schoolhouse.

Miss Delia M. Heck, leader of the Union Home Economics club, accompanied by Mrs. H. R. Howard, attended the demonstration held by Mrs. Marion Evans Dakin, nutrition specialist, in Bolton. The meeting was Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the home of Mrs. Bruce, and the towns of Vernon and Mansfield, as well as Bolton and Union, were represented. The demonstration was on the uses of fruits, of many kinds and combinations, in a healthful daily diet.

Monday a meeting of the Union Home Economics club was held in the town hall at Union Center. The members from the Union club who had attended Mrs. Dakin's demonstration in Bolton, repeated the demonstration at the Monday morning session, and the results, in the form of fruit foods were used and enjoyed as a part of the covered dish dinner.

Rev. William D. Pardee will preach at the church at Union Center, Sunday, Dec. 15, at 11 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. William Bragg, also expects to be present.

About the meanest thing a woman can do when her husband's name is mentioned is to sigh, look resigned and say nothing.

MARKET CLOSED WITH THE LEADING SHARES HIGHER FROM 1 TO 23 POINTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—(AP)—Opposing giants of speculation clashed in a violent and determined struggle for control of the price movement on the stock exchange today, with the bull forces gaining the advantage in fairly decisive fashion toward the close of the session.

The struggle was so furious that the average commission house traders were driven to the sidelines, leaving the professionals a clear field. Prices were hurled up and knocked down with startling rapidity, most shares fluctuating over ranges of 5 to 10 points, while some of the higher priced or less active shares swung over ranges of 15 to nearly 30 points.

The bull faction, having received a severe blow late yesterday, rallied soon after the opening and drove bears to cover, leading shares shooting up 2 to 15 points. Within a short time, however speculators for the fall again gained the upper hand, and before midday leading shares were selling 2 to 12 points below the previous close. The next rally of bull forces was of only momentary duration, but toward mid-afternoon, bears were forced into a gradual retreat, which became lusty in the late trading and the majority of shares closed from 1 to 23 points higher. Nearly half yesterday's last ground was regained. Trading quieted down during the afternoon, and total sales were 4,287,960 shares, moderately under the turnover of the previous session.

The action of the market was too erratic to be predicated upon any developments in the day's rather meagre news. The weekly trade and business reviews indicated further picking up of retail trade. Bradstreets reporting the largest volume in two months. Reports from various sections of the country and regarding various lines of merchandise were highly irregular. On the whole, the turnover seemed to be less than last year at this time, with a conspicuous decline in luxury lines. Further quieting in industry and wholesale trade was reported, influenced in part by the unusual size of the year end inventories. Somewhat better sentiment and steadier prices were reported from the steel and non-ferrous metal industries.

The money market was steady. Call loans still were quoted at 4 1-2 per cent, and moderate offerings in the outside market at 4 were quickly snapped up. The time money market remained nominal, while bankers acceptances continued in good demand. The large increases in federal reserve holdings of bills and government securities disclosed by the weekly condition statements were regarded as indicating that the reserve authorities plan to stabilize credit rates during the year end pinch. The government financing next week is expected to liberate a considerable volume of funds. Further exports of gold were reported, but were not generally viewed with clearing.

Closing prices were mostly somewhat below the peak levels reached in the rush of short covering during the morning. U. S. Steel rose 5 1-2 points in the early start to 172, soon dropped to 164 1-2, but closed at 172. General Electric moved up 4 1-2 points to 237, dropped to 230 1-2, and closed at 235. American Telephone rose 7 1-2 points to 229 3-4, slipped back to 215, and closed at 222 1-2. These erratic movements were typical of the action of important shares.

Radio was a favorite of the operators for the advance, rising 4 1-2 points to 45 1-4 in a large turnover, and closing near the top. International Combustion was again given a whirl, rising 5 1-2 points to 16 1-2, compared to its recent low of 8, to which it crumpled from a peak for the year at 26 1-2. American Can, J. I. Case, A. M. Byers, Du Pont, Hershey Chocolate, Missouri Pacific, National Biscuit, Simmons, Union Pacific, Western Union and Westinghouse Electric were among shares closing 5 to 9 points higher. Auburn Auto shot up 23 points. Fox Film was again a soft spot, dropping to a new low at 34, and closing at 37 3-8, off 5 1-4. Central of New Jersey, a closely held comparatively inactive issue, dropped 49 points to 251 in a few sales and closed at 257 1-2.

Grain markets were easy. Wheat added 1 1-2 cents on small seaboard clearances and in sympathy with the Buenos Aires market. Corn eased fractionally, reflecting large Argentine exports. The cotton market was quiet but steady, closing slightly higher.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—(AP)—Idling through another listless session, the bond market recorded small price changes today. Inquiry for loans of high grade, especially in the United States government and rail groups, uncovered a firm undertone in both groups, which have declined only slightly from their recent highs during the thin market of the current week. Uncertainty over money rates for the remainder of the year has caused interest in bonds to dwindle, but the list appears to have been well fortified by the advance of the last month. There is still a scarcity of the best issues, as is quickly evident when buying orders of any importance are placed.

Treasury 4 1-4s and Liberty Fourth 4 1-4s moved up a tiny fraction, but the Treasury 4s made a small decline. Commitments in these issues were moderately large, but the remainder of the government list dragged and it was apparent that the market was awaiting the opening of bids for the $100,000,000 issue of non-interest bearing treasury bills, scheduled for this afternoon.

In the carrier section fractional gains were scored by Atchison General 4s, Great Northern 5s, New York Central 6s, Missouri Kansas Texas prior lien 5s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, Southern Railway 6s, Union Pacific first 4s, and St. Louis & San Francisco 4 1-2s. A number of others, including Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Central of Georgia 5s, Burlington General 4s, Erie 5s and General lien 4s and Reading general 4 1-2s, declined to about the same extent. A score of rails showed no net change.

Industrials and utilities eased, but the losses were largely confined to secondary issues. International Telephone debenture 4 1-2s responded to buying inquiry with a one point rise on the strength of the company's earnings report.

The convertible group moved erratically as the course of stocks shifted and at the close net gains and losses were well mixed. American Telephone 4 1-2s, after moving within a 7 point range, finished 1 1-4 points above the previous final while International Telephone 4 1-2s advanced 4 1-2 net. Both issues of Alleghany 5s lost nearly 1 1-2, while Chicago & Northwestern 4 3-4s dropped to par, their offering price. Pan American Petroleum 6s were down nearly 2.

Trading in foreign bonds was light. Latin American obligations were irregularly lower, while leading European governments found support at around their Thursday levels. French 7 1-2s advanced more than a point.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week a gymnasium was opened in the basement of the Free Academy for the benefit of the Academy students. The same week Hon. Henry Ruggles, counsel at Malta, presented a collection of foreign shells to the Norwich Natural History society. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin, of December 1879, are as follows:

Monday, Dec. 8, 1879—Little Corinne is coming again as Little Buttercup, with Murphy's Miniature Opera company. Those who were present when the company was here a few weeks since, are full of praise and speak of the wonderful merits of these youthful actors. By many this is considered the best Pinafore troupe which has visited the city. They come under the local management of Andrew & Harris, and for one night only, Thursday night of next week.

The Hon. Henry Ruggles, counsel at Malta, has presented a collection of foreign shells to the Norwich Natural History society.

The heavy snows of Saturday night gave our business thoroughfares a partial cleaning. They needed it.

A gymnasium has been established in the basement of the Norwich Free academy for the culture of muscle among its students. The faculty believe in physical as well as mental training.

Tuesday, Dec. 9, 1879—A large number gathered at the Central Baptist church, last evening, to hear the Rev. Father Quinn, the reformed Catholic priest. Just before the time of the lecture a telegram was received announcing his unavoidable detention. The first of the series of lectures will therefore be given this evening. From the reputation of the gentleman we cannot doubt that his lectures will be worth hearing.

There was an exciting game of football played on the Academy grounds, on Friday, last, between the first middle and senior class teams for the championship. The first middle team won by the score of two goals and a touchdown to the seniors' nothing. The defeated team had a supper in commemoration of their poor luck.

Terrace encampment, O. D. O., meets tonight to discuss the subject of Charity. To those who are unacquainted with the mission of this order, whose origin goes back to the time when chaos was lost in oblivion, it may be well to inform that this organization is wholly a charitable one and wherever the sun shines their fame is pregnant with praise for deeds of charity and pure beneficence.

Wednesday, Dec. 10, 1879—Monday Policeman Orrin Gardner received a hickory billy from a friend in Arkansas, that was made in Deshay county, in that state, in 1843, for one Barnhill. It is a hickory club about a foot and a half long.

The sewing school, under direction of the United Workers, are in full force and are well attended. One is in operation at Norwich Town, a second at Norwich Falls, and a third at Temperance hall. These organizations do a work each year of permanent benefit to rising generations.

The locomotive, Nathan Hale, of the Norwich & Worcester road, was thrown from the tracks at the lower coal wharf by a misplaced switch, Monday evening, breaking the castings of the second truck. She was taken into the shop for repairs Tuesday.

The carpenters have begun work on Dr. Geer's new house on Franklin street.

The marble front to Mr. Palmer Smith's new block, on Franklin street, is up, and work has been begun on the second story. It will be a very imposing building.

Thursday, Dec. 11, 1879—A large and fashionable audience gathered at Christ church, yesterday, at noon, to witness the union in marriage of Miss Ida A., daughter of the late Dwight Cooke, of this city, and George S. Palmer, of Montville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Giesy.

Mr. John H. Ford and wife had a pleasant gathering of friends at their residence, on Maple street, Tuesday evening. Some 75 members were present. A splendid collation was served and social festivities were continued until the "wee short hours," when all retired highly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

The staff appointment of the Independent Battalion will soon be announced. The shakos for the battalion are to be exactly like those of the Second regiment. Gen. Smith, in his report to the legislature, will recommend that the name of the battalion be changed to the Fifth Battalion.

Friday, Dec. 12 1879—It was discovered Tuesday that someone had girdled 14 trees near the roots, on the railroad land, nearly opposite the new fence on Laurel Hill avenue. The authorities are justly indignant over the destruction of such a large number of splendid shade trees.

The ladies of Christ church held a fair at the residence of the Hon James Lloyd Greene, on Washington street, yesterday afternoon and evening.

The condition of the country roads was not improved by yesterday's rain, but the springs were and the agriculturalist is happy.

Norwich has stood another dose of "Pinafore," and lived.

The operatives in the Quinebaug mills, Danielsonville, have been advised that their wages are to be advanced.

Saturday, Dec. 13, 1879—Duck shooting along the sound is said to be very fine just now.

The annual balls will occur in their regular round the next two months.

One of the city policemen was cleaning up his bull's eye lantern yesterday. He says they are the best things to track rabbits with at night.

The workmen made quick work with the Holyoke building on Shetucket street, this week. Three days from the time the last family left the house every timber was down and it is expected that the foundation will be in readiness for the masons in three days more.

ADOPTS TEMPORARY LEGISLATION ON 'FOUL PROBLEM'; VON PORAT SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The "foul problem," bane of the fight game's existence and chief irritator of boxing commissions, came in for a raking today as the New York state solons plastered an indefinite suspension on Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight from Chicago, and adopted temporary legislation for the future.

The commission decided that fighters who commit fouls must now toil on a piece-work basis, receiving payment only for the number of rounds that preceded the disqualifying blow. The amount to be paid the offending battler will be decided and disbursed by the commission. More drastic legislation is promised later.

Such a departure from the common procedure, wherein the customer usually pays the bill for far less action than expected and the combatants themselves receive full wages, has been threatened by the commission for some time. The low left swing that brought about the disqualification of Von Porat in his bout with Phil Scott at Madison Square Garden Monday night, ended the 12-round match early in the second round. Under the new rule, Von Porat would have been paid only one-twelfth of his guarantee.

Another departure, forecast several weeks ago, came through the commission's sanction of a match at catch-weights in Buffalo, Dec. 26, between Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, and Frankie Schoell, Buffalo middleweight. The fathers ruled that Fields may take this bout if he also will sign to defend his title in New York state within the next six months.

Heretofore the commission always has ruled that champions must defend their titles in every appearance here.

TWO WORLD'S RECORDS SET IN POCKET BILLIARDS

DETROIT, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, broke two world's records in the world's championship pocket billiard tournament tonight to defeat Spencer Livsey, of Los Angeles, 125 to two in the hole.

Rudolph made a run of 111 balls, knocking down the tournament record of 81, made by Benny Allen in 1919. He also bettered another record by winning a 125 ball match in four innings. The previous record was five attained by several players including Rudolph. Tonight's victory gave the Chicago man an impressive lead in the tournament, giving him a score of three won and none lost.

The record run was even greater than the league record of 101, made by Ralph Greenleaf. Higher runs are more easily made in league play than tournament games.

Rudolph's run was unfinished when the winning ball went into the pocket.

Play was as follows:

Livsey broke the balls, and Rudolph followed with a run of 15. Livsey scratched; Rudolph played safe; Livsey scratched; Rudolph scratched deliberately; Livsey played safe; Rudolph won with an unfinished run of 111.

Rudolph, who held the world's championship at one time, has made a remarkable record in the tournament thus far. He has made 375 balls in 13 innings, while his opponent's total is 63.

A freak of the record-making variety was that it was in the 13th game of the tournament, played on Friday, the 13th.

CARNEGIE-U. S. C. GAME ON PACIFIC COAST TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Football teams of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, and the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, line up here at 2 o'clock this afternoon for an inter-sectional gridiron battle.

The visitors, 40 men of Carnegie Tech, reached here this morning. It was the first game played on the Southern California gridiron since New York University was defeated. It may be recalled that under the Trojans' coach, Howard Jones, attacks, don't count much against the boys of the Thistle.

The visitors held a light workout today.

The Southern California Trojans rested after a week spent perfecting defenses against tricky plays. The Californians realize that much of their reputation for the New Year's day game against Pittsburgh at Pasadena rests on tomorrow's outcome and have prepared themselves accordingly.

FIVE IN TIE FOR LEAD IN AVALON OPEN

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Winding their way through 18 holes of sub-par golf, seven entrants in the Catalina Island $7,500 open today turned in cards of 68, three under perfect figures, to lead the favorites in the first round of the second annual tourney.

Absent from this list of leaders was Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., professional and defending champion; Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, National Professional Golfers' association title holder and Walter Hagen, Detroit, Mich., British open champion.

Hagen was the more fortunate of the trio, turning in a 66 to equal par. "Larruping" Leo from Baja, California, fell into bad ways on the par three 15th, taking a six for a 67 card. Smith also was in the 67 class as a result of golf which hovered about perfect scores, only to rise above on the final hole when he missed an easy putt.

Twenty-three players shattered par in their relentless drive to qualify for the final 18 holes of play Sunday, which will see only 48 survivors after tomorrow's 18. Eighty-one of the 139 entrants came in with scores of 70 or better. The troublesome greens and the steep climbs were responsible for the downfall of a number of outstanding golfers.

Most unfortunate of these was Al Espinosa, of Chicago, who rounded the 18 with a 76. He was only one point higher, however, than Joe Turnesa, New York professional and member of the Ryder cup team and Johnny Dawson, Chicago, second ranking amateur of the nation. Nick Schaefer, Culver City, Calif., led the amateur field with a 66.

WINTER RACING OPENS IN FLORIDA TODAY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Winter horse racing in Florida opens tomorrow with the inauguration of a 27 day meet at Keeney Park, midway between St. Augustine and Jacksonville.

The meet will continue until January 14, after which the horses will be moved to Hialeah, for the opening of the Miami Jockey club meet.

Competing with interest in the opening day's event is a threat by Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee publisher, that if he discovers any evidence of law violations at the track he intends to seek an injunction against horse racing within the state on the grounds that such sport constituted a public nuisance.

Florida laws prohibit gambling at race tracks, although the "envelope system" of secret betting was said to have been used at both the Keeney and Hialeah parks last season.

RICHARDSON ELECTED CAPT. N. F. A. CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM

Walter Richardson, a member of the upper middle class, was elected to captain the 1930 Academy cross-country team at a meeting of the nine letermen held after school Friday. Richardson was one of the mainstays of this year's successful squad, when the Willdcats, under John P. Murphy in his first year as coach, turned in the best year this sport has ever enjoyed at the local school.

Richardson will have much promising material with him to form the nucleus of the 1930 squad, including the two best first-year men, Johnny Lyons and Georgie Lambert.

ART SHIRES TO BOX HACK WILSON IN FEATURE BOUT AT CHICAGO

(By Dale Harrison, Associated Press Staff Writer)

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The battle, not of the century but of the centuries, will take place in Chicago early in January between Charles Arthur (the great) Shires and Lewis (Hack) Wilson "the Dempsey of the dugouts."

Promoter Jim Mullen came to terms with Wilson today by telephone to the Chicago Cubs center fielder at Martinsburg, W. Va. Mullen promised Wilson $10,000 to meet the great one, and immediately upon receiving acceptance, started figuring on possibilities for moving the battle to a larger arena. The clash promises to become a huge attraction and the White City arena which will accommodate only 5,000 spectators, would not be large enough to meet the demand. Mullen planned, if it could be arranged, to borrow the Chicago coliseum or possibly the Chicago stadium.

Shires already pronounced himself ready, willing and anxious to meet any and all comers, preferably Gene Tunney.

Shires is the White Sox first baseman, but admits to talent of high order in several other sports. His claim to boxing brilliance was born of two ex-officio combats with his erstwhile baseball manager, Lena Blackburne.

His one professional ring appearance last Monday night ended in exactly 21 seconds with his 225 pound opponent, dangerous Dan Daly of Cleveland on the floor, out for the count.

"That" said Arthur (Whataman) Shires, after helping his victim from the canvas, "is how I sock when I'm in good humor. I hate to think what'll happen if I get mad."

Hack Wilson, rotund and fragile-ankled, is of more retiring disposition, but he is not without his fight victories. His activity in this line has been recognized by the National league, which upon occasion has fined and suspended him when he became hostile to the peace and dignity of the baseball field.

Wilson expressed a willingness to take on the entire Cincinnati club last summer, and actually did come to blows with Red Donohue and Ray Kolp, pitchers. A Chicago milkman, whose conversation from the stands irked Wilson, was another to feel the force of the center fielder's crushing right.

Art (They Don't Get Up) Shires received announcement of the Wilson match with a yawn.

"Just another one of those amateur pugs trying to cash in on my reputation," he said. "I never regarded outfielders as much, anyway. If he lasts one round, which is highly improbable, he won't have to take off wieght this summer. I'll knock it off."

Shires meets George Trafton, center of the Chicago Bears professional football team, Monday night. He says it's just a workout.

Never in the history of the ring has a new comer been in such demand as Shy Arthur. Promoter Mullen had 42 challenges the last time he counted, and the telegraph companies were considering making the route to Mullen's office a regular beat.

Challenges have come from baseball players, house detectives and even from a penitentiary where a convict became so incensed at Shires' boasting that he announced himself even willing to go straight to get a crack at the Shires' chin next "if he'll keep it shut long enough."

Lefty O'Doul, Phillies outfielder, said if Shires fights like he plays first base, "he's a set-up for me." The house detective at the hotel where Shires had his final encounter with Lena Blackburne last summer, is another who has pleaded with Mullen for a chance to cut the great one down to his size.

So many are the demands for a whack at Mr. Shires that Mullen is working out plans for what he modestly calls "The Tournament of Brag." He hopes to have the challengers meet in a series of elimination contests, the winner to have the right to put a padlock on Shires' chin, if such a thing is possible.

Shires said he would be glad to assist Mullen in any way.

"If you get too many of these self-called tough guyes" said Arthur (Aye Aye) Shires, "I'll take two on a night, or at the same time. The quicker the better. The guy I want is Gene Tunney."

You can never tell whether the laugh is going to be on somebody else or on yourself when you pull a fast one.

You know the feller who was patting himself on the back because he was going to ring in a $5 egg-cooker instead of a $100 electric sewing machine for a Xmas present for the wife?

Well, that boy is kicking himself in the pants now, because he told me about it. He didn't think it would get in print and further more he didn't think his wife read this column.

But she does and she can put two and two together and get the sum total of four each and every time. Although no names were used she knew that her "good provider" had been talking and quietly giving her the merry Ha Ha.

The man who pulled the fast one on the wife writes me a letter in which he makes some very pointed remarks. In fact they are so pointed that they would hurt if I didn't have an exceptionally tough epidermis.

Oh well, we should worry. Say, I'll just let you in on the letter. Here it is:

Dear Susie: (Those are the only kind words in the letter).

Did you ever hear the old saying "That figures don't lie, but liars figure"? You figured me $93.50 to the good. I was—until you spilled the beans in the paper. After friend wife read that she issued an ultimatum and there won't be no armistice until I come across with the $100 sewing machine. So instead of $93.50 to the good I'm $6.50 the other way as I had the clothes cleaned and bought the egg-cooker. Next time you get anything on me don't print it. But—there ain't going to be any next time.

Yours truly, Mr. John.

If you want my honest opinion it serves him right. Can you imagine any man being so mean as to try to get away with a thing like that. If I was that man's wife I'd buy him a suit of thorn-lined underwear for Christmas and MAKE HIM WEAR IT.

Does anyone know who the prominent local politician was who was told by a young lady that he "talked like he had wooden teeth"?

LOCAL BOYS FARE POORLY IN PROVIDENCE BOUTS

Local amateur boxers came off second best in their bouts at the Arcadia in Providence on Friday night. Jimmy Quinn, after winning a three-round decision over Pete Savageau of Worcester in the first bout, lost a four round decision to Tony Catalino in the last bout. From those at the ringside it was evident that Quinn had beaten Catalino in the first three rounds but the judges decided on a fourth round. In this round the local lad was not given any the best of the break and Catalino was declared the victor.

Freddy Besade lost to Jimmy Abruzzio of Warren, R. I. in three rounds. Here again the judges seemed to think it was old home night and the native sons could not lose. Benny Dempski, of Norwich, also lost to Philip Gentelello of Westerly in one of those unexplainable decisions.

DETROIT CLUB AWARDED 1930 W. G. A. OPEN TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Delegates to the Western Golf association's annual business meeting have voted to award the 1930 W. G. A. open championship to the Indian Wood Country club, of Detroit. Officials of the association are expected to approve the award.

The Western Amateur and Junior tournament will be held in Chicago, but the clubs and dates have not been decided.

Leslie S. Gordon, of Chicago, was chosen president of the association, succeeding Robert Cutting.

GIANTS PURCHASE NEW OUTFIELDER FROM PONIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A new outfielder was added to the roster of the New York Giants today, when Morris Fitzgerald was purchased from the Springfield (Mass.) club of the Eastern league. The Giants were informed that Fitzgerald made a new league record by hitting 22 triples and led the circuit in stolen bases.

As the Giants added an outfielder, they dropped an infielder, selling the release of Herb Thomas to Buffalo of the International league. Thomas formerly played with Buffalo. He was sent to Toledo of the American association on option last year.

IOWA ATHLETES CLAIM THEY PAID BACK MONEY

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 13.—(AP)—An echo of the action of the University of Iowa athletic board in declaring 14 Hawkeyes ineligible for further competition because of having borrowed money from a "trust fund" was heard today. Several of those banned claimed they had paid back the sums loaned. Oran Pape, football halfback and sprinter on the track team, and Homer Musgrove, baseball player, among them.

The list announced yesterday showed that Pape owed $25 while Musgrove owed $45. Both claimed they had paid back the sums in full.

N. F. A. HOCKEY RINK BACKED BY BASEBALL ASSOCIATION

The new hockey rink at the Academy is being sponsored by the Baseball association, which is also supporting the school's new band. The rink will be about 30 yards long, covering the width of the football field, and 20 yards wide.

Letters will be given to members of the band, according to a recent vote of the N club. This letter has a lyre in the background and is worn on the uniforms.

"Y" FIVE VS. STAMFORD HERE TONIGHT

Eastern Conn's representative, the Norwich Y five, will play their first home game in the state league tonight at the Y court when they meet the fast Stamford outfit. Last Saturday night at Greenwich the local team was victorious in their opening game and will strive to repeat tonight on their home floor against Stamford.

Stamford comes to Norwich with a fine record so far this year, cleaning up all opposition in the other end of the state.

Coach Demarest of the local team stated last night that his men were all in shape and ready to go. Although not ready to give out his lineup it is expected that the same five that started in previous games will start tonight, in which case Brown and Leffingwell will be at the forward positions, Harris jumping center, Eccleston and Pingree playing the guard positions. This will leave Al Greb and Lynch in reserve.

There will be two fast preliminaries between Church league teams, the Central Baptist church meeting Baltic, and the champion Gamma club of last year meeting the Brothers of Joseph.

The management has arranged for seating accommodations for five hundred and every seat is expected to be filled when the main attraction starts at 9 p. m., the first preliminary game commencing at 7.30.

Randy Whapies, a Central Board man, will officiate in the league game, and Howard Ludlow will handle the preliminaries.

BASEBALL FOLLOWERS AWAIT NEWS OF PLAYER CHANGES IN BIG LEAGUES

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—As echoes of the departing footsteps of major league baseball men died away, after three loquacious but unfruitful days in New York, followers of the game found themselves in an attitude of watchful waiting for news of further player shakeups for the 1930 season.

Trading of playing talent was at a minimum during the meetings of the club owners but fragments of the conversational marathon suggested that there may be some tidings later of changes in uniform for some well-known players.

Brooklyn today took time out in its civil war long enough to send a battery to the minors, transferring Win Ballou, a pitcher, to Los Angeles, and Dutch Henline, catcher, to Toledo.

Stories of a two-year armistice between the Brooklyn front office and the bench persisted, but no sign of a white flag could be seen at any part of Ebbets field.

As baseball men talked of a possible agreement between the warring factions of the club, represented by Steve McKeever, on one side, and Wilbert Robinson on the other, three-fourths of the "big four" directorate was out of New York. President-Manager Robinson, tarrying briefly at Baltimore on his way to his Dover Hall, Ga., plantation, Secretary Joseph A. Gilleaudeau stopping in Boston and Frank B. York, director-attorney, "out of town." York has been mentioned as president with "Uncle Robby" continuing as manager. McKeever is vice-president.

Some baseball trades may have been consummated during the New York meetings with the news withheld for the time being. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, said he had no players for trade or sale, but the St. Louis Browns thought he was jesting and suggested several combinations of players available for the release of Goose Goslin, who is a far better hitter than indicated by his 1929 batting average of .286. He led the American league in 1928.

Bob Shawkey, new manager of the New York Yankees, was in a receptive trading mood during the conferences but he was not particularly interested in the conversations he heard.

"I do not recall that anyone offered me a single player who would help the Yankees," said Bob, the gob. "The trading material our rivals talked of consisted of players who have yet to be proven."

Before leaving for West Palm Beach, Dan Howley, Cincinnati pilot, confessed that his prospects for trading were gloomy.

"I could not get excited over anybody offered us here," he said. "I talked to some other National league managers but I do not believe they were listening."

John J. McGraw will leave soon for his annual vacation in Cuba but he may do something about the Giants before he boards ship.

Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Red Sox, probably will have an announcement to make about the manager of his team soon after his return to his home base.

Bill Carrigan, who has piloted the hapless Sox for three years, is said to have grown weary and probably will retire for the second time. Rumor named Heinie Wagner, veteran infielder who has been Carrigan's assistant, as the probable heir-apparent.

SCALZI WINS TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT OVER LORENZ

Scozza Wins on Foul

Scozza had a slight lead at the time the foul was called by Referee Al Day. Scozza weighed 165 1-4, and Courtney 166 3-4.

Mandell Beats Perlick

FIELDS-JONES BOUT IS CALLED NO-CONTEST AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The nontitle bout between Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, and "Gorilla" Jones, of Akron, Ohio, was stopped in the seventh round here tonight by Referee Joe O'Connor, who declared it a no-contest. That official said that both were performing much below their usual standards.

ASKS $374,091 ADDITIONAL FOR DEPT. OF JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—President Hoover today asked congress for a supplemental appropriation of $374,091 for the department of justice, of which $312,901 would go to the federal industrial reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, and $52,000 to continue the organization of the war claims arbiter through the fiscal year 1930.

McLARNIN KAYOES GOLDSTEIN IN 2ND

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Blue-eyed Jimmy McLarnin, that flaming kid from the west with the dynamite-laden hands and deceptively smiling baby face, crushed temperamental Ruby Goldstein, pride of the Jewish race, tonight with a searing two-round knockout that turned 19,000 of the faithful into a howling, raving mob of worshippers.

In a battle that lived up to all the promises of the raucous bally-hoo, the socking Celt from Vancouver packed into the short-lived struggle three minutes and 52 seconds of swift, stunning action that sent the customers reeling from the arena.

Three times in that short time, McLarnin smashed the hero of the Ghetto to the floor, first for a count of nine in the opening round, again for a nine count at the start of the second session and finally for a toll that could have been a hundred without giving Ruby any opportunity to carry on the hopeless struggle. It was as brilliant and fearful a punching exhibition as this battle-scarred arena has ever seen.

Tonight was the night Goldstein had set for his great comeback, his final effort to prove to his countrymen that their faith in his speed, boxing ability and great punching power had not been misplaced. It was to be the trial of fire for the soft-mannered, handsome little Jew who looks, acts and thinks more like a poet than gladiator.

Many times in the past the imaginative Ruby, aptly termed the Jewel of the Ghetto, had failed. Sometimes his vivid imagination, bane of a fighting man, sent him into hiding on the nights he should have been answering the clang of the battle gong. Twice fearful knockouts at the hands of Ace Hudkins and Sid Terris forced him to quit the ring, his courage questioned even by strongest supporters.

But tonight, though beaten senseless, Ruby finally won the faithful with his bravery and gameness under fire. He lost to one of the greatest of modern-day punchers but in defeat the worst he has ever suffered, he found his highest praise.

Boxing beautifully, the rejuvenated Jewel, sped at McLarnin in the first round, shooting straight lefts to Jimmy's head. Some Jimmy took, some he smothered with his gloves, some he dodged with a graceful, almost imperceptible movement that took his jaw a fraction of an inch out of range.

But always McLarnin came crowding back. Half way through the round Jimmy saw an opening, lashed in with a left hook to the head, and drove his right high to Ruby's temple. The Jewel fought back desperately, beginning to totter, but another right to the jaw dropped him for a count of nine. Goldstein came up fighting but was taking a bad body beating at the bell.

With his gameness about to be put to the final test Ruby did not fail. He dashed out for the second round, sopping wet from the ministration of his seconds, fighting mad, carrying the fight to a lad who loves to lay back and battle that way. He ripped and tore, smashed his own powerful right to Jimmy's head, belted the Celt with left hooks, and went down like a true fighting man.

Jimmy cornered his man near the ropes in his own corner and the stunning right that finished Terris, Sammy Baker, Phil McGraw, and a half dozen other stars, flashed full on Goldstein's jaw. Ruby crumpled, fell through the ropes and hung there, his head in the press row and his body held up by the lower strand of the ring ropes.

It looked then as though the battle was over. Eyes staring vacantly, Ruby reached up, caught the upper strand, and pulled himself to his feet. He lifted his hands and walked in for a final effort but he never had a chance.

McLarnin was upon him, tearing with both hands at Ruby's sleek head, landing many blows upon the weaving, beaten boy's chin. A left and right full to the jaw finally stretched Goldstein senseless on the floor. The toll by Referee Lou Magnolia was only a matter of form.

Goldstein weighed 144 1-2 to 144 for McLarnin. The crowd of 19,000, a capacity house, paid $109,000 for the entertainment and for the first time this season went away satisfied that the money had been well spent.

Kaplan Wins

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, from Meriden, defeated Andy Callahan, Lawrence, Mass., lightweight, in a slow but gruelling ten-round semi-final. Andy, making his Garden debut, held like a pair of guards on the one-yard line after flooring Kaplan for a count of three in the opening round. Callahan was floored for nine in the sixth and was severely cut across the nose in the ninth. Each weighed 136 12.

Canada Lee, smart Negro welterweight, won the decision from Andy Di Vodi, of New York, in a fast ten-round match. A full house of 19,000 with over $100,000 in receipts, packed the Garden. Lee weighed 145 1-4; Di Vodi 145 1-2.

Lee, a sharp puncher with his right hand, floored Di Vodi for a count of nine in the fifth round but could not finish his man, although Andy several times was in dire straits.

Danny Devlin, a fierce punching middleweight from Allentown, Pa., scored a decisive victory over Tommy Tuffy McGuiness, of Scotland, in a six-round set-to that found the invader on the floor for nine counts in both the second and sixth sessions. Devlin weighed 154, McGuiness 155 1-2. McGuiness took a fearful pounding throughout.

WHY DOHENY WAS NOT CALLED AS WITNESS

LOS ANELES, Dec. 13—(AP)—Norman Sterry, chief defense counsel in explaining his reasons at the court's request for failing to call Edward L. Doheny as a witness in the government's suit to cancel leases to 660 acres in the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, said today he was "not prepared to vouch for the credibility" of the multimillionaire oil operator, and believed he would refuse to testify in any case, standing on his constitutional rights.

FOR INVESTIGATION OF THE HAITIAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13— (AP) — Chairman Porter of the house foreign affairs committee announced today that Under Secretary Cotton, Assistant Secretary Carr, of the state department, and Dana Munro, chief of the Latin American division of the department, would be called tomorrow for hearings on his resolution for a commission to investigate the Haitian situation.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

ARMY football will "line the cavalry" when Major Ralph Sasse succeeds Capt. L. M. Jones as head coach next season. For four years the Cadets have moved along under a barrage of big guns, "Biff" Jones being attached to the artillery branch of the Army. Major Sasse is a cavalryman. The two coaches speak the same football language, regardless of the insignia they wear on their blouses.

Sasse, an alert, keen student has sat at the feet of the gigantic Jones and no radical change in the system at West Point is to be expected.

An artilleryman would perhaps be inclined to depend on power where a cavalryman's choice might be speed but in recent seasons along the Hudson the coaches have tried to get both. No doubt the new head coach will also point his sights for a combination of the two.

Sasse, never a great player himself, has done much more for his Alma Mater than some of its brightest stars in football. He has had charge of the ends and has done his work well. Over the period of his coaching at West Point, the Army ends have flanked with the leading flankmen of the country.

The head coach to be is a "great scout". He is called that by his friends and he also has the faculty of looking at a football game and at once sizing up the situation.

The genial Biff, who now must go back to his regular business of an officer in the Army, is a magnificent listener and West Point audiences will lose an important member when he goes away.

BOB SHAWKEY, new manager of the New York Yankees, does not believe in top-heavy squads at training camps and suggests that the St. Petersburg, Fla., hotel where the American leaguers lodge in the spring will not be taxed to its capacity by its ball player guests. Bob, however, has a bit of tinkering to do before his 1930 craft is ready to set out on the baseball sea. He must get a third baseman, perhaps a shortstop, a leftfielder and at least three pitchers. The shortstop hole apparently is the least of his worries for he thinks the hard hitting Mark Koenig will be able to overcome his fielding shortcomings and fill the bill.

Possibly by March the new manager will change his mind about taking a sure fire second baseman, Tony Lazzeri, in an effort to convert him into a third baseman. Lazzeri is one of the game's best second sackers and he might, or might not, be a third baseman.

Two star youngsters, Sam Byrd and Dusty Cooke, should put on a battle royal for the spot left vacant when Bob Meusel transferred his allegiance to the National league.

A tip to Cooke. Under no circumstances should he offer to play Byrd a round of golf for the place. Sammy is baseball's best golfer.

LEBANON WOMEN VOTERS DISCUSSED EDUCATION COSTS

The December meeting of the Lebanon League of Women Voters was held at the home of Mrs. E. J. Graham, Wednesday afternoon in charge of the educational chairman, Mrs. Katharine H. Sweet. The subject was financing education in Lebanon, whence and how comes the money and comparison of per pupil cost for both elementary and high school pupils with other towns. It proved a very good meeting both interesting and helpful. Reports were given by officers and chairmen. A social hour followed.

GREENEVILLE

JUDGE A. F. LIBBY TO SPEAK BEFORE ST. ANDREW'S MEN

It is announced that St. Andrew's Men's club will have Judge Arthur F. Libby of the city court as speaker at the meeting to be held Monday, Dec. 16. There will be excellent music and lunch will be served.

The K. B. Sewing class met with Mrs. Sarah Brennan on Boswell avenue Tuesday evening, with a very large attendance. The first hour was given over to sewing, followed by a social hour. The hostess served refreshments which consisted of assorted sandwiches, cake and coffee. Mrs. Brennan was assisted by the Misses Rose Brennan, May Brennan, Stella Lepo and Mary Charles Brennan. The next social will be held with Mrs. Nora Fahey of North Main street, next Thursday evening.

LADIES' GUILD OF CHURCH HOLDS SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

The Ladies guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held a very successful roast pork supper and Christmas sale in the guild room of the church Thursday evening, from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock, with nearly 300 present. The successful affair was under the direction of Mrs. Anthony J. Bernard, as chairman of the committee, and she was ably assisted by Mrs. William Winterbottom, Mrs. Edward R. Risley and Mrs. William H. Taft. The tables were prettily decorated for the occasion with the Christmas colors of red and green, and placed upon the table were red candles lighted, adding to the season's effects. Streamers of crepe paper were run from the center of the guild room to the four sidewalls. The supper consisted of roast pork, mashed potato, mashed turnip, celery, pickles, cranberry sauce, home-made relishes, rolls, pies and coffee.

The waitresses and those in charge of the supply tables were: Mrs. Frank Lathrop, Mrs. Charles Perry, Mrs. Edward R. Risley, Mrs. Charles Evans, Mrs. Howard Adams, Mrs. William Winterbottom, Mrs. Anthony J. Bernard, Mrs. James Johnson, Miss Edna Wallace, Miss Ruth Donahue, Miss Elizie Risley, James Johnson, Mrs. Charles Evans, Mrs. Frank Prodell, Mrs. William Banfield.

Mrs. Charles Erwin, Mrs. John Telford, Mrs. Richard D. Seed, Mrs. Frederick Fitch and Mrs. E. J. Norris had charge of the kitchen. Fancy work, apron, grab bag and handkerchief booth were very prettily decorated.

Mrs. William Mabey had charge of the handkerchief booth while Mrs. Frank Prodell was in charge of the apron booth. Mrs. John Hall and Mrs. Howard Gordon had charge of the fancy work booth. Mrs. Howard Adams and daughter, Miss Mae Adams, had charge of the home-made candy. Mrs. Alexander Fimalyson and Mrs. Charles Perry had charge of the grab bag, assisted by Miss Dorothy Winterbottom. Mrs. Sarles had charge of the coffee with Mrs. William A. Taft in charge of the tickets. Rev. E. J. Norris made a few remarks, thanking all present for making the affair a success.

TAFTVILLE

The funeral of Terrance Hanlon was held Monday morning from his late home on Providence street. A solemn high mass of requiem at which Rev. Donat Jette was celebrant, Rev. Frederick R. DesSurreault, deacon, and Rev. Omer T. Mandier, sub deacon, followed at Sacred Heart church. The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous. Miss Alice Frechette presided at the organ and at the offertory J. Omer Tellier sang. The bearers were: Daniel Ford, James Malone, John Daley, William Roach, Thomas Phalen and G. Hurd. Included in the large attendance was a delegation from Division 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians of which the deceased was a member. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where Rev. Father DesSurreault read the committal prayers. Undertakers Dougherty Bros. were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

When the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church hold its next meeting the speaker is to be Professor Minto, of Hartford, who is to give an address on Anglo-American relations.

Mrs. Potter Over Radio

Mrs. Olive A. Potter, contralto of the Central Baptist church quartet, is to be heard over the air in a fifteen minute recital this (Saturday) morning at 10:15, through station W. T. I. C., of Hartford.

SEDGWICK WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS ELECTS OFFICERS; VOTES CONTRIBUTIONS

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Buckingham Memorial which was also the meeting for the election of officers.

The president, Mrs. Althea Brown, presided at the business session at which a number of matters were disposed of before the election was taken up. The corps voted to give to the Salvation Army the same amount as last year and also voted a contribution towards the Christmas seals. It was voted to send Mrs. Grace H. Manning to Cromwell to furnish two numbers for the Christmas entertainment at the W. R. C. home.

The following were elected officers for 1930: President, Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom; senior vice president, Mrs. Mary Whiteman; junior vice president, Mrs. Mary Austin; chaplain, Mrs. Annie Newton; treasurer, Mrs. Grace H. Manning; guard, Mrs. Lena Christmas; conductor, Mrs. Nellie Bailey; first delegate to convention, Mrs. Boyens; second, Mrs. Carrie Prentice; third, Mrs. Edna Browning; first alternate, Mrs. Rose Quinn; second, Mrs. Myrtice Tibbitts; third, Mrs. Minnie Fulton.

It was voted to invite the members of the Grand Army to the next meeting, Dec. 27. After the meeting there will be a Christmas party and the request was made that all corps members would bring inexpensive presents.

The meeting closed with salute to the flag.

TO RECEIVE DR. BLUNT INTO PHI BETA KAPPA

Forty members of the Phi Beta Kappa organization of New London county have received announcement of a business meeting to be held in the Connecticut college library Tuesday evening, Dec. 17.

President Katharine Blunt of Connecticut college is among those to be received into membership at the time. Dr. Blunt already holds membership in the national Phi Beta Kappa, and in the honorary scientific society, Sigma Xi. Dr. David D. Leib, director of admissions and professor of mathematics at the college, is the only other member of the New London Phi Beta Kappa who also holds this distinction.

The Connecticut college organization was founded three years ago, largely through the efforts of Benjamin T. Marshall, then president of the college. He established a fellowship for the Phi Beta Kappa members in New London and its vicinity who are at a distance from their respective chapters. The primary purpose of this organization, according to its constitution, is to promote scholarship in the schools of the community. It is directly affiliated with national headquarters, and sends representatives to the national meetings each year.

At its formal meeting in the late spring, the organization entertains at a dinner in the Mohican hotel the upperclassmen of Connecticut college who are eligible to the Winthrop scholarship, which takes the place of Phi Beta Kappa at the college until the latter is established there through the national organization.

REV. MR. HATCH AGAINST LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

Rev. C. T. Hatch, who with Mrs. Hatch observed their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday at Wellfleet on Cape Cod, where he is pastor of the Methodist church, declared on the anniversary day that his half century of married life had been the happiest years of his life.

"We have always believed absolutely in piety, Mrs. Hatch and I," he was quoted as saying, "and we have believed that the home and the church are inseparable.

"I do not believe in hasty marriage, or in love at first sight. Young people should court at least a year. They should know when they take the step they are marrying with such purpose that meets the approval of God. They should determine whether they are adapted to each other. The man should be sure he is proficient in his chosen line of work. The woman should ask herself whether she is able to make the self-denial that is necessary in case of adversity.

"I believe young people can settle the marriage question without family interference. We have six children living, all married successfully. We did not interfere with their courtship."

Rev. Mr. Hatch has held Connecticut pastorates, including those at Baltic and Mystic.

DIVORCE FOR DESERTION WITH ALIMONY, CUSTODY

Mabel L. Chadwick Richards of New London was given a divorce from Joseph C. Richards, also of that city, on the grounds of desertion, by Judge Earnest C. Simpson at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in New London. By a stipulation filed on which the court gave judgment, Mrs. Richards is to receive $13 a week alimony until the three children, of which she was given custody, arrive at the age of 16 years. Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky represented the plaintiff.

One witness in this case refused to be sworn in, because of religious principles which conflicted with the formality of testifying under oath. Judge Simpson refused to allow her to testify.

The divorce action of Alta Horton Carino against Harry A. Carino, both of New London, brought on the grounds of cruelty, was heard, after which Judge Simpson took the papers and reserved decision.

The divorce action of George Carley against Marjorie Gunn Carley, was postponed until the next short calendar.

The action of Ellen Brown Lavigne of this city, alias Levine, against Joseph Lavigne, alias Levine, went off the list.

WILL GIVE HONORS TO FOUR COLCHESTER FARMERS

Four Colchester farmers are among the 16 Connecticut farmers and two from Massachusetts who will receive honors for their efforts in improving home and farm conditions in their communities during the meeting of the Jewish Agricultural society at Hotel Bond, Hartford, Sunday afternoon. The selections of Connecticut farmers to be honored have been made from about 1,100 Jewish farmers.

The Colchester awards will be to the following: John Nelkin in the division of livestock improvement; Sam Bashedesky and Harry Schadick, winners in the boys' project division; Mrs. Esther Sigal, winner in the home beautiful project.

INVITED TO JOIN KOMIANS AT BROWN

Komians, the dramatic society of Pembroke college in Brown university, at Providence, at a meeting this week, was formally organized as a society of 54 members in place of an organization which has included the entire student body. The change was made in order to make production easier and more efficient.

Among the students invited to join Komians are Miss Elizabeth G. Mullins of this city, Miss Frances E. Miller of Danielson, Miss Anna C. Peck of Hanover and Miss Lorraine Loiacono of New London.

Dismissals at Backus Hospital

The following were the patients discharged at the Backus hospital Friday: Mrs. Alphonse Fontaine and infant son, R. F. D., Norwich, and Mrs. Charles Fenton and infant son of Waterford

GAVE BIBLICAL RADIO DRAMA FOR ENTERTAINMENT

A very beautiful and impressive programme, a Biblical radio drama, "The First Christmas Gift," by William Ford Manley, featured the annual Christmas party held Friday evening at the Community house by the Women's Guild of the United Congregational church. Members of the Sodalitas were the guests of honor at the social to which the entire church membership was invited. Despite the stormy evening there was a large attendance.

The Biblical drama was given on the stage which was beautifully banked with Christmas trees and evergreens, a console radio lent by Carl Brown occupying the center of the decorations. The programme was given by candlelight and was under the direction of Mrs. E. S. Burdsall. The cast follows:

Damon, Rev. A. H. Abbott; Rachel, Mrs. A. H. Abbott; Flaccus, Cecil Wetherbee; announcer, Mrs. Burdsall. The screens were loaned by the Gilbert Furniture Co. and Mrs. William H. Oat was in charge of the decorations.

At the close of the programme light refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

EXHIBITION OF BATIKS IN CONVERSE GALLERY

Visitors to Converse art gallery on Sunday will be especially interested in an exhibition there, comprising objects lately given to the museum by Rutherford C. Plaut and the Misses Cadden.

These were collected during their trips around the world and come from Egypt, Constantinople, India, China and Java.

The material from Java is especially interesting. Several colorful Batiks from Mr. Plaut are hung on the wall, and in one of the cases is shown the tjanting, which is the tool with which the melted wax is flowed upon the cloth in the process of batik making.

In the same case is a piece of cloth on which the design has been laid before dipping in the dye and this design shows one of the curious "devil dancers" that belong to Javanese mythology. In this case also is a pair of puppets given by the Misses Cadden. The puppet shows of Java are an ancient custom and an interesting study.

Of the draperies several are the sarong of the Javanese women, a strip of cloth with a deep ornamented border which she wraps about her in place of a skirt. One hanging shows a Javanese god that in fact is not so different in appearance from the "devil dancers."

The drapery in the center of the room is particularly lovely in its soft coloring, but has all the peculiar velvety quality that this wax treatment gives to cotton cloth.

This exhibition will remain until after the holidays and may be seen on school days from 1:30 to 4 p. m. and on Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m.

PRE-HOLIDAY SOCIAL FOR WHITE STAR EMPLOYES

A pre-holiday social was held at the White Star Co. auditorium Friday evening with wives and friends of the employes present. A Christmas tree, laden with beautiful gifts, was the feature of the evening. Toastmaster James Quinn impersonated Santa Claus. Radio and victrola selections furnished music for dancing. A prize waltz was won by Joe Russillo and Jeanne Klukowski. In a marshmallow contest, first prize was won by Ethel Hoelck and Charlie Gadbois. The grand march was led by M. Genard and Loretta Buchaud. Sandwiches wafers, cake and ice cream were served by Marvin Marchand and Anna Rabinovitch, a student at Willimantic normal school.

The arrangement committee comprised, Mrs. V. Vachon, chairman, Mrs. N. Colasanto and Mrs. M. Comire, assistants.

Guests present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Shupe, Mr. and Mrs. Al Herman, of Worcester, Mass. A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Lena Rabinovitch and her son, Samuel, for the pleasant evening spent.

TRINITY MEN'S CLUB SAW WESTERN TRIP VIEWS

The December meeting of the Men's club of Trinity Episcopal church was held in the parish rooms this week with a good attendance. At 6:30 o'clock all sat down to a fine supper served by Mrs. Fred N. Clark. It was pronounced one of the best and consisted of meat loaf, escalloped potatoes, string beans, cold slaw, rolls, pie and coffee.

After the tables were cleared a short business session was held. It was voted to make the next meeting to be held Jan. 9 ladies' night. The speaker on this occasion will be Rev. Arnold A. Fenton of Groton, who will talk on Indian life in Wyoming. A very pleasant hour was then passed listening to an illustrated talk given by William C. Kendall on his trips to the Pacific coast. Mr. Kendall had a set of slides well worth seeing and was given a rising vote of thanks.

NEW YORK RABBI IS SYNAGOGUE SERVICE SPEAKER

A large congregation listened to a very instructive sermon given by Rabbi Bernard H. Ziskind of New York, a graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, at the Friday evening service of the Norwich Community synagogue held in the B'nai Brith rooms on Shetucket street.

Rabbi Ziskind on his second visit to the new local synagogue organization reviewed in his sermon the outstanding episodes in the life of Jacob. "The dramatic recital of the events in Jacob's life as told to us in the Bible finds its counterpart in the story of the whole people of Israel," the rabbi asserted. "What happened to Jacob also happened to his children, the people of Israel, our sages already noted."

Like the patriarch, Israel, as a people, too, was compelled to leave his home. Israel, too, became a stranger in strange lands. Many and many a time he, too, slept upon a bed of rocks, with no one to comfort him, with no one to say a kind word.

Yet, like Jacob, despite his material discomfiture, he dared to dream the dream of Jacob's ladder—a vision of mankind gradually mounting the ladder of civilization, reaching the spiritual heights of God, the embodiment of justice and righteousness, truth and love. It was this vision of the spiritual destiny of mankind that comforted Israel in all the vicissitudes of his history, inspiring him to work unceasingly that this dream become a reality.

Further analyzing the content of the dream of Jacob, Rabbi Ziskind observed that the ladder indicates that spiritual values cannot be achieved immediately. It means a slow but steady climb. The history of the human race has shown us that the principle of gradual development, of facing difficulties and overcoming them, work in the realm of the spirit and morality, as it does in the realm of biology. Those of us who are impatient and would like to see a perfect social order, an ideal Judaism, at once, ought to heed to the symbolic meaning of the vision of Jacob. He, too, was to be the spiritual leader of people, as the birthright indicated. He, too, was beset by difficulties and hardships. He may have been discouraged. The dream that Jacob dreamed indicated to him in no mistaken terms that the spiritual leadership he desired was to be attained gradually. All obstacles will ultimately be overcome. Patience, courage and determination are the watchwords.

Directing himself to the local Jewish enterprise of conducting a modern synagogue, the rabbi exhorted his congregation to face their project courageously, to be patient, but determined, to climb the ladder slowly but steadily, and God will surely bless the glorious undertaking with success.

Following the most interesting sermon, the congregation entered into community singing.

Rabbi Ziskind will also officiate at the service this Saturday morning at 8 o'clock and afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Preceding the afternoon service he will be in charge of a meeting of the men's Bible class.

YOUNG MONSIGNOR'S LEARNING AND VIRTUES

A writer from Washington, D. C., in this week's Catholic Transcript, (Hartford), quotes the beautiful encomium of Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. McCormick, in the sermon by Bishop Maurice F. McAuliffe, at the ceremonies of investiture of the newly appointed Monsignor, at Catholic university Sunday morning last. Bishop McAuliffe said:

"A native of Norwich, Conn., where he made his preparatory studies; a graduate of St. Joseph's seminary, Dunwoodie; a lector in theology and a doctor of philosophy from this university, Monsignor McCormick spent the first years of his ministry in the organization of the Catholic schools in his native diocese. He returned to his alma mater in 1910 and has made education his life study. He has sensed the tendencies of the times and the increasing emphasis placed upon education in our national life. He has sought to clarify the conflicting issues and to keep before the public mind in essay, lecture and book, the principles of Catholic education. Thousands of religious women are beholden to him for his kind, painstaking and efficient direction of their studies. By his untiring efforts the university has extended its influence to our Catholic schools throughout the country.

"A noble, unselfish and devoted priest, a promoter of Catholic truth, an educator in the fullest sense of the word, a courteous and cultured gentleman, he is an ornament to this alma mater. This new honor is a recognition of merit. It will only intensify his gratitude to God, his love for the Holy See and devotion to this great school of learning."

FRANKLIN GROUP MET FOR BUSY PROGRAMME

The Franklin group held a most interesting farm bureau meeting at the home of Mrs. Milton Beckwith Thursday. There were eight pair of moccassins cut and some completed under the instructions of Mrs. Thomas F. Murphy and Mrs. Austin B. Rathbun. Miss Ruth Russell, the efficient county demonstration agent, made nine hats, remodeled three or more and blocked and pressed others. There were twenty-six in attendance. A delicious luncheon was served at noon consisting of scalloped potatoes, baked macaroni, corn custard, salad, sandwiches, cake and coffee.

For Her Thirteenth Birthday

A birthday party for Miss Frances Busch was held Thursday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Marie Busch, at The Elms, Baltic, in honor of her 13th birthday. There were several games played, prizes in which were won by Buddy Treckmann and Jane Greiner. A delicious supper was served. Thirty were present.

PAONESSA'S QUESTIONNAIRE SHOWS STATE "WET"

Basing his assertions upon a personally conducted survey of 42 cities and towns, Mayor A. M. Paonessa, of New Britain, declared that "Connecticut is 'wet', regards the dry law as having been a failure, not enforceable, not a benefit to the country and in favor of modification," according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Fifty-nine mayors, selectmen and heads of police departments answered questionnaires which Mayor Paonessa, during the last few months sent to 62 communities.

Mayor Paonessa submitted four questions in each case. They were:

"Do you believe the law has worked out as a success?

"Do you believe it can be enforced?

"Do you think it has benefitted the country or has had the opposite effect?

"Do you believe it should be kept on the statute books or modified?"

Mayor Paonessa, in summarizing the results of the questionnaire, stated that some officials did not answer all of the four questions. Officials representing 76 per cent of the state's population went on record in favor of modifying the dry law. Mayors and selectmen of the following cities and towns favored modification:

Ansonia, Beacon Falls, Canaan, Clinton, Cromwell, Danbury, Darien, Essex, Glastonbury, Guilford, Hartford, Hamden, Litchfield, Norfolk, North Haven, Norwich, Plainfield, Wethersfield, Putnam and New Britain. Of the same mind were police department heads in Ansonia, Clinton, Cromwell, East Hartford, East Haven, Enfield, Essex, Hamden, Meriden, Norfolk, North Haven, New Haven, Norwich, Orange, Rockville, Simsbury, Stafford, Stratford, Thomaston, Torrington, Waterbury, Westport, Wethersfield, Willimantic, New Britain.

Opposing modification were the mayors and selectmen of Naugatuck, New Hartford, Orange, Plainville, Saybrook, Shelton, Simsbury, Stafford, Stamford and Torrington. The police chiefs of Bridgeport and Saybrook opposed modification.

Not regarding the dry law as a success were the mayors and selectmen of Ansonia, Beacon Falls, Clinton, Cromwell, Danbury, Darien, Essex, Glastonbury, Guilford, Hamden, Hartford, Litchfield, Naugatuck, New Hartford, Plainfield, Putnam, Shelton, Torrington, Wethersfield, Norfolk, North Haven and New Britain. The police chiefs of these places and East Haven, Enfield, Meriden, Norfolk, New Haven, Norwich, Orange, Rockville, Simsbury, Stafford, Stratford, Waterbury, Westport, Willimantic were added to the negative side on the second question.

Less interest apparently was attracted by the remaining two questions, to which fewer answers were received. But the proportions continued to support Mayor Paonessa's statements.

Upon the point of whether the present law is enforceable, there was a more equal division, the mayors and selectmen of the following towns taking the position that it is: Naugatuck, New Canaan, New Hartford, Norwich, Plainville, Saybrook, Shelton, Simsbury, Stafford, Stamford, Torrington. That it is not enforceable was the opinion of the officials questioned in Ansonia, Beacon Falls, Clinton, Cromwell, Danbury, Darien, Essex, Glastonbury, Guilford, Hamden, Litchfield, Norfolk, North Haven, Putnam, Wethersfield and New Britain. Their views are backed up, apparently, by the police chiefs of these towns and a considerable number of others.

Mayor Paonessa gave out a few comments of mayors and other officials made on the margins of the questionnaire blanks, and summarized the census with these figures:

"Forty-eight officials regard the dry law as a failure, eight consider it a success. Fifteen believe it can be enforced, 39 do not. Sixteen see it as a benefit to the country, 34 do not. Forty-five would have the law modified and 15 favor keeping it on the books in its present form."

BREWER WINS ELECTION FOR CLASS VICE PRESIDENT

William J. Brewer was named vice president of the senior class of the Academy at the election held Friday, to decide the tie which developed in Thursday's election between Miss Catherine Dutton and himself. Brewer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy F. Brewer, of 77 Dunham street, and has been a member of the football squad for four years. Ralph H. Gibbs was elected president of the class Thursday.

Four Enlistments For Navy

J. J. Kenerleber, C. T. M. officer in charge of the navy recruiting stations at Norwich and New London, announces four enlistments for the navy. Those that were accepted are: W. J. A committee has been appointed to assist the post with the annual Christmas tree party, for the veterans' children, which will take place Saturday evening, Dec. 28, at the post rooms.

MODERN WOODMAN OF AMERICA

Ionic camp, No. 7694, elected officers for the ensuing year at its last meeting Dec. 3rd in A. O. H. hall, the new meeting place. A large gathering of members were present. These officers were elected: Consul, John Fitzgerald; advisor, James C. Shelly; clerk, Wm. N. Sandberg; banker, Wm. J Banfield. The two last named officers have served in the same offices the past ten years. Others elected were escort, Cecil D. Maynard; watchman, Charles H. Raynes; sentry, Wm. B. Parwell; trustee for 3 years, Wm. H. Shaw. The installation of the new officers will be held Jan. 7. Ionic camp has had a very successful year under the present consul William R. Shaw.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion held their regular meeting Thursday evening with Senior Regent Emma Beaver presiding. It was voted to contribute $5 to the Salvation Army, $5 to the children at Mooseheart and to buy the seals for the prevention of tuberculosis. In the election of officers for the Senior regent, Margaret Comire; ed:

Senio rregent, Margaret Comire; junior regent, Marie LaValle; chaplain, Irene Burns; recorder, Nellie Dorr; treasurer, Mary Edwards; past regent, Teresa Watters.

There is to be an entertainment and Christmas tree to be held after the next regular meeting to which all members of the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 950, are invited.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, held its regular meeting in grange hall Wednesday evening with Albert W. Lillibridge presiding. After the business meeting the lecturer's hour was turned over to the home economics committee who put on a well balanced program, Mrs. Alida Boyens, chairman. It opened with song and encore by Fred J. Maples. Miss Ruth Russell, home demonstrator of the farm bureau gave a very interesting talk on fruits and vegetables in diet, followed by stereoptican slides illustrating her talk. Song by the grange was followed by another solo with encore by Mr. Maples concluding this interesting program.

The auxiliary of the grange served a turkey dinner to the farm bureau, Dec. 5th and netted a profit of $74.50. Mrs. Edna Browning's name was omitted in the report but much credit is due her as one of the committee who put on this appetizing dinner. New London County Pomona meets at grange hall, Thursday, Dec. 19th and will confer the fifth degree on a class of candidates. The next meeting of Norwich grange is to be omitted on account of the date falling on Christmas day, but a Christmas program is to be held Thursday evening, Dec. 26th at 8 p. m. Every granger is requested to bring a present for the tree and a Santa Claus will distribute them later. Two special meetings are to be held at grange hall, next week for conferring degrees. All candidates are to be on hand Monday, Dec. 16 to receive the first and second degrees and on Tuesday, Dec. 17, to receive the third and fourth to entitle them to take the fifth on Thursday if they so wish. An attendance of 117 grangers were at the meeting. Refreshments were served by Div. C., Eliza Walker chairman, fruit salad, rolls, wafers and coffee.

1. Definite tax reform, with assessment based upon benefits received and ability to pay; distribution of a portion of the federal income tax to rural districts, especially for aid of schools and roads; application of the budget system to township and county expenditures; and extension of the state income tax policy as the most effective means of reducing the tax burden upon visible property by reaching the intangibles.

2. Support for the federal farm board in every sound undertaking to permanently assist agriculture; but coupled with the assertion that no enduring "farm relief" can be expected without a continuous accompanying program of social, educational and community advancement for the rural people—such as 8,000 local granges are already carrying out in more than 30 states.

3. Insistence upon such changes in the tariff program now under discussion as will guarantee the farmer an equal share with industry in the benefits of the protective system; reiteration of the grange belief that complete tariff equality for the farmer is impossible except by the adoption of the export debenture plan, or similar provisions, which the grange pledges itself to uncompromisingly strive for.

4. Transfer of the bureau of reclamation from the department of interior to the department of agriculture; open up on more irrigation or ture; open up no more irrigation or longer an agricultural surplus such as has produced the recent farm depression; and forbid the transfer of public lands from federal to state control.

What the grange opposes are shown as follows:

Continuation of "daylight saving" time in any section of the United States, or any other substitute for standard time.

The establishment of branch banks or other system of centralized finance.

Consolidation of rural mail routes that shall deprive any farm home of mail delivery privileges which now possesses same.

Federal regulation of motor buses or trucks upon the public highways, in place of state supervision.

Corporation farming or any other form of centralized agriculture that tends to diminish individual ownership and interest.

Employment in public schools of teachers addicted to use cigarettes.

Every form of sales tax.

The use of women's pictures in advertising cigarets; also the use of the radio for such advertising.

The policy of many daily newspapers in spreading crime by giving needless publicity to its details.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST

Nevins-Carver circle, No. 1235, held a successful whist and pinochle Wednesday in Foresters hall with Chairman Nellie Dorr in charge. Prizes were awarded as follows: In pinochle—Ladies' first, Mrs. Senser, 7470, silk underwear; consolation, Teresa Watters, 6130, necklace; gentlemen's first, A. Hoelck, 7160, shirt; second, J. At the regular meeting Monday evening there will be election of officers. There is also to be a Christmas tree and each member is asked to bring a present not exceeding ten cents. All members who can are requested to be present as plans for the installation supper are to be completed.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

Sebequanash council, No. 11, met in the Buckingham Memorial Wednesday evening. Nomination and election of officers for the next six months was in order as the next meeting night comes on Christmas. No meeting will be held on that night. One candidate was balloted on.

The hall was decorated with festoons of red and green. A large Christmas tree stood at the end of the hall brilliantly lighted with electric lights. Under the tree Santa Claus had left mysterious packages. After the meeting the presents were given out, a present for everyone. Candy and nuts were passed around, tied up in Christmas napkins. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the social committee. The enjoyable programme was provided under the direction of Sisters Clifford and Halliley.

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., of Lebanon, held its monthly meeting this week at the home of Mrs. Anna Perry and Miss Bertha Perry.

The meeting opened with the regent, Miss Annie Gillett, presiding. The Lord's prayer was repeated, followed by salute to the flag and singing America. Letters were read from the following state officers: Miss Katherine Nettleton, Miss Emeline Street, Mrs. Louise Somers, of the New Haven state board of management; Mrs. Thomas Louir, Mrs. George Minor and Mrs. Sarah K. Knapp, chairman of correct use of the flag. A paper on the public seal of Connecticut was read by Mrs. W. O. Rogers, an article on Christmas, read by Mrs. Myron Smith and Edgar Guest's poem on Christmas was read by Mrs. A. R. Race. New Years and Old Jobs was read by Mrs.

AIRPLANE IN FLIGHT FROM SPAIN TO SOUTH AMERICA

Major Tadeo Larre-Borges, Uruguyan Aviator, and Lieut. Challes, a Frenchman, Took Off Near Seville at 7.40 a. m., E. S. T., Yesterday—They Are to Follow the African Coast to Cape Jubi and Then Strike Across the Ocean to Brazil—Fliers Are Using a 450 H- -ower Motor—Are Carrying About 1,400 Gallons of Gasoline —May Reach Bazil Tuesday Mornin

SEVILLE, Spain, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Two aviators tonight were embarked on the great adventure of an attempted non-stop flight to South America over a route where five successful expiditions have preceded them but where several have failed.

Major Tadeo Larre-Borges was seeking to fulfill a longheld dream of linking Montevideo, capital of his native Uruguay, to the Spanish motherland by a single flight. His co-pilot was Lieutenant Challes, a Frenchman with a distinguished record of other long distance flights.

They left here at 12.40 p. m. (7.40 a. m. E. S. T.) today and at 3.25 p. m. flew over Casa Blanca, Morocco. In the first three hours of their flight they had covered nearly 300 miles. They were favored with fine weather over the first stage of their flight and tonight had a moon nearly full to light their way down the tropical coast.

The aviators intended to skirt the western shores of Africa as far as Cape Jubi in southern Morocco and then head out across the Atlantic, perhaps passing the Canary and Cape Verde Islands, toward Brazil. They expected to pick up the South American continent in the vicinity of Natal, Brazil, and would then follow the coast line to Montevideo, if their fuel lasts. There was even talk of pushing on further if conditions are favorable for an effort to set a new world distance record.

Their airplane is a large white biplane with a 450-horsepower Lorraine motor and dual controls. It was equipped with a radio. The plane was loaded with about 1,400 gallons of gasoline.

The last successful flight from Europe to South America was that of Captain Arturo Ferrarin and Major B. Del Prete in July, 1928. They set a new world record, later broken by Dieudonne Coste, of 4,600 miles in flying from Rome to Brazil in 59 hours.

If the Uruguayan aviator maintains an equal speed he should reach the coast of Brazil early Tuesday morning.

Among the earlier successful flights across the South Atlantic were those of Captains Sacadura and Coutinho, Portuguese, June, 1922; Captain Ramon Franco, Spaniard, January, 1926; Commander Francesco De Pinedo, February, 1927; Major Sarmento Beires, March, 1927.

Major Tadeo Larre-Borges is making his second attempt to fly to South America from Europe. On February 20, 1927, he left Marina De Pisa, Italy, in the first leg of a projected flight to Montevideo. The route selected then was similar to that on which he started Sunday.

Larre-Borges had three companions including his brother, Glauco, who was radio operator. They used a plane with two motors.

After having been unreported for several days their plane was found wrecked in Morocco. A week later they arrived safely at Cape Jubi under escort of a Moorish caravan which demanded $4,250 before permitting the aviators to join their friends.

JAPAN WITH AMERICA FOR ACTUAL NAVAL REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Assurances of American-Japanese accord on President Hoover's policy of actual naval reduction in place of mere limitation will be given the Washington government by the two Japanese delegates arriving in the capital tomorrow en route to the London naval parley.

The conversations which the delegates, former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki and Admiral Takeshi Takerabe, Japanese minister of marine, will have with President Hoover, Secretary Stimson and the American delegates to the London conference will be of a preliminary nature. Questions of major policy concerning the navies of the two countries will be settled at the conference itself.

Upon two questions, however, the Japanese and American governments are in complete accord. The first is that the Kellogg anti-war treaty, under which the signatory and adhering nations agreed to renounce war as a national policy, should be one of the prime considerations in sharing a naval agreement.

The second point upon which they agree is that the agreement which is reached should provide for reduction of the sea fighting strength of the interested naval powers in place of a mere limitation.

LEGIBLATION TO INVOLVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Legislation of far-reaching importance and involving many millions of dollars will be brought before the house tomorrow for action under unanimous consent.

An objection to any one of the measures will prevent further consideration of it by the house until after the Christmas holidays which begin Dec. 21.

The first to be taken up will be the White hill to extend the life of the federal radio commission indefinitely, the first proposal of its kind since the commission was given power in 1927 to supervise the nation's radio facilities.

The Elliott bill to authorize $330,000,000 for public buildings throughout the country is second on the list. It is unusual for a measure involving so large an amount to be brought before the house for action under unanimous consent. Although the measure does not specify the cities affected, $212,000,000 would be allocated for construction of postoffices and federal court buildings over the country. The remainder would be used in carrying on the government's huge building program in the national capital.

Plans also were being formulated to bring a $14,000,000 veterans' hospitalization bill before the house.

SIX NEW CARDINALS TO BE CREATED TODAY

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Six new cardinals bringing the total membership in the Sacred College up to 63 out of a possible 70, will be created tomorrow morning by Pope Piuz XI in the long-awaited secret consistory. The secatet of eminent prelates will be solemnly invested with their traditional red hats and robes of office at a public consistory to be held next Thursday.

As yet the United States, which has four cardinals, has no representative in the curia, and Great Britain lost hers earlier in the year with the passing of the learned Benedictine, Cardinal Gasquet.

GREETED BY HUMAN HEADS STUCK ON SPIKES

TOKYO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A gruesome spectacle of a number of human heads stuck on spikes greeted the American, British, French, Japanese and German consuls from Harbin when they arrived at Pokotu (Ebukedu) station yesterday on their way to the Russo-Manchurian front to investigate conditions.

A Japanese correspondent with the party traveling on the international train described the sight and said the heads were those of Chinese alleged to have been decapitated for looting.

CONFLICTING REPORTS OF COAL STRIKE IN ILIINOIS

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Conflicting announcements concerning the continuation of the coal miners' strike in southern Illinois districts were issued today by officials of mining companies and heads of the National Miners' union.

Executives of the Peabody Coal Co., operating mines in Christian county, stated they planned to resume full operations tomorrow at Mines No. 9 at Langley and No. 58 at Taylorville. A small force has worked at the latter place for two days.

Pat Toohy, national secretary-treasurer of the National Miners' union, the striking unit, reported at Springfield his organization was well pleased with the progress of the strike and that picketing would continue.

Major C. J. McMackin of the Illinois National guard, said he would withdraw the military guard from the mines tomorrow but would station his troops along the roads in their vicinity to protect any miners returning to work. If requested, he said, the soldiers would escort the workmen to their places of employment.

Immigration officers from St. Louis resumed examination of striking miners who are held in jail here with the intention of starting deportation proceedings against aliens with bad records. Eight women who had been in jail here were released early today on bond.

SENDER OF BOMB BECOMES MOROSE AND DESPONDENT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Attendants at the Psychopathic hospital said today Francis Cadwell, 26-year-old eccentric inventor who confessed to mailing a bomb to Clark Scott at Townsend, Tenn., had become very morose and despondent.

The young man was taken to the hospital for observation after postoffice inspectors who arrested him could learn no motive for mailing the bomb. Cadwell explained he held no grudge against his friend and simply wished to study the effects of the explosion.

Inspectors and police found material for 12 similar bombs in Cadwell's room. They said he told them he intended to mail the bombs to 12 acquaintances. He could not remember their names he said.

Cadwell mailed the package to Scott on Nov. 25. It was so constructed that it exploded when opened. Four days after he had mailed it he sent Scott a telegram signed "Dementia" in which he warned him not to open a package from Los Angeles. The message arrived a half hour too late.

Scott was injured seriously and three by-standers received wounds from which they have since recovered. Scott is in a hospital at Maryville, Tenn.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS IN PHILIPPINES CLOSES

MANILA, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The first national eucharistic congress of the Philippines, perhaps the largest Christian gathering ever held in the far east, closed today with a procession of 40,000 devotees. Among important action taken during the sessions was passage of a resolution by the Colon Students' congress, requesting the legislature to pass a law providing religious instruction in the public schools.

A resolution asking all the delegates to pray for the freedom of the country from American control was adopted by the men's conference. The priests' conference declined to consider an independence resolution.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 15—(AP)—The beatification of 136 British priests and Catholic laymen, martyred for their faith in the period between 1594 and 1679, was proclaimed today in the course of a solemn mass in St. Peter's Basilica. Cardinal Bourne and a large English pilgrimage headed by the Duke of Norfolk and families related to the martyrs attended.

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., MAN RADIO AUDITION WINNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(AP)—Miss Genevieve I. Rowe, 21, of Wooster, Ohio, and Edward Kane, 22, of Atlanta, Ga., tonight won the two first prizes in the third national radio audition sponsored by the Atwater Kent foundation. Each prize consists of $5,000, a gold decoration and two years' conservatory tuition.

The winners were selected from among ten young persons who sang tonight in the finals of the competition. The ten had been selected as the result of local, state and geographical district competitions which began last May. The final audition tonight was broadcast over a coast-to-coast network of stations.

Second prizes of $3,000 and one year's tuition each were awarded to Miss Floy Hamlin, 22, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Calvin Hendricks, 25, also of Los Angeles.

Miss Josephine Antoine, 20, of Boulder, Colo., and John Jameson, 20, of Denver, Colo., were awarded third prizes consisting of $2,000 cash and one year's tuition each.

Fourth prizes of $1,500 cash and one year's tuition each went to Miss Frances Tortorich, 23, of New Orleans, La., and Charles E. Carlile, 25, of Central Falls, R. I., fifth prizes of $1,000 and one year's tuition were awarded to Miss Agnes L. Skillin, 23, of Springvale, Me., and Carlyle Bennett, 24, of Chicago.

SKELETONS OF ANCESTORS OF THE HUMAN RACE

PEIPING, China, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Scientists today hinted that ten skeletons unearthed simultaneously with an unbroken skull found in the quarries at Chow Outlien, 30 miles from here, may be the nearest approach yet made to finding the ancestors of the human race.

The skull was unearthed by a Chinese geologist, who claimed it belonged to a species of the famous "Peking man," the "Sinanthropus Pekinensis," said to be associated with the period of the Piltdown skull and the Java ape man.

While the scientists who knew the secret were sworn to secrecy, it was understood here that they regard the discoveries as perhaps the greatest human find ever made. The skull as well as the ten skeletons were said to be in a splendid state of preservation. The scientists continued their search in the hope of finding more skulls. Nine of the skeletons were headless.

AIRCRAFT CARRIER GOES TO RELIEF OF TACOMA

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 15.—(AP)—The giant naval aircraft carrier Lexington was warped into position late today alongside a dock in the city waterway where for the next 30 days she will serve as an auxiliary steam plant to furnish electrical current to Tacoma while the rains after a drought unequalled for 40 years, fill up the dam back of the city's chief hydro-electric plant.

Between the dock and huge ship were placed barges to serve as fenders. As soon as the ship was docked work began both on shore and on ship to prepare for the hook-up which will provide the city with 20,000 kilowatts of electricity. A special transmission line had to be run from a sub-station to the dock and special transformers placed there. It is expected that current will flow from the vessel late Monday night or Tuesday morning.

$10,000,000 FOR INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC WELFARE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 15—(AP)—Expressing the belief it is the duty of one who through good fortune, has accumulated wealth beyond his personal needs, to regard the remainder as a trust to be expended for the benefit of mankind, Maurice Falk, Pittsburgh capitalist and philanthropist, today announced a gift of $10,000,000 to be devoted to the interest of the public welfare.

The fund, a memorial to Mrs. Falk, will be known as the Maurice and Laura Falk foundation.

The life of the foundation is restricted to 25 years and within that time the entire fund, both principal and interest, must be expended. Broad powers of discretion are given to the foundation's seven managers to make grants for the promotion of educational, religious, charitable, philanthropic and public interest.

SEARCHING FOR SLAYER OF 70-YEAR OLD FARMER

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Dec. 15—(AP)—State troopers today continued their search for the slayer who hung a wreath fashioned from leaves and paper flowers on the door of his victim's homestead after killing H. S. Bailey, 70-year-old East Bloomfield farmer last night. The troopers' immediate objective was the capture of Edward La Savards, a farm hand, who was implicated in the crime by Bailey's son, Duane.

La Savards, the son told police, drew a gun on him, forced him into a barn, tied and gagged him and then escaped in the Bailey automobile. Freeing himself Duane went into the house where he found the body of his father, his head nearly blown off by the discharge of a shotgun.

SPANISH VESSEL SANK AFTER A COLLISION

CORUNA, Spain, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Colliding in a dense fog near here today, the Norwegian steamer, "Fish" sank the Spanish vessel Cabo Oropesa. Members of the crew lowered lifeboats and were picked up by the Norwegian vessel. The Fish was en route to this port.

Hoover To Sign Tax Reduction Bill Today

Senate Passed the Res[illegible] Saturday by a Vo[illegible]53 to 14.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—(AP)—The resolution carrying a reduction in next year's income taxes to every individual and corporation taxpayer goes from the capitol to the white house tomorrow and President Hoover will sign it forthwith.

Thus, with the Christmas shopping in full swing those who are to pay taxes next year can count on a considerable savings in that burden, which will help to meet the inevitable strains on the pocket-book in the Yuletide season.

The tax resolutions slashes one per cent off the present rates applying on all individual and corporation income taxes to be paid during the forthcoming year. The individual income taxpayers with incomes this year of $4,000 or less will be taxed at the rate of 1-2 per cent next year instead of 1 1-2 per cent. Those with net income between $4,000 and $8,000 will pay at 2 per cent instead of 3 per cent and those receiving more than $8,000 will be taxed at 4 per cent instead of 5 per cent.

Democratic leaders joined with the administration in extending this Christmas gift to the taxpayers. It was proposed by Secretary Mellon at a time when the eclipse of prices on the stock market threatened widespread business injury. Democratic leaders then gave their assurance of support and cooperated to speed the resolution through congress. The resolution has been declared by many to have a beneficial effect.

By a vote of 63 to 14 the senate adopted the resolution late yesterday and this action completed work on the legislation in congress.

Western republican independents assailed the resolution in the senate as amounting to a gift to the rich and they argued that the treasury surplus be applied, instead, to reduction of the war debt. But 11 republicans and three democrats were all who voted against it on final adoption.

DECLINE IN WOMEN'S WAGES IN THE COTTON INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—A thirteen per cent decline in women's wages in the American cotton manufacturing industry in the four years between 1924 and 1928, was shown in a report made public today by the women's bureau of the department of labor.

The average full-time earnings per week in 1928 of 38,000 women in 158 cotton mills scattered through the eleven states surveyed by the bureau were $15.66. The states included in the study Alabama, Connecticut, Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Virginia, employ almost nine-tenths of the wage earners engaged in cotton manufacturing in the country.

New Hampshire showed the highest average wage for women in 1928, with $20.31, and Alabama, with an average of $11.88 was the lowest. Rhode Island reported an average of $19.47, South Carolina $12.32, Georgia $12.77, Virginia $14.99, North Carolina $14.62.

None of the twelve occupations for which women's earnings were reported escaped a decline from the 1924 figures, 10,000 spinning showing a decrease of 14 per cent, and 8,100 weavers a 13 per cent decline.

Earnings in northern mills dropped much more than those in southern mills.

FEARFUL OF BUNG HOLES IN THE 18TH AMENMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The creation of a separate department of public welfare to enforce the prohibition law was suggested tonight by Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, as "the only solution" to the problem of making effective the dry laws.

Speaking at a mass meeting at the First Congregational church on the same program with Senator Brookhart of Iowa, Howard said that the program of the president to transfer the prohibition unit to the department of justice and leave the control of the distribution of industrial alcohol in the treasury department "will bore a million bung-holes in the eighteenth amendment."

VOLCANOES ACTIVE IN SOUTHERN ALASKA

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Volcanoes reported spouting flame and lava several hundred feet in the air and at frequent intervals along the southern coast of the Alaska peninsula, showed signs of growing violent as long ago as October, Lieutenant T. R. Lukens of the U. S. Coast and Geological survey, said here today.

His statement led to the belief that the seven volcanoes which the crew of the steamer Starr reported last week as showing unusual activity may have been spouting for sometime. They are situated northwest of Kodiak Island in a region where there are only a few Indian settlements.

CHILDREN SANG CHRISTMAS CAROLS AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—About 50 youngsters from a Washington school were accorded the privilege today of singing Christmas carols for President and Mrs. Hoover in the white house.

The tots had taken great pains to learn their songs properly and when their teachers asked that they be permitted to sing for the president, the request was readily granted.

The president, with Mrs. Hoover, came down from their private apartments on the second floor to the east room, where the carols were sung.

FIRE IN APARTMENT HOUSE IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Firemen had a two hour battle tonight with a fire in an apartment house at 200 Sigourney street, which caused damage estimated at $5,000. Nearly 100 occupants of the building vacated their apartments during the fire, many of them carrying personal belongings with them. One man, Benjamin P. Fleurot, in whose apartment the fire started, was partially overcome and was taken to a nearby physician's office for treatment after he had been assisted from the building

$319,000 Stolen Bonds Recovered

In Raid Near St. Joseph, Mich.—Robber Had Killed a Policeman.

BENTOL HARBOR, Mich., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Bonds valued at $319,850 which were stolen from a Jefferson, Wis., bank November 7, were recovered early in a police raid on the home of Frederick Dane, two and a half miles south of St. Joseph, Mich.

Charles Skelly, patrolman of the St. Joseph police force was shot and killed by Dane who escaped. Dane's wife was arrested.

Dane, who also was known as Herbert Church, purchased the house near St. Joseph September 22. His wife told police they formerly lived at Burham, near Hammond, Ind.

Patrolman Skelly was shot fatally during a traffic argument in front of the St. Joseph city hall last night by Dane, who escaped. The raid on Dane's home on the fashionable Lake Shore drive followed.

In addition to the $319,550 worth of bonds stolen from the Jefferson bank, two machine guns, a score of smaller weapons and a pillow case full of ammunition were seized.

According to Sheriff Fred B. Bryan, a car driven by Dane collided with another car last night and the two drivers agreed to seek a policeman to settle their argument. They found Patrolman Skelly, who ordered them to drive to police headquarters and mounded the running board of Dane's car.

As he did so, Dane shot him three times in the abdomen and as Skelly fell, attempted to drive away. One of the wheels of his car struck an obstacle and was broken. Dane got out an escaped in another automobile taken at the point of his pistol. Skelly died three hours later in a hospital.

A receipt for a purchase of lumber found in the abandoned car led to identification of Dane as the driver. The raid followed.

Dane is 40 years old. He told acquaintances here he owned an automobile accessory store in Chicago. His wife, Viola, 35, is held in the county jail but refuses to answer questions of Wilber M. Cunningham, Berrien county prosecutor.

STORY OF ROBBERY OF JEFFERSON BANK

JEFFERSON, Wis., Dec. 15—(AP)—The robbery of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank here, the loot from which was reported recovered today in a raid on the home of Frederick Dane, near St Joseph, Mich., occurred November 7 and was participated in by five well dressed young men.

Four of the men entered the bank and scooped up all available money and securities, trussing up William S. Kiesgrt, assistant cashier.

The men then ran to an automobile parked in front of the bank, where a fifth member of the band stood on guard, and sped out of town without interference.

Officials, after a check-up, announced that the loot obtained was thought to have totalled about $352,000 in cash and securities. The exact amount taken however, was not determined.

A novel feature of the robbery was that Kispert managed to reach a burglar alarm which he sounded, but townspeople gave it no heed.

Bank officials explained that the alarm had been sounded almost every day for a week preceding the robbery for testing purposes and that people had become so accustomed to hearing it they apparently thought it a continuation of the tests.

$30,000 FIRE DAMAGE IN NEWPORT READING ROOM

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Fire, which called out all available Newport apparatus, swept the Newport reading room, exclusive Believue avenue men's club here tonight. The club, organized 60 years ago in the century old Colonial wooden residence, numbers Boston, New York and Philadelphia society folk among its members. Its president is Maximilian Agassiz, of Boston.

The damage was placed at $30,000. James Reilly, superintendent, fell and broke his leg running to the blaze and Martin Canole, a fireman, was overcome by smoke and treated at a hospital.

MILLION-LESS MILLIONAIRE IS DEAD IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Captain Edward W. Morrison, 93, born in Chicago three years after it had been incorporated as a town, and known recently as "the Million-Less Millionaire," is dead today at his home, after an illness of seven years.

A dozen years ago, when Captain Morrison had made himself a reputation as a gay spender, aged nearly 80, he was declared incompetent and a conservator was appointed for his estate. For some time afterward he fought to regain control.

EXPLOSION CRIPPLED ITALIAN STEAMSHIP

LONDON, Dec. 16. (Monday)—(AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Gibraltar early today said the Italian steamship, Veniero had been crippled by an explosion off the Portuguese coast. It was listing badly but trying to make Lisbon. The British steamship Otranto caught the SOS and was proceeding to the aid of the Veniero.

TRAIN CARRYING CONSULS HALTED BY CHINESE

TOKYO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Rengo News Agency dispatches today said the International train carrying consuls of several nations into northwestern Manchuria where they hoped to learn the fate of their nationals in the area occupied by the soviet troops, had been halted by Chinese military when it attempted to leave Mientuho.

GIRLS WHO WERE MISSING RETURN TO THEIR HOMES

HARTOFRD, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Miss Muriel E. Johnson, 20, and Miss Marguerite Bourgeois, 16, both of Berlin, for whom a state-wide police search was instituted early today after they had been missing since Saturday night, returned to their homes at 11 o'clock tonight.

YOUTHFUL COMMUNISTS DEPRIVED OF "MARTYRDOM"

They Had Been Arrested Saturday After Parading Past the White House With Provocative Placards—President Hoover Considered Them Misguided Youths—Requested That They Be "Released and Sent Home to Their Parents."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—Considerable interest was manifested in Washington today over the novel manner in which President Hoover dealt with one of the capital's spasmodic demonstrations by persons professing to be communists.

Rather than let the offenders remain in jail or pay fines, as has been the case on previous occasions when demonstrations have taken place, Mr. Hoover requested that they be "released and sent to their parents," to prevent them from obtaining "cheap martyrdom."

The demonstrators were arrested Saturday after they had paraded past the white house and state department bearing large placards with various provocative slogans referring to the administration's policy with respect to the Kellogg peace pact, the Haitian disturbance, business stabilization and Chinese-soviet affairs.

Immediately after the arrest was made, the president dispatched Richard Jervis, head of the white house secret service, to the jails in which the communists were held to determine facts as to age, residence and other details with respect to them. Jervis reported that most of the demonstrators were under 20 years of age and that they had little real comprehension of the problems against which they were protesting.

"The president considers that the misguided youths calling themselves communists who have been arrested for demonstrating in front of the executive offices should be released and sent to their parents. He does not believe that any such discourtesy seriously endangers the republic and that a night in jail is only doing them the favor of cheap martyrdom."

Simultaneously, the three precinct jails where the paraders were being notified that Mr. Hoover would be pleased if metropolitan officers would release the communists immediately and an order to this effect subsequently was issued.

Had Mr. Hoover chosen a different course, the communists would have been liable to a fine as high as $100 each. An ordinance increasing the fine for parading without a permit, the technical charge lodge against the demonstrators, from $5 to a discretional fine of $5 to $100, was approved during the Coolidge administration.

FLOOD IN BRITAIN LEFT A TRAIL OF DESOLATION

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The receding flood-waters of the storm have left a trail of desolation. The mining valleys of South Wales, where thousands still are unemployed, have become valleys of despair. Floods struck the Rhonnda valley four times in the past three weeks, turning mountain streams into torrents.

Women and children fled in terror to the upper rooms. In some cases families have been imprisoned on upper floors for two or three days, their food swept away. Scores lost everything they had.

In the borough of Monmouth 300 homeless people are being fed and given accommodation by the authorities. "Most of the people," said E. T. Adams-Williams, mayor of Monmouth, "had to be removed from the flooded areas in boats which took them from upper windows. In cases of age, infirmity and sickness this was a perilous undertaking both for the rescuers and the rescued, as it had to be effected partly in darkness, amidst torcential rains and boisterous winds."

STRIKING STUDENTS IN POSSESSION OF SCHOOL

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Striking students of the National University Law school, seeking displacement of Dr. Juan Ramos as dean, tonight continued in possession of the school. They barricaded themselves there yesterday with enough food, it was reported, to last 15 days. A group of the Argentine student circle planned to reconquer the school but police charged and dispersed them.

The Buenos Aires university federation, however, decreed a strike of 48 hours in support of the law students.

The law building was surrounded by police to prevent more students from entering inside. The barricaded students piled furniture against the doors.

Last night an opposing group invited the strikers to a conference, but the proposal was not welcomed by the strikers who returned hostile shouts.

Federal Judge Doctor Jantus, also professor of the school, sought to intervene to solve the conflict, but was unsuccessful.

RIVAL AGRARIAN BANDS BATTLE IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15. — (AP) — Thirteen persons were killed and six wounded this morning in a battle between rival agrarian bands near the town of Venta De Carpio, only 20 miles from Mexico City in the state of Mexico.

The fight was the result of a long disagreement between the neighboring villages of Santo Tomas Chiconautla and Santa Maria Chiconautla over the boundary line of communa lands. Residents met in their respective villages last night but could arrive at no satisfactory plan to settle the problem. Armed agrarian bands sallied forth from both villages this morning to fight it out.

Federal forces have taken possession of the disputed land while authorities investigate the fighting.

PATROL BOAT FIRED 200 SHOTS AT A RUM RUNNER

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP) — Coast Guard patrol boat CG-197 today fired 200 shots at a rum runner which was nearing the American shore at Woodlawn, on Lake Erie, near this city, but the liquor boat escaped into Canadian waters after it had thrown its cargo overboard in order to lighten the craft and increase its speed. Captain Charles Rubel of the U. S. government boat reported the rum runner as being exceedingly speedy and able to outdistance the boat which he commanded. So far as known, none of the shots took effect.

WOULD HAVE U. S. SENATORS ELECTED BY LEGISLATURES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—A return to the method of having United States senators elected by state legislatures instead of by direct vote of the people will be sought in a resolution prepared for introduction tomorrow by Representative Underhill, republican, Massachusetts.

"The change ought to be welcome by the senate because of its recent troubled experience," the Bay State member said. "The time now is opportune and the proposal should relieve the senate of trouble."

A constitutional amendment would be necessary to carry out Underhill's plan. He would have it known as Article 20.

"MYSTERY WITNESS" FOR FRANKLIN MURDER CASE

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 15—(AP)—Appearance of a woman "mystery witness" for the state and promises of "startling disclosures" by both prosecution and defense had this little mountain village at a high pitch of excitement tonight on the eve of the opening of the trial of five men charged with murdering Connie Franklin.

The woman whose name was not divulged but who was said by Sheriff Sam Johnson to have known the M. Franklin in the state insane asylum in 1926 as well as any other person, today viewed the man who says he is the Connie Franklin believed slain, and neither apparently recognized the other. The man who asserts he is Connie Franklin and was brought back here by the defense to deny any murder was committed in the St. James' hill community last March 9, remained with relatives of the accused men.

The "mystery witness" was said by Sheriff Johnson to be one of the state's most important witnesses in its efforts to prove Connie Franklin is dead—the victim of a torture slaying.

An effort will be made by the prosecution to prove that Connie Franklin, the reputed victim, and M. Franklin, who escaped from the state hospital for nervous diseases, were the same. Then if the man who claims he is Connie Franklin can be shown never to have been an inmate of the hospital, the prosecution believes the defense will be exploded.

SHERIFFS SAVE NEGRO SLAYER FROM MOB

LEXINGTON, Miss., Dec. 15.—(AP)—With a crowd of men close on his heels, Sheriff W. L. Ellis and a squad of deputies early today escaped with Sammy Pace, Negro, suspected of the slaying of Noel C. White, farmer and chairman of the Mississippi democratic executive committee, whose body was found in a ditch near one of his farms yesterday. He had been shot to death.

The Negro was arrested in his cabin on White's farm after bloodhounds had led a posse of 1,000 men to his home.

A. L. White, Clarksdale, deputy sheriff, said his dogs went straight to the Negro's cabin and paid no attention to a Negro who answered the door, but bristled and barked when Pace appeared. Officers said Pace could not give a satisfactory account of himself, and was stolen away from the crowd and secreted in an unannounced jail.

White was killed Saturday on the edge of a timber tract on one of his farms. Officials believe he was slain when he protested the cutting of timber by Negro tenants.

TO RADIO CHRISTMAS MUSIC TO THE ANTARCTIC EXPLORERS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 15—(AP)—The hardy explorers of Commander Richard E. Byrd and Sir Hubert Wilkins, will rather in the warm shelter of their houses in the Antarctic Saturday, December 21, and "attend" Christmas church services held especially for them in the Shadyside Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh.

The music and sermon will span the many miles to Little America and Deception Island by radio from station KDKA starting at 11:05 p. m., eastern standard time.

Missionaries, explorers and traders in the Arctic and sub-Arctic will be treated to radio services on Christmas night starting at 11 o'clock.

DENIES REPORTS OF REVOLUTION IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15—(AP)—Reports of a revolution in Mexico, which caused Enrique Santibanez, Mexican consul general at San Antonio, Tex., to issue a denial, apparently originated in press accounts here of a plot discovered at Guadalajara recently leading to the arrest of Louis Ibarra, alleged head of the movement.

The press report of the plot appeared several weeks after it had been nipped in the bud and Ibarra taken into custody. Reports of other arrests have not been confirmed and qualified spokesmen say the plot was not of grave proportions.

BRITISH GOV'T. WILL PAY $93,795,000 TO U. S. TODAY

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The British government tomorrow will pay into the United States treasury $93,795,000 on the war debt. Of this $27,000,000 is repayment of principal while the balance is interest. This sum brought the total payment to the United States since funding the British debt to $1,124,970,000, of which $174,000,000 has been in repayment of principal. The outstanding amount is $4,426,000,000.

HAMPTON VOTES TO CONTINUE STATE HIGHWAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 15.—North end residents of the town of Hampton believe that they scored a decisive victory at a special meeting of the town of Hampton held Saturday afternoon when it was voted, 60 to 35, to continue state highway construction in a northerly direction toward the Pomfret town line. This issue had been voted on at at least three previous meetings. Opposition was strong from the southern part of the town where the so-called south element held out for highway construction toward the Scotland town line and was said to have threatened injunction proceedings against the selectmen should an attempt be made to sign the north-end contract. This contract was to have been signed and submitted to the state commissioner for road construction on the state-aid plan.

The "north-enders" now believe that Saturday's vote was sufficiently decisive to block any further attempts to secure the new road in the southern part of the town.

The town meeting was called specifically to take action on the road construction, with the two locations mentioned being under consideration. The proposition was to build at either end of Hampton street, which runs north and south. With the residents of the south bidding hard for a new road in that district and most of the large taxpayers residing to the north the fight was a bitter one. Charles Chester was moderator of Saturday's meeting and Gertie Thompson clerk.

GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE FOR ASSAULTING POLICE CAPTAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 15.—A fine of $20 and costs and a sentence of six months in the county jail at Brooklyn was imposed Saturday morning in the case of William Bicknell, 25, of 50 Meadow street, charged with intoxication and assault on Police Captain Frank W. McLean. The assault was noted by court officials as a cowardly one which resulted in painful injuries to the captain. Captain McLean, acting on a complaint, had ejected Bicknell from the Wood Smoke shop on Union street. Bicknell waited near the door and as the officer stepped out the young man swung a hard blow to the head. Captain McLean was somewhat dazed by the unexpected blow and before he could recover Bicknell struck again and then threw his weight against the captain while continuing to pummel the officer. Several bystanders stood about with gaping mouths, offering no assistance during the uneven struggle. It was alleged that two young men, Edward Sullivan, 24, and Joseph Gordon, 35, prodded Bicknell on. They were arrested on charges of breach of the peace and intoxication. A passerby finally came to the officer's assistance and as word spread quickly of the assault strong sentiment was expressed that an example should be made of Bicknell.

That this feeling was reflected in the courtroom was manifest in a recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher that Bicknell should be fined $200 and costs and given a six months jail sentence. Judge Foss imposed the jail sentence but modified the fine recommendation to $20 and costs. In a statement, Prosecutor Gaucher said that he felt that the case warranted being made exemplary of what punishment awaits those who scoff at the rules and regulations adopted by law-abiding citizens. He called attention to the fact that Captain McLean, who is recorded with high proficiency in the manly art of self-defense, was caught entirely unawares. At the time the captain was struck he had not arrested Bicknell, but merely ordered him out of the Smoke shop. Captain McLean sustained a bad cut over the left eye, requiring four stitches to close, a cut on the ear requiring two stitches and numerous abrasions about the forehead. He has been forced to take sick leave and it was feared today that he may have been more seriously hurt than at first supposed.

In connection with the assault case, Edward Sullivan pleaded guilty to charges of breach of the peace and intoxication. He was fined $20 and costs for intoxication and $5 and costs for breach of the peace. Joseph Gordon also pleaded guilty to breach of the peace but denied the intoxication charge. Captain McLean and Officer Roderick Lariviere testified that Gordon was drunk at the time. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication and $5 and costs for breach of the peace. Alderman Eugene B. Lewis, chairman of the police committee, was among those attending the police court session Saturday.

OBITUARY

Miss B. J. Peterson

Miss Beda J. Peterson, 52, formerly of this city and more recently of Hartford, died in the Hartford hospital shortly after midnight this morning. She was born in Sweden, March, 1877, a daughter of Peter and Anna Larson. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Matilda Hanson and Miss Mary Peterson, both of this city. Prior to removing to Hartford many years ago, the deceased was engaged as a housekeeper here.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DRIVE IS SLATED FOR JANUARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 15.—The annual membership support campaign of the chamber of commerce will be carried on in January, it was announced at the chamber offices Saturday. The fiscal year begins Feb. 1 and the annual meeting will be held during that month. It is indicated that considerable effort will be devoted to increasing the individual memberships which are at the rate of $10 a year. There are at present 237 such memberships, whereas the chamber directors feel that there should be at least 500 individual memberships in 1930. The chamber of commerce is pointed to as the logical means of co-ordinating all of the forces that mean community progress. It likewise serves as a clearing house for all manner of civic and commercial problems and is the key to industrial growth.

At the present time the chamber has a number of active problems and plans in its program for the next several weeks. Much is being done through the industrial committee to give all possible assistance to industries already located here. The most recent report of this committee shows that the Willimantic Silk, Inc., newest of local industries, had a payroll amounting to $8,000 for the last two weeks. This average of $4,000 a week is more than was ever paid out by the Quidnick-Windham Co., which formerly owned the mills.

Still another committee is giving recognition of the increasing importance of the poultry industry in the town of Windham by co-operating with the Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association in staging the 1930 Willimantic Exposition at the state armory. Much consideration is also being given the Boy Scout movement in the city and surrounding towns. Plans are also being formulated for the staging of an Old Home School and Old Church week during next summer. Over 1,000 former residents returned here for a similar event staged in 1915.

President Frank P. HAITIANS PETITION U. S. TO SUPERVISE ELECTIONS

PORT AU PRINCE, Dec. 15—(AP)—Petitions signed by the presidents of seven Haitian political organizations asking United States supervision of the presidential elections next April were sent by air mail to President Hoover.

The signatories of the petitions claim that they have more than 100,000 followers in the interior. The petitions state that only through American supervision of elections will the Haitians receive fair and impartial treatment. They charge President Louis Borno with attempts to enslave the citizenry, with denying freedom of the press and with violating the personal liberty clauses of the republic's constitution.

Preventable Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago. It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. To cure the cause of any pain you must consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Bayer Aspirin for immediate relief.

DANIELSON

HUNDREDS RUSH TO PAY PERSONAL TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 15—They're in! Several hundred residents of the town of Killingly, men and women, have decided they had rather pay the town a bonus, in effect, on their personal taxes than pay on time. 'On time" ceased to be when Personal Tax Collector Arthur A. Dean shut up shop about 6 o'clock Saturday night, and called it a day, after working hard all day and working overtime. A line of those liable to pay the tax stood before Mr. Dean throughout his office hours Saturday. Some of those waiting to settle remained two hours before they could get to him, so great was the rush. Assistants were on hand to ease the pressure of the rush, among them, James R. Walsh, town tax collector. At the banks clerks were hurried and harried writing out checks for those who would pay before it was too late. Several hundred people got by inside the zero hour by having their payments received and recorded. The several hundred others who apparently remained unworried will pay later, and pay plenty, insofar as the tax plus penalties is concerned. It is going to cost them from $3 to $10 each to settle a $2 debt, depending on how promptly they discharge their obligation to the town.

With winter unofficially present, though a resident hereabouts will find it difficult to appreciate this, the weather of the first half of December considered, one who visits certain poultry farms within half a dozen miles of Danielson might be tempted to join in a chorus chanting "Spring is here." The answer to this is that incubators, right here in the town of Killingly, are now concerned with the functional duty of turning out spring chicks. Some of these will be chirping before the first of the year. The poultry business is no longer a "part of the year enterprise." It functions right through the twelve months. It is stated that more chicks will be hatched in this town between now and the beginning of the vernal season than ever before were brought out in a like period.

OBITUARY

Susan I. Mathewson

Susan Idella Mathewson died Saturday at her home in East Killingly. She was born in the neighboring town of Foster, April 7, 1855, but had lived the greater part of her life in this town. She was the daughter of George H. and Susan Patterson Simmons and the widow of William Mathewson. She leaves a son, Elmer Mathewson of East Killingly and the following daughters and step-daughters: Mrs. Robert Sands, Danielson; Mrs. Leilia Voucher, East Killingly, Mrs. H. B. Shippee. There is also a brother, Rufus, of Providence, and three sisters, Mrs Nellie. Moore, Mrs. Nettie Jacques, East Killingly and Mrs. Lucy Fairmon, Pawtuxet, R. I.

Mrs. Lilly G. Dawley

Another death at East Killingly, late Friday night, was that of Mrs. Lilly G. Dawley, a resident in that section for years. Mrs. Dawley was born in Rhode Island September 3, 1855, a daughter of Edwin and Hannah Finney Passmore. She leaves a son, John, of East Greenwich, two daughters, Mrs. Jennie N. Chase and Mrs. Albert A. Greenslit of East Killingly. Charles and Frederick Passmore of East Killingly, Edwin Passmore of Boston and William Passmore of New Orleans are brothers and Mrs. Vincent Adams and Mrs. John Russell, both of Attawaugan, are sisters.

Miss Lena Kopecki

Miss Lena Kopecki, 22, daughter of Mrs. Francis Kopecki of South street, the West Side, is dead at the home. Born in Austria, Miss Kopecki came to this country with her parents as a child and has since lived hereabouts. Her father died as the result of an accident in which he figured at a local manufacturing plant several years ago. In addition to her mother, Miss Kopecki is survived by three sisters, Mrs. John Boiselle, Mrs. Walter Pester and Mrs. F. Dupuis.

An interesting yarn goes with hte purchase by the state, sometime since, of a considerable area of land and water about two miles east of here and including what in the old days was known as Pike's oranberry bog. The state is understood to plan developments having to do with the propagation and distribution of trout. The area referred to is fed almost exclusively by springs, and the closing of a dam at the southerly end of the property is the means of creating a sizeable pond.

Some 75 years ago, so the story goes, a farmer living in the neighborhood rolled a freshly made barrel of cider into a large spring hole at the northerly limits of the property one fall day, with the idea that he would retrieve it during the hot haying season of the next year to furnish the cool drinks for himself and co-workers Came the season for getting the barrel and its contents out and the effort to get it failed miserably, as it always since has failed. The spring hole is of undetermined depth, but very deep. At the bottom of it is the age-old cider. Getting it out is next to impossible, those who know the springhole say. And getting it out today would likely not be approved by the state. No fishing is allowed in the area mentioned now, nor will any be allowed the coming spring. It would appear that the barrel and its contents are safe for another half century.

Early risers this morning heard a tale relative to the driver of an automobile whose machine crashed against the Quinebaug bridge late last night and hung suspended 20 feet above the waters of the river flowing swiftly beneath and of the driver's escape without injury. However, the bridge shows no evidence of such a happening, and local and state officers say no such incident had been reported to them today.

Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., pastor of St. James' parish, is en route home from a stay of several months in Europe, and is expected to arrive in Danielson within a few days.

Cashier Francis E. Storer of the Windham County National bank is to assume the duties of his new position as president of The Thames Bank and Trust Co., at Norwich, the first of the year.

Mrs. Marie A. Rathburn, widow of Francis Rathburn, died at her home in Lowell. She formerly resided in Danielson. The body is to be sent here for burial.

Miss Winifred Weaver, who has been ill, is recovering at the home on Mechanic street.

Miss Anita Berthaiume, student nurse at a Providence hospital, spent today visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Betrhiaume, Sr.

K. of C. carnival continuing tonight (Monday) at hall on upper floor of Berthiaume building, Main street. Everybody welcome.—Adv.

Miss Aurore A. Beauchemin of New Bedford was a week end visitor with friends in Danielson.

During the coming weeks certain plants of Powdrell and Alexander throughout the town of Killingly will operate on a three-day schedule, an arrangement also in effect during the past week. This short time schedule is only temporary. Shipments from the curtain department are going forward as usual.

Again the local public is facing at Christmas time the necessity of selecting from two worthy charities, if one cannot give to both, one that spends the money for the poor that it gets here in this town and one that spends it elsewhere. The situation is a rather trying one for many local people anxious to help Danielson's worthy poor and yet sympathetic for the poor of other nearby communities.

Miss Rose Sharkey, who is employed as a practical nurse in Bridgeport, is visiting Miss Margaret Wallace, in Sylvandale.

Donald Roode, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roode has a broken arm, caused by a fall on the gymnasium floor at Plainfield high school.

And the cat came back! Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst returned from a trip to Norwich Saturday afternoon, and was informed by Mr. Parkhurst that when he passed the parlor door, during her absence, he beheld their kidnaped kitten lying in a chair. He had heard no sounds, but someone had opened the door and returned the stolen Angora. Evidently the story of the loss in Saturday's Bulletin took effect immediately.

MOUNTAINS OF ARIZONA AS SEEN BY TOURISTS

Continuin from the Roskruge, the local touring party has this to say: Through dust for 165 miles and not a tree in sight! Mountains, canyons, cacti(five or six different kinds) cattle, horses, cowboys at work rounding up a herd of cows. The country is all fenced, but the acreage of a ranch is so great that to know where all the cattle are located a cowboy has to ride miles and miles.

We were in the mountains all day and came through two passes. One was called the Apache pass and the other Texas gap. Through the Texas gap were deep canyons and we wound our way around the edge of washes, climbing higher and higher until suddenly we could see to the west, range after range of mountains. The nearer mountains were of a pearly gray the next range a light purple, the next a dark purple and shading off until in the far distance the last range was a light blue with the tops of the mountains hid in the clouds. I don't know how far away the last range was from us but should judge from the map, they were Sierita Presta, about one hundred miles away.

We came between the Santa Catalina and Rincons range and on the south was the Old Baldy mountain, 9,432 feet above sea level.

In Texas gap were wonderful formations of rocks. One old man told us we would see Eagle rock which looked exactly like an eagle's head with a hooked beak.

We meet people every day that we have seen the day before, or the week before, all bound for California.

Today saw a man and his wife from Cleveland, Ohio. Saw them a week ago in Arkansas. They are here tonight.

I was here forty-three years ago and there was only one street and the little hotel was owned by the railroad company. Now there are 47,000 people here.

Tomorrow morning we have an appointment with the librarian here and this evening she was good enough to find for us some historical facts about Arizona that were intensely interesting to me.

The Centralia, Ill., city council, seeking to provide a hitching rack for horses, has no space that can be used.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO MRS. ADDIE E. PARKS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Dec. 15.—An impressive tribute was paid Saturday by citizens representative of all of Windham county and many other parts of the state to the memory and personality of Mrs. Addie Elizabeth Parks, superintendent and matron of the Windham County temporary home in Sawyer district, whose death is mourned by relatives and thousands of friends throughout the state and by more than a hundred child inmates of the home where she was known at "Mother" Parks.

At the funeral services held at the county home in Sawyer district at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon were gathered representatives of the county government which included the board of county commissioners, and sheriff of the county, members of the state board of charities and town officials, members of various fraternal societies and many without affiliation other than deep and sincere friendship for one who will be remembered for her kindliness and sunny disposition, that won and held for her throughout her life, friendship and esteem.

Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church of this city conducted the service. Burial was in the family plot in Grove street cemetery. Rev. Mr. English conducted a committal service at the grave. The bearers were Dr. Harry A. Houghton, W. A. Houghton, William H. Mansfield, Jas. Theodore Gagne, William Cronin and John F. Cronin, all relatives. The floral remembrances were significant, an expression of love from relatives, county and state governmental bureaus, which she served for more than 16 years and from close personal friends.

FUNERALS

William Fraser.

This afternoon at two o'clock at the Masonic Temple on Grove street funeral services were held for William Fraser, retired Western Union lineman and well known resident of this city who died Thursday evening at his home on South Main street. The services were in accordance with the Masonic ritualistic rites conducted by members of the Quinebaug lodge, A. F. and A. M., Mr. Fraser's only fraternal affiliation. Burial was in Grove street cemetery. Committal exercises were held at the grave.

Mrs. Rosanna Gilman.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning for Mrs. Rosanna Gilman, at the home on Providence street, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church, celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor, assisted by Rev. Leo LaVallee, curate at St. Joseph's church, North Grosvenordale, deacon, and Rev. Joseph D. Casey, sub-deacon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Rev. Father Bellerose officiated at the committal service at the grave.

All schools in the city and town will close on Friday for the annual Christmas recess. In the grammar schools pageants depicting the spirit of the season will be presented by the various classes, while Christmas school closing exercises will be held at Putnam high school. At St. Mary's parocial school an elaborate Yuletide program is being planned by the sisters of the convent and nuns who comprise the faculty of the school. A Christmas tree party will be given the students, which will be held in St. Mary's hall.

The dramatic and musical talent of St. Mary's troop of Boy Scouts was presented to a large audience at the Bradley theatre Friday evening in the form of a comedy and band concert. Following the presentation of two plays, the curtain went up revealing the largest galaxy of youthful musicians ever assembled anywhere in the city. Almost 100 of the kahki clad youngsters were seated on the stage waiting restlessly for the motion of Rev. Joseph D. Casey, scout commissioner and director of the band. The concert delighted the hundreds of listeners, who were amazed at the excellent performance and ability of the Scouts.

Alvin Jarvis of Providence street, local sportsman, sustained a fracture of the arm Thursday evening during a basketball game played in Hudson, Mass. The event was staged for the benefit of a Hudson charity fund and Jarvis, together with Isadore Weiss and Dominick Bove, Putnam high school stars, were among the players from two states who gave their services.

The largest one-day Christmas shopping crowd seen thus far this season jammed into the business district Saturday for a good natured slow moving trip through stores in the downtown streets. From early afternoon until 9.30 in the evening the streets presented a mid-day spectacle. Every available parking space on the streets was occupied and the municipal parking grounds on South Main street were jammed with cars of holiday shoppers. Many of the prominent businessmen in the city said today that Saturday's business had exceeded the one day sales record established on this date a year previous.

Mayor Charles A. Richard is in receipt of a letter from Hiram Bingham, United States senator from this state, in which the senator extends his congratulations to Mayor Richards for his recent victory in the biennial elections.

A small leather boot believed to be of great antiquity found by workmen imbedded in the grounds on a farm in Pomfret, is in possession of George Lewis, Jr., manager of a local shoe store. The ancient piece of footwear in all probability was discarded by its youthful wearer in favor of a new pair of boots, a product of his father's ingenuity. The sole of the shoe is attached to the last with small pegs of wood. The heel is worn to one side and the crude cut sole is worn through.

A charity bazar given Saturday at the reception hall of the Howe-Marot school in Thompson by students for the benefit of the Day Kimball hospital was largely attended and proved to be a complete financial success.

Lionel H. Charron of South Main street, for the past 15 years in the employ of Chandler and Morse, local hardware dealers, has resigned his position there to accept another in Providence.

Louis Lucier of Hartford spent the week end at the home of his perents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Lucier, of School street.

Miss Alice Perry of Willimantic normal school returned to her studies today after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Edward F. Perry, of Grove street.

Miss Alice Andrews of Worcester was a week end visitor at her home on Farrows street.

Terence J. McGarry, a student at the General Electrical school at Lynn, Mass., has returned to his studies after a visit with his parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. J. McGarry, of Grove street.

Santa Claus was seen in the business district of the city for the first time this Christmas season Saturday. Admiring youngsters kept old Kris Kringle busy answering questions pertaining to his home in the far north, while older boys, aware of the face behind the mask poked their irritating remarks at him as he sandwiched his way through the shopping throngs.

County Commissioner Arthur C. Keith said today that no successor to Mrs. Addie E. Parks, late superintendent and matron of the county home in Sawyer district, will be named for several weeks. The appointment of a woman to this position is a responsible one, Mr. Keith said, and the commission will not act until a candidate is secured, who is fully qualified to accept the charge. Mrs. Morrell, assistant matron, under the late Mrs. Parks, is acting temporarily as head of the institution until the appointment of a superintendent. The vacancy will be filled by an appointment of the county commissioners, Arthur C. Keith, Putnam, Urgele LaFrance of Central Village and Bert J. Johnson of Woodstock, and two members of the state board of charities.

Albert Aldrich and Fred Bennett, both of Putnam, were arrested yesterday by County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels, of Plainfield, on charges of violations of the fish and game laws. Both Bennett and Aldrich were hunting without licenses. They were approached by the warden for their privilege buttons and when unable to produce them were placed under arrest. An additional charge was made against Bennett who was also found to be operating a motor vehicle without a license to do so. They are being held at the local police station for a hearing in city court Monday morning.

The arrest of John Tuburski of Park street by Officer Edward Benoit of the local police Saturday unfolded a rare and pathetic case. Tuburski has a child of school age who had not been present at classes at the Israel Putnam school where he was a student for some weeks. School authorities investigated and called the attention of the prosecuting attorney, Eric H. Johnson, to facts surrounding the case, the result being a warrant was sworn out for the father's arrest. He told police that he did not believe in the education of children and did not intend to allow his child to attend school. The offense with which he is charged is a serious one, police said. He will be arraigned Monday morning before Judge M. H. Geissler in city court.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Edward C Tillinghast and daughter Harriet, were in Canterbury during the week.

County Commissioner Urgele Lafrance has been doing revaluation work in Moosup the past week as he has been appointed one of the committee. There has been dissatisfaction for some time and it is hoped some of it may be ended.

Local people are planning to attend the play, "Forest Acres" for the benefit of Plainfield church.

Lawyer and Mrs. Louis Woisard and son Louis, have returned to their home in Danielson, having spent several days with Mrs. Woisard's parents.

Mrs. John Toulon has been in Moosup to visit her sister, Mrs. Emma Bourque, who has been an invalid for several months as the result of an automobile accident. She is able to sit up for a few minutes. She lived here, but went to Moosup to be cared for at the home of relatives, as her mother, Mrs. Louise Labon, is an invalid.

Frances Lambert of Moosup, little grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lambert of this village, has had surgical treatment at a Hartford hospital where he has been for several weeks as he has been very lame for a long time. It was found the cause was an abscess on his hip bone.

Elwood Byles has been at his summer home at Point Judith, R. I. for a short stay.

Friends here were saddened Thursday, to learn of the death of Mrs. Parks, matron of the Children's home at Putnam.

Dr. James L. Gardner is still confined to his home by illness, but is showing some improvement.

Many were forced to walk to their work Thursday morning as they were unable to start their cars. Many cars were stalled on the streets.

THE TAX BILL

For the most part there has been approval throughout the country of the plan of federal tax reduction suggested by Secretary Mellon and urged by President Hoover, which provides for a 1 per cent reduction for all taxpayers and corporations. It has been regarded as reaching all classes and providing for a $160,000,000 relief. It is a reduction that applies for but one year, since it deemed wise to await developments to see whether it should be continued or whether reductions of another character should be made in the future.

It is a tax reduction that is intended to apply this year. Thus it was important that it should be decided one way or the other as soon as possible and inasmuch as but little time ought to be required to reach such a decision there was justification for pressing it, even though it did interrupt tariff discussion for a few hours.

With the house favorably disposed it was inevitable that there would be objection from the insurgent element in the senate. That developed, as anticipated, but it was evident that it could not control the democratic forces. The democrats appreciated what this meant to their constituents quite the same as the regular republicans, and while their support of the bill must have been galling to the insurgents they must be given credit for using good judgment in pulling away from the coalition.

There was neither good ground for the effort to delay action on the tax bill until after the tariff had been disposed of nor to so amend it as to threaten a deficit. No one knows when the senate will get through playing with the tariff. It probably will not be much before spring and it certainly gains no support for the tariff when those who did so much to block it in the special session are now urging the enactment of no other business until that is settled.

It is gratifying to know that the senate has the good sense to take up and put through the tax-lowering bill at this time despite insurgent objection and it is done at a time when it will have a good effect upon the entire country. Now that it is ready for the president there is no question what the outcome will be and plenty of time will be permitted the treasury authorities in getting out the blanks for the March returns.

AN AID TO SHIPPING

Now that there is an effort being made for the appropriation of $10,000,000 for the widening and deepening of the Cape Cod canal and the improvement of the approaches, it is only what was expected when the canal was purchased by the government.

It is being shown that much shipping is using the short cut, but it is found that there would be a much larger number of vessels taking that route if they could be accommodated. Lack of sufficient water in the canal forces them to go out and around Cape Cod and, as any mariner knows, that involves something like 60 miles of additional travel over a route that is fraught with danger because of narrow channels and shifting shoals.

Getting such a sum as asked will encounter opposition. It may never be possible to do all that is wanted at once but it is believed that the advantages to be gained through such an improvement will result in the ultimate deepening and widening of that waterway which was never completed to the extent planned.

There is, of course, the matter of maintenance, which must be provided for in order to keep it fit for those of the vessels that can use it, but having provided a shorter and safer route for coastwise shipping it is inevitable that the time should come when it would be available for all. As a matter of fairness it should result if it can be accomplished within the bounds of reason and there are funds available which are not needed for something more important.

It is a move in behalf of greater safety for shipping and while it involves work in Massachusetts the advantages being provided are by no means accruing solely to the residents of the state and vicinity, or even to New England.

A PERTINENT REMINDER

When we stop to consider bandits we are apt to consider that some other countries are more seriously afflicted with them than we are. No doubt we are right in most instances but we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that we have our share of them and they are quite as desperate and cold-blooded as those elsewhere.

This was called to our attention in a pointed manner the past week on the occasion of the visit of President-elect Rubio of Mexico to New York city. He was, of course, immediately sought out for interviews. Some interviewers were serious-minded and others were looking for something that would produce big headlines. One of the latter brought up the question of bandits in Mexico and wanted to know if the Mexican government had got them under control. Possibly he thought to embarrass the next head of that government, but he may have been a bit surprised at the Yankee trait displayed by the president-elect in making his answer by asking another question. And that question was, "Are you in control of yours in Chicago?"

The next Mexican president didn't get an answer. Probably he didn't expect one. He had countered in such a manner that there was no answer that could be made in the affirmative and the original questioner knew better than to reply in the negative.

When we stop to look around a bit we have our bandits and plenty of them. They operate quite freely in Chicago, one of the large centers of population in a civilized country, and they are operating periodically in other places in one manner or another. It may be that their appearance and their methods are different, but the result is the same in the end. And yet we think that this is the safest place in the world to live.

We look at Mexico from a distance quite the same as those in Mexico look at this country from a distance. Chicago's reputation has traveled far and in view of the fact that we view with alarm the conditions which prevail in Mexico there is no ground for surprise that Mexicans consider conditions of that character in a superior country to be as bad if not worse than their own.

Are we so prone to complain about conditions elsewhere that we are unmindful of the sad spectacle that is being depicted daily at home?

WHERE WIRELESS IS NEEDED

Will the time ever come when the smallest of the vessels that ply the ocean are equipped with wireless? Every now and then there are instances which show the need of it.

In the past week conditions on the north Atlantic have been of such severity as to try the nerve of those in command of the largest vessels. In view of that and the battering such ships received it can be easily appreciated that the plight of a small schooner used for fishing under similar conditions was indeed serious. Driven to sea after it had left St. John's, Newfoundland, the captain and nine men put up a desperate battle against a series of hurricanes and they suffered greatly from hunger and thirst as well as lack of sleep before they were rescued by a steamship.

They were depending upon the good fortune of encountering some vessel that might rescue them and their distress can be imagined as they saw "four vessels pass us without seeing us. The last one we saw a week ago when a four-funneled ship was sighted."

For those aboard a small vessel to see one of the larger ones would be much easier than for aboard the larger ones to pick up the smaller, but this predicament brings to attention the value which wireless would have been under the circumstances. Inasmuch as many of the freighters insist that the expense of such equipment prevents them from getting such protection, it can be appreciated that the burden would be even greater for the small ones, but it is to be hoped that with the improvements that are constantly being made it will soon be possible to provide equipment that will be adequate to meet just such conditions as existed on the fishing schooner. These men had been given up for lost, and two other schooners are still missing. If those aboard the latter are alive they might, by the aid of wireless, be able to attract attention, whereas, like the others, they must, otherwise wait until good fortune favors them to the extent of having a larger vessel cross their path, and in that waiting distress and hardships may be too violent to stand.

Wireless equipment that would cover a few hundred miles would afford protection of inestimable value. Through it the Newfoundland schooner could easily have gotten the attention of the four vessels that failed to see them.

IT WOULD BE A MISTAKE

When William S. Vare followed up his rejection by the senate with the announcement that he would be a candidate for the office at the next election it was the natural comeback of a disappointed but determined man. It was the reaction that might be expected from a well man. But Mr. Vare is not a well man and he hasn't been for a considerable time. Already the strain of the test in the senate and the results have had their effect upon his health. He must recognize himself that he hasn't the strength to carry on that he did before he suffered a stroke. That being the case, it is apparent that he is not in condition to make a campaign fight and there is doubt whether he would be in condition to administer the office should he be elected again.

Under the circumstances, it is the sane course that is being pursued by his friends and supporters in endeavoring to dissuade him from his announced decision. They realize the situation. But if that were not sufficient there is an opportunity to reflect upon the circumstances accompanying his previous success.

No one knows better than he does that he would not have stood a chance to win, and in all probability would not have entered the contest, had not Governor Pinchot thrown himself into the battle and made certain that there would be a division of the vote which under ordinary circumstances would have gone to Pepper. That gave Vare a look in of which he made the most but there is no such rosy outlook for him next spring unless Pinchot should again project himself into the contest. In view of what happened when Vare won before it would appear that the former governor would see the wisdom of keeping out of any such three-cornered primary contest.

GENUINE ART.

Lucien Montecrake, super artist, gazed into the long pier glass with a look of satisfaction. Really, he did not blame the women for going crazy about him. No wonder the movies were coming to reel him for the public. They recognized quality as personified by him.

A shapely, virile form; a perfect profile; skin as smooth and flawless as ivory; raven hair that waved and gleamed He allowed a smile to light the velvety darkness of his eyes and slowly his red lips opened to permit a glimpse of flashing, pearly teeth. An Adonis in the flesh!

Satisfied with his reflection, Lucian turned to give his studio the final inspection. It could positively not be improved. It was the very essence of his vital, creative personality. Alluring, original, the dream-child of a genius. Lucian's long white fingers pulled a crimson velvet hanging into more subtle folds. Against the dull black walls, his priceless antique lamps shone with iridescent lustre. Paintings of women, startling in their futuristic technique, had their own special illuminations. A magnificent tapestry covered an entire end of the studio and before it stood a raised platform On it, presently, his model would take her stand.

A beautiful girl, needless to remark, she had been able to satisfy Lucian's critical requirements; that was all he asked. As a touch of genuine art, she was soon to pose in his motion picture.

It had taken great subtlety and finesse on Lucian's part—he smiled as he remembered how clever he had been to instill into the mind of his producer, that the one thing lacking in the cinema world of genuine art was his own particular picture and paintings.

Now Lucian did not need advertising. His fame was well established. Wherever he went little gasps and whispers of admiration and awe attended every movement. But Lucian never tired of worship Continually he longed for more.

Really he must have a private reel made for his own particular showing. He smiled tolerantly at his own whimsical thought. He not a success? Well, when he failed to hold an audience enthralled, look out for the sun and moon to cease shining.

A light step sounded inside the room. It was Natalie, his model. To Lucien—only a model; a detail to complete a perfect ensemble. Carefully, he explained the posture he wished her to assume. Natalie nodded. She always grasped his meaning quickly. She posed once and was rewarded by his dismissal.

"No use to waste time on her," reflected Lucian. "What they want is me. I'll give them something to remember.

Calm, poised, the cynosure of envious eyes, Lucian waited that eventful night, for his first appearance in the movie world. At last the climax of his marvelous career! Would he look as well in pictures as he did in life? Probably better. He had so often been told he would film perfectly

Nothing was lacking in the description of his reel when it finally came. He could feel the tension of the audience. Breathless they waited for his image to appear. It came at last. Clean cut, splendid, just as he had planned. But—what was this? There, striking him in the eye, like some pygmy enemy, blazed forth the form of—Natalie!

Superb, overwhelmed, tinted in natural colors, her grace and beauty obliterated the rest of the picture as if it did not exist. Her wonderful golden hair, dazzling violet eyes, softly blushing cheeks, her supple form molding the soft draperies, focused every eye inevitably. The black and white Lucian was drafted to a shadow. Those waves of applause were not for him.

Numb at first, Lucien gradually recovered. That producer should answer for this beastly trick. He hurried behind the scenes. There stood the producer, rubbing his hands and beaming like an unclouded sun. Before Lucian could say a word he burst into speech.

"Didn't Natalie knock 'em cold? I knew she'd film good if only I could get her in a picture. I need a new star, and I thought she'd fit the bill. Didn't want to raise her hopes and then dash 'em down if she proved no good Your wanting your picture made played right into my hands. Then when I saw how good she was I tinted the picture true to life. She sure made a hit. Guess I'm some judge of genuine art myself, eh. Montebrake?—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 — There seems to be some trouble in finding an adequate title for President Hoover's economic situation conferences.

To dub them national conferences "for expansion of construction and maintenance of employment" would make too much of a mouthful, although that is the way so important a cog in the whole affair as Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber of commerce of the United States, referred to them.

And up to the time this was written Barnes was the only person to have revealed publicly any of the detailed reports made to the president by business leaders with whom he talked.

As a matter of fact, there were a number of things which suggest that Barnes had a lot to do with originating the idea for the conferences. His long and intimate friendship with Mr. Hoover lent color to the gossip to that effect, as well as his post of duty with the chamber.

It is to be noted, also, that Barnes was designated to create the industrial and trade association executive committee to work out cooperation plans.

An Adviser

There does not seem to be much doubt that Mr. Hoover, for all his years in Washington, has been glad to get Barnes' advice. The Bystander has even heard a story that a private telephone line was maintained between the Hoover and Barnes offices while the president was secretary of commerce and Barnes was in New York.

And if you go back a little in the news records, say to 1920, you will find Barnes making apparently authoritative pronouncements as to Hoover political inclinations.

Speaking in New York in January, 1920, Barnes said Hoover was "a progressive republican." It should be recalled that Mr. Hoover's name then was being discussed as a possible democratic candidate for the presidency. And referring directly to that, Mr. Barnes said:

"As a life-long republican I am inclined to believe that only one conceivable development could place him (Hoover) on the democratic ticket. I believe that could come about only if overconfidence in their own political prospects blinds the republicans to adoption of a non-progressive platform and to nominating candidates of reaction."

The Ouija Board

So Mr. Barnes did not utterly close the door on the possibility that Hoover might be a democratic nominee. And it was in reply to suggestions then printed that he was considering entering the 1920 race either as a democrat or a progressive republican that Mr. Hoover replied:

"Nothing to it. Some one's been fooling with a Ouija board."

Be all this as it may, Mr. Barnes was radio spokesman for the Hoover conferences. And it was he who declared thet that all that was needed "to maintain our high level of business activity, to preserve employment, to continue wages and earnings, is the element of collective common sense."

Which suggests that, following the precedent of the "industrial standardization" work of the commerce department under Secretary Hoover, you might call the white house proceedings now "prosperity standardization" meetings.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Neglect The Pilot

By John A. Tamisiea, M. D., Omaha, Nebraska
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

An airplane is mechanical—so is man. An airplane's mechanism consists of struts, braces, fabrics, dope, and a motor, while a man's mechanism consists of a brain, heart, lungs, muslow par. You may get by, but you dinate thought and motion.

No large air transport corporation would think for one minute of letting an airplane leave the ground until it had been tested and checked very carefully by expert mechanics. At each and every terminus of our system the airplane, upon landing, practically swarms with trained mechanics, and before the ship is allowed to leave the ground again, there have been in the neighborhood of seventy separate examinations made of its various important vitals. This is done in an endeavor to detect any obscure or hidden flaw that might develop into a serious defect while the ship would be in flight.

Why there is more reason to examine such a ship carefully than the man who is to fly it, no one can understand. Yet a prospective passenger invariably looks the ship over carefully, walking around it, nodding at this, and feeling of that, and saying that it looks safe enough for him; but how many look the pilot over to see whether he looks safe or not?

A year and a half ago we figured that it was not good practical business merely to examine a ship with such painstaking care and then to take chances on the pilots being in sound physical condition. So we instituted the monthly examination of each and every pilot. I examine these men very carefully every month, and use every known precaution and test to determine their fitness to carry on in the air. Having graduated from the U. S. Army School of Aviation Medicine, I use all of the approved methods of the U. S. air services and am constantly looking out for new ways with which to improve and conduct these examinations.

What is needful for the machine is equally essential for the pilot, for we want to avoid defects; and what is necessary for the pilot is necessary for every man, woman and child who has something to do that is worth doing. You cannot be a safe, dependable pilot, mother, preacher or football player printer, carpenter or policeman if your mechanism is faulty and you are below par. You may get by, but you won't be first class.

But you don't need a monthly examination. Once a year ought to keep you in fine form. Have you had your 1929 health audit?

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Hooty Hangs Around

There's no one ever loves a spy—
The one who likes to peek and pry.
Old Mother Nature.

When Reddy Fox left Hooty the Owl over in the Green Forest it was just before daylight. By the time jolly round, red Mr. Sun had begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, Reddy was back at his home in the Old Pasture. A few minutes later Mrs. Reddy returned. Reddy said nothing about his having called on Hooty the Great Horned Owl. They spent the day as usual and late in the afternoon, as the Black Shadows began to appear, Mrs. Reddy announced that she was going hunting.

"Wait a little while, my dear, and I'll go with you," replied Reddy.

Mrs. Reddy was not going to wait, but before she could get started she caught a glimpse of a big bird sailing silently over a tree a little back of their home. "There's Hooty the Owl," said she. "I wonder if he thinks he's going to catch anything over here in the Old Pasture, where we live."

Every time Reddy saw Hooty Reddy chuckled

Reddy grinned. He thought he knew what had brought Hooty over there. "Perhaps," said he, "Hooty has come here to see if he can catch a turkey."

Mrs. Reddy turned and looked sharply at Reddy "What does he know about turkey?" she demanded.

"He told me that he had eaten one once," replied Reddy.

"So you couldn't keep your tongue still!" snapped Mrs. Reddy. "You had to tell Hooty all about that turkey we killed."

"No," replied Reddy. "No, my dear, I merely told him that we had had a turkey."

"I presume you told him where we got it," said Mrs. Reddy.

Again Reddy shook his head. "No, indeed, my dear! No indeed!" he exclaimed. "Of course I didn't tell him where we got that turkey. Do you think I would be so foolish as to do anything like that? It would be much better to show him where they are."

"What!" cried Mrs. Reddy as if she couldn't believe her ears.

"I mean it, my dear," said Reddy. "Listen! If we want another one of those turkeys, we must get some one to catch it for us. Who could do it better than Hooty the Owl? But of course, he mustn't know that he is catching it for us. Now do you begin to understand?"

Mrs. Reddy looked at Reddy admiringly. She saw through the idea right away. "Are you going to take him over there tonight?" she asked.

"No," replied Reddy "It is too soon to go back there. We'll just keep Hooty interested tonight."

So presently Reddy led the way and Mrs. Reddy followed him down on the Green Meadows. There they hunted mice. Every once in a while they would get a glimpse of Hooty the Owl. Hooty was hanging around where he could keep them in sight. Every time Reddy saw Hooty, Reddy chuckled. "He's keeping watch of us," he whispered to Mrs. Reddy. "He'll hang around until he is sure that we are not going turkey hunting. I have an idea that Hooty is going to be very neighborly for a while."

CHILD TRAINING

Advantages For The Children

Hilda Richmond

Mr. Schramm was rejoicing over his wonderfully good year in business, more because of what he could do for his children than for his own personal benefits.

"I'm going to get the boys each a tip top sled, he confided to his wife as December twenty-fifth approached. "When I was a boy I had to make my own things, and I want my children to have some advantages. I well remember how it took four of us boys to drag the heavy old sled we cobbled together to the hill where we wanted to slide."

Santa Claus was very generous to the Schramm children, and their parents enjoyed the fun as much as they did—winding toys and making wheels go round on Christmas morning. It was an ideal Christmas for coasting, so after dinner in company with a number of neighborhood youngsters the three boys set out for the hill a few blocks away.

"Let's go over and watch them, Mary," said Mr. Schramm. "We won't let them see us, but I'd like to know if they are able to manage their new sleds, this being the first winter we've lived where they could coast. It's a novelty to them, but their Dad coasted from November till spring, year after year, at his little farm home."

Four boys pranted along near Mr. and Mrs. Schramm with a home-made sled. Their caps were tied firmly down with old pieces of flannel that might have been a petticoat in former days, and their home-made mittens were clumsy and big. Mr. Schramm looked at them with pity in his eyes remembering his own limited outfit in boyhood. But the chattering boys hurried merrily on. They reached the brow of the hill out of breath and throwing themselves face down on the sled they flew like birds down the hill. Back they came panting and instantly every boy on the hill was bargaining for a ride. Mr. Schramm became intensely interested. He and his wife arrived in time to hear their own children begging to go down "just once."

Catching sight of their father they rushed to him to say, "O, Papa, won't you help us make a good sled like that? It is so much better than the ones Santa Claus made!"

When Mr. and Mrs. Schramm walked homeward after watching the fun, the father laughed as he said, "Mary, all my ideas of advantages have had a severe jolt this afternoon. We'll be cheating our children if we don't encourage them to meet and overcome difficulties."

"I'm glad we've both found that out before the children are grown up," said Mrs. Schramm.

Stories That Recall Others

Germs.

Ten year old Mary had learned to sing "Ten Little Germs." One morning soon after breakfast, seeing a glass of milk which one of her brothers had left on the table, she picked up and drank part of it. However, she stopped suddenly and said: "Mother, it had a germ in it."

She had found a crumb of bread.

Polar Bear Food.

Joe and Bob were discussing the food eaten by different animals. When polar bears were mentioned big brother Bob said: "There is nothing for them to eat at the north pole except fish."

"You forgot about Eskimos. Aren't they fit to eat?" asked five-year-old Joe.

QUESTION OF PHARISEES RECTOR'S SERMON THEME

Preaching before the customary large congregation Sunday morning at the 7.30 low mass in St. Patrick's church, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May developed the thought suggested by the question of the Pharisees sent from Jerusalem to John in the desert, "Who art thou?" a phrase from the gospel for the third Sunday in Advent which he had just read, John 1, 19-28. Exponents of the law, learned in the law, observing its letter but unmindful of its spirit, the Pharisees were very far from God and were not pleasing to the Almighty. Similar to them are some Christians of this twentieth century. The latter, also hear the voice crying in the wilderness, yet heed it not.

They hear the warning from the pulpit, from their Bible, during Lent, during Advent; the admonition to prepare the way of the Lord, to make straight His paths. Yet the warning falls on undutiful, unheeding ears. The Pharisees, later referred to by the Saviour as whited sepulchres, asked of John, "Who art thou?" Suppose they should come to us with that question. Suppose Saint John were asking each of us today, "Who art thou?" What would our answer be? Not one of us could answer it truthfully. Blinded by self-love, we do not realize our failings, our petty weaknesses—cannot be an impartial judge in our own case. In self-pity, we excuse ourselves for our faults. If the question of the world were to be "Who art thou?" not one could discern our motives, our lapses, our secret sins. But while we can deceive friends and neighbors in replying to that query, we cannot deceive God. He can tell us, not as we stand before the world, but as we are. The priest in the confessional judges us from the disclosure of our sins and he, too, knows us as we are.

The preacher suggested that each of his listeners ask the question, "Am I better than I was last Advent?" Even the best can be much better, he declared, as he pointed out the spiritual necessity of this straightening of paths which John the Baptist enjoined. In this time of opportunity which God has provided before the advent of Christmas there should be special effort to do His holy will, to try to do better than last year, to ask Jesus for the graces needed, as we realize our dependence upon Him in properly and fully heeding that warning uttered so long ago in Bethania.

As Advent work for the women of the congregation Monsignor May announced that Thursday at 3 p. m. all women free to devote the time were asked to meet in the school hall to sew on garments for the needy children of the parish. Meantime, families having children's clothing to donate were asked to leave such at the convent on Perkins avenue as early in the week as possible.

At this mass, Rev. John J. Reilly assisted the rector in giving holy communion to an unusually large number of Advent penitents, receiving the sacrament in preparation for Christmas.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

A sunny Saturday afternoon was an unexpected Christmas gift to the Norwich merchants, who fully appreciated its advantages.

The big steam shovel of William M. Ryan & Sons has scooped out the corner opposite Uncasville waiting station in great shape.

George A. Coates, of North Stonington, and the Stimson farm truck of Old Mystic have been trucking weed from the Lord's Point shore.

Moisture left on the sidewalks Saturday night formed thin ice, so that for several hours early Sunday morning walking was a bit dangerous.

A dealer who established a Christmas tree mart on a New London street corner predicted Saturday that he will dispose of over 3,000 by Christmas eve.

The only safe way to shop satisfactorily is to buy on sight. Goods admired but not bought at once are likely to be gone when next inquired for.

Reta Silberne of No. 239 Broadway was a recent visitor at Howe Caverns, N. Y.

The two long window boxes at the Otis library have been cheerily filled by the Geduldig greenhouses with hibiscus, sprigs of pine, fir and juniper.

Fog and later rain Friday night left lawns and fields bare in many localities, although there is still considerable snow frozen down, to await the next fog.

A mild Saturday meant thousands of dollars to merchants everywhere, encouraging many shoppers from suburban places to get in to do their buying.

From New London, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Armstrong, of Granite street, have left for St. Petersburg, Fla., to spend the next few months at their winter residence.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week are the quarterly Ember days.

Several enterprising boys with holiday wreaths to sell were holding up motorists along the Post roads all day Saturday. Quite a number made sales that way.

The banking house of the Thames Bank & Trust Co. has been lavishly decorated with roping and wreaths of holiday greenery, with stars and other seasonable emblems.

Master Robert Gavitt, of the Shore road, Westerly, had the luck of shooting a wild goose the other day. Although not yet in his teens, the boy can handle a gun or a rifle with skill.

The message on the wayside pulpit at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) reads: "There is a guidance for each of us and by lowly listening we shall hear the right word."

Frank Keane, of Stonington, seriously burned two weeks ago at the Sinclair Oil station, Westerly, is recovering very slowly at his home on Williams street. He is now able to sit up a while each day.

The Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms was provided by Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, and 14 members of the girls' choir, directed by Mrs. Mabel C. Buckingham.

Mrs. A. D. Neale, of 39 Warren street, Norwich, who fell on Perkins avenue Tuesday evening, badly tearing the ligaments of her knee, will be confined to the house for some weeks, the injured knee being in a cast.

It is the custom of the United Congregational church, Norwich, to present Bibles on Christmas Sunday to all baptized children in the Sunday school. The names are being received by Miss Pullen, the pastor's assistant.

A warning that persons removing trees from Groton borough reservoir property will be prosecuted was sounded the past week by Superintendent Albert N. Tiffany, Jr., of the borough water and electric departments. The superintendent said that two men will act as watchmen at the property until after Christmas.

MAN ARRESTED HERE TAKEN TO FOXBOROUGH

James E. Mullen, 31, of Foxborough, Mass., who was arrested here Saturday noon by Officer Michael Carroll, was taken back to that place Saturday evening by Officer Hansen of the Foxborough police department. He is wanted there on a charge of theft of an automobile belonging to his wife, Ella L. Mullen. A girl, who was with him at the time of his arrest, was discharged by Chief George Linton.

It was known by the Foxborough officials that Mullen was in this city when telegrams were received there from the Western Union telegraph office of this city. The local authorities were informed by the Massachusetts officials to be on the watch for him and about noon Saturday he was detected by Officer Carroll on Broadway near the Wauregan hotel and arrested. He was locked up at the local station until the arrival of the officer from Massachusetts.

Girls Prepare Gifts

Nineteen were present at a meeting of the Girls' City club Friday evening when several Christmas gifts were completed and work was started on scrap books for the children's ward at the hospital. The remainder of the evening was given over to songs, games and dancing and refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 20 on the second floor at No. 9 Washington street. A Christmas party is scheduled for Dec. 27.

PERSONALS

Miss Elizabeth Whewell, former Westerly girl, is now a missionary in Japan.

Mrs. Edward Smith, of Montville, is in Westerly, to see her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Anstein, who is ill.

William Backus, of Mystic, spent the week end at the home of his parents in South Windham.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Christie, of South Coventry, have returned from a trip over the Mohawk Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Hillhouse, of Willimantic, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Sarah G. Backus, formerly of Norwich, have left for Boston, Mrs. Backus to enter a Boston hospital for observation.

SPRINGFIELD ORGANIST HEARD AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The congregation at the Central Baptist church Sunday evening heard with great appreciation a half-hour programme of Christmas music on the organ by Mrs. Dorothy Birchard Mulroney of Springfield, Mass. Mrs. Mulroney brought out all the beauties of the Gale memorial organ with the touch of an artist, rendering her selections with a reverent feeling that contributed to the devotional spirit of the service.

She played first a Sonata in the style of Handel by Nolstenholme and followed this with Buck's immortal Holy Night which was rendered with impressive effect. In another group were Yon's Christmas in Sicily, an interesting and melodious number, and Marcello's Magi (Dubois), with which Mrs. Mulroney used the organ chimes in a very lovely way. The final number, given after the pastor's brief address, was the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah," which was given deep feeling and power, the congregation standing as it was played.

Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., the pastor, gave a short Christmas message upon the theme, Must Christ Forever Be Born in a Barn? The answer of the inn keeper, when Mary and Joseph applied for a place at the inn was "No room," said the speaker and the two travelers were turned away to take refuge among the cattle where Christ was born in a manger. How prophetic that was of His later life. He was cast out at Nazareth, Capernaum refused to receive Him and Jerusalem welcomed Him to a cross. So through the centuries He has come to His own and His own have received Him not, whether Jew, Roman Catholic or Protestant. Every great new movement of the da vis a great re-surge of the spirit of Christ. But you and I personally can make room for Him? Who can tell? He may tonight be seeking to come to Norwich. Will the answer be "No room?"

MANY SEEK APPOINTMENT AS DEPUTY SHERIFF

A dozen or more Norwich men are candidates for appointment as deputy sheriff as successor to the late George H. Stanton. Among those mentioned for the office are: C. V. Pendleton, former member of the court of common council; Alexander Finlayson, Meyer Blumenthal, a town constable; John R. Bowman, superintendent of the Norwich water department, and V. Roath Allen, a city sheriff. The appointment rests with High Sheriff Sidney A. Brown of New London, and it is expected that the late Sheriff Stanton's successor will be named sometime this week.

FUNERALS

Charles H. Boyens

Funeral services for Charles H. Boyens were held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his home, No. 511 Main street, with a large gathering of mourners including people from Baltic, Jewett City, Rhode Island and Lisbon. Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the service. The floral forms were numerous and beautiful. Burial was in the family plot, where the Masonic burial service was conducted by officers of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M. of Jewett City. The bearers, members of the lodge, were George Bradlaw, George H. Prior, Harry L. Hull, Albert Rist, George J. Meyer and Austin Harris. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George G. Grant of Taftville.

The main address of the afternoon, a very inspiring one on the subject of St. Patrick, was given by Rev. John J. Reilly, junior curate at St. Patrick's church, who said, in part, as follows:

"We live today in a world of hero worship. The world delights in making heroes. Whether someone spans the ocean like a bird, whether someone takes a journey into Arctic regions or whether someone throws a life-line to a sinking ship it matters not what is done, but the world takes him up and offers incense to him. Their praises are sounded far and wife, their names become as household words and while they live they are lionized and photographed, advertised and commercialized. It is no desire of ours to take away the glory that is theirs, all praise and honor to them, but in this vast array of heroes it might be well to distinguish here and there heroes true and heroes false, heroes that the world has made and heroes that the world could never make.

"The heroes of this world are heroes for a day. Their fame endures but for an hour. Vanity is written over all their works and the mould that covers them in death will soon hide their glory from us. Where are the heroes of yesterday? Where are your Napoleons and your Wellingtons? And even as they have gone so, too, will go the heroes of today.

"There are some heroes whose glory will never fade, whose names will be as imperishable as the kingdom of heaven itself and they are those who have conquered not the air or Arctic regions, not the armies of the world nor the fields of science but they are those who conquered first themselves and then the hearts of men. They are the ones who fought not under the banner of any earthly king but who fought under the banner of the cross and who imitated the heroic life and the sublime example of Him who was crucified thereon.

"The greatest hero this world has ever known is Jesus Christ, Himself, and His most heroic act was when He took that cross, trudged up the slope of Calvary and died on Calvary's summit for the souls of men. Christ came down on earth to be its king. Pontius Pilate wrote above the cross, 'Jesus of Nazareth King of the Jews' and Pilate wrote that well but Pilate did not write enough. He should have written, Jesus of Nazareth, king of all men, Jesus of Nazareth, king of our hearts. For Christ came down on earth to capture hearts and He did it, how? You all know how He did it. He erected in the center of this world his throne. It was a cross but He used it for a throne. They took the cross away but Christ has left a substitute. It is His altar where Christ now reigns, where He is King, where we give Him the hero worship which He deserves.

"Saint Patrick made his bid for a hero's role when he stood upon the hill of Tara and won to Christ the leaders of the Irish people. Legend alone sheds its light on much of Patrick's life but history paints a striking picture of this gathering. It was Easter morn they tell us when Patrick struck a spark to the lamp of faith in Ireland and a more fitting anniversary, the glorious resurrection of Christ has never had.

"Love the mother of God," he told them. "See in her your mother and your queen. Christ to you is the Virgin's son. Mary is your hope, your refuge and your strength.

"Maidens of Ireland, Mary is your chaste exemplar. Find in her the virtue you must imitate. Look to her when exile shores shall harbor her eternal enemy. Thus He taught them his own great love for Mary and Mary's help spelled liberty. How well they learned that lesson beautiful. For long days after in time of sorrow and in time of joy when clouds hung pretty low over Irish affairs, Mary was a protecting shield for her favorite children. Her image of all that was fair in nature, and grace captivated their imagination. They called her in their charming Irish, Our darling Virgin.

"Women of Ireland let Mary be your model Mary, the mother of purity, she the immaculate spouse, Virgin pre-eminent, Mary the woman. And following this, Patrick made them pupils to a second great truth, fidelity and swerving obedience to priest and post. Oh, church of the Irish as ye are children of Christ, so be ye children of Rome. And it remains to one of your most striking recollections of a visit to Ireland, the respect that is shown a Roman collar. And the Irish learned their lesson well; their actions show they did. Come famine, come fire, come sword, come with your shackles in one hand and your heretic Bible in the other, we know you not, we have no king but Peter. Our fair lands, the polluted hand of a Henry or an Elizabeth may lay in waste but entrenched in the citadel of faith our freedom is invulnerable. The Irish faith which you today practice so easily and which is the flower of the church here in America was dearly bought and dearly paid for, for Irish history and Irish suffering are deeply interwoven. When Irish faith was right in an Irish heart all that England had could never purchase it and it is just as true today, Catholic faith in a genuine Irish heart can not be bought even if America offers it the white house.

"Saint Patrick placed a burden on the Irish when he won them to the faith of Christ for he placed upon their heads the crown of suffering. According to the minds of men, Ireland's history spells disaster but a life that wears a laurel crown may be fair to look upon. The life that wears a crown of thorns resembles Christ's itself. The danger is that Irish hearts in the present day, spared for a time at least from the suffering of their ancestors, will yield before the luxury and inducements of the modern world and let be accomplished what suffering and persecution never could effect. What chance has this world, what will prevent this world from becoming another Sodom and Ghonorra unless it's the influence of Irish nerves, the purity and faith of Irish souls which must rise like a wall to stem the tide of license, luxury and lawlessness that has ever followed in the path of too much money and too much worldly pleasures.

"Saint Patrick taught the Irish purity of heart and loyalty to Christ. Those two virtues made them saints and heroes. Saint Patrick was the hero once when he saved the pagan Irish. Patrick stands ready today to save us from the modern pagan.

Brief remarks were also made by Monsignor May, Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, William T. May of New London, County President Mary Herlihy of New London, Joseph Nevins, James J. Finnegan and Past State Treasurer Julia Brock.

Pleasing vocal numbers were rendered by Henry J. LaFontaine, who also acted as accompanist for other singers, Mrs. Annie Brooks, Mrs. Ann Niles, Mrs. Susan Malone of Taftville and Mrs. Elizabeth McInnich, of New London. Recitations were also given by Miss Grace Phelan.

Following the delightful entertainment programme adjournment was taken to A. O. H. hall, where dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, music being furnished by Walter Sullivan, violin, and Walter Sullivan, Jr., piano, of New London, who also played during the supper hour.

The most enjoyable event was due to the untiring efforts of the committee in charge which comprised the following: Auxiliary No. 18, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, Miss Mary E. Hartie, Miss Molly Carroll, Mrs. Nellie Bissonnette, Mrs. Ann Niles, Mrs. Abbie Levitsky; Auxiliary No. 54, Miss Nellie McCarthy, Miss Catherine Coughlin, Mrs. Annie Connelly, Mrs. Annie Brooks, Miss Catherine Twomey, Mrs. Barrows; O'Connell branch, John McKenna, Patrick O'Neil, Michael O'Connell, Dennis J. Moran, Daniel J. O'Neil; Emmet branch, Frank J. Brennan, Mortimer M. Murphy, Patrick J. Carbery, John Glacken, Simon Fahey.

PHI BETA KAPPA COUNTY MEETING THURSDAY EVENING

Forty members of the Phi Beta Kappa organization of New London county have received announcement of a business meeting to be held in the Connecticut college library Tuesday evening.

President Katherine Blunt of Connecticut college, is among those to be received into membership at this time. Dr. Blunt holds membership in both the national Phi Beta Kappa and in the scientific honorary society, Sigma Xi. Dr. David Leib, director of admissions, is the only other member of the New London chapter holding this distinction.

The New London organization was founded three years ago, largely through the efforts of Benjamin T. Marshall, then president of the college. It established a fellowship for the members of the Phi Beta Kappa society of the vicinity of New London who were at a distance from their respective original chapters. The primary purpose of this organization according to its constitution is actively to promote scholarships in schools of the community. It is directly affiliated with national headquarters and sends representatives to the national meeting every year.

At its formal meeting in the late spring the organization entertains at dinner at the Mohican hotel, the upper classmen of Connecticut college who are eligible to the Winthrop scholarship, which takes the place of a Phi Beta Kappa honor until the latter is established through the national organization at this college.

LEGION COUNTY MEETING AT TAFTVILLE THURSDAY

The regular monthly county meeting of the fifth district, American Legion, will be held at Ponemah hall, Taftville, under the auspices of Peter Gallan post, No. 104, and its auxiliary Thursday night. A large meeting is anticipated as the Taftville post is well known for its hospitality. Representatives from all posts in New London county will be in attendance. Reports will be made at this time on the membership drives being made in the county and it is expected that several of the posts will be in line for the award of the meritorious citation from national headquarters.

During December, American Legion posts are expected to and are making a final effort to locate World war service men who have not applied for adjusted compensation. January 2, 1930, is the final date for the filing of applications, and the Legion posts wish to protect dependents of those who have not applied. Every Legion post has applications on file and will assist any one entitled to receive these benefits to make such application.

Up to June 30, 1929, the Veterans bureau had received 3,688,368 applications for benefits under the adjusted compensation act, and cash payments and certificates issued numbered 3,650,000. These were divided as follows: Army, 3,141,397; navy, 422,988, and marine corps, 65,708. Up to June 30th, $72,055,831 had been paid to beneficiaries of deceased service men under the terms of the adjusted compensation act, and up to the same date, 1,429,346 had obtained loans on their adjusted service certificates, the loans totaling $133,653,488.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER FOR RETIRED STATION AGENT

(Special to The Bulletin.

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Dec. 14.—A testimonial dinner was given tonight at the Stafford Springs hotel, in honor of John R. Parkhurst, recently retired station agent, by the southern division employes of the Central Vermont Railroad Co. The 70 guests present included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Parkhurst, Stafford Springs; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Guthrie, New London; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Riley, Brattleboro, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Harris, Palmer, Mass.; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Mosley, Stafford Springs; William Geer, Scotland, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKenna, New London; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parkhurst, Stafford Springs; C. E. Fish, Palmer, Mass.

The banquet menu was: Tomato soup, celery, olives, pickles, roast Vermont turkey, chestnut dressing, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, green peas, ice cream, coffee, cigars.

A splendid program was given by employes of the company and members of their families. Miss Jessie Guthrie, daughter of Supt. and Mrs. E. J. Guthrie of New London, was heard in several pleasing vocal solos, and Mrs. W. J. Riley of Brattleboro, pleased with two vocal selections. Two numbers were given by Mrs. S. E. Alguire of Mansfield, Conn., R. I. Kirkup of Norwich was heard in two banjo selections, and C. Donnelly of Willimantic rendered two piano solos. Miss Marion Gibbs of Yantic, gave two readings.

Miss E. Beatrice Hatton of New London, Mrs. S. E. Alguire of Mansfield, and Mr. Donnelly comprised the orchestra which accompanied the assembly singing during the dinner hour.

Hermon J. Gibbs, of Yantic, as toastmaster, called upon the Rev. Mr. Mosley of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Stafford Springs, who in a very pleasing manner presented Mr. Parkhurst with a bag of gold coin. Rev. Mr. Mosley spoke of Mr. Parkhurst and his high standing in the community, of his willingness to lend a helping hand to the less unfortunate, and of his untiring help in church work. Mr. Parkhurst, replied with a few very fitting remarks. He was greatly affected by Rev. Mr. Mosley's words. E. J. Guthrie, superintendent of the southern division, was called upon and in well chosen words told of the faithful service Mr. Parkhurst had rendered to the Central Vermont road, said that he had always been loyal and true to his officials and had served the public with courtesy. He knew the patrons of the Central Vermont road at Stafford Springs regretted to have him go, but were glad that he would continue to make his home in Stafford.

The following friends also spoke very highly of Mr. Parkhurst, and of the pleasure it gave them to have had the honor of his association for so many years:

W. J. Riley, assistant superintendent, of Brattleboro, Vt.; R. K. Harris, track supervisor, of Palmer, Mass.; D. A. Graham, chief dispatcher, of New London; Thomas McKenna, of New London; C. E. Fish, of Palmer, Mass.; T. H. Greenwood, division accountant, of Norwich; William Geer, of Scotland, Conn., and E. A. Bidwell, of Fitchville.

Mr. Parkhurst entered the services of the Central Vermont Ry., in 1892, as agent at Yantic. After four years' service at Yantic he went to Stafford Springs and remained as agent at that point until his retirement. On account of Mr. Parkhurst's poor health he was forced to retire and is one of the first agents to be pensioned under the new pension plan which has been recently adapted by the Canadian National Ry., and which was extended to the employes of the Central Vermont Railway. William Geer, who was a passenger conductor for many years is also enjoying the benefits of the pension system. The many friends of both these old employes wish for them many years of happiness and health so that they may enjoy the fruits of their labors.

The success of the affair is due to the work of the following committee: Miss Josephine L. Palmer, South Windham; T. B. Pembroke, Marlband, Vt.; F. M. Webber, Brattleboro, Vt.; J. C. Bothwell, Amherst, Mass.; J. R. Ahern, Palmer, Mass.; W. E. Nichols, Stafford; T. W. Duffy, New London; D. A. Graham, New London, and H. J. Gibbs, Yantic.

TWO NORWICH PLANTS ARE PLACED ON MARKET

Two local manufacturing plants those occupied by the Bridgeman Corp., off North Main street and by the Schwarzenback-Huber mill, known as the West Side Silk mill, on Mechanic street, have been placed on the market, it was learned Sunday evening. Recently announcements were posted at the silk mill notifying the employes that the mill was to be sold, the Schwarzenback-Huber Co. deciding to withdraw its interests locally.

It was learned Sunday evening that the silk concern is not withdrawing its interests because of taxation but because it is desired to locate the mill where a night shift can be operated in connection with the company's other mills, thus cutting down the cost of operation.

TWO SATURDAY NIGHT RAIDS YIELD LASHINGS OF WET STUFF, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 15—The police conducted two raids Saturday night in both instances evidence of the sale of liquor was established and the proprietors of the liquor resorts were arrested. One of the proprietors was Joseph Connelly, operator of the club room, 207 Main street, a resort frequented by sailors; the other was Frank Perry, 38 Denison avenue, proprietor of a resort which has been in existence many years and which has been raided several times. Both men will be in the police court tomorrow, they having been released on bail of $1,000. In the case of Connelly, one of his employes, John Harte, was also arrested, he also being compelled to provide a surety on his bond of $1,000. Either Harte or Connelly will be penalized but not both of them.

When a gang of bluejackets was known to be in the Main street resort about 10 o'clock Saturday night a raiding squad consisting of Sergeant John Courtney, Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolmen Edward Skoczylas, George Cockell, Antone Turello and Arthur Feeley went to the resort armed with a search warrant. A systematic search of the resort was made. Included in the intoxicating liquors found there, together with the paraphernalia to produce it were 25 cases of beer, 12 cases of empty bottles, six crocks, six cases of malt, a brewing outfit, three pints of whiskey and a capping machine. These were seized as evidence of the nature of the business being conducted at the club room, and John Luce, James Mack, S. Thairiault, Alex Laskey, Max Willett, John Rockett, Salvatore Marhana, George Allen, E. R. Smith, Alfred S Hoagland and Fritz Hanson, were arrested as frequenters. The frequenters were released upon furnishing a surety of $50 on their respective bonds. They also will be in court tomorrow.

The other resort, the Perry drinking resort, was raided by the same squad an hour later and 10 cases of beer, 10 cases of empty bottles, five cans of malt, one capping machine, two quarts whiskey, one-half pint of gin, one pint of alcohol and one punch board were found and seized. But two frequenters were found, Thomas Anderson and Samuel Thompson, the latter being arrested and released upon furnishing a surety on their respective bonds of $50. They will be in court tomorrow, with the proprietor, who was penalized for the same offense a month ago.

Courtland Colver, Jr., of Gales Ferry, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Frank Howard charged with reckless driving and will explain in the police court Monday.

COUNTERFEIT BILL N. G., HABAREK STARTS A ROW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 15—Giordani Habarek, known to the police, having a police record, was arrested tonight by Special Agent John Anderson, New Haven railroad charged with attempt to pass a worthless bill. He will be given a hearing in the city court Monday. Habarek went to the union station and tendered a confederate bill, endeavoring to obtain transportation. When the ticket seller informed Habarek that the bill was worthless an argument resulted, for Habarek insisted that the bill was legitimate and demanded a ticket. The controversy ended with Special Agent Anderson being summoned and Habarek was arrested and locked up.

Lebro Bartolucci, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bartolucci, 51 Cutler street and Miss Rose Apicelli, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frank Apicelli, 126 Pequonoc road, Groton, were married Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Cronin building, State street, by Justice of the Peace Harry Gordon. Guildo Bartolucci, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mary Apicelli, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a reception was held at a hall on Chappell street, after which they left for a wedding trip. Upon their return to New London Mr. and Mrs. Bartolucci will reside temporarily at the home of the groom's parents.

Mrs. Dora H. Jackson, of Atlanta, Ga., spent Saturday and today as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Mercer, of Hillside road.

NORWICH MEN TRANSPORTED FIVE-GALLON CAN OF ALCOHOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 15.—George Cross, colored, and John Vallas, both of Norwich, were arrested Saturday afternoon by State Police Officer John Smith charged with violation of the liquor aw, the specific charge being transportation. Cross and Vallas were locked up at New London police headquarters in default of bail of $1000. They will be given a hearing in the Montville justice court Monday. Cross and Vallas were driving on the New London-Norwich highway when they were observed by Officer Smith, who was on duty in that thoroughfare. Having knowledge that the two men were engaged in the trafficking of liquor, Smith ordered the auto stopped and a search revealed a five-gallon can of alcohol, which was destined for delivery in New London. The liquor, car and the two men, were taken to New London police headquarters.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Louise Young.

The body of Mrs. Isabel B. Young, wife of Louis Young, formerly of New London, who died at her home at Clarkes Mills, N. Y., was brought to New London Saturday for burial in Cedar Grove cemetery. Funeral services were held at the residence of Mrs. Young's daughter, Mrs. William Dunn, 77 Blackhall street, being conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church.

Mrs. Joseph Lepino.

The body of Mrs. Philopena E. Lepino, wife of Joseph Lepino, who died in Brooklyn was brought to her former home, here, Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock for burial in St. Mary's cemetery. The body was accompanied by a large assemblage of mourners, which was augmented by mourning friends among residents of New London. Mrs. Lepino was the daughter of Mrs. Antonio Lepino and is survived by brothers and sisters in this city and in Brooklyn and New York.

Water Pipe Bursts.

Patrolman Thomas Lyden in his rounds on Ocean avenue this afternoon ed. by Patrick Cosgrove and leased by Patrick Cosgrove, 1192 and leased to David Goldstein, of Hartford, flooded, the pipes having burst. The water was deluging the interior of the residence causing much damage. A message was sent to the Hartford police requesting that the lessee of the cottage be notified of the damage being caused, but in the meantime the police had the water supply shut off to prevent further damage.

A FORMER NORWICH MAN VICTIMIZED OUT OF $10

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 15.—Another imposter selected New London as a field to obtain revenue Saturday when a man named O'Reilly, sought to obtain easy money by soliciting funds, it was claimed, for the benefit of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The imposter did not succeed to any great extent, although he did obtain a contribution of $10 from James N. Kelley, 62 Washington street, formerly of Norwich. His fraudulent methods being detected, the police were requested to arrest O'Reilly, but he could not be found, so it is presumed that he has changed his location.

Car Not Stolen.

Tony Cadrello, proprietor of an automobile sales service station, 635 Bank street, reported to the police last night that a Nash touring car had been stolen from his garage. The car, he said carried the markers, SX-413. An investigation revealed that the automobile had not been stolen, but was taken by an acquaintance of Cadrillo and was returned during the night.

Antono and Aodokio Worokey have sold to Fadey Rotsko and Andokio Truken a house and lot on Richards street.

Albert Clarence Ferri has sold to Stella Bevilaequea a house and lot, corner of Chelsea, Smith and Goshen streets.

The New London and Mohegan Dairies corporation has sold to Ada Levine a building lot, corner of Jefferson avenue and Pleasant street.

James F. Flannery, 35 Terrace avenue has filed a certificate at the office of the city clerk adopting the name of his business, the "Used Car Exchange." The certificate is to make the adoption of the trade name a matter of record.

Jacob Slosberg, of Norwich, Saturday has a certificate filed with the city clerk, discharging a lien against property owned by Frederick C. Danz, Jr., Avery court. The lien was levied several weeks ago by Slosberg in the name of the Shetucket Coal & Lumber Co.

The Savings Bank of New London has caused a foreclosure of moragage loan to be instituted against Bartholomew Daly and others. The loan was issued on property on Atlantic street owned by the defendants.

John O'Brien, 67 Franklin street, reported to the police today that numerous articles of woman's apparel were stolen last night from a clothesline in the yard at his home.

PATROLMAN RIORDAN RUN DOWN BY MOTORIST

Patrolman William Riordan was seriously injured Saturday afternoon, corner of State and Bank streets, and tomorrow he will be taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital for the purpose of determining the extent of his injuries. Riordan was performing traffic duty when a car driven by Michael DePaulo, 176 Shaw street, ran down the officer, Riordan was thrown violently to the highway and sustained numerous injuries about the body and legs. The officer was taken to his home, Linden street, and attended by a physician. Tomorrow X-ray pictures will be taken to determine whether any of his ribs have been fractured. DePaulo was arrested by Sergeant John Courtney charged with reckless driving and will be in court tomorrow. DePaulo had been given a signal by Riordan to resume traffic, but instead of following the course of traffic he guided his car against the officer, who was standing on his platform.

THERRIEN HELD FOR TRIAL FOR CARELESSNESS WITH CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 15.—Joseph R. Therrien, 22, of 20 Squire street, employed at Wilkinson's garage, Bank street, was in court Saturday charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws in parking his car on a grade without the brakes being applied. He was held in bail of $2000 and will be tried Dec. 23. Therrien drove an Auburn roadster from the garage to the highway Friday morning and parked it on a grade without applying the brakes. The car got into motion and backed 150 feet on the grade until it climbed the sidewalk and struck Mrs. Wallace Cobb, 16 Jefferson avenue and her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Corey, 35 Summer street, who were awaiting the arrival of a bus. Mrs. Cobb, who was knocked down, sustained only slight injury, but her daughter received severe bruises and lacerations of the legs, as she was pinned against a fire hydrant. She is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

Steeplejack's Fairy Tale.

Harvey Dupious, 59 School street, Groton, was given a hearing on a charge of fraud, but the charge was nolled. Dupious, who is a steeplejack, was arrested Friday by State Police Officer John Smith upon complaint of Eaton & Wilson and when Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer issued a warrant. Dupois went to the hardware store and procured 100 feet of rope on the representation that he had obtained a contract of the Second Congregational church to point the steeple of the edifice. When inquiry was made it was found that no such contract had been given Dupious and that he used the name of the church in order to procure the rope, complaint was made to Prosecuting Attorney Boyer and a warrant for the arrest of Dupious was issued. Since his arrest Dupious made arrangements for the payment for the rope and for that reason a nolle was ordered entered.

Alba W. Bettison, 40 Spruce street, Westerly, was charged with reckless driving. The case was continued to Monday.

Joseph W. Green, a sailor and a deserter, was turned over to a provost guard and taken back to the state pier for discipline.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

To Greeson, gangster, it was a mystery why the law should put him in jail in New York for being an expert with a "gat," and praise him to the skies "over there" for the same reason. But his biggest kick came when, on his return, they made him police commissioner with orders to "wipe out the gangsters." And how he wiped them out—all but his own "mob"—they were all set for a big job with Greeson quietly in the background, when the man suddenly found himself—and what a smashing climax that is! Broadway audiences sat spellbound Saturday and last night as this dramatic story unfolded on the talking screen. A terror to his comrades and a nightmare to the "cops," George Bancroft as Greeson, has the most vivid role of his career. Drafted for service, he scorned "them army guys" until four husky M. P.'s took him in tow and shipped him to France. There his brute strength, uncanny marksmanship and something about the man himself, lifted him from the ranks, and he became the idol of his outfit. A marvelous cast supports Bancroft, with Esther Ralston, Warner Oland, Dorothy Revier, Raymond Hatton, E. H. Calvert, Morgan Farley and O. P. Heggie. The Talking Collegians in "Splash Mates," an all-star talking comedy, "Dad's Day," Miller & Lyles in "The Jimtown Speakeasy," and the latest Paramount Sound newsreel completes a most interesting program.

Palace Theatre

Andrew Sabbot, a provincial young man of 23, is sent to Paris by his puritanical mother to study art. There he meets and falls in love with Vivienne Rolland, the darling of the Paris stage, who captivates him completely. This is the situation which sets the stage for "Paris," the all-talking, singing dancing technicolor Vitaphone extravaganza now playing at the Palace theatre, with the great Irene Bordoni and Jack Buchanan starred.

What happens when the mother learns that Andrew is going to marry the actress is this. She sets out from Newton Center, Mass., determined to put a stop to what she considers a disgraceful business. She lands in Paris and hustles up, although very seasick, to the apartment of the actress, whose name is Vivienne Rolland. There, through no fault of her own, the mother has her whole outlook on life changed completely.

What happens after this is too funny to tell about. Suffice it to say that the mother, before she finishes her course in Paris, is a different woman altogether, despite her Puritanical upbringing. Andrew, too, seems to change but Vivienne remains unchanged, as delicious as ever, and her handsome dancing partner, Guy Pennell, grows more and more in her favor as Andrew loses ground.

In the matter of color, the show at the Palace is superb. Huge choruses of talented girls kick and cavort in matchless color backgrounds and when Miss Bordoni and Mr. Buchanan sing together, the scene is ravishing. Whenever possible the color note is introduced, and its effect is marvelous. Nobody should miss seeing this great picture, no matter what else is left undone.

Oh boy, look who's coming to the Palace Wednesday for three days only—none other than that greatest of all Technicolor pictures, "Golddiggers of Broadway." Yes, Winnie Lightner is still with the Golddiggers and what a show.

St. John's Catholic church, Plainfield, has received a coat of paint, completing the outside painting of the entire parish property, under supervision of the pastor, Rev. John Landry. Buff has been used throughout, making a bright spot in the center of the village, the Plainfield Journal says.

WESTERLY

IRVING TANNER AND BROWN ADJUDGED PROBABLY GUILTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 15.—Irving Tanner, 27, of 54 Pierce street, Westerly, and Carroll Brown, 41, of Chase hill, Hopkinton, both colored, were adjudged probably guilty late Saturday in a special session of the Third district court by Judge Oliver H. Williams, on two counts each, breaking and entering and larceny in the night time. The arrest of the former was made Thursday night by Lieutenant George H. Champlin and Officer Frank E. Knight. Brown was brought to the Westerly police station by Sergeant Ernest F. Stenhouse and Trooper Florence J. Harvey of the Hope Valley barracks of the state police. The arrest of the two men is expected to clear up a lot of breaking and entering of shacks and camps and the theft, sale or other disposition of the miscellaneous contents. In court, the accused men, not represented by counsel, expressed the desire to plead nolo but Judge Williams instructed that pleas of not guilty be entered as the cases are bind-over ones beyond the jurisdiction of the district courts. In the absence of bondsmen, and the required bail of $2,500 each, both men were taken Sunday to Washington county jail at Kingston to await action at the February term of the grand jury in Washington county superior court.

Each is charged with breaking and entering the summer camp of John H. Farnsworth on the bank of the Pawcatuck river near Meeting House bridge on the Noose Neck Hill road, also the place of John P. Browning, on Chase hill in the town of Hopkinton. For the past two days Westerly and other police authorities have been investigating and checking up various articles of stolen clothing, supplies and furnishings found in the possession of the accused or the location of which was revealed to the police. One of the men when arrested was wearing stolen articles of clothing which have been identified by the owner.

MASONIC BURIAL GIVEN GUY B. PAGE, SATURDAY

Funeral services for Guy B. Page, former Westerly highway department employe and active member of the Westerly fire department, were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at 46 Granite street. The rooms were filled with fraternal and business associates, relatives and friends and there were choice floral tributes. Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church, had charge of the services, also pronounced the benediction in the committal services at River Bend cemetery.

Nearly fifty representatives of Westerly fire department were present in uniform, Mr. Page having been a member of the Alert Hook and Ladder Co. The chief engineer and full board of assistant engineers attended. There were present also delegations from Bowen lodge, No. 30, Knights of Pythias, Hope council, No. 6, Junior Order United American Mechanics, and other orders to which he belonged, as well as the Westerly branch of the Granite Cutters' union and employes of Westerly highway department. The Masonic committal was in charge of Franklin lodge, No. 29, F. and A. M., of Westerly. Services were in charge of Worshipful John Albert Pawson, master, with W. Carl E. Burdick, acting chaplain. The bearers were members of the lodge, James P. Campbell, W. Harry Anderson, Talbot A. Holland, John R. Atkin, Albert A. Williams and Ernest J. Wills.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John W. Johnson

Following an illness of several years, Mrs. Emma Johnson, 80, widow of John W. Johnson, died Saturday at her home, 4 Lester avenue, Pawcatuck. She was born in New York, but had made her home in Westerly for many years. Surviving her are a brother, John Hanes of Fort Wayne, Ind., two sons, John T. and Clarence G., of Westerly; four daughters, Mrs. Lucy Gavitt, Mrs. Florence Burtch, Mrs. Welthea Burdick and Miss A. Estella Johnson.

APPLE MASH, MOONSHINE, BEER, FOUND IN THE BURBACH RAID

Late Friday night, the place of Henry Burbach on the Westerly-Stonington road, just beyond the West farm, was visited by a raiding party armed with a search warrant, Officers Arthur Whitmash and Arthur P. Klathe of the Groton barracks, Connecticut state police, and William Ostman, of the town of Stonington police force. Shortly after 9 p. m. there were found and seized 8 cases of home brew beer, 24 bottles to the case; a ten-gallon still, complete; one gallon of so called moonshine, and two 52-gallon barrels of apple mash.

Burbach was released in $1000 bail on direction of Prosecutor Henry P. Hammacher to appear in the Tuesday morning session of Stonington town court before Judge William A. Wilcox, to answer to charges of possession of intoxicating liquors.

H. A. PECKHAM HAD DEER SHOT IN NO. STONINGTON

While Connecticut State Police Officers Arthur Whitmarsh and Arthur P. Klathe were patrolling the Westerly-Norwich state highway in a search for transporters of contraband liquors, Harry A. Peckham, proprietor of Peckham's inn, Westerly, and his companion, Raymond Miner, were stopped by the state police as they were proceeding toward Westerly. Examination of their auto showed the car contained a deer and Mr. Peckham was turned over to Warden Orrin Swain. In a special session of North Stonington court before Justice of the Peace J. Bard Bill, Mr. Peckham was found guilty on the charge of illegal possession of a deer and was fined $5 and costs. The deer, which would become state property, was found to be useless as it had not been allowed to bleed. The state officers were of the opinion that the deer had been killed with a shot-gun somewhere in the eastern part of North Stonington and had been in the possession of the men transporting it only a short time.

Cases to be heard by Judge Walsh in the superior court Wednesday are Elsie R. Niles vs Herbert W. Davison; Mrs. Morton Niles vs. Herbert W. Davison; Richard A. Maines, pro ami, vs. Herbert W. Davison and Thomas H. Maines, pro ami, vs. Herbert W. Davison. Following these cases on the calendar appear the four cases against the J. H. Blackler Co. The action at law, Mary Dotolo vs. the Westerly Hospital, appears on the Westerly trial calendar for jury nearing and will probably go over to the February term.

FUNERAL

Isaac Gourlay

Funeral services for Isaac Gourlay, for many years a foreman for the New England Granite works of this town, who died suddenly at Watertown, Mass., were held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Richard Mitchell, 69 Granite street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, read the service. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The bearers were Richard Mitchell, Lawrence Hepworth, Fred Larson, Fred Cole, Ted Clark and Richard Mitchell, Jr. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

Found Roof Taut

A final test of the roof on the new central fire station on Union street was made Friday afternoon and Saturday morning to ascertain if it is tight. After the building was finished there were some leaks in the roof and this test was made to determine the success of a new preparation laid on the roof some weeks ago. Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the roof of the fire station was flooded with four inches of water and during the night it rained, adding another two inches, so that some of the water had to be drawn off. The water was left on the roof until 9 o'clock Saturday morning, when the building committee agreed that the test had proved satisfactory.

Harley P. Chase post, No. 1265, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has nominated for commander, Lawrence E. Rook and Cornelius A. Riley. George Harris was named for senior vice commander and Herbert Robinson, junior vice commander. The greatest contest centered around the selection of the officer of the day, four members of the post being named, Wilfred J. Mathieu, P. H. Sullivan, J. H. Sullivan and A. Boumenot. Other officers nominated were John Sullivan, chaplain; James Keane and Harry Bricker, quartermaster, and George Marr and M. J. McCarthy, trustees for eighteen months. The remaining places in the post are filled by appointees of the commander. The members of the post voted to purchase a membership in the Westerly Sanitary corps. Officers of the camp will serve as a committee of the whole to co-operate with members of the auxiliary organization in arranging a Christmas tree celebration Saturday, Dec. 28. The election will be held at the next meeting of the camp.

The committee of the British and Colonial great war veterans will hold their December meeting Tuesday, when plans for the winter activities will be discussed.

Members of the Loyal Order of Moose, No. 1212, of Westerly, have made plans for the annual Christmas observance with their children and will have a tree and musical program in Mechanics' hall next Tuesday evening. The affair will start at 7:30 and Santa Claus will arrive at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bliss of Matunuck, are Westerly guests today, (Monday), previous to leaving on the Colonial express for Washington, D. C., and a trip to California, where they will pass the winter.

K. Frank Gallimore, formerly draughtsman for Herman Dock, and his wife who was Miss Geary, of Westerly, now residing in Wisconsin, arrived in Westerly Saturday to visit relatives, accompanied by their two sons. They were passengers, returning from a visit in Germany, on the Bremen which sailed from Southampton Dec. 5th. The steamer was three days overdue on its arrival in New York by reason of the extremely rough passage, a harrowing experience they do not care to repeat.

Francis G. Haswell and James H. Blackler were among Westerly Shriners who attended the jinx ceremonial at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet, Friday night.

Charles E. Redford, of New London, was in Westerly Sunday, the guest of relatives.

The Young Men's club of Pawcatuck Congregational church is to hold its meeting this (Monday) evening in the vestry.

Members of Westerly chapter, Order of DeMolay for boys, William Hustwit, master councillor, by invitation of the pastor, Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, attended service in a body Sunday morning at 10:30 at Broad street Christian church.

MYSTIC

When Mystic chamber of commerce held their annual meeting and banquet the past week in Odd Fellows hall, one hundred and twenty-five members and guests were present. At 6:30 a chicken pie supper was served by Mystic Rebekah lodge, in the banquet room of the building, which had been decorated effectively. Rev. Byron U. Hatfield of Cedar Crest, West Mystic, invoked the divine blessing. The Rhode Island Collegian orchestra furnished music during the supper hour and for the community singing. President R. K. Burrows was in charge of the meeting, and L. E. Vatet, secretary gave a report of the work of the chamber. Mr. Vatet stated that he had received numerous inquiries from manufacturing concerns looking for sites in Mystic, but they all wanted a monetary guarantee ranging from $50,000 to $150,000, before they would consider locating, and this was impossible. Three directors were elected, Sidney S. Siswick, J. Alpheus Schoonover and Mrs. L. E. Kinney. Mr. Burrows then introduced former Mayor William C. Fox of New London, who very pleasingly presented Dr. Katherine Blunt, president of Connecticut College for Women at New London. She gave a very interesting talk on that institution. Supt. Robert T. Hurley of the Connecticut state police department was the next speaker and his talk on the work of the department was most interesting. The department was started nearly 30 years ago. Everyone present pronounced it a most enjoyable evening.

Phoebe Packer Rathbun tent, No. 3, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war is planning a public whist.

The Bible Workers' conference of the Union Baptist church, was held in the vestry recently with an attendance of nearly 30. At 6:45 supper was served by the committee, Mrs. Russell Potter, chairman, Mrs. Priscilla Hughes, Miss Betty Wheeler, Miss Winifred Wheeler and Mrs. Albert Neff, Jr. The table was beautifully decorated, a small Christmas tree being in the center, and favor baskets at each place. Following the supper gifts were distributed from the large Christmas tree by Santa Claus, (Rev. Louis J. Shepler, the pastor). The gifts caused a great deal of merriment. Next came the reports of the various committees. Following this there was a discussion of plans for a Christmas tree and entertainment to be given soon. Rev. Mr. Shepler gave an interesting talk. Books on child psychology were put into circulation.

William S. Walbridge and Clifford E. Holmes were in Stafford Saturday evening.

The annual business meeting of Pequot camp, Modern Woodmen of America, was held last week, in K. of P. hall. Following reports of the various officers and committees, these officers were chosen: Venerable consul, Arthur H. Board; worthy advisor, Eugene Smith; banker, George Stafford; clerk, George Wallace; escort, William H. Croucher; watchman, William Davey; sentry, Justin Stafford; past consul, Harold Gilbert; trustees, Daniel Wilson, William F. Diese and Harrell R. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Wheeler have been entertaining Herman J. Holdredge, of Keene, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Burdick of Old Mystic, spent Saturday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Culver, of Westerly.

Broadway and Old Mystic schools had but one sesion Friday, the pupils being dismissed at noon.

When Mystic Country club meets Thursday evening the following committee in charge will be: Mr. and Mrs. S. Arthur Boylen, Mr. and Mrs. E. Augustus Harrison, Mrs. Alfred O. Colby, Miss Edith Rathbun, Mrs. Harry F. Hill, Mrs. C. O. Reynolds.

NOANK

Mrs. Alfred Lewis and son, of Mystic, were recent callers on Mrs. Christen Jenssen, of Potter court.

The Boy Scouts held a meeting in the Legion quarters the past week, when Scoutmaster Sidney Moon, of New London, gave an interesting talk to the boys and instructed them in scout work. Assistant Scoutmaster Robert Whittaker also aided during the meeting. Several new members were admitted and a number of applications were received.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Park were recent callers in North Stonington.

Walter Wills has returned, after a short trip to Hartford.

Noank Whirlwinds were defeated by Tarny's Tigers of New London in a fast game of basketball played in the Town hall in Noank the past week. The final score was 42-32. The score at the half-time period was 20-16 in favor of Noank. Maryeski was high scorer for Tarny's Tigers and Chesebro was high for the Whirlwinds. The game was attended by a large number of fans. The line-up was: Tarny's Tigers —Rf, Maryeskie; lf, Hutchison; center, Gadbois; lg, Clark; rg, MacDougal. For the Whirlwinds—Rf, D. Robertson; lf, Chesebro; c, Sweet; lg, Butson; rg, Buddington and Marks. The officials of the game were: Referee, F. Fitzpatrick; timer, E. Ellis, and scorer, H. Robertson.

A meeting of the committee of Harrison Morton Ward post, No. 115, American Legion, and the committee of the auxiliary is to be held in the Legion quarters this (Monday) evening to consider the proposition of providing a community Christmas tree for the children of the village. The committees of both organizations are also planning to provide Christmas baskets for needy families.

Mrs. Thomas Noble, who is a surgical patient at the Home Memorial hospital in New London, is improving.

Mizpah class of Noank Baptist church met with Mrs. Ada Fitch Friday afternoon. Twenty-two members were present. Mrs. Stella Rathbun, chairman of the social committee, was leader of the meeting. The secretary's and treasurer's report was read and during the meeting the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Ada Fitch; vice-president, Mrs. Beret Jenssen; treasurer, Mrs. Stella Rathbun; secretary, Mrs. Esther Andrews; assistant secretary, Mrs. Minnie Palmer. At 6 o'clock a fine covered dish supper was served, after which a Christmas party was held, the members exchanging gifts. Those present were: Mrs. Ada Fitch, Miss Maud Fitch, Mrs. Beret Jenssen, Mrs. Mary Chesebro, Mrs. Linda Mosher, Mrs. Albany Smith, Mrs. James Beckitt, Mrs. Lena Fraser, Mrs. Stella Rathbun, Mrs. Della Rathbun, Mrs. Minnie Palmer, Mrs. Mae Oles, Mrs. Mary Durfee, Mrs. Lida Tryon, Mrs. Esther Andrews, Mrs. Jennie Ashcroft, Mrs Minnie Cox, Mrs. Margaret Strong, Mrs. Minnie Searles, Miss Emma Fish and Mrs. Elmer Rathbun.

A meeting of Washington council, Junior O. U. A. M., is to be held Tuesday evening.

HOW LOCAL WRESTLER BESTED CANADIAN VISITOR

The Indian village of Noank has discovered a heavyweight wrestler, Mike Passi, who weighs 185 lbs. He has been in training for a month. He trains with a bag of oats and can break it with his legs. He also takes a swim every morning and is on the road before the sun gets over the town dock doing his daily dozen. He eats, for breakfast, twelve Johnny cakes, with three Main street boiled eggs, two pieces of toast and washes it down with three cups of coffee. His manager, Eddie Ellis, sure gives this black-haired boy of 22 summers and as many winters, plenty of workout. Wrestler Passi doesn't seem to know how strong he is. With 5 bags of cement, full, he will lift them and carry them about 15 feet. He takes a No. 18 shoe and a 16 1-2 collar. He says that his uncle, who lives across the pond, is some strong. While plowing in the field one day, in the good old summer time, a stranger came and wanted to know where John Pepper lives. So he picked up the plow and two horses and pointed out the house. "Gee!" Manager Ellis said, "Write him a letter and let him take on Gus Sonnenberg, world's best wrestler." So, on Thursday night, as the rain signals was out, Strongman Passi put on a free exhibition at the Community Cob club, on Ship avenue, where no hat was passed, also no cigar checks were needed.

It was around 8:30 when Referee Stretch Moran asked for their hands to see if their finger nails were cut and no brass knuckes on. The village's new heavyweight, Passi, was the first to enter the ring in his green suit and no shoes, nothing but his feet the Lord gave him for life. He wanted the hand he got from the crowd of 200 fans who crowded every corner of the hall. That applause could be heard 1-2 mile away. The mystery wrestler, Bob Overall, of Canada, who tips the scales at 190 lbs., and has legs as big as a stove pipe, also cuts woods in his bare feet in two feet of snow, and never got them frost bitten yet, with his manager, Jack Black, and Bob Overall, with his red suit on, came into the ring, also wearing no shoes. He also got a cheer. When Timer H. Bracci rang the Big Ben the battle was on.

Strong Boy Passi got a toe-hold but it slipped, for his feet was hard as a rock. Getting out of every hold the Noank wonder had Mystery near as sick as an eel, tied him in a knot, also shook himself free like a jar of jelly on a Christmas table. They kept going at each other for 25 minutes and many thing the new heavyweight was in a tight place for as some one in the crowd said, "That Canada man knows a thousand holds," but he came back with an answer, "This Noank giant has a thousand legs." That pulled a big laugh. With a flying tackle, Noank's strong boy got his man and it took 42 minutes. Both men had 5 minutes' rest after nice, clean wrestling.

Again the timer's bell went off, like a lightship bell on a foggy night. Canada's bare foot man was out to throw the new heavyweight of the fishing village, and quick as a mouse after a piece of cheese, Wrestler Overall had the split and with tears in Wrestler Passi's eyes, after trying for 10 minutes to get out of it, it was no use; Canada's mystery man had the Noank heavyweight down and it took 22 minutes. How the crowd cheered the stranger from Canada for his good work! Each had a fall; so another 5 minutes' rest was called. Coming back into the ring for the last fall, Strong Boy Passi had his black hair parted in the middle. Wrestler Bob Overall came with head back, ready to do or die. Rolling over toe holds, the right and left, Noank's giant got his legs around the mystery man's body and started to give him the heavy oil. He got out of that one, but was weak and Manager Ellis kept saying ::Follow it up!" They caught a head-lock and Wrestler Passi was showing his white teeth and putting all his strength against the Canada wood chopper. He got free, but was getting weaker. But he caught Big Passi under the chin with his hands and threw him out of the ring into the crowd. Quick as a flash he was back and got Mr. Bob Overall with a half-Nelson-sissor hold and won the match. It took 28 minutes.

Wood Chopper Overall was out, and it took several minutes to bring him to. It was a hard fought battle and the new heavyweight hope was given an ovation like Babe Ruth after hitting a home run. Manager Ellis was pleased over his new find to win two falls out of three. Canada's wood chopper, Overall made a speech and said that Passi is the strongest fellow he was ever up against. "At first I thought, in that second fall, that two of my ribs were broke! It did not feel very good. I am proud of your village heavyweight wrestler. With some more training he will be a hard one to throw. I am on my way to New York to wrestle. I have friends here so I stopped off and thas match was put in shape."

WATER FROM RIVER JORDAN USED TO BAPTIZE INFANT

A bottle of water from the river Jordan in the Holy Land was used by Rev. William F. Williams in the christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Findlay, in Calvary Episcopal church Saturday afternoon.

Miss Mary Schmidt, supervisor of music in the Stonington schools has resumed work after an illness of a month.

The League of Women Voters is bringing to the attention of the people of Stonington the fact that the laurel, one of the most beautiful native shrubs is fast disappearing, due to the excessive cutting, and sugests that its use as a Christmas decoration be discontinued by churches, schools and other institutions as well as individuals.

The following officers have been elected by the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent society: Catherine Coffey, president; Annie Farnan, first vice president; Annie Kenna, second vice president; Mary Shannon, recorder; Mary Farrell, treasurer; Mary Kriznack, financial secretary.

Mrs. Mary L. Sliney has been confined to her home for the past six weeks by illness.

J. O'Brien of Norwich was a visitor here Friday.

Mrs. Otto Ide, Mrs. William Kelly and Miss Caroline Ide were in Norwich Saturday.

The students of the Stonington high school presented an interesting program at the weekly assembly on Whaling Days in Stonington. The exercises were directed by Mrs. Irene Lucy, instructor of history. Following was the program: Selection, Whaling Days, orchestra; essay, Early Days in Stonington, Miss Doroas Austin; essay, The Whaling Industry in Stonington, Miss Geraldine Coon; song, Sailing, school assembly; selection, Whaling Days, orchestra; a playlet entitled Tales of Whaling Days followed the history program, the following taking part, Prologuist, Max Richmond; Capt. Seaker, Edward Johnson; Harry Pendleton, Charles Martin; Herman Brewster, Joseph Gordon; Harry Nash, Thomas Hughes.

Fruit, vegetables and bread left in front of the Atlantic and Pacific store, corner of Elm and Cutler were stolen early Saturday morning, according to the manager, Paul Zeteulic, of Noank. The theft is being investigated by Patroiman J. Benj. Adams.

POETRY

For These I Thank Thee

I thank Thee that in meting out Thy gifts,
To each one dealt with wisdom so divine,
Thou gavest unto me the heart to dream—
I thank Thee truly for this boon of mine.

To dream — ah, yes to let a golden thought
Fare forth in guise of fancy, pure and bright
And mark how it transforms the plain and dull
Into the likeness of its own delight.

To let it wander through the darksome maze
Of what is yet to be; how it can lay
Its glory on the quite incredible
And make it bright and true as heaven's day!

So many times a beauteous, shining dream
Has wrought what I deemed scarce in reason's range;
Its light went first and, pointing out the way,
Achieved its own dear miracle of change.

And, too, I thank Thee for the gift of mirth,
That Thou hast given humor unto me,
A humor that has oft dispelled my gloom
By lift of laughter of true gaiety;

For though our laughter must be always kind,
There's surely nough so quick to scatter woe
As sense of true proportion in affairs
That seems unduly weighty here below.

And last I thank Thee that Thou gavest me
Conception of the sacrificial flame
That burned in Christ's great heart, the love divine
That puts all small, self-seeking love to shame.

For I have sat beside the altar fires
Where burned the living passions of my heart,
And have been thrilled to know that in Thy plan
Of sacrifice Thou lentest me a part.

And so for these I thank Thee once again—
For dreams that make my better life come true,
For laughter that can ease the upward way,
For love with which Thou only canst imbue.

—By Agnes S. J. Powers in Boston Transcript.

Making A House

First of all, I draw the Smoke
Trailing up the sky;
Then the Chimney, underneath;
And Birds all flying by;
Then the House; and every Window
Watching, like an Eye.

Everybody else begins
With the House. But I
Love the Smoke the best of all;
And you don't know why!—
Here it goes,—like little feathers,
Sailing up the sky!

—Josephine Preston Peabody, in "The Book of the Little Past."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He—Does Vera look her age?

She—No; she overlooks it—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

"Darling, you are the most beautiful woman in the world."

"Oh, Harold, how quick you are at noticing things."—London Tit-Bits.

Book Agent—Can I sell you the Life of Napoleon?

Groucher—No, but I'll take yours if you don't get out of here and stay out.—The Pathfinder.

Landlord: "Yes, those are ancient fossils on the walls over there."

Guest (sampling steak and handing it back): "Yes, you can bring this one back again."—Detroit News.

Judge—You are accused of stealing a turkey! Have you anything to say?

Prisoner—I just took it for a lark, your honor.

Judge—Well, see if ten days in jail will teach you to sing like one.—Boston Transcript.

The Boss—I find you've stolen over $50 worth of stock in the week you've worked here. And you were said to be honest as the day is long.

The Culprit—Sure! I was, but you put me to work on the night shift.—Exchange.

"Have you left anything?" is a sign placed in many American hotels. There are hotels in London where a more appropriate question to the departing guest would be, "Have you anything left?"—London Opinion.

"How long yo' in jail fo', Mose?

"Two weeks."

"No cha'ge, everything am free."

"What am de cha'ge?"

"Ah mean, what has you did?"

"Done shot my wife."

"You killed yo wife and only in jail for two weeks?"

"Dat's all—dey gits hung."—Masonic Craftsman.

What is now the world's largest known copper ore deposit was worked by the prehistoric Incas, judging by remains that have been found at and near the copper mines of Chuquicamata, Chile. Within the mine primitive tools have been found from time to time, such as stone hammers and wooden shovels, as well as mummified remains of early Indian miners, one of which is now at the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

The unusually long bottle drifts have recently been reported to the hydrographic office at Washington. One bottle, thrown overboard by O. Haugstadw, officer of the Norwegian steamer Childar, was picked up among the Marshall Islands after having drifted about 6,000 miles. The second was found among the Caroline islands after a drift of about 7,000 miles. This bottle was thrown overboard by R. M. Stall, second officer of the American steamer K. R. Kingsbury. The longest drift in the records of the hydrographic office is one made from the southern Indian ocean to the tip of Cape Horn, between May 31, 1909 and May 19, 1912, traveling a total of about 11,820 statute miles.

A small reptile, less than a foot in length, has been found embedded in a block of soft, cannel coal, in an abandoned mine not far from the Ohio river near the town of Linton or Yellow Creek, long ago deserted. This discovery is of such interest to geologists, especially since numerous fossil fishes and amphibians were as that Western Reserve university has sociated in the coal with the reptile excavated further. Examination of many tons of coal, however, has revealed no new reptiles. Geologists regard this an unfortunate since the first skeleton lacked the head, a part which is of the greatest interest on account of the arrangement of the bones. A similar reptile of the same age has been found in France, but it likewise lacks the head. The animals were apparently adapted to swamp dwelling, the broad hind feet serving as effective paddles in the lagoons.

SEASONAL RECESSION IN BUSINESS WORLD WAS REPORTED LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—With the exception of generally satisfactory reports of the volume of retail trade, and an unexpected but moderate increase in United States Steel Corp.'s unfilled tonnage in November, indicators of business activity coming to hand during the past week continued to show a fairly general recession, which, in a large measure, may be regarded as seasonal at this time of year.

Underlying conditions generally remained satisfactory. Renewed unsettlement in the stock market, and a large outflow of gold to England, may have been adverse psychological factors, but were not regarded as alarming in important quarters. The Bank of England made a further reduction in its discount rate, bringing it to 5 per cent, so the flow of yellow metal may not reach large proportions. Furthermore, many bankers regard the movement as favorable, as London is more in need of gold than New York, and foreign trade, which is expected to play an important part in the revival of American industry, should be favorably influenced.

Business sentiment generally appeared to have improved further, but there was a distinct tendency to face the facts squarely and to avoid over-optimism.

The increase in steel tonnage was but another loss, but the third successive monthly upturn, carrying the total to the highest level since last June. The increase, however, loses some of its normal significance, as it may be attributed to the slackening of operations during November.

Sentiment in the steel industry, however, remained mildly optimistic. Some picking up in inquiry from automotive centers was noted, and prices held generally steady. Demand from the railroads, ship builders and farm implement manufacturers, was well maintained. The outlook in the motor industry remains somewhat uncertain and early estimates of the 1930 production are substantially lower than indications for the total 1929 output.

Non-ferrous metal prices were somewhat steadied, but the November ranges statistics were distinctly unfavorable, showing a large increase in stocks.

In the commodity markets, wheat and cotton futures sagged, the former influenced by smaller exports, and the latter by unfavorable consumption statistics for November.

OLD FASHIONED RECIPES IN THE CHRISTMAS DINNER

It's up to mother, who acts as "cook" on state occasions, to see to it that the flavor is right at Christmas dinners for tastes are very exacting. In the excitement and strain of last trying hours, she finds consolation in the old-fashioned recipe which supplies the trick when memory fails her.

In preparing the turkey for stuffing, clean the inside by running water through it, and wipe the outside with a damp cloth. Wash the giblets, which the butcher has undoubtedly placed in the cavity of the bird; be sure to remove the inner sac from the gizzard by making a gash through its thickest part, and discard the sac. Cover the giblets with boiling water, cook until tender, then cool, chop fine, and chill. Next remove all pinfeathers from the turkey and singe off all hair. Remove the oil sac which is just back of the tail. Then wipe the turkey dry, rub it with salt, and it is ready to stuff.

Trussing the Turkey

If the legs and wings of the turkey are not held fast to the body during roasting, they may become dry. So truss the bird as follows: Insert a skewer through the wings and breast. Draw the thighs close to the body and thrust another skewer through them just underneath the legs. Then tie the ends of the legs together with a long string and fasten them to the tail by means of the string. Cross the string attached to the tailpiece and draw it around each end of the lower skewer. Again cross it over the back of the bird and wind it around the ends of the skewer projecting from the wings. Fasten the string in a knot and cut off the end. The bird is now ready for roasting.

Roasting the Turkey

After stuffing the turkey, it should be weighed and the correct time for roasting computed; allow 20 minutes of roasting for each pound of meat. Then arrange the bird on a trivet in the roasting pan and roast in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F., for the required length of time. When ready for serving, remove the skewers, cut the threads and place the turkey, breast side up, with the neck to the left of the platter. Then prepare the giblet gravy by the following recipe:

Giblet Gravy: 8 tablespoons turkey fat; 8 tablespoons flour; 4 cups cold water; salt; pepper; chopped giblets.

Use the turkey fat found in the bottom of the roasting pan. Measure the required amount of fat and put into roasting pan or a sauce pan. Add the flour and stir until golden brown and smooth. Then add the cold water gradually while stirring constantly. Cook until thickened and add the necessary salt, pepper and chopped giblets. Serve hot.

Baked Squash: 3 medium-sized Hubbard squash; 1 cup hot water; 1 teaspoon salt; 1-4 teaspoon pepper; 1-3 teaspoon mace; 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Cut squash in quarters, remove fiber and seeds, scrape cavity thoroughly. Arrange cut side down in a dripping pan with one-half cupful of hot water. Bake at least two hours in a moderately hot oven of 400 degrees Fahrenheit, replacing water if necessary. If the squash is too moist remove it from the pan when done, pour off excess water, return it to the pan cut side up and dry off for 10 minutes in a warm oven. Scrape from the shell, mash with a fork and season. This may be done the day before then the squash is chilled in the refrigerator and reheated the next day. Serves eight.

Hollandaise Sauce: 6 tablespoons butter or margarine; 4 tablespoons flour; 2 cups hot water; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 1 teaspoon salt; cayenne pepper; 4 eggs.

Melt the butter in the top of a double boiler, add the flour and blend. Then add gradually while stirring constantly the hot water. Season with the lemon juice, salt and a few grains of Cayenne. Leave the sauce in the double boiler until ready to serve. Then pour it over the well beaten eggs, blend, reheat quickly and serve at once. Serves from six to eight.

French Dressing: Rub a mixing bowl with a clove of garlic and let the clove remain in the bowl. Pour in the salad oil. Add one-third as much vinegar or lemon juice as oil. Add salt and pepper to taste, enough paprika to make the dressing pink and a dash of mustard or a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Some artists think that a trace of sugar improves the dressing. Beat roughly with a fork or a Dover egg-beater until the mixture is thoroughly blended.

Bread Stuffing: 3 quarts stale (not hard) bread crumbs; 6 teaspoons salt; 3 tablespoons sage; 2 tablespoons chopped celery; 1-4 teaspoon pepper; 3-4 cup butter or margarine; 1-2 cup chopped onion; 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Combine the crumbs, salt, sage, celery, parsley and pepper. Meanwhile melt the fat in a frying pan, add the onion and simmer gently until the onion is tender. Then add the seasoned bread crumbs and stir and heat until the crumbs are browned. In stuffing the turkey fill both the cavity and the space from which the crop was removed. Then using strong thread sew up the incision in the skin through which the stuffing was inserted. The quantities given make enough for a 10-pound bird.

Cranberry Sherbert: 2 cups cranberry pulp; 1 1-2 tablespoons of lemon juice; 3 egg whites; 2 1-4 cups sugar; 2 cups single cream.

To the cranberry pulp cooked and forced through a puree sieve, add the sugar and lemon juice, pour into tray and allow to freeze firm. Remove mixture to a cold bowl which has been kept in Frigidaire and beat with a rotary egg beater until light, then add egg whites and cream, return to tray and allow to finish freezing. If mixture is somewhat separated after it is partly frozen it can be removed to an ice cold bowl and the beating process repeated

If you have a cold control on your Frigidaire, set it at 4 or 5, then when completely frozen turn cold control back to 2 until ready to serve.

If you have not a cold control it will freeze just as satisfactorily but will take 2 or 3 hours longer. With the cold control it should freeze in between 2 and 3 hours. Will make a little over 2 quarts.

Melon Cocktail: 1 lb. red grapes; 1 cup diced cantaloup or cantaloup balls; 1 cup diced melon or melon balls; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; pale dry ginger ale.

Mix the cantaloup balls together; seed grapes; add the lemon juice and chill thoroughly. Fill cocktail or sherbert glasses and just before serving add sufficient ginger ale to cover the melon balls. Garnish with maraschino cherries and a sprig of mint.

Chicken Pie, Serving 6

2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons fat, 1 egg, ½ cup milk.

Mix the flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in the fat with a knife. Mixing with the knife, add the egg and milk. Roll or pat out until the dough is 2-3 inch thick. Cut out with a biscuit cutter 2 inches in diameter. Place the biscuit side by side on top the chicken mixture.

Chicken Mixture

4 tablespoons butter or chicken fat, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk or chicken stock, ½ cup gravy, 1½ cups diced cooked chicken, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup diced, cooked celery, 1 cup diced, cooked carrots, 1 tablespoon chopped onions, cooked, 1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Melt the butter and add the flour. Blend well and add the milk and cook until a creamy sauce forms. Add the rest of the ingredients and pour into a buttered shallow pan. Cover with the biscuit mixture.

A Christmas Recipe: White Fruit Cake

1 cup fat (half butter), 2 cups sugar, ½ cup milk, 1 tablespoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 4 cups flour, 1 cup white raisins, 1 cup chopped citron, ¼ cup red cherries, 1 cup chopped candied pineapple peel, 1 cup shredded almonds, ½ cup cocoanut, egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Cream the fat and sugar. Add the rest of the ingredients and pour into loaf pans, which have been fitted with waxed papers. Bake for 2 hours in a slow oven. Oven temperature should be from 275 degrees to 300 degrees.

SCARVES FOR SPRING TO TRAVEL IN THREES

PARIS, Dec. 15—(AP)—Instead of disappearing altogether, as some people expected they would, scarves are to appear in threes on some of the spring blouses and dresses in preparation.

A favorite washable voile sport blouse has a collar of three superimposed scarves, in blending colors. The same system of triple scarves is employed to soften the decollete of some of the new printed chiffon evening dresses.

Mrs. Carolina Warrick, aged 80, who was born on a steamer on the Mississippi river, has spent her entire life on it. She lives in a weather-beaten houseboat.

Your Health And Brain

By Dr. Leland B. Alford

Blushing

For information about the nature and purposes of this signal of emotional stirrings, we must go back to Charles Darwin, the celebrated English scientist.

Darwin's discussion of blushing is worth reading, aside from the information it gives, as showing how a great scientific mind goes about its work. It is a masterpiece of the gathering and marshalling of facts and of impartial reasoning.

From a physician he learned that babies do not blush and from a minister in charge of a school for the blind he found that the blind do blush.

An article informed him that one Laura Bridgman, born blind and deaf, could and did blush. He found a report of a family consisting of parents and ten children, every one of whom was addicted to blushing to a painful degree. He talked to travelers in distant lands and discovered that colored skin did not preclude blushing, although it might prevent its being noticed.

He was tireless in gathering facts. He considered the distribution of the blush, finding that it was generally limited to the face and neck, whether the race was addicted to wearing clothes or not.

The mental states which accompanied blushing, he found, were shyness, shame and modesty. Blushing was particularly likely to occur when the question of personal appearance came up. The most intense of all blushes appeared when the perpetrator was detected in a breach of the laws of etiquette. The person blushes not over the offence but when detected in the offence.

The confusion of mind which comes on after blushing begins was thought to be a result of the sympathy between the small blood vessels of the face and those of the brain.

Either the two sets dilate together or, more likely, as the vessels in the face dilate blood is withdrawn from the brain, resulting in momentary confusion of thought.

Darwin points out that directing the attention to any part of our body causes the skin vessels of that part to dilate. Thus blushing occurs there, but is too slight to be seen. In the case of the face, however, the change in the size of the skin vessels is relatively enormous and the resultant change in tint is plainly evident.

FIRST WOMAN SENATOR TAKES AIR RIDE AT 94

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 15—(AP)—Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, first woman to sit in the United States senate, has made her initial air trip at the age of 94.

Mrs. Felton was a passenger on the Goodyear dirigible Vigilant when it stopped here for a brief visit. At first she declined to make the trip but consented after saw how gracefully the ship landed.

DRAPERIES FOR THE FORMAL LIVING ROOM

An example of the higher art of draping windows.

By Elsie Drew Kennedy.

A fine degree of skill has been attained in the manufacture of synthetic fabric. And considerable interest has been aroused by its unusual beauty and lustrous draping qualities.

A keen appreciation of the beautifull and of harmony should be expressed as a single effect in a room. And that effect is at once evident in the blend with the entire decorative scheme, rather than appearing to be an outstanding feature.

In the accompanying sketch the designer portrays an effective treatment of double windows for living or drawing room, formal in spirit and design.

Here the double windows have been handled in such a way as to suggest a single unit. A paneled section separates them and makes a pleasing central unit of the whole design.

Double curtains consisting of simple, straight-hanging glass panels and a smart arrangement of criss-crossed over curtains of pastel-tinted celanese voile harmonize with the formal spirit of the room and at the same time lend a flattering beauty.

The fact that this fabric catches sunshine in such a way that it is diffused in an extraordinary effective manner makes it almost impossible to believe that this gossamer-like fabric is such a practical investment. Yet it launders beautifully and is immune to strong rays of the sun.

The over-drapes are fashioned from artificial silk taffeta. Velvet, brocaded silks and some of the new novelty materials of a heavy ribbed texture would be equally good for this type of drapery.

A great deal of care for detail distinguishes the unusual arrangement of the deep valance section at the top. Note here the fine detail of the molding frame that outlines the entire drapery and culminates in a decorative central feature. Deep folds of the drapery are held in position by narrow embroidered bandings which culminate in tiny tassels and give a slight scalloped effect.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Maple sirup is mighty good on apple dumplings.

In winter time it is wise to warm the flour before mixing the bread.

The tips of celery, finely fringed, make an excellent garnish for meats or fish.

When selling eggs to the trade, grade them carefully, pack carefully and market frequently.

Cabbage used for salad should be washed, stripped and put in the ice chest until ready to serve.

Cover all vegetables that grow under ground when boiling; do not cover those that grow above the ground.

When cooking rice, if you want it white, add a few teaspoonfuls of lemon to the water in which you cook it.

Direct sunlight should not shine into a cellar in which vegetables are stored. They keep fresh longer in a dark, well-aired cellar.

Tie a paper bag over the mouth of a food grinder when putting breads, nuts, etc., through the grinder. None will then fall on the floor.

Always wash flour sieves in soda water, never in soapy water, as particles of soap may adhere and give a soapy taste to foods put through the sieve.

Marshmallows cut in halves and placed on slices of apple laid on top of a tapioca pudding make a delicious dessert for the children.

To prevent milk set in an outside ice-box from freezing, tie an old magazine around the bottle. This will prevent its freezing in the coldest weather.

After removing the tough portion of the center of a grapefruit and separating the pulp, place an after-dinner mint in the center of each half and chill. The mint gives the grapefruit a delicious flavor.

ROOMY VEGETABLE CABINET

Extremely convenient and sanitary is a tall white cabinet with three deep compartments, one with shelves, one with wire racks and the third with bins, all carefully arranged for the care of vegetables.

TO KEEP BISCUITS HOT.

Put a casserole in the oven to heat at the same time that the biscuits are put in to bake. When the biscuits are done put them in the casserole, leaving the casserole cover slightly off to allow the steam to escape, then put the casserole on the dining table. The last biscuit will be as hot as the first if you follow this plan.

NEW REAMERS.

Not only are they extremely practical, for they fasten firmly on the wall, but they are painted in colors to match the other colored utensils in the kitchen. One turns a crank and holds the orange over the top and the juice flows down into the glass.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

A solution of peroxide of hydrogen containing a few drops of ammonia will remove ink stains from the hands.

To get comfortably-fitting shoes, buy them in the afternoon, when the exercise of the day has spread the muscles of the feet to their largest extent.

If the new raised waistline is unbbecoming, don't try to wear it. Let your belt rest on the top of your hips. This is perfectly permissible, and beauty is always better style than unbecomingness.

The face should be washed once a day with soap and water. Use a pure soap which lathers well. The cleansing property of the soap depends upon the lather. It should be made of clean fats from which the excessive alkali has been removed.

EYEBROWS.

It has been said by eminent authorities on the subject that the eyebrow expresses or reflects much of its owner's mind. For instance, did you ever stop to think why artists always paint Madonnas with such evenly arched eyebrows? It is because they best express a face of quiet refinement and repose. An evenly arched eyebrow lends dignity to the face, compliments the beauty of the eyes and lends depth to their expression. On the other hand, crooked, irregularly shaped eyebrows suggest personalities not so pleasing and often harsh or deceitful. Of course today there is so much artificial shaping of eyebrows that character reading by this means is often impossible or nearly so. But beware of this. Do not allow your eyebrows to be pulled to the extent of giving your eyes an interrogatory expression, as so often happens when they are too highly arched. This is not beauty.

WET SHOES.

Don't put stiff shoe trees into the very wet shoes, but fill them with crushed newspaper. The paper will absorb the moisture and help the shoes retain their shape. Trees are apt to stretch the leather and cause the shoes to dry stiff.

BATHROOM DECORATION.

Little colored prints, framed in pink, blue, yellow or green very narrow frames, make a most decorative border around the top of the bath room's tiling. For the white bath room they are unusually effective.

TEA OR LUNCH-CLOTH.

A tea or lunch-cloth of great beauty is made of very sheer linen in a pale yellow, marked off into sixteen squares by means of single rows of hemstitching. In each square there is an appliqued design in pale coral, green and deeper yellow. The hem is a border of the coral linen.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Rose-quartz is a new frock shade.

Your shoes may, if you so wish, be matched to your jewels.

Fish net in black and colors is the medium seen in numbers of appealing dresses for afternoon and dinner.

A moss green kashine wool frock has a beaver scarf collar that slips its ends through slashes in the yoke of the frock.

Evening gloves may match the slippers in a bright color, and black for such costumes is particularly favored.

A stunning bag to carry with one's more formal clothes is made of a combination of black suede and satin, envelope in shape.

NEW NEGLIGEES ARE COLLARLESS.

Many of the new princess negligees and house robes are cut in surplice style with collarless bound necklines. These seem quite trying after the variously trimmed necks seen in pajama coats and negligees of every feminine air. A handsome coat for the boudoir is one in rich black velvet, strikingly plain with but a flaring line at the hem and open sleeves. A self bow is placed at either side to emphasize the nipped-in waist line. There are equally as lovely robes in this style designed from transparent velvet in such soft shades as turquoise and pale blue, pink, green and salmon.

NEW SWEATERS FOR OLD

It seemed hardly possible to design a new sweater, for the designers had apparently run the gamut in this respect. Now, however, a brand new idea appears upon the scene—a sweater, which stops at the waist-line and has a wide ribbed band which can be worn both under or over the waistline. These are extremely chic under a topcoat of tweed.

TRICOLOR SUIT.

Very new and chic is the use of the tricolor in a tweed suit. The tweed is a basket weave of French blue and white with every now and then a fleck of red in the form of a little square in the weave.

SHORT COATS.

The short evening coat with elaborate collar and sleeves is one of the favorites this winter. If coats are long they are apt to follow the princess lines of evening gowns.

FOR SMALL BOYS.

Very little boys, who are still wearing knitted suits, look adorable in models in either tan or blues, with knitted berets to match.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

Woolen stockings do not shrink if washed carefully in tepid water and white soap suds. Rinse them in clear water, wring out and hang in the air to dry quickly.

To cleanse pongee, tussah and novelty silks, wash them in lukewarm water and good soap. Instead of rubbing them on a board, scrub them with a brush. Rinse in at least three waters.

To clean cut steel buckles buy an ounce or two of flour of emery, grade 120. Make a paste of emery and one tablespoon of salad or sweet oil. Dip a small brush into this mixture and rub the buckles until they are clean. Brush with a dry brush to remove the emery.

CLEAN HATS.

Many meticulous folks clean their coats, frocks, shoes and gloves and do not think of their hats. If they cannot go to the cleaners weekly, at least they can have their linings turned wrong side out and aired daily. With a little brush dipped in reliable cleansing fluid, one can thoroughly clean both the inside and the out. Brush with dry brush when dry.

PUT "DUDS" IN ORDER.

Select some rainy afternoon or evening when you have no particular duties on hand so that you will have plenty of time to concentrate on your summer garments before you pack them away. Examine them carefully for lost fasteners and buttons, stains, ripped seams, and tears. When you have made the necessary repairs, sort them according to colors and materials and wash them with soap and water as carefully as though you intended to wear them the next day.

This precaution is necessary to prevent the dirt from becoming embedded in the fabric and thereby causing discoloration or rotting of the fibres. Dry the garments thoroughly to safeguard them from mildew, and place them in boxes or neatly tied packages. Ironing is unnecessary. Note the contents of each package on the outside with a heavy lead pencil or crayon.

LEAKING PAILS.

Pails used for garden work, garbage or other rubbish purposes need not be thrown away when they spring a leak. If you putty the hole thoroughly and then paint over it, inside and out, you will find that it does nicely.

BATHROOM BENCH.

A bench, which will fit into the smallest bathroom, has a curving seat of a translucent composition not more than seven or eight inches wide.

The stool is backless and is particularly nice in white and blue.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

There are 102 women to every 100 men in Belgium.

No unescorted woman is allowed to enter a public dance hall in Kansas.

Of the 40,000,000 inhabitants in France, 8,000,000 women, or one-fifth the population, work in factories, offices, banks and other activities.

For 15 years Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the celebrated inventor, has been director of the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

Mlle. Genevieve Le Derff, 19-year-old French golf professional, started as a caddy in her childhood. She is the first woman ever to compete in the French professional championship.

The majority of the immigrant women now entering the United States are educated women of the middle class. Many are trained in a trade or profession.

The first Indian woman of rank to engage in any form of trade is Maharaj Komari Lolita Rani Devi, the daughter of the Maharajah of Burdwan, one of the richest rulers in India. She sells Indian furniture, porcelain and embroidery in her shop in London, England.

U. S. WOMEN POINT TO WELFARE GAINS IN THE CHILD FIELD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)— Increased interest in child welfare and in the affairs of women of other countries were significant factors in the trend of women's activities in the United States in 1929.

Many club organizaitons concentrated on legislation for federal appropriations for maternal and infant hygiene.

Study of foreign countries occupied a prominent place on club programs. A good will tour of Europe by a delegation of United States business and professional women was an interesting event of the year.

President Hoover's program for bettering the health and opportunities of children in America aroused keen interest among women. A number of women leaders, including Miss Grace Abbott, head of the children's bureau, were appointed by the president to serve on various committees in connection with the project.

Mrs. Hoover's active participation in girl scout and parent-teacher meetings drew public attention to the work of these organizations. The first lady's movements are always widely broadcast. Her trip to New York to a girl scout meeting and her entertainment of the Washington branch at a white house party gave the scout movement increased recognition.

The League of Women Voters will carry its campaign for federal appropriation for maternal and infant care into the new year. The league is an ardent champion of the Jones-Cary bill, designed to take the place of the Sheppard-Towner act, which expired last June.

Ability to raise and handle money was amply demonstrated by women in 1929. The D. A. R. dedicated its new $2,000,000 Constitution hall, the money for which was raised by contributions from members.

American women were given a glimpse of two European women who are world famous. Their visits here augmented the friendly interest in feminine progress abroad.

Mme. Marie Curie, co-discoverer of radium, was a guest at the white house in November and was presented $50,000, the gift of American admirers. Mrs. Marie Meloney of New York directed the raising of the money, much of which was given by women.

Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the British premier, was a guest at the white house with her father and was welcomed by various women's organizations.

A former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, was appointed to help supervise the filming of motion pictures so that they may more nearly meet the club women's standards of good entertainment.

The national women's party moved into its new home and held its biennial convention.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Planning Leisure.

We parents are in many respects a conscienceless lot. A business man never would neglect anything so important to his business as the planning of good leisure time activities is to our children.

Parents everywhere complain that their children seek their pleasures outside the home, and that these comprise an unwholesome variety of passive commercial pleasures, and jazzy thrills. The children, furthermore, don't want to bring home their friends. Home is "slow" and there is "nothing to do."

The leisure time of children used to center itself quite naturally in the home. Those were the days before the wheels of progress had turned home into the comparatively small cramped place which it is today.

Since the home has been stripped of most of its former activities it is necessary for parents to work consciously for the common bonds of wholesome interest and activity which were natural and inevitable 20 to 30 years ago.

It no longer is possible to rely upon the home situation to bring about the kinds of pursuits which we know to be worth while during the formative years. We must think and scheme for the opportunities which our parents never had to worry about.

Perhaps one way of making home something more than a place in which to eat and sleep is to see that every child has some genuine interest represented in it.

It is worth some inconvenience to let the boy have his work bench somewhere under the family roof and to let him keep pets even if these encroach upon the aesthetic effect of the living room.

When new furnishings and hangings are to be chosen, the children may be asked for suggestions as to what they would like and as far as possible their tastes should be considered.

HEMLINES ARE EVEN AT LEVEL OF ANKLE

PARIS, Dec. 15—(AP)—Ankle long skirts with even hemlines are the very last word uttered by dressmakers who make styles as well as clothes.

The dizzy hemlines of the past months are straightening up a little, and wise ones expect them to be definitely on the way out by the time next spring's styles are shown in January.

Hemlines which lift in the front and dip to the floor behind are already stamped "last season" by Parisian opinion. The higher the skirt lifts in front the more out of date it looks, and, contrariwise, the longer the skirt is in front the newer it appears.

One or two novelty-seeking designers have reversed last season's order and created evening gowns which touch the toes in front and lift halfway to the knees in back. These models are not taken seriously, however, and the general trend is not afected by them.

Afternoon ensembles are radically longer and also tend to even hemlines at ankle lengths. Paris makes a distinction these days between "5 to 8" ensembles and clothes for wear from 1 to 5. The rule is simple:

"The later the hour the longer the skirt."

MRS. NEW A PHOTO FAN; SNAPS WASHINGTON LIFE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—Mrs. Harry S. New, wife of the former postmaster general, is taking pictures of Washington winter life with a new color camera.

Mrs. New is the first woman to be made a member of the White House Photographers' association. She was voted an honorary life member in 1925 after a showing of her pictures before the association.

Two other women now belong to the organization, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Herbert Hoover. Mrs. Hoover took a number of pictures on her trip to South America. During her sojourn in the Black Hills Mrs. Coolidge used to enjoy snapping the cowboys and Indians with her small motion picture camera.

REDISCOVERED WAISTLINE NOW AFFECTS LINGERIE

PARIS, Dec. 15—(AP)—Even nighties and panties, in their Parisian form, have well defined waistlines; form fitting hips and wrinkleless contours.

Lingerie makers are turning out form fitting nightgowns of satin trimmed with bands of lace which are hard to differentiate from evening dresses.

Satin has a new importance in lingerie of the moment, as it offers the slick surface most suitable for foundations to tightly fited dresses.

BLACK ENSEMBLE

Sober, sedate black is the predominating motif of this smart Parisian ensemble.

The black coat is a seven-eights length, and is trimmed interestingly with beautiful sable. Both frock and coat have the dipping hemline.

The hat, which is one of the tiny, close fitting off-the-face models of felt, the shoes and dress, all blend harmoniously with the black coat.

Men of the company which is working on a new town property assessment at Saybrook, were taking pictures from the air, two miles up, recently, and these were shown to the town officials Dec. 10. They give very satisfactory results, being taken before the first fall of snow and at low tide.

PRESIDENTS WIVES HAVE PET CHARITIES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—Presidents' wives have their varying pet philanthropies and projects.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt was much interested in the Needlework Guild of America, of which she still is honorary president.

Under her direction, while she was first lady, cabinet wives sewed and collected garments for the poor. Many a charitable organization of Washington at that time looked to Mrs. Roosevelt's guild as its chief source of clothing.

Mrs. Coolidge took an active interest in the Salvation Army. During the last several years of her stay in the white house she helped distribute toys at the Salvation Army Christmas festivities.

The girl scouts are Mrs. Hoover's particular pride. It was through her that they obtained the pleasant "Little House," a model headquarters in Washington.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, December 12th, 1929.
Upon the complaint of the said Harriett C. Potter claiming for the reasons therein set forth a divorce, returnable on the first Tuesday of January, 1930, before the Superior Court in and for said County.
It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant, Fred L. Potter, formerly of Norwich, Connecticut, is gone to parts unknown.
It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendant by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, two days successively, commencing on or before the 25th day of December, 1929.
WILLIAM H. SHIELDS, Jr.
Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 14th day of December, A. D. 1929.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
In the matter of an agreement between Ira E. Barrett of Norwich, Conn., the father and sole surviving parent of Elaine Alice Barrett, a minor, of said Norwich, party of the First Part, and Edward D. Norris and Pauline W. Norris, husband and wife, both of Norwich, Conn., parties of the Second Part, for the adoption of said minor by said parties of the Second Part.
The said agreement having been exhibited to said Court for approval in writing, it is Ordered, That the hearing upon the approval of said agreement be held at the Probate Court Room in the city of Norwich, in said District, on the 21st day of December, A. D. 1929, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said agreement, and of said hearing for the approval thereof, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE
Taken by virtue of an Execution to me directed, and will be sold at Public Vendue to the highest bidder, at the public sign-post in the Town of Franklin, fourteen days after date, which will be on the 30th day of December, 1929, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy said Execution and my fees thereon, the following described property, to wit:

LOCAL "Y" BEATS STAMFORD FOR SECOND STATE LEAGUE VICTORY

The Y Seniors opened their home season in the Y state league Saturday night at the Y gym by taking the Stamford quintet into camp, 40 to 33. This was their second league win as Greenwich was beaten last Saturday.

Saturday's game was nip and tuck until the last quarter when Coach Demarest's boys broke away to an eight-point lead and protected it through the closing minutes. Up to this time neither team had been able to get any respectable margin, with the lead changing hands continually.

The Seniors started off in front when Les Pingree dropped in a side shot with about two minutes gone. Stamford, however, quickly followed this with first a foul and then a field goal and set the pace for the quarter, which ended 8 to 5.

The Seniors opened up their passing game in the second quarter, Brown especially doing good work, and led at half time by one point, 21-20.

The teams battled on even terms in the third period with Roland Harris, the center and captain, carrying the brunt of the attack. The quarter ended with the same one-point margin in the local team's favor, 30 to 29. Harris was put out of the game on personal fouls early in the final period and everyone thought this would spell doom for Norwich's chances but Pingree went to center and Lynch to Pingree's place at right forward, and the team continued merrily on to its coveted victory.

The Seniors showed spots of brilliance and then seemed to fade away. When they were passing they usually scored, but once they started the individual long-shot game Stamford started to creep up. Stamford relied for the most part on shots from a little less than half the length of the court and a good margin of them clocked. This was due more to the Y's tight defense than to any inclination on the part of the visitors to win the game by this method.

Harris was the leading scorer for the locals with 14 points, followed by Brown with 11. DeVito and Brunzill, forwards, each scored 10 points for the losers.

This week the Seniors have two state league games, going to Winsted Wednesday night and meeting Westport here Saturday night.

The Preliminaries

In the Church league, preliminaries to the Y Seniors game, the Gamma club of the Greek church won its third victory in this year's league by taking the Brothers of Joseph by a score of 21 to 14. The teamwork that usually wins for the Gammas was lacking but was made up for by the playing of Economous, right forward, who made seven field goals and one foul for a total of 15 of his team's points.

In the second game, Baltic, in their first start, won from the Central Baptist by a score of 20 to 14. Baltic was called to account for 11 fouls, but displayed a good eye on hard shots. Central lacked the ability to convert easy shots into points.

PUTNAM ON WAY TO VALLEY COURT TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 15.—By virtue of their overwhelming defeat of the Oxford high school quintet by a 28-11 score on the local court Friday evening, the Putnam high basketball five is well on its way to the championship of schools in the Quinebaug valley. Friday night's victory is the second of the season in as many starts for the Noyesmen. Capt. Carman Leo, high scoring member of the Blue and White, came into his own Friday by chalking up 16 of the total number of points. Reynolds Deberedinis and Louis Weiss played an effective passing game that efficiently enabled Leo to perform his net tactics. The fast work of Sabin and Cacciapute, guards, frustrated an Oxford scoring attempt in the third quarter, forcing the visitors to resort to defensive play.

GREEN BAY PACKERS SET RECORD TO WIN LEAGUE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Establishing a record that surpasses anything in the eight years' history of the National Football league, the Green Bay Packers of Green Bay, Wis., assumed the league championship at the end of the season today with a record of 12 victories and one tie out of 13 games.

The New York Giants with 13 victories and one defeat finished second and the Frankford Yellow Jackets, of Philadelphia, landed in third place with ten wins and four losses.

Following is the final standing as announced by the league:

	W.	L.	Tied	Pct.
Green Bay	12	0	1	1.000

Sunday's results: New York Giants, 14; Chicago Bears, 0.

Saturday's results: Frankford, 10; Orange, 0.

EAGLES HOLD SLIM LEAD IN HOCKEY LEAGUE

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The New Haven Eagles were still leading the Canadian-American hockey parade today, a full game ahead of the Boston Tigers, last season's champions. The Tigers had a chance to go into a tie last night, but the Providence Reds blocked this advance by coming from behind and smashing out a 5 to 3 victory.

As a result of this win, Providence ended the week in third place, a point behind the Tigers, and Philadelphia and Springfield trailed the leaders, each with 8 points.

The official standing, including games of December 14, follows:

	G	W	L	T	Pts	Gls	Op
New Haven	11	6	4	1	13	32	25
Boston	11	5	5	1	11	51	40
Providence	10	5	5	0	10	30	45

There's a lot more of the kid in us than many of us would dare to admit.

What's that, you doubt me? Well, to prove my statement I'll ask you folks the next time you go out to do your Christmas shopping to keep your eyes open.

Who makes up most of the audience in front of the windows where Santa Claus is performing? Is it the kiddies? You know it isn't, it's you grown-ups and you get just as much kick out of it if not more than the kids.

Just look at the people who congregate around the toy display in the stores. Who is it that's always winding up the mechanical toys and setting them going? Is it the kids, it is not.

And on Christmas morning who is it that sits down on the floor and plays with the toys until Little Willie howls his head off and the patient mother says in her most sarcastic tone, "Never mind, Willie, your father must have his toys."

Only Saturday I noticed the crowd that was around the Santa Claus window and it was mostly men and women of very mature ages. One good healthy looking man was really peeved because a couple of kiddies were obstructing his view.

No he didn't have any kids of his own 'cause I know him and he's not even married. One youngster was standing on the window sill trying to attract the attention of Santa Claus when this guy reaches over and taps the kiddy on the shoulder and says, "Hey, kid, get down outa that winda and give somebody a chance to see."

And then there's the wise-cracking fool that stands in the bunch of kiddies and tells 'em that there ain't no Santa Claus and that the guy in there is just a fake. Santa Claus. Nice fella, ain't he?

But why do we all stand and watch the antics of Santa Claus, and play with the toys? Why do we do it? Sure it's because of the kid in us that's never really grown up. It brings back fond recollections of other days. Those days when we hung up our stockings even after we knew it was Dad and mother who filled 'em.

Those was the happy days at that. Right?

GOOD CARD SLATED FOR NEW LONDON ARMORY TUESDAY

"Pop" Connelly and Tom Faldhan are putting on a bang-up good card of five bouts at New London tomorrow night at popular prices. The card has 32 rounds of boxing distributed through five bouts. For the main go Johnny Ciccone, Schenectady lightweight, is slated for ten rounds with Marty Owens of New Bedford. This looks like a real fast punching match. For the semi-final Bobby Marriott of the Coast Guard and Eddie Dowd of Boston are slated to tangle in the eight round semi-final.

Alex Tourain who fought here last week meets Eddie Daley of Boston in a six round preliminary that should oristle with action. Two other fast four rounders will open the show which will be held in the state armory and is the first boxing show since the close of the outdoor arena.

LITTLE INTEREST IN BOXING CIRCLES THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP) — Tod Morgan, Seattle wonder of the junior lightweight championship, defends his title against Benny Bass in Madison Square Garden this week but even this titular affray will have a tough time competing for public interest with the second ring start of Art (the great) Shires, pugnacious first baseman of the Chicago White Sox.

Shires, who knocked Dangerous Dan Daley of Cleveland kicking in a few seconds in his first professional ring bout last week, takes on George Trafton, big Chicago pro football player, in a five rounder at the White City arena, Chicago, tomorrow night. Confidence oozes from both camps but Chicago fans are willing to wait for the fight itself to determine the relative merits of football and baseball as training grounds for the prize ring.

Morgan's defense of his title against Bass heads a rather slim schedule of shows for the Metropolitan district. Morgan, a master boxer with little or no punch, is tackling one of the most punishing punchers in the business in Bass. If the bout goes its full limit of 15 rounds there appears to be no reason to doubt that Morgan will retain his crown but some critics believe the slightly built title-holder will wilt under Bass' deadly body punching. Nel Tarleton, English lightweight, meets Al Ridgeway of Jersey City in the eight round semi-final. Another eight rounder will bring together Dom Volante of England and Harry Carlton of Jersey City, lightweights.

In the only other big show here, the New York coliseum offers a ten rounder between Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, and Dominick Petrone of Harlem on Wednesday. Rene De Vos, Belgian middleweight, will take on Babe McGorgary of Oklahoma; Jack Kid Berg, English lightweight, tackles Tony Caragliano, New York, and Leonard (Young) Zazzarino, Jersey City lightweight, battles Jose Martinez of Spain, in three other ten rounders on the same card.

A ten round meeting between Armand Emanuel, Los Angeles, and Jack Gagnon of Boston, heads an all heavyweight show at the Boston Garden Friday night. Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro, and Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, furnish the chief entertainment at Detroit Friday.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At Boston, Al Friedman, Boston, vs. Big Boy Rawson, Boston, heavyweights, ten rounds; At Baltimore, Johnny Sheppard, Boston, vs. Sid Lampe, Baltimore, lightweights, ten rounds.

Tuesday—At New York, Broadway arena, Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles Negro, vs. Nat Kawler, welterweights, ten rounds: at Los Angeles, Joey Sangor, Milwaukee, vs. Santiago Zorilla, Panama, junior lightweights, ten rounds.

Friday—At Boston, Arthur Flynn, Boston, vs. Charley Belanger, Winnipeg, and Neil Cilsby, Los Angeles, vs. Tony Calento, Orange, N. J., all heavyweights, each ten rounds; at Ashland auditorium, Chicago, Eddie Anderson, Caspar, Wyo., vs. Jack Duffy, Toledo, junior lightweights ten rounds; at Toledo, Happy Atherton, Indianapolis, vs. Franklin Young, Detroit, flyweights; at San Francisco, Frankie Scotson, San Francisco, vs. Cowboy Eddie Anderson, Wyoming, welterweights, ten rounds.

Summer girls are again vowing fidelity—until the end of the season.

MANERO WINS AVALON GOLF TITLE WITH 186; MILLER FAR DOWN THE LIST

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP)—A youth from the sidewalks of New York, Tony Manero, today stroked his way to victory in the annual $7,500 Catalina Island open golf tournament, shooting the 54 holes 12 under par for a 186 card.

In his wake came Olin Dutra, a native son of California, one stroke behind, while "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, a fellow pro from the metropolitan district of the Atlantic seaboard, turned in a 188, for third money.

Trailing these by many strokes were the favorites of the three-day tourney—favorites who left their hopes for the big prize money in hillsides and in the deep canyons of the unusual course.

Most fortunate of these select, placed on the pedestal of golfdom because of past records, was Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Baja, California, who recently successfully defended his Professional Golfers' association title. "Larruping Leo," after a disappointing 67 last Friday, pulled up with a 63 yesterday and turned in a 59 today to place himself in a tie for fourth with Charles Guest, Los Angeles; John Golden of Paterson, N. J., and Frank Walsh, Chicago. This quartet had cards of 189 for the tournament.

Horton Smith, the 21-year-old Missouri Ozarks pro, failed to do better than a 193 in the way of defending the title which he won from Walter Hagen a year ago by a stroke. Hagen, British open champion, was far down the list with a 195.

Manero played consistent golf from the start. He turned in a 64 on the opening day to tie for second place in the field of some 139 starters. Yesterday he bettered this by a stroke to remain in second place. The young pro staged a rousing rally today with a 59 over the par 66 course.

By turning in the 59, Manero collected nine birdies, something of a feat in 18 holes of play. This was insufficient, however, to give him low score for the individual 18. This honor went to Frank Walsh of Chicago, with a 56.

Manero received $1,500 as the winner's share of the tourney, with Dutra gathering $1,000 and Mehlhorn $500.

FALCARO PICKS UP 53 PINS ON SCRIBNER

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Joe Falcaro, New York bowler, picked up 53 pins in his world's championship match with Joe Scribner, today, by defeating the Detroit pin artist, 2,208 to 2,155 in the second block of games.

Despite the defeat, Scribner still is in the lead by 100 pins, having won the first ten games Saturday night by a margin of 153 pins. Ten more games will be rolled here and then the match will switch to New York for the last 30 games.

Church League Game Tonight

Tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 8:15, the Church league will again be in operation, when the Stronghearts of Jewett City will play the Phi Delta Nu of the United Congregational church. A win will send either team from a tie for fifth place to a tie with the Brothers of Joseph for third place.

In the second game, because of a Trinity-Baltic postponed game, the Gamma club will attempt to run their string of victories up to four at the expense of the tail-end Centrals. This will be the second and last meeting of these two teams.

Livsey Beats Camp

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—(AP) —Spencer Livsey of Los Angeles, defeated Marcel Camp, of Detroit, 125 to 119 in 41 innings, in a game of the world's championship billiard tournament at the Recreation building here this afternoon. It was Camp's second defeat of the tourney and Livsey's second victory. Camp has won three games. Livsey has lost four.

Ralph Greenleaf of New York, former champion, defeated Onofrio Lauri of Brooklyn, 125 to 123 in 24 innings, in the second game today.

Greenleaf had to come from behind to win, at the end of 17 innings the score was 115 to 70 in Lauri favor. The victory put Greenleaf in a tie for second place in the tournament with Frank Taberski, defending champion, with three wins and one defeat.

Rudolph Wins Again

DETROIT, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph of Chicago continued his unbeatable play in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament by defeating Pasquale of Detroit 125 to 77, in 31 innings, tonight.

GREEN BAY TEAM LOSES FIRST GAME OF SEASON

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(AP) — The Memphis Clarence Saunders Tigers administered the Green Bay, Wis. Packers, champions of the National Football league, their first defeat of the year here today, 20-6.

The Tigers scored once in the third period on a pass and twice in the last period on two intercepted passes. The Packers were on the defensive most of the time. The Packers had only three touchdowns scored against them this year.

ARMY SQUAD WILL BE 100 STRONG ON COAST

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Biff Jones, Army coach, will take 110 football players on the long trek west to meet Stanford at Palo Alto, December 28. The players will be drawn from the varsity, scrub and plebe teams. Only members of the A squad, or varsity, will participate in the game but the plebes and scrubs will be used for practice. The Army team will leave here December 18 in a special train.

ESTIMATE 385,000 AUTO MARKERS WILL BE ISSUED

With the total number of automobile registration in Connecticut increasing at the rate of seven to eight per cent a year, the number of early applicants for their 1930 markers this year show an increase of between 15 and 16 per cent over the number who applied early for their 1929 markers, according to figures made public Friday by the motor vehicle department. Numerically, Dec. 10, the last day for which complete figures are available, the department had received 8,841 more applications than Dec. 10, 1928. The total number of applications for 1930 markers received up to and including that date was 64,230.

While pleased with the increase in early applications, motor vehicles department officials pointed out that so far there was no indication that there would not be the usual tremendous rush at the end of the year. In 1928, according to department statistics, 55,389 applications had been received by Dec. 10, yet the final week of December brought a total of 70,862 applicants who had delayed until that time. In the issue of 1929 markers prior to Jan. 1 of that year, 44,406 applications were handled by window clerks in the state capitol, with the peak load coming Dec. 30, when 5,398 applications were handled. In the previous year, 1927, the window clerks at the capitol handled 46,039 applications, Dec. 30 of that year, when there were 6,321 applicants, also being the busiest day.

Motor vehicle department officials expect to receive more applications by mail this year than ever before although early action is desirable here also, they point out, as they cannot guarantee delivery of amrkers by Jan. 1, even when the application is accompanied by a special delivery stamp when the request is received late. In 1925 the mail applications numbered 51,799; in 1926 they dropped to 51,090; in 1927 the number was up to 57,567, and last year 65,809 sets of plates were mailed.

Department estimates are for a total issue of 860,000 markers for 1929, of which approximately one-half, 180,621, were issued before the first of the year. Of the markers issued before Jan. 1, 1929, more than 89 per cent were on applications handled during the last week of December, 1928. In the final week 70,862 applications were received, with 34,498 in the preceding week and 21,849 in the second week of December. It has been the experience of the department that applications during the last week of December equal those during the remainder of the month.

The motor vehicle department estimates 385,000 marks for 1930 will be issued before Jan. 1, 1931, which figures for other years indicate, presages an issue of close to 200,000 sets of plates before Jan. 1, 1930, or about 130,000 sets between Dec. 10 and the end of the month.

HOLY CROSS STARS TO COMPETE HERE

Coach "Bart" Sullivan of Holy Cross college has promised to enter a squad of ten picked men in the N. F. A. indoor track meet to be held Wednesday, January 15. This date will usher in the indoor season for the Norwich Free Academy at the state armory on McKinley avenue.

The meet will be a triangular battle involving Suffield Prep, Chapman Tech and the Norwich Free Academy. Heading the list of high school events will be the mile run, featuring Foster of Suffield Prep, a 4.40 miler, Minor of C. T., sensational cross-country runner and Lambert and Navick, stellar milers for the Academy. Sam Berkman, track captain, and Sura, flashy sprinter, promise to give the dash men from Suffield and Chapman a great race.

The feature events of the evening will be the "Leo" Larrivee 600 yard invitation and the Battery B sprint series of 30, 40 and 50 yards. Dominating the field in the 60 yard run will be Bernard McCafferty, former sensational one-miler of Seton Hall Prep, and now of Holy Cross. In 1928 McCafferty was five strides behind Lloyd Hahn when Hahn unofficially broke the world's record for the half mile at the Columbus Circle meet. Last year at the Mellrose games Bernie ran the Mellrose "600" in 1.12 2-4 of a second from Alan Helfrech's world's record, and McCafferty is better than ever this year. With McCafferty in the "600" will be "Jake" Klumbad Holy Cross track captain and McCafferty's peer at "600." Joseph Tierney of the N. Y. A. C., world's record holder at 500 yards, and Olympic 410 meter runner in 1928, and Wetmore, the flashy quarter-miler from Bulkeley, will complete the field.

In the "Battery B" sprint series, "Jimmie" Daley, 70 yard intercollegiate champ of Holy Cross. James Quinn, who tied the world's record for 60 yards in 1928, and captain of 1928 Olympic sprint team that set a new world's record, Gordon Winslow of Putnam, formerly of New Departure A. C., Austen second man at 100 yards, "Joe" Jackson, of Dugell A. A., will complete the fastest sprint field that has ever appeared in Connecticut.

MacKELLAR MAKES HIMSELF CLEAR REGARDING ATHLETES

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Stating that what he sought was to bring the subsidizing of athletes into open discussion, Major W. H. McKellar of Sewanee, issued a statement today concerning his proposal to pay college athletes openly in the Southern conference. Major MacKellar, who is faculty chairman of athletics at the University of the South, was returning to Sewanee from the meeting of coaches and college representatives at Baton Rouge, La. He said he was satisfied with the results, as the resolution of H. C. Byrd of the University of Maryland, effected this.

Major MacKellar's statement follows:

"The press in commenting upon my action before the conference in regard to the subsidizing of athletes has not presented its real significance.

"In the first place, it speaks of my proposal to pay athletes in a certain way as if I had been originating the idea of paying athletes. This is far from true. Athletes are being paid, and to my mind, in a very reprehensible manner. I proposed to amend this manner, to make it open instead of surreptitious; honest instead of dishonest.

"Moreover, the accounts of what I said should have presented my proposition in regard to the proper management of athletics by the college. This I made explicit, concluding that if it were left to me, I would no more pay an athletic student than I would a chemical student.

"If I had my way, I would abolish all gate receipts, substitute physical trainers for coaches, muzzle all sports writers and cut down schedules to invitation games on home grounds. I would compel a boy to earn in the classroom his right to play in an intercollegiate game, but since this is out of the question, I offer what seems to me the only practical settlement at this time.

"The resolution which I offered accomplished even more than I hoped for. Not one fact which I advanced as to the conditions common to football teams was challenged by anybody present. The practice of subsidizing was brought into the open for the first time. There can now be no more 'pussyfooting' in regard to it. The responsibility is now clearly upon the college, where it belongs, and from which it had largely been removed.

"I presented my resolution merely for the purpose of forcing a direct issue and I gladly accept Mr. Byrd's resolution as a distinct advance from the lamentable conditions of the present time."

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN TAKES IN $500,000 IN LESS THAN FOURTEEN DAYS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The sports world, at least that part ruled by Madison Square Garden, can report that business is booming as never before and that fear of panics in this business at least is just a laugh.

In the past two weeks, the box office men have been busy listening to the rustle of large bills and the clink of much silver. In 15 days, only 13 of them working, the sports attractions at the battle palace have broken all records for receipts for that time.

Round figures show a new record sum of $501,000 passed over the counter in two weeks during the six-day bicycle race, two fight cards, and four hockey games at the Garden.

Individually the bike race set a new record and the intake at the ice skirmishes is running at least ten per cent ahead of receipts last season.

Instead of withering like margin accounts, the six-day grind, New York's semi-annual struggle against sleep, opened Dec. 1, with a rush of customers that carried through Dec. 7 and left John Chapman, czar of this fantastic mode of entertainment, with $220,000 in the coffers. That started the record-breaking splurge.

The pine saucer was torn down in time to accommodate $24,000 worth of customers for the National league hockey game between the New York Rangers and Pittsburgh, Dec. 8, Sunday night.

On Monday night the patrons of the Christmas fund paid $92,000 to see Phil Scott win one from Otto Von Porat on a delicate foul that was billed as a heavyweight elimination contest. The money changers rested Wednesday night but Tuesday and Thursday hockey games drew a total of $31,000.

The hall was changed back to a fight arena in time to lure $197,000 worth of patrons in for Jimmy McLarnin's sensational knockout of Ruby Goldstein Friday night. Not a dime passed through the turnstiles last night but this evening a packed house and $27,000 in receipts greeted the Boston-New York American hockey tilt.

In table form it happened this way:

Dec. 1-7	Six-day bike race	$220,000
Dec. 8	Ranger-Pitts. hockey	24,000
Dec. 9	Boxing	92,000
Dec. 10	Amer-Toronto hockey	11,000
Dec. 11	No contest
Dec. 12	Rang.-Camd. hockey	20,000
Dec. 13	Boxing	107,000
Dec. 15	Amer.-Boston hockey	27,000
Total		$501,000

BOXING IN CONN. EXPERIENCES BIGGEST YEAR IN HISTORY

HARTFORD, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Boxing in Connecticut during 1929 reached greater popularity, had less about it to draw criticism, and yielded a fair return to its promoters, in the opinion of those who follow the game, either as spectators or backers. More boxing meetings, both professional and amateur, were held than in any previous year, the number of registrants was surprisingly large, and discipline was maintained to a commendable degree. Supervision of meets was on a high plane, and it was noticeable that feminine interest in the game was keen indicative of the tendency of women, nowadays, to follow sports wherein there is a sharp competition.

While the largest boxing meetings were in New Haven and Hartford, the smaller ones were well distributed in different parts of the state. The idea of bringing teams of out of state boxers to meet a team of local ones, followed at New Haven, did much to keep interest sustained in the amateur meets there.

State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue, in a review of the year, said:

"The 1929 session of the general assembly placed the jurisdiction of amateur boxing under the state athletic commissioner, and since March 15th, amateur boxing shows have been operating under state control. The boys are examined by a physician to ascertain their physical fitness before being allowed to enter the ring, and we are striving to weed out professionalism.

"The outstanding professional boxing show was held this fall at East Hartford, being the world featherweight title, between the then champion, Andre Routis, of France, and Bat Battaglino, of Hartford, and Battalino won the title before a record attendance, and Connecticut now has the honor of being the home state of the titleholder. One of the former champions in this class was also a Connecticut resident, Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

"The year 1929 has been very successful for boxing, in fact the largest year Connecticut has ever enjoyed. More business has been done from July first to October first than has been enjoyed in several entire years during the period the state has had an athletic commission. Over 300 boxers have been licensed since July first, and in no year previous to last year did we have 300 licensed.

"Wrestling has not been active or popular for a good many years but seems now to be coming back to favor, and an effort is being made throughout the country to educate the public to this class of sport, but I cannot say that so far it has met with any great success here.

"Benefit shows are being held constantly for very worthy causes and several are being held at just this time to give Christmas cheer to the needy.

"The holiday season is always dull for boxing, as well as other sports, but after New Year's the sport will resume again although it is probable that due to the break in the stock market and financial conditions generaly there will be a slackening up in all lines of sports for the time being, but I feel the depression will be but temporary and as the American people like all kinds of sports, boxing will continue in favor."

TO CONDUCT EXPERIMENT IN SPEED REGULATION

An experiment in motor vehicle speed regulation which, eventually, may affect every town in Connecticut having a heavy traffic highway running through thickly settled communities, is to be conducted in Stratford, the authorities of that town and the state motor vehicle department announced Sunday. The tryout of the plan is also made possible by the co-operation of the state highway department.

Speed limits will be established in conformity with conditions along the Boston Post road within the limits of Stratford. Prominently displayed signs will designate the maximum speeds which are considered safe speeds for certain sections under normal conditions. Enforcement will be under the direction of the town police and the new regulations are expected to be in force within a week.

Decisions as to the proper speeds result from a careful survey of traffic on this highway at all hours of the day. This survey will continue with the experiment and the speeds first established may be subject to change.

The policy under which the experiment is to be carried out has been outlined by Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles, and all authorities agree that the experiment will not be conducted as an enforcement trap for motorists. All cases will be considered with reasonableness and common sense.

"The Connecticut law regarding speed," says Commissioner Stoeckel, "specifies that any motorist may drive at a speed which is reasonable for the conditions in the locality where he is operating. The question of what is reasonable is necessarily first determined by the motorist himself in the exercise of judgment as to how fast he ought to go under conditions which confront him. He is not the final authority in this determination, however, for it will be apparent that other people might not agree with him in his decisions, and might think he ought to go either faster or slower than he himself determines is right. If this was found to be the opinion of the town officer charged with enforcement of the motor vehicle act, it is entirely reasonable that it might result in the punishment of the operator.

"It is, of course, not fair if that town officer, of any town officer, should insist on their determinations along the lines suggested unless the motorist is warned as to what he may and may not expect. It is along the line of this duty to warn the motorist that the town of Stratford has now established what its authorities think are reasonable speed limits at which motor vehicles may travel under certain conditions in their town. These speeds considered reasonable by their town authorities will be designated by signs prominently displayed along the highway, and enforcemens under them will be as strict as the town authorities desire, and they can force the traveling public to comply with their regulations."

The first signs set up will be at the town borders and will warn motorists that reasonable speed will be demanded under normal conditions. This speed will be indicated by other signs along the highway, at varying intervals. The first sign will read: "Warning—Signs Indicate Reasonable Speed Under Normal Conditions." The signs stating the speed limit will read 25, or as the case may be, 30 miles per hour. All signs will be standard to conform with those accepted for use by the state highway department, and will be in black letters on a white background.

Every feature of the experiment is to be watched closely by those co-operating and, if it is successful, the state department will offer their co-operation to other towns in helping to solve similar problems.

Are YOU Getting YOUR MONEY'S WORTH In Entertainment?

The American people pay more generously for entertainment than any nation on earth. Their generosity has enriched the motion picture industry.

* * *

Spoken dialog has come to replace the subtitle of the silent picture. Tagging along with the talkie comes Mechanical Music—an economy.

* * *

Real Music is being ordered out of many theatres in favor of this new comer, who never dared a theatrical appearance until he gained the protection of the Talking Picture's novelty and the magic word "Synchronized." Now synchronization with a picture does not give Mechanical Music the quality of Real Music.

* * *

Banishment of Living Music represents a loss for the theatre patron. Is this loss balanced by the substitution of Mechanical Music?

A very great many theatre-goers will answer:

"NO!"

Then why should the aforementioned American people, who pay so generously for entertainment, be required to take less for their money than they were wont to get?

GREENEVILLE

GIVEN MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER BY FRIENDS

Miss Alice N. Fitzgerald of North Main street was tendered a miscellaneous surprise shower Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Raymond Portelance, 18 Rock street. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Portelance and Miss Helen Breault, who officiated as hostesses throughout the evening.

The home of Mrs. Portelance was appropriately decorated with Christmas colors. There was an abundance of beautiful and useful gifts for the bride-to-be and these were placed in a large box, which Santa Claus, impersonated by Mrs. Portelance, carried. From the box Santa distributed the presents to Miss Fitzgerald. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Among those present were the Misses Mary Ulrich, Mary McGrath, Julia Ulrich, Ann Hazem, Flora Woodmansee, Alice McNally, Gladys Carruthers, Doris Buteau, Josephine Pusateri, Inez Edmiston, Helen Breault, Alice Fitzgerald, Catherine Driscoll, Mrs. Frederick Freeman, Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Raymond Portelance. Miss Fitzgerald is to be married on Monday, December 23, at St. Mary's church to Donald McGrath of New London.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Michael Pusateri.

Sunday morning at 5.50 o'clock Mary Elizabeth Blake, wife of Michael Pusateri, of Central avenue, passed away after a short illness at the W. W. Backus hospital. She was born on May 20, 1909, the daughter of the late John W. and Mrs. Blake of Jewett City. She was united in marriage with Michael Pusateri on January 24, 1929. She spent most of her life in Jewett City and received her education at St. Mary's parochial school and also attended Plainfield high school. The deceased is survived by her husband and one daughter of a few days, Mary Elizabeth, her mother, Mrs. John W. Blake of Jewett City, four brothers, David A. Blake of Providence, John W. Blake, Jr., Edward and William Blake, all of Jewett City, two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Veronica White of Providence and Mrs. Catharine Murray, also of Providence. She was a devoted member of St. Mary's Memorial church. Mrs. Pusateri has a large circle of friends in this vicinity who upon learning of her untimely death will be grieved and will extend their heartfelt sympathy to the members of her immediate family.

Anniversary Masses Held.

Anniversary masses of requiem at St. Mary's Memorial church the past week were: Wednesday, 7.30 o'clock the first for John P. Sullivan, formerly of Holyoke, Mass., and Saturday morning at the same hour for James D'Atri. Both masses were offered by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe, with relatives and family friends present. Mrs. Michael J. Farrell had charge of the musical portion of the mass.

William Carroll of Waterbury spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll of Mowry avenue.

CENTRAL STATION CHRISTMAS TREE LIGHTED NIGHTLY

As has been the custom in past years the evergreen tree in the yard at the central fire station on Chestnut street has been trimmed with vari-colored lights transforming it into a Christmas tree. The work was done by Chief Henry R. Taft and several members of the department. The tree is lighted at night and offers a beautiful spectacle.

Spent Week End Here

George S. Brown, formerly superintendent of the Ashland Cotton Co., now associated with the Cabot mills, Brunswick, Me., spent the week end in Norwich, visiting an aunt, Mrs. Josephine McKiernan, who is seriously ill.

POLICE ARREST FOUR MEN ON AUTO AND BREACH OF PEACE CHARGES

Four arrests on auto, bad check and breach of the peace charges were made over the week end by the local police, and all of the accused will be presented in the city court this (Monday morning. Early Sunday evening Harry Smith, New London business man, of No. 610 Main street, that city, was arrested at Franklin square by Officer Hugh McAvoy on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. According to the charge, Smith pulled out from the curb, suddenly, and without warning, and as a result his machine and an automobile driven by Robert Frey, of No. 84 Rowe avenue, Hartford, collided. After being booked at police headquarters, Smith was released on bonds for his appearance in the city court this morning.

Rubin K. Kerachsky, 21, of Leonard Bridge, was arrested Sunday by State Police Officer Johnson on a bad check charge. He was booked and locked up in default of bonds of $500.

Late Saturday night, John Broderick, 31, of Taftville, was arrested in the vicinity of Franklin square on a charge of breach of the peace and intoxication. The arrest was made by Officer Hugh McAvoy.

Sunday, Daniel Ziezunk, otherwise known as "Big Dan" got into trouble on the West Side and was arrested by Officer Albert Lamphere on a breach of peace charge.

WINTER CAMP INSPECTED BY SCOUT EXECUTIVE

Scout Executive John L. Sellman, was a guest Saturday afternoon of Scout Executive Fred Hill and Field Scout Executive Arthur Adams of Hartford. According to Mr. Sellman he was taken out for a tour of inspection of Camp Pioneer, the Hartford council scout camp, which the local Boy Scout council plans to use as a winter camp. Mr. Sellman was enthusiastic in his description of the camp. The camp is 1,000 feet above sea level, in the midst of a forest many square miles in area, with a large waterfront on a natural lake. Evergreen trees are especially in abundance, the growth being quite large, almost forest primevial.

Tentative plans for the camp to be held from December 26th to January 1, include a trip across the great ravine to another mountain, skiing, skating, sailboat skating, canoeing during thaws, team games, individual camping in lean tos if weather permits, patrol unit camping under patrol leadership, hikes, evening dramatics, stunts, and campfire. Handicraft contemplated includes the making of one article of leathercraft, a pocket-book, watch-fob, knife sheath, etc., by every camper, carpentry on model bridges, rafts, signalling towers, etc., carving, some metal work. Opportunity will be provided for archery and for the making of bows and arrows. As an objective towards which the campers may work, an exhibit of all handicraft made at camp, it is planned, will be placed on display in a store window downtown.

The campers will probably use but four of the many buildings. It is planned to sleep in the warmest building in the camp which overlooks the lake front and which has a big fireplace and three stoves in it. Indoor games will be played in the recreation hall on wintry days where a large fireplace will warm the room sufficiently for games of indoor baseball, soccer, or team games, or drills, and wrestling.

Lean tos will be used on warm days by older scouts. An older boys patrol will have their own cabin if they desire and will be permitted to do their own cooking if desired.

Several requests have come to headquarters to permit tenderfoot scouts to attend the camp, and after a conference with Mr. Hill, Saturday, it was determined that both councils should make enrollment in the camp open to any scout regardless of rank.

According to Scout Executive Sellman, there is an abundance of equipment. In case of zero weather all scouts can be housed in the house at the lake which with one fireplace and three stoves will prove warm enough to withstand the coldest night.

Another objective scouts will be able to realize at camp will be that of meeting the requirements for second class, first class or a score of merit badges.

Though a skeleton program of activities is being drawn up for the week, the boys themselves will for the most part determine their own program, through a patrol leader's conference held at the close or at the beginning of each day, where all activities will be discussed and agreed upon.

Several enrollments have been received at the local headquarters. Scouts planning to enroll should do so at once.

CHRISTMAS ACTIVITIES AT CONN. COLLEGE

The Christmas spirit is already manifesting itself at Connecticut college. There is not only the excited undercurrent of pleased anticipation among the students which always precedes a vacation—there are also more tangible evidence. A tall Christmas tree has been set up in a prominent position near the college library, and another will be trimmed in front of President Blunt's residence. Several students are occupied with dressing the dolls which are sent yearly from the college to cheer the Christmas season of a group of children in Kentucky. Rehearsals are being held and plans made for the particular events which will take place next week before the students leave for their respective homes Thursday.

NORWICH TOWN

"WHEN THE GREAT GUEST CAME' WAS SUBJECT OF SERMON

The pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning based his sermon on Edward Markham's poem, "When The Great Guest Came." He took for his text Matthew 25:40, "And the King answered and said, Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me." The poem tells the story of how Christ came not to a King or Wise Man, but to a common, everyday man, a cobbler named conrad. The Junior choir under the direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich sang an anthem, "The First Noel" Doris Rose and Alice Brown were in charge of the C. E. service and had for their subject, "What Have Young People To Give."

"Of Such Is The Kingdom," was the subject of the stereopticon lecture which the pastor gave at the evening service. Ralph Smith operated the stereopticon machine and showed 70 pictures during the lecture. There was a large attendance. Donald Olsen and Clayton Rose, Boy Scouts, acted as ushers.

Scouts To Make Wreaths.

At a meeting Friday night of the Boy Scouts of Troop 2, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church there was an attendance of 19. The scouts voted to make Christmas wreaths and the work is to be in charge of Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen. The meeting Friday night was in charge of Patrol Leader Clayton Rose who acted as scoutmaster. The Flying Eagle Patrol won the interpatrol contest. The scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter, took charge of the business period of the meeting and suggested a number of new things for the socuts to do.

SEEK TO PRESERVE POST-GAGER CEMETERY

The Huntington Family association at a luncheon meeting, Saturday, in New York city adopted a resolution urging preservation of the Post-Gager cemetery in Norwich Town.

"The graves have been allowed to fall into neglect," the association said in a statement, adding that it was unfortunate that "a spot of such historical interest should be allowed to fall into decay."

The statement said that numerous persons important in the history of Connecticut and the nation are buried in the cemetery.

Auto Driver Fined.

The continued case of Steve Takman of Jewett City, charged with operating a machine without a driver's license, came up again in the city court Saturday morning and the accused was fined $25 and costs. A continuance was granted from last Wednesday to allow Takman to raise money to pay the fine. He was arrested here last Tuesday by State Police Officer Smith of the Groton barracks.

New London Auxiliary To Aid.

The Christmas activities of John Coleman Prince auxiliary unit No. 9, American Legion, of New London, were planned at a special meeting in Union lodge rooms Friday night at which Mrs. Isabel Davidson, the new president, presided.

It was voted to pack four Christmas boxes for the veterans in the Norwich state hospital at Preston and at Uncas-on-Thames, which is the unit's share in this district.

CARPENTER EMPLOYES HELD ANNUAL CHRISTMAS OFFICE

The annual Christmas party of the Carpenter Manufacturing company was enjoyed Thursday evening at grange hall, Norwich Town, with an excellent chicken supper and a fine programme of entertainment. The supper was served by members of the Ladies' Guild of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, the tables being attractively arranged in the dining room. There were favors of paper hats and noisemakers at each place.

At the close of the dinner, during which the song leader, Walter Wilson led in the singing, Santa Claus impersonated by William House arrived and distributed the gifts from the tree. The gathering then repaired to the dance hall, where the entertainment programme was given by employes of the different departments of the plant, C. B. Vanderwaart announcing the numbers. The songs and jokes on the various employes were greatly enjoyed.

The following was the programme: Overture, Mohegan orchestra; play, "Marie's Proposal," by "The Carpenter Kids," Dorothy Parsons, director, Thelma Marsh, Julia Ustic, Beatrice Payne, Mary Faragaso, Mary Yletz, Russell Carden and Edward Lord; song, "Am I Blue," Mary Faragaso; playlet, "Jonesville's Board of Assessors" by "The Happy Weavers," Blanche Jello, Katherine Toscano, Clara Duhaime, Winfred Nutter, Margaret Keeley, Helen Glinski and Dolores Ruszenas; chorus by "The Jolly Ballers," Blanche Gagne, Lena Heberding, Carolyn Pillar, Eleanor Podurgiel, Sophie Koloazej; series of "Historical Events" during the past year, harmoniously rendered by "The Carpenter Humming Birds," Robert Wilson, Charles Carpenter, William House, Edward Lord, Edward Aubin, Russell Carden, and Messrs. Kenyon and Vanderwaart.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until midnight with the Mohegan orchestra furnishing the music.

NORWICH SOLOIST BROADCAST FROM HARTFORD STATION

Mrs. Reuben P. Potter, of New London turnpike, well known Norwich vocalist, was on the air Saturday morning from 10.15 to 10.30, from station WTIC, Hartford. Many of her Norwich friends listened in on the 15 minute programme, which was splendidly rendered. Mrs. Potter's programme was as follows;

Still as the Night (Bohm); The Rosy Morn (Ronald); A Prayer For You; Were I a Star (Hawley); Thoughts Have Wings.... ... .

Sugar Cane From Florida.

Small cuts of sugar cane have been received by a number of persons in Groton from Capt. Charles Ferguson of that place who is now in Florida. Captain Ferguson commands the houseboat Moonlight, owned by James L. Hubbard of Norwich, which sailed from Groton for the peninsula.

Woman Hurt In Accident

A taxicab owned by the Luxor Cab Taxi Co., Nick Mooney, proprietor, and driven by Jesse Main of this city, was damaged Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock on Norwich avenue, Taftville. The machine is understood to have become caught in the trolley tracks, swerved over to the left side of the highway and crashed into a retaining wall. A woman passenger is said to have suffered a fractured ankle. The car had its front end damaged to the extent of about $75.

ELKS DISTRIBUTE GIFTS AT SEASIDE SANATORIUM

Through the courtesy of the welfare committee of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. Elks, the patients at Seaside sanatorium, Niantic, enjoyed a fine programme of entertainment Sunday afternoon and also were the recipients of gifts. Over 250 gifts were distributed among the patients by Santa Claus. Music was furnished by Fred Thumm's orchestra. Richard Disco impersonated a clown and Alton Day gave two cornet selections. Candy, crackerjack and ice cream were also given to the patients.

Tonight (Monday) members of the welfare committee will visit Uncas-on-Thames and on Friday night the New London County home.

OFFICER McFADEN TAKEN TO BACKUS HOSPITAL

Suffering from a bad attack of the grippe Officer Charles McFadden of the local police force, was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital Sunday morning by his physician, Dr. Albert C. Freeman. Officer McFadden was reported Sunday night as resting comfortably.

NEARING COMPLETION OF SPAIN TO BRAZIL FLIGHT

Uruguyan Ace and French Aviator Expect to Land at Natal, Brazil, and to Reach Their Goal, Montevideo, Tuesday—Were Reported Monday Morning About 1,000 Miles From the Brazilian Coast—Are Keeping Near an Average Speed of 100 Miles an Hour—Weather Conditions Are Favorable—Later Dispatches Said It Was Feared an Emergency Landing Had Been Made.

(By The Associated Press)

An airman of the new world and an airman of the old have nearly completed another non-stop flight across the South Atlantic ocean from Europe to South America.

Major Tadeo Larre-Borges, Uruguayan ace, and Lieut. Leon Challe, noted French aviator, were nearing the South American coast Monday evening after a fast flight from Seville, Spain. They expected to make their land-fall at Natal, Brazil, and to reach Montevideo, Uruguay, their goal, on Tuesday.

The aviators, who left Seville at 12:40 p. m., Sunday (7:40 a. m., E. S. T.), were sighted at several points along the African coast and kept in touch with radio stations on both sides of the Atlantic. Their reports showed that they were making fast time, keeping near an average of 100 miles an hour.

A message received Monday morning at Fernando Do Noronha, an island off the Brazilian coast, gave the position of the airplane as 8 degrees latitude north and 28 degrees longitude west, which placed them about 1,000 miles from the Brazilian coast.

The aviators, while asking about weather conditions in the afternoon, reported that all was well on board. The weather bureau at Rio Janeiro said that conditions were favorable along the coast.

FEAR PLANE HAS MADE EMERGENCY LANDING

(By The Associated Press)

Growing fears have replaced the confidence with which observers had watched the progress of Major Tadeo Larre-Borges and Lieutenant Leon Challe on their attempted flight from Seville, Spain, to Montevideo, Uruguay.

The Uruguyan major and his French comrade had reeled off in exceptional time, judging by apparently well authenticated reports, the first 3,000 miles of their projected 6,000-mile non-stop journey.

The last definite sighting of the white Breguet plane was from a ship south of the Cape Verde Islands but thereafter came radio requests from the fliers for weather information and messages which seemed to indicate that all was well with the trans-Atlantic craft.

The French air ministry formally announced that the aviators had reached St. Paul Rock, a tiny speck of outcropping only 465 miles from easternmost Brazil, but this was unconfirmed from South American sources. Rio Janeiro reported growing anxiety there and Pernambuco, near where the men had been expected to strike the South American coast, had no cheering word.

Observers were quick to point out that the chances of an unobserved emergency landing on that wild coast but as Monday night wore on it seemed increasing certain that the men who left Seville on Sunday had failed to reach their objective without a stop.

TESTIMONY IN DEFENSE OF DEPUTY SHERIFFS

BURNSVILLE, N. C., Dec. 16—(AP)—Further testimony to support a plea of self defense was introduced today in the trial of eight deputy sheriffs charged with second degree murder in connection with the deaths of six men in a cotton mill strike disorder, at Marion, on October 2.

Sheriff Oscar Adkins, of Marion, who led his men to the scene of the battle in front of the gate to the Marion Manufacturing company mill, was a witness today. He corroborated testimony of other defense witnesses that the officers fired into a crowd of strikers after it had advanced upon them and threatened their lives.

The sheriff told of arriving at the mill and finding strikers blocking the gate to prevent non-striking workers from entering it. That was at about 6:30 a. m., on October 2. The strike had been called hurriedly at one o'clock that morning.

"I pleaded with the crowd to allow loyal workers to enter the mill for the 7 a. m. shift," the sheriff said. "I told them these people have as much right to go to work as you have to strike."

He declared he made repeated appeals to the strikers "only to be jeered down, cursed and threatened."

He released tear gas in the crowd, Adkins said, "then they rushed the gate." He said the shooting started soon after that but he saw little of it because "as soon as I turned the tear gas loose old man Jonas (James Jonas, one of the men killed) hit me with a stick and we grappled until after the shooting stopped."

HEFLIN BARRED FROM ALABAMA DEM. PRIMARY

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 16—(AP)—The state democratic executive committee today barred United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin, a candidate to succeed himself, and Hugh A. Locke, of Birmingham, a gubernatorial candidate, from the Alabama democratic primary next year because of their refusal to support Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee in last year's general election.

By a vote of 27 to 21, the committee decided to bar from the democratic primary August 12, 1930, all candidates for federal, state, district or circuit offices who supported President Hoover. County offices were not affected by the committee ruling, the matter being left to the discretion of the county committees.

While Heflin and Locke are barred from the democratic primary by the ruling, the former announced today in Washington he would again be a candidate. Both Senator Heflin and Mr. Locke are expected to campaign as independent democrats.

The resolution to bar party "bolters" was introduced by E. A. Lynne, of Decatur, a former speaker of the state house of representatives and a prominent prohibitionist.

N. Y. SUES TO RECOVER EXCESS OF FAIR PRICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—The city of New York today brought suit against Maurice E. Connolly, former Queens borough president, and four others for $127,230, the sum alleged to be in excess of a fair price charged the city for concrete sewer pipes used in a sewer construction project in the fourth ward in Queens.

A suit was filed by the city last December against Connolly, Seeley, the Phillips estate and 27 other defendants for $10,000,000, alleged to have been paid out in graft on the Queens sewer projects.

THE VANDERBILT—COLBY MARRIAGE DECEMBER 27

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — (AP) — The marriage of Miss Anne Gordon Colby of West Orange, N. J., to William H. Vanderbilt of New York and Newport, R. I., whose engagement was announced today, will take place on Dec. 27 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby, West Orange.

Only close relatives and a few intimate friends of the couple will attend.

SELECTING JURY FOR FRANKLIN MURDER TRIAL

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 16.—(AP)—While a grand jury sought to establish the identity of a man who claims to be the reputed murder victim, selection of a jury was started in circuit court here late today for the trial of four of five men charged with murdering Connie Franklin.

When court recessed for the night, nine jurors for the most part mountaineer farmers, had been accepted by both sides.

Only four of the accused men are being tried. The other, Alex Fulks, is named in a separate indictment and his alleged connection with the case was said to be different from that of the others, Herman Greenway, Joe White, Hubert Hester and Bill Younger.

Before the trial was started the grand jury reconvening simultaneously with the court, called before it the man who says he is Franklin. For two hours he was questioned by the grand jury and Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williamson.

HUCKINS IS EVADING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 16—(AP)—George S. Huckins, co-defendant with his father, Elmer S. Huckins, and mother, Amelia Huckins of Hancock, Wis., in a civil suit seeking to recover $3,150 invested in a concern operated by them which has paid investors 26 to 52 per cent, had left Cedar Rapids today. His attorney, Walter J. Barngrover, upon whom a writ of attachment was served today, admitted the younger Huckins had left "at least temporarily."

Barngrover said he did not know where Huckins had gone. He admitted that an automobile was assigned to him by Huckins, and that the car was attached by Sheriff Harry Manchester today.

Manchester also served papers on William Saunders, caretaker of the Huckins' home, attaching household goods and another automobile held by Saunders, who was found by deputies attempting to find Huckins to be the only occupant of the house.

BUSINESS ACCOMPLISHED BY CONGRESS YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—Congress went into high gear today and almost set a record for itself in the accomplishment of business.

Both the senate and the house passed the Dill bill extending the life of the radio commission indefinitely and sent it to the white house.

Here is the rest of the business accomplished:

Senate: Passed house bill ratifying settlement of $4,025,000,000 French war debt; adopted resolution authorizing study into re-organization of prohibition enforcement agencies; confirmed a score of nominations.

House: Passed Elliott bill authorizing $230,000,000 public building program; bills authorizing $9,747,000 for a new supreme court building in Washington and a $14,000,000 hospital construction measure.

Also the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution was sent to the white house from the capitol today and was signed by President Hoover.

FOUR WOMEN BURNED TO DEATH IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16—(AP)—Trapped in the upper floors while nearly 1,000 tons of paper burned, four women lost their lives, another is missing and believed to have lost her life, and 150 others were injured today when fire swept the four story building of the Thomas H. O'Connor Paper company in the downtown railroad district of Baltimore.

The fire, of undetermined origin, started apparently on the second floor, sweeping to the upper floors where between 75 and a 100 men and women were working.

More than 50 of the workers fled down fire escapes.

Fire department officials expressed the belief that those who perished had gone to the cloak rooms to recover their purses before attempting to leave the building.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

VIENNA, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Excerpts from a further batch of official pre-war documents made public showed that former Emperor Wilhelm of Germany held the Slavic states of the Balkans in considerable contempt.

TOKYO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Optimistic reports of conditions under Russian soviet control west of the Khingan mountains in Manchuria, reached officials here, detracting somewhat from other uneasiness at press reports of delays to the international consular train.

PLAN BROAD INVESTIGATION INTO CONDITIONS IN HAITI

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Plans for a broad investigation into conditions in Haiti and United States government policies toward that country were made today in the house as word reached Washington that the situation there had improved.

With quiet being gradually restored after the recent outbreaks that caused President Hoover to report his request for congress to authorize a commission to study the problems there, the government took steps to recall the cruiser Galveston from its trip to Haitian waters.

Reports also were received that the curfew law which has been in effect since the beginning of the disorders has been lifted, although martial law still is in effect.

A revised resolution giving a commission of seven six months to investigate conditions in the island republic and the American policies toward it was introduced as a foreign affairs committee measure late today. The president would appoint the commission.

The resolution will come before the foreign affairs committee tomorrow for action in the hope that it will be ready to be brought before the house Wednesday.

RAIDED DEALERS IN INVESTMENT SECURITIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP) — Two assistant United States attorneys today led a raid on the offices of Graham Taylor and company, dealers in investment securities and arrested one man, who, they said, was not one of the "big guns" they sought.

Assistant United States Attorney Lowell Wadmond said information furnished by post office inspectors indicated that "more than $1,000,000 had been taken from suckers by the gang operating under Graham Taylor and company's name within six months."

When the raiders arrived at the offices, on Madison avenue, they found a recently engaged stenographer and Charles Morris, 30. They arrested Morris. Torn papers were scattered about the place.

FRENCH PREMIER DEFENDED HIMSELF IN CHAMBERS

PARIS, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Premier Andre Tardieu tonight borrowed a phrase from the once wild west of the United States to defend himself from one of the strongest offensives yet launched against his ministry in the chamber of deputies.

"Don't shoot the piano player, he is doing the best he can," the premier appealed to the deputies. Then he explained "That is an American argument, that is what they used to say in American frontier towns."

Carrying on his metaphor the premier argued that he as the player was rendering the best possible tune for France. This seemed to soothe the wildest of the opposition and Louis Frossard, socialist, and Julien Durand, radical, both agreed to withdraw their interpellations of the government.

STRIKE OF COAL MINERS IN ILLINOIS MAY END TOMORROW

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Coal operators said tonight that the present strike of the National Miners' union in the Taylorville coal fields appears destined to end by Wednesday unless unexpected developments occur in the meantime. A similar opinion was expressed by leaders of the United Mine Workers of America, whose organization has opposed the strike.

Four of the six Christian county mines which were the principal targets of the walkout a week ago were back in operation today.

The two mines not yet working are No. 7 and No. 9 of the Peabody Coal Co. and miners of No. 9 met tonight to decide about going back to work. Many of the miners expressed the belief that they would get back in the pits tomorrow and others believed they would be working again by Wednesday, at least.

BRITISH LABOR GOVT. TO FACE CRUCIAL TEST TODAY

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Tomorrow the labor government faces a critical test, when second reading of its highly important coal mines bill is moved, the government will meet motions of rejection from both the liberal and conservative quarters of the house.

Consultation between Stanley Baldwin, conservative leader, and his "shadow cabinet" today resulted in the drafting of a conservative amendment for rejection of the bill, framed in a manner intended to bring the liberals into the division. It will move merely delay of the bill for six months, without stating any reason. As the conservatives have priority over any liberal amendment, the liberals are faced with the necessity of deciding whether they are willing to vote with the conservatives or not.

FRENCH FLIER AFTER NEW WORLD DISTANCE RECORD

AVIGNON, France, Dec. 16.—(AP) — Dieudonne Coste, French holder of the world distance record for straight line flights, at 10:50 tonight had been aloft 36 hours and had covered approximately 3,799 miles toward setting a new world distance record over a measured, closed circuit course.

At that time he dropped a note saying: "Have saved thus far 70 gallons of gasoline. Expect to remain in the air 57 hours and reach close to 10,000 kilometers (more than 6,000 miles)."

20 PERSONS WOUNDED IN GREEK CATHOLIC CHURCH

LWOW (Lemberg), Poland, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Twenty persons were wounded today in a fight inside a Greek Catholic church between Ukrainian irridentists and another Ukrainian group. Some of the irridentists fought their way into the church while others remained outside singing the Ukrainian anthem. The police restored order and arrested the leaders.

Widespread Revolt In China Checked

Had For a Few Days Threatened Collapse of Nationalist Government.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 16.—(AP)—China's nationalist government appeared tonight to have checked, at least temporarily, the widespread revolt which for a few days seemed certain to cause its collapse.

The principal areas concerned were: First, the territory about Canton; second, the region north of Hankow; third, the section north of Pukow, where the Pukow mutineers apparently were unable further to maintain their revolt against the government.

About Canton the rebels were reported crushed and the nationalists again in firm control.

North of Hankow the nationalists were reported to have begun a drive northward which was expected to result in the collapse of the insurgents of that area under General Tang Yun-Sheng.

North of Pukow the Nanking forces claimed also to have the rebels in a precarious condition.

As a result of these changes, the swiftness of which frequently is characteristic of Chinese political and military developments, the nationalist government again seems capable of maintaining at least normal control over defecting areas.

Although the Nanking government's fortunes had improved greatly in recent days, many factors remained decidedly unsettled. The majority of Nanking's foreign population remained in Shanghai, but two American missionaries returned to Nanking tonight to investigate the possibility of the entire group returning. Nanking reports, however, indicated that apprehension still prevailed. Therefore, it was considered unlikely that foreigners would re-enter Nanking for the present.

Additional foreign men of war have arrived at Nanking, while the British and Japanese consular authorities have completed plans for defending their respective consulate properties in the event of unheard events. The plans include the erection of sandbag defenses and the laying in of large supplies of foodstuffs.

Should there be trouble forces from the British and Japanese war ships are expected to man their respective consulate defenses.

TEN MILLS OF AMERICAN WOOLEN CO. TO SHUT DOWN

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Ten mills operated in New England by the American Woolen company will be closed between January 1 and 15, 1930, it was said at the company's offices here today. The shutdown will throw between 1200 and 1500 men out of work.

The mills affected were: Sebasticook and Waverly mills, Pittsfield, Me.; Newport mills, Newport, Me.; Oakland mills, Oakland, Me.; Forest mills, Bridgeton, Me.; Lebanon mills, Lebanon, N. H.; Saranac mills, Blackstone; Rochdale mills, Rochdale; Ray mills, Franklin; Winchester mills, Norwich, Conn.

For the past year or more these mills have been employing only between 120 and 150 men apiece, although their capacity is much greater. The shutdown has been ordered, company officials said, because of dwindling orders. Although they hope to re-open them, no date for the resumption of operations has been set.

All the plants are numbered among the company's smaller mills.

MEXICO TO CLOSE ITS CONSULATE AT LAREDO, TEX.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Mexican foreign office announced tonight that, effective Dec. 17, the Mexican consulate at Laredo, Texas, would be closed. The department of interior announced simultaneously that permission granted some time ago to the Laredo chamber of commerce to issue tourist cards for entry into Mexico would be rescinded.

Both actions were considered here as retaliation for the attitude of John Valls, district attorney at Laredo, toward General Plutarco Elias Calles, whom he has charged in a murder warrant with complicity in death of a Mexican at Laredo several years ago.

Closing of the consulate means that merchandise entering Mexico through Laredo must be approved by the consulate at some other point, possibly either Corpus Christi, San Antonio or Houston.

The action might be expected seriously to affect Mexican imports by way of Laredo.

The withdrawal of the permit of the Laredo chamber of commerce to issue tourist cards to persons wishing to cross into Mexico through Laredo would mean that they would have to go elsewhere to obtain an entry card.

JUAN O. RAMOS PLEADED GUILTY TO EMBEZZLEMENT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Juan O. Ramos, prominent in the political and military life of Mexico, and at one time Mexican ambassador to England, today pleaded guilty to the embezzlement of approximately $50,000 from the United States National bank of Los Angeles. He will be sentenced Jan. 6 in federal court.

Ramos was manager of the Latin-American division of the bank.

He fled the country following the embezzlement and was located by government agents in Amsterdam. He was reported to have declared there that he had used the money to promote a Mexican revolution, and resisted efforts to return him here on the contention that his offense was a political one.

COMMITTED SUICIDE BY LEAPING FROM BRIDGE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Telling two men with whose cars his automobile had collided that he would see that their damages were taken care of, Carl H. Tiedemann, 40, president of the Beckman Co., woolen goods manufacturers, walked to the railing of the Clark avenue bridge today and leaped to his death on railroad tracks 58 feet below the bridge level.

When the two men scrambled down to the tracks, Tiedemann was dead. They said Tiedemann readily admitted that he was in the wrong and that there had been no argument.

Tiedemann's family and business associates could advance no reason for his act.

To Devise Means For "Dry" Enforcement

Senate Has Ordered Study by Joint Congressional Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP) — A study into means of reorganizing the prohibition enforcement agencies by a joint congressional committee was ordered today by the senate in response to the request made several months ago by President Hoover.

The resolution to that end by Senator Jones republican, Washington, was adopted without a word of debate. House approval is necessary before the committee can function.

The resolution authorizes the committee "to conduct an investigation and make a study of the reorganization and concentration of responsibility in the administration of the federal bureaus connected with prohibition enforcement, together with the unification and strengthening of our border patrols, both in connection with prohibition and the illegal entry of aliens and to formulate recommendations and submit proposed legislation to carry out the foregoing for consideration of congress."

The committee would be composed of three members each from the senate and house to be appointed by Vice President Curtis and Speaker Longworth respectively.

In his message to congress, President Hoover recommended the transfer of the prohibition enforcement service from the treasury to the justice department. Last summer in a special message to congress he urged the appointment of the congressional committee to study how this might be accomplished.

SIX NEW CARDINALS CREATED BY THE POPE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI today created six new cardinals at a secret consistory and emphasized his high hopes for the future with the solution of the "Roman question" in his allocution to the College of Cardinals.

Three of the new cardinals are Italians and three non-Italians, and they bring the rolls of the sacred college to a total of 62 out of a full membership of 70.

The six new cardinals are Archbishop Cerejeira, of Lisbon; Archbishop Laviatrano, of Palermo, Sicily; Archbishop Minoretti, of Genoa; Archbishop Verdier, of Paris, who recently succeeded the late Cardinal Dubois; Archbishop MacRoy, of Armagh, Ireland, St. Patrick's original see, and Mgr. Eugenio Pacelli, papal nuncio to Berlin.

In the allocution, which was the central feature of today's simple ceremony, the pontiff said that the Lateran treaties recognized the civic independence and sovereignty of the pope and "safe-guarded your dignity and ours."

Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, was the only American prince of the church present among the assembled cardinals.

CONFESSED SLAYING WIFE AND SEVEN SMALL CHILDREN

THREE RIVERS, Que., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The confessed slayer of his wife and seven small children, Andrew Day was in a serious condition at a local hospital tonight from self-inflicted wounds.

Mrs. Day and the children, ranging in age from one to 14 years, were found dead in their beds this morning, apparently slain with an ax. A short time later, police found the husband wandering in the street with his throat slashed.

Police said Day told them he had "murdered my family" and then wrote a confession on a piece of cardboard. He opened his coat at the throat and exhibited his wounds to policemen, saying they were self-inflicted.

REPORTS OF CAPTURE OF TWO RUM SCHOONERS

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Reports of the capture of two rum running schooners by customs officials off Nova Scotia were received by the minister of national revenue today.

Capt. John McCarthy of the customs boat Fleur de Lis reported the seizure of the schooner Frances Smith with 5,000 gallons of rum nine miles off Cape Liave, N. S.

The schooner Minnie May was captured with a liquor cargo near North Sydney, N. S., when its crew attempted to beach the ship, according to a report from Capt. L. Fraser of the customs service. The report said the schooner's crew put up a desperate battle but the vessel was seized.

WOULD PROVIDE MEDICAL TREATMENT FOR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A United States board of 20 psychiatrists to prescribe treatment for all mentally deranged veterans in the care of the government and for other veterans who will submit their cases would be created under a bill introduced today by Representative Black, democrat New York.

It would authorize an appropriation of $5,000,000. Similar legislation was proposed at the last session but failed of passage.

APPOINTED KEEPER OF AUBURN STATE PRISON

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Edward E. Beckwith was appointed principal keeper of Auburn state prison this afternoon by Dr. Frank L. Christian, acting warden, after a conference with Warden Edgar S. Jennings. The appointment was confirmed by Raymono F. C. Kleb, state commissioner of correction.

Beckwith, member of the guard who was one of the heroes of the convict uprising of last week, succeeds George A. Durnford, killed in the riot.

FOUND HIS WIFE AND DAUGHTER FROZEN TO DEATH

HAVRE, Mont., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Returning home with a Christmas tree and supplies for the holiday season, Guy Pratt, Hill county rancher, found his wife and small daughter frozen to death.

In the absence of her husband, Mrs Pratt had set out with the child to visit a neighbor a mile and a half away. Wading through deep snow with the girl in her arms, she fell exhausted a quarter of a mile from her destination and the two perished

$160,000,000 INCOME TAX REDUCTION BILL SIGNED

President Hoover Affixed His Signature to the Measure in the Presence Only of Two of His Secretaries—Statement by the Treasury Shows Rates on Income Under the Old Law, Under the New and the Amount of the Reductions—Refunding Agreement of the $4,025,000,000 French War Debt Was Voted in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Income tax reduction of $160,000,000, was enacted into law today when President Hoover signed the joint congressional resolution providing for the slash.

The chief executive affixed his signature in the presence only of two of his secretaries, George Akerson and Lawrence Richey, using the pen with which he transacts routine business.

Thus, the American income taxpaying public was assured a reduction of one per cent upon normal personal and corporation levies to be paid next year.

The measure had been sent to the treasury department, where Secretary Mellon quickly gave his approval. A treasury messenger returned the document to the white house and the president signed it immediately after it was laid upon his desk.

Enactment of the legislation, which was the first to complete the congressional circuit in the regular session, was finished all but for Mr. Hoover's signature when the senate gave its approval Saturday by a vote of 63 to 14.

The tax cut was advocated by the administration early this fall and won speedy approval from both republican and democratic leaders, many of whom believed that it would help to give assurances that business conditions were sound. In the senate, however, a number of western republican independents voted against the measure after assailing it as a gift to the rich.

Republican regular and democratic spokesmen supported the contention of administration officials that the tax cut would help the economic situation and would aid business conditions throughout the country.

Only meager opposition developed to the tax resolution in the house.

SENATE RATIFIES FRENCH WAR DEBT AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—Ratification of the agreement for refunding the $4,025,000,000 French war debt, was voted today by the senate, thus enacting into law the last of the settlements negotiated by the United States debt commission.

The 53 to 21 ballot followed a brief debate during which Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, assailed the terms as too lenient and protested that the settlement amounted almost to cancellation.

The agreement was negotiated by a special French commission, headed by former Ambassador Berenger, with the American commission under the leadership of Secretary Mellon. It provides for payments for a 62-year period, the total with interest amounting to $8,847,674,104. France ratified the settlement last July.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee sponsored the house bill ratifying the debt and said "the settlement represents France's ability to pay." This was the basis of the debt accords negotiated by the debt commission.

As a result of the settlements with the 15 debtor nations, this country will receive $32,206,275,638 over a 62-year period on account of its war-time loans amounting to $9,863,318,802. The total funded indebtedness of the fifteen nations was put at $11,579,468,886, including interest due at the time of the settlements.

This will bring into the treasury annually something over $200,000,000, the agreements providing for payments on a graduated scale. Great Britain negotiated an agreement in 1922 for a 62-year refunding of its $4,600,000,000 debt. Russia and Armenia are the only two debtor nations which have not come to terms. The soviet government repudiated the loans negotiated under the czarist regime.

The treasury today received payments amounting to $98,657,973 from nine foreign countries on account of their war debt settlements. Great Britain paid $93,795,000 in making its 14th semi-annual payment. The remainder was paid as follows:

Belgium, $1,375,000; Czechoslovakia, $1,500,000; Esthonia, $125,000; Finland, $183,650; Hungary, $40,218; Latvia, $85,000; Lithuania, $94,075 and Poland, $1,500,000.

INCOME TAX RATES UNDER THE OLD LAW AND NEW LAW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A statement prepared by the treasury shows the rates of income made under the old law, under the new law and the amount of the reductions, as follows:

Net Income	Present Rate	New Rate	Reduction
$ 4,000	$ 5.63	$ 1.88	$ 3.75
5,000	16.88	5.63	11.25
6,000	30.00	10.00	20.00
7,000	43.13	14.38	28.75
8,000	73.75	26.25	47.50
9,000	91.88	45.63	46.25
10,000	120.00	65.00	55.25
11,000	156.25	92.50	67.50
12,000	202.50	130.00	72.50
13,000	258.75	177.50	81.25
14,000	315.00	225.00	90.00
15,000	381.25	282.50	98.75

The figures were based upon the net income of a married man with no dependents. Net income up to $5,000 is considered as earned income and more than $5,000 half of the net income is considered as earned income.

PRESIDENT HOOVER MET JAPANESE DELEGATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.— (AP) — Hopeful for the success of the London naval conference, the Japanese delegation to the parley today clasped hands with President Hoover in the white house in a common desire for the ending of competitive building of sea armaments.

The call of the Japanese commission was confined to exchanges of courtesies preparatory to conferences which the delegates will have with the president, Secretary Stimson, and other American officials during the remaining three days of their stay in Washington. The visit was made to Washington in order to have talks with American government officials preliminary to the sailing of the Japanese for London to attend the opening Jan. 21.

Calls also were made upon Secretaries Stimson and Adams, who, with high officials of their departments, welcomed the delegates upon their arrival at union station this morning.

CHANGE IN LOCATION OF ARSENAL AT AUBURN

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Auburn prison's arsenal, containing machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, rifles, revolvers, tear gas bombs and hundreds of rounds of ammunition has been removed from its exposed location in the main hall to a more safe and strategic position in the front prison office, it was announced tonight.

This arsenal, formerly within comparatively easy reach of the institution's inmates, furnished rioters with guns when they mutinied last July, but was not reached during Wednesday's outbreak.

STEAMER SKAGWAY HAS BEEN ABANDONED, A TOTAL LOSS

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The steamer Skagway, which caught fire and went ashore two miles south of Cape Flattery at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca early today, was abandoned as a total loss at 1 p. m.

Captain E. Strandquist, master of the vessel, who refused to take to lifeboats with the rest of the crew earlier in the day, was removed by the coast guard and taken aboard the cutter Snomomish.

The 26 members of the crew were taken to the coast guard station at Neah bay just inside the mouth of the strait.

TURCO-SOVIET AMITY PACT TO BE SIGNED TODAY

ANGORA, Turkey, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A Turco-soviet amity pact will be signed here tomorrow following the terms of the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war.

Authoritative circles tonight denied the pact would contain any secret clauses. The semi-official Istanbul newspaper "Djumoiriet" said today, "this friendship is a historic necessity constituting a bulwark in one part of the world which all the world may see."

HEFLIN RESENTS EXCLUSION FROM DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)— Announcing that he would be a candidate for re-election in 1930 despite the decision of the Alabama democratic executive committee to bar him from participation in the primary Senator Heflin of Alabama said in a statement today that "the time for a house cleaning in the democratic party in Alabama has certainly arrived."

"If these dispatches are accurate," Heflin said, "it is unfortunate. I did everything in my power to have harmony and go along just like other southern states have or will do.

"The way the committee has acted is contrary to the wishes of four-fifths of the democrats of the state. It was not the good of the party nor the good of the state that prompted this action.

"Strange influences have been felt by the committee. It is indeed strange that in Alabama this action should be taken when in all the other southern states a harmony plan will be adopted.

"I do not wish to say more now than that the committee's action will be repudiated at the polls by anywhere from one hundred thousand to one hundred and fifty thousand majority."

JAPAN WILL CONTEND FOR SUBMARINE FLEET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—Authoritative Japanese sources indicated tonight that the far eastern empire would enter the London naval parley prepared to sacrifice other categories if necessary to maintain the force of submarines considered vital for defensive purposes by the Tokyo government.

The Japanese delegation to the conference, now here for conversations with American officials, probably will ask for a submarine fleet of 80,000 tons—the present approximate strength of Japan in this category.

A submarine fleet of this size is considered by the Japanese to be the minimum which would be necessary for the defense needs of their country in view of its island position and particular location.

OBITUARY

Frederick Clark Inman

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Frederick Clark Inman, retired cotton broker who once held various tennis championships, died at his home here today. He was 48 years old.

Inman was a native of Newport, R. I., and the son of the late John H. and Margaret Coffin Inman. He was graduated from Yale in 1902, and entered the firm of Inman, Swann & Co., founded by his father, with which he remained until his retirement several years ago.

He was a prominent tennis player. Inman held the 1914 Connecticut state singles title and in 1915 won the Metropolitan mixed doubles championship with Mrs. Molla Mallory, then Molla Bjurstedt. In 1916 he won the Palm Beach doubles tournament with G. M. Church.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Arthur W. Pearce and Mrs. Inman Brokaw, and one brother, Charles S. Inman.

ANOTHER THREAD CITY COP IS ASSAULTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 16.—Another policeman was victim of an assault early this morning and again the court punished the assailant with the imposition of a jail sentence. The principals in today's case, which came within 24 hours after the assault on Police Captain Frank W. McLean by William Bicknell, were Police Officer Joseph Lachappelle and Louis Rondeau of 202 Main street. Rondeau was sentenced to 40 days at the county jail in Brooklyn. The officer had gone to the Rondeau home and, on complaint of Mrs. Rondeau, placed the man under arrest. He took Rondeau to the police telephone box on lower Main street with the intention of summoning the police car from headquarters. While the officer busied himself with the telephone, Rondeau made a break for freedom. The officer grappled with the man and they wrestled about the sidewalk for about 15 minutes. Finally the officer applied the wrist twisters and got Rondeau under control. As the two men arose to their feet Rondeau struck out viciously at the officer's face and fled from the scene upon disengaging himself from the twisters. After a four-hour search, Officer Lachappelle rounded up the man and took him to police headquarters.

Rondeau had been arrested Saturday evening for intoxication and evading payment of a taxicab fare. The latter charge was dropped when he made good the amount, but on the intoxication charge he was released under bonds for his appearance in police court this morning. Early in the morning Mrs. Rondeau complained that her husband had pushed and struck her and called her vile names. It was then that Officer Lachappelle went to make the arrest.

In court today, Rondeau was charged on two counts of intoxication, assault on his wife and assault on Officer Lachappelle. Judge Frank H. Foss imposed a fine of $15 and costs on each count of intoxication, a sentence of 60 days for assault on the officer and no penalty for the alleged assault on Mrs. Rondeau, who appeared as a witness against her husband.

During the court session the case of Frederick Paces of Chestnut Hill, Lebanon, was again taken. The charge of forgery was modified to one of passing a $10 fraudulent check on the Jordan Hardware Co. The young man pleaded guilty to this charge, through Probation Officer William V. Palmer, Sr. A fine of $15 and costs was imposed and the youth placed on probation for three months. The modification of the charge followed a recommendation to that effect by Prosecutor Gaucher.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN NOT ALARMED AT SLACK TIME

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 16.—A survey of industrial conditions in the city indicated today that the widespread dullness along various lines was being felt here and that some of the plants are at present operating on short-time schedules. The situation is not critical, however, as the manufacturers regard the "spotty" business merely due to the slackness prevailing during the slow trade at this time of the year.

The American Thread Co., largest of the manufacturing groups in the city, is maintaining its plant on a regular weekly 48-hour schedule, although in some departments the employes are not employed for that length of time.

The Willimantic Silk, Inc., which resumed regular working schedules for day and night shifts of from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 5 a. m., two weeks ago, continues to enjoy healthy business.

The Rossie Velvet Co. has been operating full time for many months but is now running 24 hours a week, six hours each on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The schedule starting this week at the Windham Silk Co. is 35 hours, seven hours a day for five days, closing at 4 p. m. in the afternoon.

The slow business in the silk thread business throughout the country has affected the Holland Silk Co. Some of the departments have continued on full time but the employes in others are temporarily dismissed when their work is caught up. The average working schedule is from four to five days a week.

A similar lull is felt at the Uncas Silk Co. plant, silk thread manufacturers, where the departments are operating from 27 to 36 hours a week, or an average of three or four days.

Freight traffic of the New Haven railroad and Central Vermont railway was held up during the night and early morning hours today owing to the derailment of the engine of a New Haven freight known as O. B. 6, Boston-bound. The freight was moving over the cross-over switch of the two railroads east of the Bridge street crossing after 11 o'clock Sunday night. Although the train was moving at only ten miles an hour, the engine, No. 3226, left the rails at the switch and bumped along the ties of the west-bound track. The two first cars of the train held to the east-bound track but were derailed before the engine could be brought to a stop. These cars and the remainder of the train were hauled away soon afterward and the work of repairing the damaged ties started at once. The wrecking crew from East Hartford arrived early in the morning and with the assistance of section men under Foreman James D. Healy and Jeremiah Healy had the engine back on the tracks by 10 o'clock, when traffic was resumed. Although no official statement could be secured as to the cause of the mishap, it was indicated that a split switch may have been responsible. The damage was slight.

An investigation by the Welfare bureau discloses that there are a number of families in the city that are deserving of needy assistance. The bureau made a study of these cases in preparing a pre-Christmas appeal to the people. One example case of need outlined in the bureau's report is that of a family of six children, father and mother. The father has been unable to work, owing to sickness, for some time. Insufficient outside aid is the only source of income. There is a new arrival in the family, a child who came upon a scene of misery but a few days ago. The father is in the care of a physician and hopes to get work as soon as he is able to physically. The family is in dire need of clothing and fuel.

Still another case investigated by the bureau is that of a deserted mother and her large family of boys and girls. The father is under court order to pay a small amount weekly to the family but he does this only occasionally, the amount, in any case, being insufficient. The children are too young to work and the mother is nervous and despondent from worry and abuse. The tenement occupied by the family is nearly barren. There is an immediate need for food and milk.

A third pitiful plight brought to light by the bureau's investigation is that of an elderly couple who have lived in the town for 30 years, but who are now ill and too old to do much work and are living in poverty. With no children to turn to in their pathetic state, their only request is that they be allowed to spend their remaining days together in the modest two-room basement they occupy. There is no one, however, to pay the rent, nor to provide food and fuel.

Announcement of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Edith Turner Parke, to William A. Kohler, son of Mrs. Mary Kohler of Minneapolis, Minn., is made by Mrs. H. T. Parker of 175 North street. The marriage took place at Palm Beach, Fla., Wednesday of last week. Mr. Kohler is a physical instructor at th Ferguson Palm Beach school for boys and the Oasis and Rotary clubs of Palm Beach. His bride is an instructor at the Ferguson school. She is a graduate of Windham high and the Willimantic State Normal schools. They are to reside at Palm Beach.

The operator's license of Andrew Link, Jr., of 1120 West Main street, has been suspended, according to notice received by Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady. Link is technically under arrest as the result of the automobile accident at Colchester which caused the death, from injuries, of John E. Shea of 42 Jackson street. Link has been discharged from St. Joseph's hospital. Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson stated that he would not conduct the inquest into the fatality as it comes within the jurisdiction of Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich, the accident having taken place in New London county. The statement of Coroner Bill is despite the fact that the death of Shea occurred in Windham county, over which he has jurisdiction.

Christmas shopping began to boom here Saturday and continued to be brisk today. There is indication that should the weather remain fair the week will prove a banner one in retail circles. There was an inpouring of hundreds from surrounding towns Saturday, advantage being taken of good road conditions.

Christmas mail and parcel post matter arrived in great quantities on all trains today. Postmaster Frank M. Smith said today that a three-ton auto truck would be put into commission Friday and possibly Thursday to assist parcel post deliveries which will be in charge of Parcel Post Carrier Dennis F. Haggerty and Substitute Carriers Jerome Piche and William Durnick.

Despite Saturday's thaw the ice on ponds hereabouts continues to hold an average thickness of seven inches and the ice dealers are looking forward to an early crop. Ice has been cut for current trade during the past week at Ayer's Cove on the Willimantic and by Girouard and Lapan on Brown's pond in Mansfield.

On file at the town clerk's office is a marriage license received from East Hartford, recording the marriage of Alexander Sanderson, 22, of 67 Elm street, this city, to Bronislawa Growboski, 22, of 107 Governor street, Hartford. They were married by Deputy Judge Stanley N. Brainard of East Hartford on Thanksgiving day.

WOODS—LEDRICK MARRIAGE MONDAY

Miss Mary Ledrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ledrick of Staffordville, and Walter Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Woods of Fisk avenue, were united in marriage at St. Edward's rectory Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Felix J. O'Neill, pastor of St. Edward's church, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Anna Herbik of Staffordville, a sister of the bride, and Wilfred Woods, brother of the groom, were the attendants. The bride wore a gown of white satin and wore a veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The matron of honor wore peach color crepe de chine and had a picture hat of contrasting color. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Staffordville for members of the two families. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Woods left for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Staffordville.

Miss Stella Bartok of Hartford, was a recent visitor with borough friends.

Walter Richardson, U. S. A., is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Edward Burell.

Monday was the last day for the payment of the personal tax without a penalty and Collector Charles P. Hodgson had a busy day, for many eleventh hour taxpayers appeared at the town hall with tax money just in time to avoid a penalty. Those who have not now paid their personal tax will be assessed $1 each in addition to the regular tax of $2.

Chief of Police Louis Helm is again on duty after a few days' illness with a severe cold.

Joseph Quinn, of Springfield, spent the week end at home.

The public schools will close Friday for two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sawyer have returned to Springfield, Mass., after visiting Mrs. E. Mullins.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Happy Tree

Upon my Christmas tree shall be
Red berries for wild birds, and free.
There shall be suet for the poor
And hungry birds who seek my door.

My tree shall have a Christmas Star
To shine upon it from afar,
While near the furry rabbits wait
To nibble carrots by my gate.

There shall be nuts upon my tree
So that small squirrels skip with glee;
And sandy for some lonely boy—
A toy shall add to someone's joy.

The candle that I light shall guide
The Christ-Child where His friends abide—
The faithful friends who kneel to pray
Where once a babe in manger lay.

The ox and lamb, the wolf and bear,
And all that dwell in byre or lair,
Each poor wild thing in want or pain,
Shall dream He walks the earth again.

I'll deck a living Christmas tree,
That it may grow contentedly,
And see the Christmas come, once more,
With all small friends who seek my door.

—Alfaretta Lansing.

The Christmas Spirit

A righteous man is mindful of his beast;
He owns compassion for God's creatures, all;
Nor mind the comfort of his Christmas feast
Forgets he those in croft or cote or stall.

Nor suffers he the joylus days to pass
Without a gift bestowed on such as them,
For know he not it was an humble ass
On which Christ's mother rode to Bethlehem?

The Christmas spirit, if it stands for aught,
Will mercy grant to every living thing;
Unless the heart with tenderness is fraught
It must forego the grace the day would bring.

He, in the truer sense, has ceased to live
Who is, by Christmas charity, unmoved;
They who the most receive the most do give,
And he who love the most, the most is loved.

—Nixon Waterman.

UNLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The new year, 1930, is not far away. Just two weeks from Wednesday and another year will be born. When the old year goes out and the new year comes in with the ringing of bells and the shrieking of whistles, a great many folks think it is time to make new resolutions and overcome bad habits, and perhaps some of the little folks do. People do a great deal of resolving to give up this bad habit, give up that bad habit, and to do this and do that, but it usually all ends by seeing how quickly they can forget all the good resolutions they have made. Some people, it is true, are benefitted by New Year's resolutions but most people forget New Year's resolutions almost as soon as they are made.

New Year's resolutions, if kept, have a great influence on the individual who makes them, but resolutions to live better lives should not be confined to New Year's day. Resolutions to break away from bad habits can be made any day in the year. Of course they are worthless unless they bear fruit. It is one thing to make a resolution to change certain bad habits in your life and another thing to keep such a resolution.

Get the better habit of resolving to make today better than yesterday and do not get the habit of dealing with tomorrow. Today means now; tomorrow means delay. for, literally speaking "tomorrow" never comes. It is always today; tomorrow is ever in the future. Strive to be a good doer, rather than a poor promiser. It is day by day that greatest good is accomplished and the greatest successes achieved. Resolve to be successful today, not tomorrow.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Picking Berries

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you and the "Wide Awakes" an exciting story, which I will name, "Picking Berries." One day last summer, Mac, my sister, Edward and Sidney, my cousins, and I, decided to go picking berries. Each of us got a pot or a small pail, and started for the woods, early in the morning. With us we took a lunch of bread and cheese. Soon we came to the woods, where the cows were peacefully grazing. We immediate busied ourselves picking berries. All of a sudden, Sidney gave a loud scream, and began crying, as he ran to us. "Oh, a bee bit me in two places," he wailed. "Let's go home," Edward suggested. Already, on Sidney's forehead and arm, bee-bites were swelling. We started on our way, when we saw a big, black snake curling around a stone. All of us screamed and ran to the path. "Moo-moo," came a deep voice from behind. Turning around in terror, we saw "Billie," our big, brown bull, who liked to chase us children. He was coming for us. We dropped our berries, lunch and all, and screaming, we ran to the gate-way. Then, weary and tired, we trudged home.

My First Slide

Dear Uncle Jed: I went sliding on Monday evening. I had great fun going down the hill. My girl friend, who was with me tied her sled to mine. This made the two sleds go much faster. All evening we enjoyed ourselves. When half past eight came we went home, tired but happy.

Skating

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter. I want to tell you about the best sport I am having just now. It is skating. There is a pond a little ways from my home, which is safe. I had some fun skating last night. My mother let me stay all night with my friend. We went skating after school and after supper.

Thanksgiving

Dear Uncle Jed:—I am going to tell you how Thanksgiving originated. The first year the Pilgrims came to America many of them caught cold and died. The next year they had such good crops they did not know how to give thanksgiving to God, so they invited many Indians and had a Thanksgiving feast, which lasted for a week. They had corn, pumpkins, venison, wild turkey and many other things. Ever since we have celebrated Thanksgiving.

Airplane Ride.

Dear Uncle Jed: During my summer vacation in Hartford my uncle asked me one day how I would like to take an airplane ride. This had always been my longing and I readily told him that I would like to. He drove me over to Brainard field. We watched the airplanes going up and coming down for a while. My uncle bought two tickets for a ride in a handsomely built monoplane. We seated ourselves in the comfortable seats of the plane. A man turned the propeller a few times and then the motor was roaring. We rolled along the ground to the end of the field where the pilot turned the plane around and started across the field with much speed. Before I knew what was happening we were taking off from the ground. Soon we were flying above the city of Hartford looking down on the tall insurance companies and other buildings, but the ride went very quickly and we were soon landed again. I enjoyed my airplane ride much and I would like to have another ride.

A Whist Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a whist party I went to. We went to Putnam Sunday to a whist party and my mother helped my aunt to make sandwiches. When we were all there we began to play whist. My mother asked me to see what time it was. I came back and told her it was nine fifteen. She said that we would have to go home. We then passed the sandwiches and counted our score cards. I had twelve and my sister had four. Of course somebody would win besides me but we had to go home.

EDNA ROGERS.

The Slate-Colored Junco.

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder how many members of the Wide-Awake Circle know what a slate-colored junco is.

A slate-colored junco is commonly known around here as a snow bird, one of our most common winter birds. In the southern states this bird is more commonly known as slate-colored junco.

This bird is easily recognized while perching or on the ground by the white or pinkish bill and while flying by the white outer tail feathers and gray and white plumage.

These birds make their homes in pine groves and in the edges of woods. They are very tame and are often seen in dooryards where they have come to feed upon crumbs or chaff which is often thrown out to them.

RALPH ZACHEM, Age 9.
Norwich, R. F. D., No. 1.

Likes Animals

Dear Uncle Jed—I like animals, all kinds of animals. I like my dog and my cat best of all. My dog's name is Tommy, and he is a great hunter. He begs for bones and then he runs off and buries them somewhere, either in the yard or out in the woods, which are near our yard. He growls if any other dog comes near him when he is eating a bone, but he doesn't growl when the cat comes near him. He lets her walk right under his head and when we give him some meat he will back away until the cat gets a piece. Then he will chase her with his nose. He never bothers the cat, but sometimes he will run after the hens and they will go in all directions. But he never hurts the hens. I don't think they are much afraid of him. He runs after strangers that come to the house and barks loud and shows his teeth.

Our School Room

Dear Uncle Jed—I have written to the Wide Awake circle many times and enjoy writing. This time I am going to tell you how we have our school room decorated for Christmas.

On one sidewall, above a blackboard, there is a large picture of Santa Claus. Below it, drawn on the blackboard, is a picture of Santa Claus climbing down a chimney of a house the roofs of other houses can be seen.

An another blackboard is a drawing of Santa Claus just getting ready to descend a chimney and on each side of this illustration there is a Christmas tree.

On another blackboard is a drawhas been drawn. On still another board a fireplace, with Santa Claus half way down it, is shown.

There are four columns supporting the ceiling of our room. Red and green crepe paper has been hung from column to column.

Many drawings, made by the pupils, have been hung on the wall.

I hope many other children have their school room decorated, and will have a very good time at Christmas as we hope to have.

Likes to Read.

Dear Uncle Jed: Santa Claus days are back again. Do you remember, when I wrotoe to you last year about my Santa Claus letter? What a happy little girl I was when I received your book entitled, "The Star Boy." Above all I really think you did tell Santa Claus that I could be a good little girl once in a while because Santa brought me all I wished for and then more. Do you think he can still be good to me? I want again, oh so many things, especially books. You were so kind to me I'll wish real hard that Santa will be good to you this Christmas. From a little girl friend that loves to read.

COLUMBIA

Education Night was held at Yeoman's hall, Friday evening, under the auspices of the town teachers. Miss Katherine Keeler of Lincoln school, New York was the speaker. She illustrated her talk with slides of the children of that school. A demonstration of the work done in the town schools was given by a pupil from each school.

A Christmas party will be given by the Sunday school Saturday afternoon next for children under 12 years. Mrs. Howell is in charge.

Special music will be given by the church choir Sunday next, and a special service will be held at 7.30 in the evening under the supervision of Mr. Howell, the pastor.

A special Christmas programme is being prepared for Wednesday night's meeting by the lecturer of the grange, Mrs. Lillian Rice.

The snow and ice have disappeared to a great extent due to the rains and fogs the past few days. Some of the wells show a slight increase in the amount of water, but most of those that went dry some time ago are still dry, causing great inconvenience in some cases.

Donald Woodward, Miss Margaret Hutchins and Miss Harle Field went to Windham Wednesday evening to attend the December meeting of the executive committee of the Willimantic C. E. union.

At the business meeting of the local C. E. society held Tuesday evening with Miss Harle Field the following were elected: President, Donald Woodward; vice president, Frederick Hunt; secretary, Miss Gladys Rice; treasurer, Miss Harle Field.

The Social club recently formed by some of the young people met Wednesday evening with Frederick Hunt.

Mrs. Mary Randall, who has been staying in the Dresser cottage, left Thursday for the winter. She will be in the vicinity of Short Beach for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Isham and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Isham went to Hartford Thursday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Charles Backus.

There was a demonstration of Vitamins Thursday under the Extension Service of the Tolland County Farm Bureau at the home of Mrs. Junie Squiers. The leaders were Mrs. Squiers and Mrs. C. E. Hunt. There will be one more food demonstration in about a month, the leaders at that time being Mrs. Fannie Collins and Mrs. Ruby Wolff.

DANIELSON

BOYS CONFESS TO BREAKING SIGNAL REFLECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 16—A trio of boys resident in the southern part of the borough confessed responsibility for breaking a signal reflector that is beside the tracks of the New Haven road south of the Franklin street crossing and to selling the two .22 calibre rifles with which they have been shooting at this and that for a long time past. They also will pay for the damage done. The boys were rounded up by Chief John McFarland at the request of Railroad Officer John Murray of Putnam. It will be recalled that persons playing tennis on a court on the Green Hollow road about opposite where the broken reflector is located were driven to cover by singing rifle bullets coming from that direction on a Sunday morning during the early fall season. An investigation started at once failed to fix the identity of the responsible parties. Chief McFarland called attention to the fact that boys have no right to possess such weapons as those the boys have been breaking things with, and that parents should see that they are not allowed to do so.

Gifts in the form of checks or money orders in very considerable numbers have gone forth from Danielson during the past fortnight as gifts from local people to distant parts of the United States, in Canada and overseas. While the sum total of these gifts may only be guessed at, there is sufficient evidence to establish that it runs into several thousand dollars.

Announcement is made that the Every Member canvass of the Westfield Congregational church has been so successful that there will be enough money for current expenses, to meet the budget, and that there will be no deficit entering 1930. Present figures, both for current expenses and for benevolences are expected to be increased as returns are received from absent members and from resident contributors that the canvassers had not seen up to the week end.

Mrs. Henry F. Call

Mrs. Adelaide Imogene Call, 82, resident at Elmville for the past two score years, died at her home there early this morning. She was the widow of Henry F. Call, who died 30 years ago and who for years was engaged in business in Danielson. Mrs. Call was born in Scituate, R. I., Oct. 11, 1847, a daughter of Benoni and Celia Austin Knight. She had been in failing health for some time past. Mrs. Call leaves no relatives nearer than nephews and nieces.

Waldo A. Pike

Just before noon today at the home in East Killingly the death of Waldo Appleton Pike, 77, occurred. He had been ill for the past several months. Mr Pike had been a resident of East Killingly a comparatively short time, coming there from Rhode Island. During his active years he had been engaged as a house painter. He was born in Worcester in August, 1852, a son of Alexander and Helen Pierce Pike. He leaves his wife and a son, Charles, resident at East Killingly.

On patrol at Keegan's corner at Wilsonville yesterday, watching for reckless drivers at this dangerous place and following complaints, State Officer Royal G. Scranton of the Danielson barracks ordered Philip Beaulac of North Grosvenordale to appear in court this morning at North Grosvenordale. Beaulac pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. The specific charge was that he attempted to pass a car on the curve, which is one of the worst in eastern Connecticut.

Christmas shopping is very definitely underway in Danielson. Store forces were busy this morning and numbers of merchants report an excellent business on Saturday.

The Danielson Building and Loan association meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening promises to be well attended, there being special interest in the proposal to issue 5,000 shares as of January 1, to inaugurate a home-building campaign in Danielson.

Cashier Francis E. Storer of the Windham County National bank will assume his duties as president of the Thames Bank and Trust company at Norwich the first of the year.

Choirs of Danielson churches will be engaged this week with rehearsals of Christmas music.

Next Sunday will be observed as Christmas Sunday at the Westfield Congregational church. Seekers for Jesus will be Rev. Harding W. Gaylord's subject at the morning service. The story sermon will be on Angels of Christmas. At 5 o'clock there is to be a Christmas pageant, The Adoration of The Kings and Shepherds, presented by the junior, intermediate and senior departments of the church school.

The hydrant broken off by a truck of the Norwich Paper Stock company in lower Main street one morning the past week has been replaced and the new one is ready for service should the use of it be required.

Numbers of Danielson young people attending college will return the coming week end for the Christmas recess. Leaving town at the week end will be numbers of the teachers in Killingly's schools, going to their homes for the holiday vacation.

At a meeting of the Entre Nous club with Mrs. L. E. Kennedy as hostess winners at bridge were Mrs. Earl Wood, Mrs. Rene Buteau and Mrs. Frank J. Gorman.

Keech's department store will be open every evening this week for the convenience of holiday shoppers.—Adv.

As in other recent years, those who observe persons cutting Christmas trees, apparently without permission, should immediately report the matter to the police. It so happens that woodland territory hereabouts has been raided unscrupulously for the past two or three years at about this time by men cutting trees to sell commercially, chiefly in the Providence market and have been responsible for a considerable loss to owners of woodland. Taking trees without permission of the owner of the land is a violation of the law.

An alluring array of things for Christmas gifts at the Alice-Eleanor shop, including silk Munsing underwear, pajamas and coats to match, in white and a variety of colors, at $2.98, $3.50 and $4.98; also crepe de chine night gowns and envelope chemise at $1.98, $2.98, $3.98 and $5.98. Open every evening until Christmas.—Adv.

As at Thanksgiving time, arrangements will be carried out at the Killingly town farm to make the holiday a joyous one, filled with the spirit of the day. And so also in other institutions hereabouts there will be much for numbers to be thankful for through the generosity of individuals and organizations finding one of the greatest inspirations of the Christmas season in giving where giving does the greatest good.

Killingly high school's basketball squad will work diligently this week in preparation for the opening of their season's schedule on New Year's eve and to overcome the layoff from the usual regular practice during the coming vacation season.

A man seldom goes to a friend for a loan if he really needs the money.

PUTNAM

FIVE DRAW FINES AT POLICE COURT SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 16.—When Judge M. H. Geissler opened the city court this morning five prisoners were seated uncomfortably within the dock. All had fallen into the toils of the law over the week-end and the majority of them had been confined at the police station since their arrest to await trial. John Tuburski of Park street was charged with failure to send his children to school. He pleaded not guilty and made an effort to prove his contention, but the evidence gathered by the prosecuting authorities tended to discredit his story. He was found guilty of the offense, reprimanded by Judge Geissler and instructed to send his child to institutions of learning in the future. With the defendant's promise to comply with the order of the court the case was dismissed and continued on court records for a month, to await developments.

Thomas Ray of New Market, N. H., who ran amuck late Sunday evening when he attempted to operate a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was presented in court on a charge of operating while intoxicated. He was found guilty and went back to the Granite state after contributing $115.41 to the city's department of justice. Roy was arrested by Officer Frederick Dinsdale, following an automobile collision on Providence street Sunday night.

The third and fourth offenders were Albert Aldrich and Fred Bennett of this city, arraigned on charges of hunting without licenses. Both paid fines of $5 and costs, while Bennett dropped an additional $5 and $10 bills on the clerk's desk when found guilty of operating an automobile without a driver's license. They were arrested by County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels of Plainfield.

Actual costs of $1 was the lot of an out-of-town man who was arrested Sunday afternoon by Officer Benoi Durand, following a boisterous demonstration in a place of business on Main street. The defendant attributed his condition to the fact that he had accepted a friend's invitation to imbibe the contents of a bottle, which he afterwards realized had been diluted with a local brand of fire water. This morning's court activities left the city richer by $176.14.

Dr. Florence F. Dean, who was graduated from medical school at Cornell university in June, 1928, and admitted to practice medicine and surgery in Connecticut in November of this year, will be a practicing physician in this city after Jan. 1, 1930, succeeding the late Dr. Marguerite J. Bullard, it was learned today. Dr. Dean is a resident of New York city and Woodstock and is well known in this city. Since graduating from the Ithaca medical institution she has been an interne at the Memorial hospital in Worcester, Mass., one of the foremost medical institutions in New England.

Dr. Dean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dean of New York city, former residents of Woodstock. During her parents' residence there she attended Woodstock academy, but graduated from Yonkers high school in Yonkers, N. Y. Dr. Dean decided upon a medical career after a year of preparatory study. She graduated from Cornell with high honors, recently completing her professional training at the Worcester hospital. Dr. Dean will occupy the suite of offices in the Bullard home on South Main street, for nearly a quarter of a century the medical chambers of Dr. Bullard, who died last August.

Local officials of the New Haven railroad made arrangements today to clear tracks on this division of the line to receive the crack express trains, "The Senator" and the "Knickerbocker," expected to be routed through here because of a wreck on the Shore line, over which the trains pass regularly. Wrecking crews managed to clear a section of track near Westerly, R. I., before the arrival of the flyers, to route them over the Willimantic branch through Plainfield.

The community Christmas tree, donated by the Putnam Rotary club, was erected on the water trough in Union square this morning by a crew of linemen of the Connecticut Light & Power Co. The illuminating company cooperated with the Rotary club in providing the large tree. Lights and power to illuminate it are a gift of the power company. The tree will remain on its lofty pedestal in the center of the shopping district until after Jan. 1.

James B. Tatem of this city, whose taxi service organizations in Willimantic and Manchester are under surveillance of the public utilities commission, is to be present at a gathering of Manchester taxi heads at the state capitol in Hartford on Wednesday in an effort to set a price satisfactory to all companies in that city, thereby ending a so-called taxi war that has existed for several months. The Tatem company came into the public eye last summer when the public utilities commission denied the concern a right to operate in Willimantic and Manchester. Tatem, working in the interests of his organization, secured an injunction and has continued to operate taxicabs in the two cities, although the controversy has not as yet been settled.

Mrs. Myra Brown of Florence street, an octogenarian, slipped on a rug in her bedroom Sunday morning, sustaining a fracture of the hip. The splintered bone was re-set, but her condition was such that physicians advised her removal to the Day Kimball hospital, she was taken there this morning in the hospital's ambulance. Mrs. Brown's advanced years coupled with the serious injury received yesterday have caused physicians to regard her condition today as being critical.

Leon N. Walker of Grove street was in Boston today on business.

A full size sheet of bill board advertising, relative to American prosperity at the present and encouraging its continuance, is to be seen on many of the roadside advertising mediums in this section of the state. The posters contain a print of a woman representing Victory, who is carrying a wreath in her hand while in the act of pressing forward. The sign reads, "Forward America, Business is good. Let's keep it good. Nothing can stop American prosperity." The inspiring bit of propaganda, it was learned today, is a tool of a national organization promoting big business.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Roy Eyers has been the guest of Danielson friends.

Arthur Jodoin has returned to Fort Hamilton, N. Y., having visited at his home.

County Commissioner Urgele Lafrance was in Putnam Saturday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Addie Parks, matron of the Children's home. The commissioners feel the death of Mrs. Parks very keenly, as she was always faithful to her charge and they realize her place will be hard to fill.

Master Raymond Lafrance has been ill a few days.

Joseph Raymond and his nieces, Misses Mary and Eva Raymond, of Taftville, have been guests of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. George Winsor.

Burns, Addison Tracy, Arthur Mott, Earl Leach, Wallace Burns, Miss Dorothy Atwood, Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. Gertrude Tracy, Mrs. Addison Tracy, Louise Milligan, Mrs. Leon Roth, Helen Carpenter, and Miss Ethel Davis. All teams reported good results.

Miss Florence Leach, Boston Conservatory of Music, is to be the special soloist at the Congregational church next Sunday evening.

Dr. Erwin Frederick Tracy, Yale Medical school, was a visitor at his home here Sunday.

JEWETT CITY

DUCK HUNTERS SPEND A WEEK ON LYME SHORE

Dr. F. D. Browning and a college chum, K. S. Magoon, from Boston, are home from a week's duck shooting down along the sound shore, in the vicinity of Lyme.

The two friends were not in their blinds every day of their short winter vacation, but report royal sport. During the six days their bag counted up to 30 fine black ducks, with plenty left for the other fellow. Saturday, just at dawn a great flock came in over the decoys—the "Doc" thinks there must have been 200. Both hunters unhitched both barrels, then hove the boat's bailer and both oar locks at the rear guard. Notes received from Niantic and Millstone Point, Sunday, were to the effect that the natives are still picking up ducks along the shore. When ducks are around, leave it to Magoon, he can drill one through the eye, from the Black Point flats to Saybrook breakwater.

THREE NATIVE SONS IN RAILROAD BUSINESS

Hal S. Ray, Edwin P. Lyon, and Frank A. Barrows, all Jewett City natives all the same age, and born within a stone's throw of each other, are holding top-notch railroad positions. Mr. Ray, of Chicago, is director of personnel and public relations for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co., with offices in LaSalle street station, Chicago. Mr. Lyon, is the special representative of the public relations department for the New Haven road, his headquarters being in the general office building in New Haven. Mr. Barrows is superintendent of safety, for the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R., with offices in New Haven.

Eyes—Don't delay. See Dr. Good. Finn Blk. Wed. 6 to 9.—Adv.

The merchants of the borough in all lines are making a special bid this holiday season, to stimulate home town shopping. The store displays and counter offerings are more attractive than ever. The first shipments of Christmas trees is already finding brisk sales. Early interest in the coming Yuletide is evidenced all about the borough.

Personal taxpayers! Last call! Pay today and avoid paying the extra $1. T. E. Shea, Col.—Adv.

BIG COMMUNITY TREE IS A THING OF BEAUTY

The borough electricians were working all day Monday, placing the electric lamps on the community tree at David Hale Fanning park. When the current was turned on during the early evening, the many colored lights and the big star a-top the tree, shone out the finest ever. The spot is ideal, with the grand monument close at hand and with St. Mary's appearing in the background. The tree is a living blue spruce, 30 feet tall. There are 166 lights on the branches, and the star, made by Charles E. Soicer has 50 white bulbs.

Boroughites were given a real thrill Monday forenoon, when on account of a freight derailment at Westerly, several of the big Shore Line expresses, bound for New York and Boston, were re-routed over the local iron. A passenger train, now-adays is a decided novelty in this freight-line district.

Edgar Knox, George Rocheleau, Stanley Savage and Charles Campbell attended a meeting of Voiture Locale No. 743 of the 40 and 8, at the Hotel Morton in Niantic recently. A good time and a big supper was the unanimous report. On the way down, on account of a detour in the Whaling City, Bro. Edgar, who was at the controls, got mixed up a bit in Pequot, Montauk and some other Indian avenue. As various stores flashed by, Friend Rocheleau, the genial local manager of the A. and P. Main street store, thought he recognized a store which is owned and operated by his sister. Pulling up to the door, the machine was halted while the four piled in, (in something of a hurry, as the time was short), to make a little call. While George was greeting his relative, with much clanging of bells up drove the police patrol wagon, and a squad of New London's finest filed in, looking for hold-up men. On closer inspection nothing appeared to be suspicious about the four Jewett City men, so the squad filed right out again. After making sure that they had their watches and money all right, the quartet left for Niantic.

The Ladies' Aid society of Newent Congregational church is to meet this (Tuesday) afternoon at the Community hall.

The name of John Blake, of Jewett City, was omitted, in the obituary of Mrs. Mary Blake Pusarteri, which appeared in this column Monday. He is one of the surviving brothers.

Mrs. Philip Kittredge and son, Edward of Milford, N. H., are visiting at R. W. Dearnley's.

Ruthie Rebekah lodge is planning to hold its annual Christmas party this (Tuesday) evening, each member bringing a gift for the tree.

Walter Rumville, of New London, spent the week end with his parents.

Miss Opal Dummermuth, of California, Mo., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brearley.

Walter and Harold Weeks motored to Canterbury Sunday, to call on Mrs. Chas. Barstow.

Orrin Alvord and family spent Saturday in Worcester.

Mrs. Walter Hughes, of Waterloo, N. Y., has returned home after a lengthy visit with Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Alvord.

Arthur Marchessault and family, and Richard Weaver, spent Saturday in Worcester.

Mrs. Angus Park and Mrs. N. Lorne Greig spent Saturday in Boston.

PLAINFIELD

The calendar at the First Congregational church Sunday was by Mrs. Charles P. Lewis, in memory of her son, Donald P. Lewis. The C. E. service was help in the vestery; subject, What Have Young People To Give? Leader, Percy Wilcox; pianist, Miss Lena Pipler. At the motion picture service, beautiful and interesting pictures were shown of the scenic wonders of the Pacific coast: Jason Lathrop spoke on his ten thousand mile trip to the coast. Ernest Plassman was organist and Stanton Gallup was head usher.

The Dramatic club gave the three-act comedy, Forest Acres, before a large audience Friday evening at the Community house. The 12 players were all local people. The cast follows: Lemuel Crockett, Elmer Greene; Mrs. Lemuel Crockett, Mrs. Fred Lyon; Elizabeth Crockett, Mrs. Cecil Butler; Hepsibah, Mrs. Elmer Greene; Franklin, Arthur, Ralph Hopkins; Miss Lucy Ruggles, Mrs. Ernest Buell; Evelina Newcomb, Mrs. Joseph Herbert; Andy Hobbs, Cecil Butler; Mr. Brixley, William Hall; Elsie Brixley, Mrs. Geo. Dawley; Constance Loring, Bessie Congdon; Nora, Mrs. Robert Generous Coach, Mrs. Lotta Dodge. Leach's orchestra furnished music. Candy was on sale by Mrs. Everett Dawley and Mrs. Joseph Kingsley.

Mrs. Joseph Smith was in Norwich Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Briggs of Oak Lawn, R. I., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Lathrop.

Mrs. Eva Pike of Moosup was a caller on her sister, Mrs. Otto Opperman, Saturday.

Miss Mary Baldwin was in Norwich Saturday.

DO YOUR MAILING EARLY

There are only seven business days before Christmas. That means that there is a large volume of Christmas mail that must be handled in those seven days if it is going to be delivered as desired for Christmas.

It must not be overlooked that the notice has already been given that there will be no delivery of mail on Christmas. This may be unpleasant news to the many who feel they should get a Christmas morning delivery as was the case up to a few years ago, but that doesn't alter the edict. The only thing to do under the circumstances, aside possibly from registering your kick, is to get busy and see that your Christmas packages and letters are gotten into the hands of the postal authorities early enough to insure delivery by the 24th.

There is an annual effort to shop early. There is equally good reason for doing your mailing early. Early shopping should give encouragement to early mailing. One is quite as important from the individual's standpoint as the other. If there is merit in getting your shopping done early when there is freedom from the hustle and bustle of the frantic crowd that is making its last desperate efforts, there is just as excellent ground for getting those packages mailed early and thus avoiding that long line of package carriers who never seem to understand why they are subjected to such great inconvenience, such annoying delays and such tiresome waiting.

The answer to it is, of course, that they have been doing the same as everyone else. They have been putting off until the last few days that which could have been gotten out of the way days previously. They have made it disagreeable for themselves and they have made it unpleasant for others similarly engaged, while they have been making it an endurance contest for those engaged in the handling of the Christmas mail.

There are always enough rushing up at the 11th hour with valid excuses without having the number augmented by those who could do their mailing sufficient days in advance to avoid the crowd.

If you haven't done your mailing, get it started. You can assure delivery in time if you do your part. You cannot expect impossible results by being dilatory.

SOME DON'TS FOR CHRISTMAS

This is the time when preparations are being made for the observance of Christmas with lights, trees and various kinds of decorations. In this connection there is golden advice in a letter from A Prevention Engineer appearing today in another column.

This may well serve as a reminder to those who do not remember what has happened in other years because of the failure to observe the necessary safeguards. One need not be negligent of a successful observance of the holiday with all the interesting features in being careful, though there are precautions which must not be overlooked. Among other things, remember these:

Don't set the Christmas tree so insecurely that it will topple over.

Don't play lively games in the room where the tree is located.

Don't use lighted candles on the Christmas tree and don't use them where they can come in contact with draperies or woodwork.

Don't use as Christmas decorations those flimsy materials which are a fire menace.

Don't give children those dangerous toys requiring gasoline, kerosene or alcohol.

Don't use electric light sets that are not standard; a spotlight focused on the tree is very effective.

Don't create a fire hazard by using cotton to represent snow.

Don't use flimsy motion picture machines that use inflammable film.

Don't smoke or use matches near flimsy decorations.

In other words, in making your preparations for Christmas decorations be sure to be careful. Too much thought cannot be given to these matters in the interest of safety and for the prevention of those conditions which quickly change a home from happiness to desolation by fire. It doesn't detract from a joyful observance of Christmas to avoid the obvious dangers. Those who observe precautions do not experience the distressing results too often recorded during the holiday season but it is a thankful miss. The importance of prevention cannot be rated too highly. A merry Christmas should not be a day of tragedy.

THE INFLUENZA GERM

Influenza has gone through this country leaving a death list in its wake like the scourge of war. There have been years when it has been worse than others, but in any form, mild or severe, it is dreaded because of its effect upon humanity.

The existence of such a disease makes it necessary to find a remedy for it. That is always more easily said than done, but it was a cheering bit of information that was given out by Professor Falk of Chicago university when he informed his students in bacteriology that he had been able to isolate and identify the influenza germ. According to Professor Falk, who has been making a long study of the disease through the use of monkeys, two-thirds of the battle has been won in isolating the germ. That provides something definite to work upon and inasmuch as it is known what the germ is it will not be long before an antitoxin will be developed that will successfully combat it.

Scientists are constantly engaged in the quest of just such hard-to-find germs. It means diligent and painstaking work, the following of one theory until it is disproved or proved, and that usually means going over much of the ground many times without anything being accomplished except the elimination of another possibility.

That the Chicago professor has been successful in his search will be sincerely hoped by all those who have had a touch of influenza or those who understand its ravages. It was certainly cheering information which he gave to his class and to the world, for it should mean the removal, in the not distant future, of that terror which precedes as well as accompanies an influenza epidemic.

What those who are engaged in such a study must look for is indicated by the statement that the germ looks like a microscopic chain of unmatched beads, and how easily they may elude detection and how innocent they may appear is all indicated by the fact that they have not been suspected before. Professor Falk feels certain of his discovery from the fact that he has tried these newly-discovered germs and they produce influenza. Everyone who has had the disease would be happy to not only discover but apply the antitoxin that will annihilate them.

MUST BATTLESHIPS GO?

What the conference at London will do next month is not cut and dried. There will be various propositions advanced but because they are suggested does not necessarily mean that they will be adopted. There is confidence that there will be a fruitful outcome but how extensive the results will be no one knows.

There is a report which has been sent out from London to the effect that it is the intention of the British delegation to propose the gradual scrapping of all battleships. This, it is understood, will be in accord with instructions which have been received from Prime Minister MacDonald.

At the Washington conference it was made evident that there was a different attitude displayed toward the battleship. There was a growing appreciation of the fact that this great fighting machine was becoming too large and costly. It was even being urged that the battleship was becoming obsolete. The latter view was taken because of the effectiveness of battleplanes, and while there was an unwillingness to yield to such a view at that time there was strong enough conviction that the number should be limited and the size restricted.

While there will be no disposition to scrap the battleships now, there may be sufficient support for a gradual depletion of the number. It will appeal in a different manner to different countries, but if such a step is taken, even on a small scale, there should go with it a regulation of the other classes of warships. It is the latter purpose for which the conference is called but it can be expected that the whole question of limitation will get a thorough discussion.

WHERE UNIFORMITY IS NEEDED

Efforts in behalf of uniformity are directed in many channels. There is reason for them since so much difficulty is experienced in neighboring states in overcoming the differences in procedure.

At the present time, the Association of Grand Jurors in New York is engaged in the study of extradition requirements of various states with the view to urging the adoption of laws concerning extradition that would be uniform.

This is a matter which will be followed with particular interest by the authorities in Connecticut and other New England states, who have, on repeated occasions, encountered the difficulties which are created by the existing extradition requirements in New York.

When one state seeks a person charged with a crime who has escaped into another state it seems only reasonable that there should be the same procedure whether the prisoner is being sought by Connecticut from New York or whether New York is trying to get the accused from Connecticut. The same is true of other states and yet those who have had experience in that work know that there is nothing resembling uniformity at the present time. There is a lot of red tape that has to be gone through before prisoners can be moved from one state to another, but it is made all the worse when prisoners are willing to waive extradition papers when state laws make such a thing impossible and require formal papers.

Each state may have its own ideas in regard to how such matters should be handled but, inasmuch as other states are bound to be involved, sound reason exists for a common understanding and a uniform method to be followed. Extradition is one of the things that calls for uniformity.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Except as Senator Bingham has taken a leading part in the tariff debate, and Congressman Tilson, as republican floor leader, submitted a list of Connecticut house committee assignments, there has been but little of specific state interest at the capitol the past week, either in debate or by vote.

Floor Leader Tilson went to New York early in the week to meet Mrs. Tilson on her return from a brief trip to France, where she put their daughter, Margaret in a school in Paris, to remain till May. The daughter will specialize in the French language.

The senate debates were along the customary line of abuse of New England, its industries and its policies, as set forth by Blaine, Norris and others of the insurgent bloc who never fail to give that section of the country a bitter attack or utter some wisecrack, when the tariff is up for discussion. So bitter, caustic, unwarranted and unsavory have been the hints, theats and comments uttered by some senators, aimed at other senators who fail to agree with their views, that some day we expect to see Vice President Curtis call to his side one of the small waiting pages, stationed to do his bidding, and hear him say, "Boy, page senatorial courtesy." For courtesy seems to be fast growing a "lost art" in that distinguished body.

During the extra session of congress no house committees were organized except such as were necessary in preparation of the tariff bill, and to carry on the business of the house. Representative Tilson, as republican floor leader has submitted a list of committee assignments, which were immediately approved by the house. As majority floor leader Col. Tilson has no committee assignments, the full time of the leader being accorded him, by the house, that he may attend to the heavy duty and responsibility of that office. Members of so-called major committee may hold only that one assignment.

The assignments for Connecticut members of the house are as follows: Merritt, interstate and foreign commerce (major committee); Freeman, rivers and harbors (major committee, Mr. Freeman is ranking member.); Glynn, military affairs (major committee) Fenn, chairman census, also on banking and currency, education and veterans' committees.

All of which are assignments for the Connecticut delegation on what are hard working and important committees.

Connecticut will receive much benefit from the promised tax reduction as that state is credited as being one of the three heaviest income paying states in the country.

Those to benefit most will be the incomes which range from $4,000 to $7,000.

But it is astonishing how many people fail to realize just what the proposed tax reduction applies to. They mix up federal and local town laws. One woman said today, "I am glad taxes are to be reduced. I own a smal house in a nearby state, and the way they tax me for that little piece of property is shocking. I am glad congress is to put a stop to it." And what with federal, state, town and similar taxes and assessments perhaps it is small wonder persons unfamiliar with such matters frequently get them scrambled.

Commenting on the tax question, Congressman Treadway of Massachusetts, member of the ways and means committee, remarked that "Connecticut and Massachusetts are well recognized as two of the most important and notable industrial states in the country. I believe they will benefit more largely than others in the reduction."

The department of agriculture has issued a warning against spread of the gypsy moth this year. It states devastation by moths in 1928 was the heaviest in many years. New England showed a decided increase except in certain sections of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The department also warns against danger of the spread of the corn borer, and advises stringent rules against sections where the borer has got even a small foothold. The department credits the state of Connecticut, through its agricultural experiment station, with having begun research work that will be of benefit to the entire country.

The great grey stone mansion, up in the residential section of the city, recently occupied as the chancery of the Japanese embassy has just been purchased by the affiliated republican organizations of the District of Columbia.

The price is understood to have been somewhere round $150,000. There is a tentative plan to use the clubhouse for a sort of national club house for republicans visiting here from all parts of the country, a place where they can drop in, and meet others of their clans, from all parts of the country. But that has not as yet materialized. Its use until the big national club idea is further developed will be for the republican organizations of the district, which will include the Republican State Voters association; The League of Republican clubs; the League of Republican Women; and the Hoover & Curtis club. These are all District of Columbia, or in common parlance, Washington organizations. The combined organizations today number more than 200 members. The embassy's lease does not expire until next June, after which the new owners will take immediate occupancy.

The three heads of the navy department, live up to the aviation faith they preach. Secretary Adams has flown on the Los Angeles and has made inspections frequently, using an airplane for transportation.

But he is not as devoted to personal air troops as is Assistant Secretary Jahncke, who has flown to practically every great naval port, including Alaska and Hawaii. He has flown on and off air craft carriers, and once took a deep trip on a submarine. Jahncke carries off the palm, for love of adventure.

Assistant Secretary Ingalls uses airplanes at times, and in one way or another has made personal inspection of everything connected with aircraft developments, especially watching its development in commerce, as well as naval affairs, under the present administration. In fact the secretary, Mr. Adams of Massachusetts, and his two assistant secretaries are quite ready to use battleships, airplanes or submarines to accomplish their purposes of naval inspection.

Senator Bingham has done nation-wide work in aiding the progress of commercial, as well as federal aviation. He is President of the National association, member of the highest federal and congressional commission and holds other positions here which make him a very valuable advisor in all that pertains to progress in aircraft.

Group insurance for faculty members and employes has been provided by the University of Chicago, the school bearing more than half the cost of the premiums.

HORSE SENSE

"Of course, Bill, if you really want to, by all means ride a silly horse and join the academy. Betty and Fred certainly want you there," Mary Brent advised her husband one evening and then added, smiling, but with emphasis, "but as for me, count me out I'm too involved in tennis to want any other sport to take its place."

William Todd Brent twirled his watch chain and wriggled in his chair. Of course Mary loved her tennis and being lady champion of the city club for three years she had a perfect right to love it.

"But, Mary, it isn't that. We've refused five riding parties so far this month, just because neither of us can sit on a horse—"

"—gracefully," interrupted Mary, with a twinkle.

"Gracefully, yes, but also enthusiastically. Grant that. Mary, can't you see we're slowly dropping from the crowd because we haven't joined the academy" Bill pleaded, quite in earnest.

Mary flushed. It was foolishness she said, taking up a sport because it was a fad, and not because you really loved it. Almost hypocrisy, Bill disagreed again.

"All right, concede that you don't like it. But you can learn to, can't you? You didn't play tennis before you learned to walk, did you? Mary hummed.

"Bill, let's settle this. You buy your togs tomorrow and have Fred teach you the involuntary dismount. Mary Jane Hart will be glad to ride with you every afternoon. She's reducing, you know—and there's Maisie and Cynthia.

"In the meantime, I'll stick to my back-hand stroke practice and keep up the family reputation." Mary finished the argument with a laugh. It was settled. She'd miss Bill on the courts, but—well, husbands were like that.

Two weeks went by in a whirl of bridge luncheons, teas, and a few dinner-dances. Mary was jubilant over the new tennis professional from St. Louis. Bill mumbled enthusiastically over the canter of a handsome sorrel at the riding club.

Then one morning Mary decided that it was all a farce. Why, some men even obtained divorces when their wives refused them little whimsies. Really—

That afternoon Mary's tennis was cramped. She lagged, lost balls and was fussed whenever the professional from St. Louis sympathized with her mistakes. Bill was the only real practice partner she ever had, but Bill—well, he was learning to ride a horse.

Tuesday was the weekly noon luncheon at the club. Mary refused because of a headache and planned to remain at home and think about the coming tennis match. She needed, oh, so much, to collect her thoughts.

Three o'clock came and Mary was bored with everything. It was stuffy in the house and her head still ached. The Twin Hills Country club was just a stone's throw from the Brents' house and Mary suddenly decided that a walk to the club grounds would make her feel better. She cut across a wide expanse of smooth green lawn, down the terrace and through a small brown gate.

When she reached the wide, white cement that led to the tennis courts she stopped abruptly There on the forward court, broad and strong in his white sweater and flannels, was William, serving with sure, decisive strokes to his opponent, the St. Louis professional. Mary's racket hung limp. She watched the balls fly back and forth, thrilled by the performance of the tall, swift man—her husband.

By this time a group of onlooking enthusiasts had spied her coming down the walk. Their cheers attracted Bill.

"William Brent, what are you doing here?" was all that Mary could finally question. She felt a warm defiance rise up in her against those cool, dancing eyes of the man before her. Bill laughed. He cleared his throat, a gesture of importance, Mary thought. He was such a boy. But his words were good to hear.

"Well, Mary, the horses were too temperamental yesterday. Maisie Van Fleet talked too much about her sister's German cook and frankly I'm sick of it." He watched the funny upturning of his toes in tennis shoes, then looked at Mary again. "You see, I've just come back again to train you for the matches next Thursday. Can't lose the title we've had for three years, you know." And Mary uttered a silent prayer for all horses.

On Thursday Mrs. William Todd Brent of Twin Hills retained her city championship. Her husband was very proud. And the next day Mary purchased a riding habit.—Chicago News

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Secretary Pat Hurley took over the war portfolio in the Hoover cabinet under circumstances which augur well for the impression he has made in Washington as assistant war secretary.

For one thing, and an unusual one, the senate did not even bother to refer his nomination to a committee. It had no more than received the white house communication announcing Hurley's promotion than confirmation was rushed through in open executive session with a vote and with no discussion.

With Hurley's accession the war department passes again into custody of an A. E. F. veteran. Twice since the war political expediency has led to more strictly political appointments, those of John Weeks of Massachusetts and James Good of Iowa. Weeks, however, was a naval academy graduate.

It has always been gossip that President Hoover originally intended the war portfolio for Bill Donovan, himself an ex-service man.

In the end, however, the need of Good's political experience and influence "on the hill" gave the post to the Iowan. And Jim Good worked hard at his job of being an administration spokesman as well as war secretary. He made speeches in many places that touched upon other than military concerns of the administration.

Army Men Like Him.

Army folk counted heavily on Good's prestige in congress. His untimely death was a great blow to them, although Hurley is widely popular already with the officers who have come to know him as assistant secretary.

Hurley also will contribute greatly to the pulchritude of the Hoover cabinet. He stands a fine, erect two yards and more, and must have been the very beau ideal of the soldier in uniform in war days.

This new war secretary was sworn in by his old friend, Associate Justice Stone of the supreme court. And that broke a war department precedent that has stood for several decades.

For the department has its own veteran of veterans who has administered the oath of office to every new secretary and assistant secretary since William Howard Taft took charge of the war portfolio.

He is John Randolph, "Colonel" Randolph to legions of folk, military and civil, who have passed through the departmental ranks in many years.

Back to Civil War.

At upward of 85 years, Randolph still is assistant chief clerk of the war department as he has been for a quarter century or more.

His war department memories actually run back beyond the Civil war. He often has told the Bystander of his recollection of seeing Robert E. Lee ride in from his home at Arlington, now the great national cemetery, to submit his resignation from the United States army and cast his fortunes with his native Virginia in the struggle.

Randolph himself was a soldier in that war. He enlisted in the units made up of departmental folk in the first rush.

YOUR HEALTH

Living in a New World

By Lloyd Arnold, M. D., Chicago.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The human body is enclosed within a covering skin and membrane layer. The sun shining on the skin causes us to generate disease-preventing substances, store them, and transmit them to our internal organs. The sun shining upon growing vegetables causes them to generate and store disease preventing substances that can be transmitted to man by eating these green leafy vegetables. In this case the sunshine is transmitted to us through the membranes lining the intestines.

The body surface is constantly receiving stimuli from the outside world. The skin, the lining of the nose and throat, the covering of the digestive canal, are big aerial receiving stations by which we keep ourselves in constant communication with the forces of nature. Our receiving stations are never shut off nor are they ever at rest.

Through the past thousands of years man has become accustomed to receiving stimuli through our body covering layers. We have become dependent upon these tonic-like stimulations to keep us in the proper working condition. But during the past few years in order to suit his comfort and convenience, man has changed the world he lives in. Homes, offices, factories, cars, etc. have been heated. Man refrigerates, incubates, ripens, refines, preserves and pickles his food. We who have gradually developed through innumerable generations a certain adaptation to the unaltered forces of nature are now living in a man-made world, and our body surfaces cannot become accustomed within one generation to this new world.

Sudden changes in weather cause our bodies to change. We have typhoid fever and other diarrhea-like diseases in warm weather. We have colds, coughs, pneumonia and other such nose, throat and lung diseases in the cold weather. We understand that bacteria cannot pass through body covering layer to get inside and cause disease, and so we use every means possible to keep our skin and membranous coverings so healthy that bacteria cannot pas through them. We use artificial sunshine, we rob the cod-fish of their stored vitamines, we transport or grow vegetables during the winter months in order to be able to eat disease-preventing vitamines. We are making strenuous efforts to learn how to survive in this man-made world we have created about ourselves. We have succeeded to learning how best to reach the middle period of life. But the age group older than forty have not been benefited by our present knowledge. We have learned how best to "grow-up", but we need to know how best to live after we have reached middle life. The main causes of ill-health in later life are not bacterial diseases, but are due to a wearing-out or a degeneration of some vital system, such as heart, kidney, pancreas or blood forming organs.

So there is just one wise course, and that is to give the family doctor a chance to prevent or retard that degeneration by keeping a check on us. It is his business to be an expert in these things. If we give him the opportunity to examine us regularly before trouble starts, his chance of keeping us well, prolonging our lives, is a good one.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Surprised at Lack of Interest in Burying Ground

Mr. Editor: While in Norwich in November, my attention was called to the controversy over the Post-Gager burying ground, and I visited the spot. I was very much surprised to learn of the lack of public interest in preserving this first burying ground, where the brave and hardy pioneers who founded Norwich in the midst of a hostile Indian territory now rest. I attended the 250th celebration of Norwich and certainly enjoyed the many historical places in your beautiful city. I hope there is enough sentiment in Norwich for the preservation of the first burying ground.

I am a descendant of both the Huntington and Gager families and according to the records I do not see how you can do otherwise than honor this sacred ground.

Movie Land

Mr. Editor: I am fully assured that everyone at some time or another feels the urge to dash off a movie scenario, and it is sent out with the thought that it will be the masterpiece that the movie fans were waiting for. True it is that it is necessary to study the style of picture required. Perhaps a picture of the wild and wooly, such as Buck Jones would be at home in; these always appeal to the imagination of the rising generation. Or maybe a picture dealing with a wild adventure of a hunting expedition in the jungles of Africa, or the almost unknown land of Borneo Everyone has some particular picture that casts a spell upon them, holds them and keeps them interested until the end. But there seem to be certain things in this world of make believe that hold the interest of all the people all the time and that is a story dealing with home life—a mother's love—for it is inherent in the life of every person who has wandered away to look up to one of the pictures that has for its theme home and its recollections. Anyone who writes and can put into words his thoughts, where at one time you look and think and dream of home, and as the story unfolds you see some scene that causes a tug at your heart, or a choking sensation in your throat, then in succession you see something that makes you smile. Such a writer has secured a hold upon your imagination, for he has the ability to hold your attention and he has reached the acme of perfection for he can make you smile or bring the tear drops into your eye. Much as you try to conceal it, others will notice it. They do not comment on it, for they are affected the same as you.

Many years ago, at Breed hall, there was a delineation of Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal Uncle Tom's Cabin by a company of colored artists called the Ryer Sisters. The leading man was Sam Lucas. He did not act the role of Uncle Tom, he was Uncle Tom. These people had come up from the depths, for they had been slaves, and I recall in the scene where Little Eva was going over that Lucas, who had a magnificent voice, sang that blessed old hymn, Shall We Meet Beyond the River, and you can take it from me, there were few dry eyes in the house. Are there none of my old pals who can recall this? This is the sublime and these plays grip you. The reverse of this is seen and recalled in some of the many comedies that have been shown on the stage of Breed hall that would make you laugh until you cried from very joy. Consider that comedy by Billy Barry in McKenna's Flirtation and its many absurd situations. Any man who couldn't smile at this must have had a concrete face. Just recently in a conversation with the very genial manager of the Breed opera house and what I knew as Breed hall, I touched upon the trend of the modern movies and I gave him as my opinion that one of the best, if not the very best, pictures I had ever seen was Longfellow's Evangeline—beautiful beyond compare, so realistic, so pathetic. As I looked upon the picture, I looked beyond the screen, and I could see the real people and I could hear softly the Angelus sounded and over the roofs of the village prayers rose from a hundred hearths, the homes of peace and contentment. Thus dwelt in love together the simple Arcadian farmers, dwelt in love of God and of man, and here you have three pictures, each one that playing upon different emotions; on that made you cry, one to make you laugh, and the other to bring to the surface a kindlier feeling, the love of the fellow man. All these pictures or clean plays preach to us a powerful sermon, and if we only profit by them their lesson will not have been in vain, and it can be said with truth:

There are those who cannot see
The forms I see, nor hear the sounds I hear;
He but perceives what is; while unto me
All that has been is visible and clear.

After all is said and written, we go to the movies to be entertained and to be instructed and to marvel at the wonderful advance of the pictures since the days of the five cent movies, for it is true science discovers, while art creates the movies.

To All Who Will Play Santa Claus

Mr. Editor: Santa Claus isn't always the jolly old spirit of Christmas. When his whiskers catch fire, or when he is careless in the way he wires and decorates the Christmas tree, he is more fable to bring grief than gladness.

Santa has for many years been the patron saint of the year's most joyous season, yet his representatives in homes everywhere have been guilty of so much carelessness and the cause of so much tragedy that we almost need a society for the curbing of Kris Kringles.

For a long time we have profited by the fruits of sane Fourths of July. Isn't it about time for more sanity among those who appoint themselves as the envoys of Santa Claus?

In most places served by electricity the official Santa Claus, whether at the domestic tree or the Sunday school celebration, has learned that it is dangerous to wear a fluffy beard in close proximity to flaming candles. Therefore electric bulbs have taken the place of candles, as they should, to a large degree.

But not all homes have electric lights, nor have all communities. In such cases, what is Santa Claus going to do? Shall he go without his white whiskers? Hardly that, for without deception the old fellow is a failure. My advice, and the advice of all who have watched and tried to reduce the number of Christmas tree accidents, is to sacrifice the candles. With all their beauty and sentiment, they are extremely dangerous. Let baubles and non-burning tinsel serve to make the tree gay, and by all means avoid open lights in any form.

As for the Santa Claus who plays his role under modern conditions, where electric lights and power are available, there is still plenty to guard against. Electricity is a hazardous thing unless the equipment is of the accepted standardized variety and the wiring done according to the code approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

A "short circuit"—which simply means electricity out of control—is just as dangerous as a lighted candle. There are many instances on record where the improper use of electricity, combined with highly inflammable decorations such as cotton, has brought disaster and death.

The self-appointed Santa Claus should not attempt the lighting of the Christmas tree unless he is certain that the equipment is standard.

He should never try to hook up or operate any electric train or other mechanical toy unless the installation has been made or checked by someone familiar with the national code.

There are lots of other things for the amateur Santa Claus to remember, but the most important is that while the thrill of surprises and the fun of the occasion are demanded by the spirit of Christmas, all the thrill and the fun may in an instant change to terror and catastrophe unless Santa himself is sane and careful in every preparation he makes for the occasion.

Thousands of lives are in the keeping of these impromptu Santas as they caper and cavort in their red suits and facial trimmings. Let the warning of what may happen temper their antics and guide them in their plans for what should be a period of joy unconfined.

Lively As Cricket This Fat Man

Lost 16 Pounds of Fat

Kruschen Salts taken before breakfast every morning in a glass of hot water supplies the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels with an invigorating conditioner and after you have tried this simple plan for two weeks the rejuvenating effect will delight you.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.

And after two weeks your excess flesh starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

As one, once corpulent man remarked—"I feel so energetic that I want to get up with the lark and I'm just as lively as a cricket."

LIFE-LONG WOODSTOCK MAN DIED SUDDENLY LAST NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 16.—Clarence H. Child, 77, a life-long resident of Woodstock and prominent citizen of that town, died tonight at his home in East Woodstock shortly before 8 o'clock. Death was due to a stroke of apoplexy which Mr. Child suffered a few minutes before his death. Mr. Child was a former member of the Connecticut legislature, being representative and senator from this district. He had held several town offices, including the probate judgeship. He was prominent in town and county republican politics and was an organizer of the Curtis-Hoover Republican club last year.

Mr. Child leaves one daughter, Miss Rilla Child, of East Woodstock, who made her home with her father.

OBITUARY

Frederick Prentice Morgan

Frederick Prentice Morgan, member of an old New England family and representative citizen of Waterford, died Friday afternoon at his home in the Lake Pond district, Waterford. He was born at the Morgan homestead, Waterford, Oct. 21, 1845.

Mr. Morgan descends from an ancient New London family. In the Appleton Morgan genealogy of the Morgan family his lineage is given from William Morgan, 1634.

Mr. Morgan was the son of Enoch Francis and Clarissa Ayer Morgan and was one of six children, only one surviving, a brother, John A. Morgan, druggist of Norwich. Mr. Morgan was married on January 8, 1874 to Mary Elizabeth Darrow, daughter of Samuel and Frances Richards Darrow of Waterford, who survives him with three daughters: Ruth E., who resides at home, Mrs. Robert George, and Mrs. Charles G. Champlin of Waterford, also nine grandchildren. Two other daughters, Mrs. Clara Morgan Chapnell and Mrs. Mabel Morgan Miner passed away several years ago, also a son Frederick Ayer Morgan.

Mr. Morgan was a retired business man of Waterford and held various local offices, serving as assessor, selectman, justice of the peace and auditor of the town and other positions.

Funeral services were held from his late home, at Lakes Pond at two o'clock Monday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, New London, who also read the committal service at the grave. Interment was in the Morgan family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The bearers were two grandsons, James Morgan Miner of Norwich, Frederick Prentice Miner of New London, two sons-in-law, Robert George and Charles G. Champlin, C. Benjamin Morgan and Harry C. Berg of Norwich.

Miss Beda Paterson

Miss Beda Paterson, 52, a housekeeper in Hartford, died Sunday at the Hartford hospital of heart disease. She leaves two sisters, living in Willimantic. The funeral is to be held in Willimantic.

Henry E. Smith

The sudden death of Henry E. Smith occurred Sunday at his home in Montville. Since his wife died, five years ago, he had been living alone, taking his meals with the family of Lewis LaBounty, Jr. He ate his breakfast as usual and returned to his home. At 11 o'clock he was seen out in his yard. When he did not come for dinner at 12 o'clock, Mr. LaBounty sent his boy to call him and returning he told his father that Mr. Smith was lying on the floor and he could not see him breathe. Upon going into the house LaBounty found the lifeless body and immediately notified Dr. John J. Donohue, who pronounced death due to heart disease. Permission was given to take the body to the rooms of the undertaker in New London.

Mr. Smith was employed by the town of Montville on repair of the roads. He was generous, sympathizing, cheerful and well liked by all who knew him. He was one of seven sons born to John and Prudence Phillips Smith, March 27, 1858, at Montville, where he always resided.

When the city of New London took over his farm for the reservoir in Chesterfield, he bought a place on Gay hill in Palmertown. He was united in marriage to Augusta Dart in 1885. She passed away five years ago at Palmertown. He is survived by one brother, John Smith, of Niantic, and two nieces, Mrs. Michael Curtin and Mrs. Julia Ashcraft.

Mrs. George Blackwell

Mrs. Amelia Blackwell, 85, widow of George Blackwell, died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Annie Angell, in Sterling. She was a former resident of Riverside, R. I. Surviving Mrs. Blackwell are two daughters, Mrs. Angell of Sterling and Mrs. Eliza Adams of Eden Park, R. I.; two sons, George H. Blackwell of Riverside, R. I., and J. William Blackwell of Attleboro, and a brother, John T. Graham of Methuen, Mass. Eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive her.

The funeral is to be held today at the home of her son, George H. Blackwell of Riverside, R. I., who is a member of the East Providence school committee.

FUNERAL

Miss Mildred Chapman

Funeral services for Miss Mildred Chapman, formerly of Montville, who died in Brattleboro, Vt., Dec. 11, were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Union Baptist church, Montville. There were many relatives and friends present and the floral tributes were beautiful. The service was conducted by Rev. Ernest L. Nield, pastor, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in Comstock cemetery, Montville. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Church & Allen.

WEDDING

Barber-Thiel

Miss Elsie Thiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Thiel of No. 27 Beech street, was united in marriage with Joel Barber of Jewett City, at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Evangelical Lutheran church, Franklin street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Carl Storek, pastor. There were no attendants.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Barber left for a wedding trip to Boston and upon their return in about a week will reside in Jewett City where the bridegroom is engaged in the garage business.

It is universally believed that the average actress marries for publication only and not a guaranty of good faith.

WEST END COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION TO PLANT FOUR MEMORIAL TREES

Following a largely attended meeting of the West End Community association, Monday evening, at the Elizabeth street school building, announcement was made by President George R. Gifford that the $200 bag of gold purchased recently at a local Red Arrow auction, will be used for the planting of memorial trees for four West Side boys. The four West Side boys in whose memory the trees will be planted are Charles M. Willey, U. S. N., Leroy A. Swan, U. S. A., and Elwin A. Cohen, U. S. A. who paid the supreme sacrifice during the World war and Sigmund Siegel who lost his life in a vain attempt to rescue a drowning boy in the summer of 1922.

The memorial trees will be planted, subject to approval of the town school committee and the city authorities, next Memorial day, in the space between the cement sidewalk and the curbing at the Elizabeth street school building.

The association meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by President Gifford and after the usual reports had been heard and accepted Mr. Gifford presented the $200 bag of gold to the association. The bag of gold was purchased at the recent auction on a bid of $49.046.40 in Red Arrow money.

A motion was made and adopted that President Gifford use the money for whatever purpose he saw fit for the benefit of the association, and the announcement of the plan to plant the four memorial trees followed.

As a mark of the members' appreciation of President Gifford's energetic efforts in securing the bag of gold for the association, he was presented a beautiful Governor Carver chair. He responded in suitable words, thanking the members for their gift.

The meeting adopted a vote expressing appreciation to all who contributed Red Arrow money towards the purchase price of the bag of gold, and after giving three cheers for President Gifford, adjournment was taken. Refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, pie and ice cream were served by the committee following which there was a Christmas tree with gifts for all present. Old fashioned dancing, Smith's Mohegan orchestra furnishing the music, brought the evening to a close. The orchestra members donated their services for the evening.

The committee in charge of the evening comprised Carl Krause, H. O. Smith, Albert Harris, Ernest Latimer, Merton Latimer, Leonard Patridge, William Patridge, Frank Fields, Horace Cory and Henry Pukallus.

Announcement was made that the Christmas tree on the school lawn was donated by Russell Taylor and that Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock there will be community singing by the children of the school under the direction of Miss Nina Perry. The community singing will take place on the school lawn.

CENSUS TAKERS WILL ASK MANY QUESTIONS

Census enumerators will, starting next April, visit every home in Norwich. This will be just a small part of one of the largest jobs Uncle Sam undertakes every ten years — the counting of every man, woman and child in the nation.

For many months officials of the census bureau have been working upon a schedule of questions which will be asked during the census, and the form has now been completed. Here are the questions which the enumerators taking the population count will ask at every Norwich household next year:

1. Relationship to head of family, including a statement as to the homemaker in each family.
2. Whether home is owned or rented.
3. Value of home, if owned, and monthly rental, if rented.
4. Radio set?
5. Does this family live on a farm?
6. Sex.
7. Color.
8. Age at last birthday.
9. Marital condition.
10. Age at first marriage.
11. Attended school or college any time since Sept. 1, 1929?
12. Whether able to read or write.
13. Place of birth.
14. Place of birth of father.
15. Place of birth of mother.
16. Mother tongue of each foreign born person.
17. Years of immigration to the United States.
18. Whether naturalized.
19. Whether able to speak English.
20. Occupation of each gainful worker.
21. Industry in which employed.
22. Whether employer, or employe or working on own account.
23. Whether actually at work.
24. Whether a veteran of the United States military or naval forces; and for each veteran, in what war or expedition he served.

INCREASE IN EGGS AT STORRS LAYING CONTEST

Even though weather conditions for the past week have been very unfavorable for egg production yet the hens in the laying contest at Storrs increased their production over last week by 4.7 per cent. They laid 4,243 eggs or a production of 60.5. This makes a grand total of 24,480 eggs. A few pens have been affected by the cold snap but production still seems to be on the increase. The only weeks so far that have surpassed the present production was the second and third week.

R. W. Davis & Sons' Barred Rocks from Rockland, Maine, produced 66 eggs for the week thus capturing first honors in that breed. A pen of White Leghorns owned by Toivonen Leghorn farm of Girard, Pa., was second with a lay of 63 eggs. Third honors for the week went to a pen of Barred Rocks owned by R. C. Cobb of Littleton, Mass. This pen produced 62 eggs. There was a scramble for fourth place as no less than five pens were tied with 59 eggs each. These pens consisted of 3 Leghorns, 1 Rhode Island Red, and 1 White Rock. Harold F. Barber from Dover, Mass. is the owner of the White Rock pen; H. G. Colt of West Hartford, Conn., sponsors the Reds; Hanson Leghorn farm of Corvallis, Oregon, Tom Barron of England, and Geo. B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Michigan, are the owners of Leghorns.

As is to be expected during the next few weeks changes appear among the leading pens. This week Hawes Bros. from Union, Maine, jumped into fourth place in the Barred Rocks. In the White Rock class Harold F. Barber from Dover, Mass. takes third position thus making both of his pens on the honor list. A pen of White Leghorns owned by Toivonen Leghorn farm of Girard, Pa., has captured first place in the Leghorn group. The pen owned by George Lowry Poultry farm of West Willington, Conn. drops into second place.

White Wyandottes — The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., 314; Fisher P. farm, Ayton, Ont., Canada, 239.

Barred Rocks— R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn., 340; Westfield Poultry farm, Westfield, Mass., 339; Hawes Bros., Union, Maine, 282.

White Rocks—Davidson Bros., Upton, Mass., 324; Harold F. Barber, Valecroft, Dover, Mass., 314; Harold F. Barber, Valecroft, Dover, Mass., 294.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, Conn., 379; Homer R. Rowell, Groveland, Mass., 348; Edw. N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 334; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 332.

PUTNAM HUMANE AGENT TRANSFERRED TO HARTFORD

Reed W. Hitchcock, who has been with the Connecticut Humane society for three years and for the past two years has been in charge of the Putnam district, has been transferred to headquarters at Hartford and placed in charge of the animal department. Walter L. Greer, who has been working in the Putnam district, is now given charge of that territory.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TOO LONG, SAYS MRS. ATWELL

Mrs. Marion Gaylord Atwell of New York, lecturer, gave another of her interesting talks on current events Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel under the auspices of the currents committee of the Woman's City club. She held the closest attention of her audience during her hour's talk.

In referring to the meeting of the 71st congress, Mrs. Atwell said that the passage of the income tax bill means a reduction of 160 millions of dollars for the people of the United States. She said that the radicals claim that this bill does not bring relief to the poor people as it should, but was catering to the capitalists and the multi-millionaires.

The speaker made mention of President Hoover's message to congress and which she classed as too long. She asked how many in the audience had read the whole of the message.

In the president's message, she said, he spoke of the advisability of coordinating or reorganizing the departments of government. "We all know there are too many," she said, and "they cost a great deal of money to operate." There has been an opposition to this reorganization, in that the president should not be given the power to do the reorganization work.

She spoke of the large amount of work the United States has done in a material way in Haiti along the construction of roads, bridges and sanitary lines. She said in spite of what had been done sanitary-wise, nearly a million people on the island, about one-third of the population, went to the free clinics last year. The speaker quoted an old inhabitant as saying that before the United States stepped in "We had no peace, our crops were destroyed, but now we have peace and we are protected." Others don't feel so content, she said. They do not criticize what we have done, but what we have not done.

Mrs. Atwell said that different men have given their views on what should be done in Haiti, some feeling that we should let the "black men" have control of the government. "I don't think we are quite satisfied with the administration in Haiti," she said.

Mrs. Atwell made mention of the senate refusing to seat Vare of Pennsylvania, Grundy, she said, who has taken Vare's place, was a prime lobbyist. "I think it is a splendid choice, just the kind of a man the state should have," she said. "He will be valuable in the lobby situation because he will know all about it," she said with a smile on her face.

"It rather looks as if the Philippines will get their independence after all," she said. Members of the farm bloc want the United States to give them independence, so that the tariff bars can be put up.

Mrs. Atwell also spoke of the Mexican visitors to Washington, the naval conference, the document issued by Ramsay MacDonald, and the deplorable situation between China and Russia.

TALMAN STREET SPEAKEASY RAIDED BY POLICE

A squad of state and local police raided the alleged speakeasy at No. 120 Talman street about 11 o'clock Monday night and arrested Julius Abbruzzese on a charge of violation of the liquor law. Eight cases of home-made beer were seized in the raid and an actual sale of beer was secured against the accused. Abbruzzese was locked up at police headquarters under bonds of $1,000 for his presentation in city court this (Tuesday) morning.

The raiding officers were State Police Officers Arthur Whitmarsh and Kathe of the Groton barracks and Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Shahan.

CALLED FOR CHIMNEY FIRE ON BROAD ST.

At 7:22 o'clock Monday evening the fire department was called out for a chimney fire at the residence of Attorney C. V. James at No. 90 Broad street. Six gallons of chemical were used to squelch the blaze. Engine No. 3 responded.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. William Tyler Browne entertained the Monday Auction club and one guest table. The prizes were won by Mrs. Channing M. Huntington, Miss Minnie L. Palmer and Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenen.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Parker will go to New York to meet their daughter, Miss Deborah Parker, who returns Wednesday from the Knox school, Cooperstown, N. Y., for the holiday recess of three weeks.

The Monday Sewing club met with Miss Ruth A. Hamilton.

The Fesma Auction Bridge club was entertained Monday afternoon by Mrs. Rufus H. Vaughn, of Williams street. Mrs. Harry E. Higgins and Mrs. Harrison Gray won the prizes.

Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Houghton Gilman were hosts at dinner at Lowthorpe to the new president of Connecticut college, Dr. Katherine Blunt, and two of the college professors and their wives. Miss Louise C. Howe, a trustee of the college was a guest also.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

The spirit of Christmas makes men tender to the need of the sick and unfortunate, says the monthly report of the Woman's Auxiliary of the W. W. Backus hospital. Doubtless, that is the reason why so many causes which have to do with ameliorating the conditions of those in trouble are launched at that time. They meet with better response than at any other period of the year. Now Red Cross has asked for the support which it deserves of every citizen and all who understand the scourge of tuberculosis are buying Christmas seals. Perhaps, too, that is why memberships in the auxiliary of the Backus hospital are being received now, even though the appeal was sent out the first of November. If all the causes could receive the small amounts they ask for at this self forgetting season, our community would be a happier and more healthful place to live in. The answer to the appeals would make a fine Christmas gift to those whose Yuletide must be marred by pain and distress.

If any—whether man or woman— have mislaid the card sent out by the membership committee of the auxiliary, they may send the dues of one dollar to Mrs. Walter F. Lester, Laurel Hill road. This committee and suburban committee are grateful for the response they have received, and the results of the letters sent throughout the city and the surrounding towns will be announced a little later.

The linen committee makes its plea for old linen and soft cotton cloth. The need never ceases. As fast as a supply comes in at the hospital, it is used in many ways and the need begins again. There are so many uses for any piece of old table linen, old sheet or pillow slip or towel—even for old night dresses or under-clothes. They can be torn for bandages or are used for pads and wines after being sterilized. Small pieces help. The need is real and ever present and this is one way of saving money for the hospital, which means no expense to the public. A card, or a telephone call, to Mrs. John Rogers, 167 Washington street, Tel. 351, will bring a member of the committee to the door who will carry the bundle to the hospital.

This old cloth will make a useful gift to the hospital. Another would be a subscription to some pleasant magazine, either for patients or nurses—a Christmas gift that will last the whole year through. Current magazines are welcome. The Boy Scouts have recently brought literature to the hospital and have set an example worthy of following. Only new magazines are wanted. A little thought will show that sick people need clean, cheery reading matter.

The holiday and flower committees are planning much cheer for the Christmas season. Trees and greens are ordered for the building and Mrs. Judd and her committee are looking after gifts and favors. All holidays are hard to bear when one is sick and away from home. Thanksgiving was celebrated by placing small baskets filled with candy on the 70 trays while the children had special favors. Christmas will carry out the holiday feeling as far as these women can make it so. They are aided in their pleasant labors by the advice and suggestions of Miss Jane Bill, who has been so devoted to making a real Christmas at the hospital for many years. Her help is most valuable.

The women of the different churches have been meeting each Thursday at the Central Baptist church, to make surgical dressings. Park church, the Central Baptist and First Baptist churches and the Spiritual union have each had their turn recently and have turned out this fine result: 105 completes, 123 large cellu-cotton pads, and 7390 small gauze pads. On Nov. 11, when the ladies of the Central Baptist church were at work, every bit of material sent by the hospital was used by quarter of four, which is a fine and usual record. The motor corps has carried the stuff to the rooms and returned the finished work to the hospital. This method of doing the production work was an experiment last year but has proved itself justified both in the extent of the work done and in the interest it engenders among the church women.

The nurses are not to be forgotten at the Christmas season. The nurses' recreation committee are busy with plans for the 44 girls. The following quotation will interest those who watch the nursing school of the Backus hospital and care to know of its standing and growth.

"The school of nursing has made every effort to give to its students an education, both scientifically and practically, comparable to that of any other school in the state. For this season an affiliation of five months at the Yale school of nursing is now part of the required course. At a recent conference, with Miss Goodrich, at Yale school of nursing, of all affiliated schools, which number 15, reports were given each school of the record of achievement made during the past year.

The 15 schools affiliating at Yale school of nursing vary somewhat in the amount of time spent there; schools affiliate anywhere from four months to 15 months and so one can readily see that the question of a student's ability to readjust herself to a new school must play rather an important part in the grading of these schools.

Upon entering the Yale school of nursing, all affiliating students are given a psychological test, the same one that is given to the regular students of Yale university. From these tests which are graded on the scale of 6—400 are determined the achievement grade which students should make while affiliating. Students, however do not receive their final grade from this test, but are graded upon three things, lecture courses, efficiency in practical work, and written reports which are required from each student, such as case studies, experience records and summaries. It is very interesting to note that, on the grading of the fifteen affiliated schools the Backus hospital school of nursing ranks fourth this year, and of the three schools which out-rank it, one school has two years of college as pre-educational requirements while in the past this school of nursing has only required three years of high school work.

The psychological tests at Yale school of nursing have proven beyond a doubt that the better prepared student does a much more satisfactory piece of work in her nursing school. The Backus hospital school of nursing is most desirous of following the trend of all other schools of nursing namely, showing progress along educational lines, and this year the pre-educational requirements have been raised to four years of high school work."

Among the gifts of the auxiliary to the hospital, last year, was a Hanoveria light which gave help to the four children who were brought to the hospital for its curative power. This year, ten children are benefiting from its rays. Gifts to the hospital since the first of October have been made by the following persons: Mrs. C. D. Browning, Mrs. Whitboro, Miss Ina Ufford, Mrs. S. A. Heath, Mrs. F. B. Ricketson, Mrs. Herbert M. Booth, Mr. Driscoll, Mrs. F. L. Woodard, Mr. Yerrington, Francis Gilman, Miss Hazel Anderson, Mrs. Geo. E. Johnson, Mrs. M. A. Marvin, Mrs. W. F. Chamberlain, Mrs. Peckham, Dr. Frank Holms, Miss H. M. Clarke, Mr. J. W. Cadden, Mrs. Ada Reyelle, Miss Hemmings, Miss Jane Bill, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Charles Holbrook, Mrs. Roderick Sullivan, Mrs. Sarah Armstrong, Mrs. William Park, Miss Norton, Mrs. C. Gaffney, Mrs. N. Eugene Smith, Miss Clapp, Mrs. Newton.

The following organizations have also made donations: Women's League of the Central Baptist church and the girls' society of the same church, ladies of the Park Congregational church, St. Patrick's church, Needlework Guild, St. Paul's Episcopal church of Plainfield, Hanover Christian Endeavor, Girls' Friendly of Christ Episcopal church, Home Service of Park church. These gifts include old linen, magazines, scrap books, empty jars, home made jelly, fruit, writing paper, pencils and stamps, gauze sponges, candies of communion sets, towels and pillow cases and much sewing done such as hemming towels and tray cloths.

The year's officers of the auxiliary are: President, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr.; vice presidents, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, Mrs. F. B. Ricketson, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg; recording secretary, Miss Ruby E. Vaughan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Henry D. Johnson; treasurer, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell; directors, Mrs. Walter Lester, Mrs. Allyn L. Brown and Mrs. Carl Storek.

MISS EDNA L. TYLER IS PROPOSED FOR MEMBER OF NEW LONDON COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 16—At the city council meeting this evening Maurice Lubchansky, president of the chamber of commerce, stated that the unemployment situation in New London at present had become very serious. He pleaded that the city make an effort to have any work done that it could possibly undertake at this time to give employment to the idle.

He declared that men who would not ordinarily accept menial work were applying for any labor that might be afforded them. The chamber of commerce, he said, had asked for the development of Bates' wood. Any work that the city might offer to these men would be gladly accepted.

It was stated by Mayor Twomey that $53,000 had been appropriated for the board of education and that this sum might be used for the construction of a new schoolhouse as the city was now renting, at an expense of $2,700 or $2,800 a year, to provide for children. The city manager was asked to provide a tentative plan for the development of Bates' wood. That he is to do and present to the committee on public works Wednesday evening next. Councilor Fox suggested that the provision of roadways through the woods should be taken into consideration.

City Manager Holt said that the matter was one that should be given considerable consideration and that the woods should be laid out as a park, with an idea to future development. He said that trees could be removed and poles filled but that was only a cursory idea of what should be done. Tools for the men to work with and supervision must also be provided. He will make a report Wednesday evening and submit a tentative plan.

There was a falling off in the number of building permits asked for, from 39 odd to eight. An ordinance providing for a sewer on Coleman street, 825 feet in length was repealed, as it is now proposed to lay the sewer 330 feet.

Miss Edna Leighton Tyler, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Osgood and the late Col. A. C. Tyler, formerly of Norwich, was nominated by Councilor Chappell as the successor to Councilor Murray. Chairman Fox of the committee to which that matter was referred, said that the committee had been unable to meet because of the illness of Councilor Fox but that the members expect to meet Wednesday night after which he will be prepared to make a recommendation to the council.

Changes were made in the zoning ordinance, putting a section of Osceola and Jefferson avenues, also Dell avenue and Charles into the business and commercial zones.

Resolutions presented on the death of Benjamin A. Armstrong, for 70 years a leading citizen of New London, were adopted by the council and a copy was forwarded to the family of the deceased.

Lillie Jimell gave notice of a claim for damages for injuries sustained in falling on Howard street. Louisa Bisher gave notice of a suit for $25,000 damages to her property on Broad street by changes in the roadway. She claims that she has an agreement with the city dated 1917, which the city has not fulfilled.

Edwin B. Cruise and wife asked the city to carry out an agreement made with them as to alterations in Coleman street, which the city had not perfected.

Councilor May asked that the council have published the list of taxpayers so that the citizens should know of an increase in assessment which has been made. He was told that the law provided that in any case of property increased in assessment the owner should be notified.

Councilor May asked for the status of the Coast Guard Academy construction on Williams street and Mohegan avenue. The city manager informed him that everything was done that could be done and that in a very short time a start would be made on it. The government is acting in the matter and will notify the city in the status of the case. Mr. May also wanted to know what had become of the Pequot beach case before the court, in which an appeal had been taken. The city claimed that a section in the roadway had been taken by the Beach Co.

He also wanted to know as to whether the Myers survey line was to be in effect on Ocean avenue, the state highway department claiming that the survey was in error and that there are encroachments on the highways.

Councilor Miner suggested a change in the date of preparation of the budget and doubted whether the council was proceeding in an economical way at present. Councilor Fox defended the present plan and said that the council must have the authority to make extraordinary appropriations. It was the demand of New London county that this city pay $21,000 as its share of the new county home and the necessity of an appropriation of $5,000 for repair of the fire alarm system that brought up discussion as to change in time of perfecting the budget. Mr. Miner explained and read from the charter what he considered to be deviation from that charter in the present method.

Charles L. Miller and other residents of Phillips street objected to that highway being considered an unaccepted highway. He said the city of New London, some 50 years ago, annexed that portion of Waterford and that it had been a highway since. It was pointed out that it was a pathway and not a street.

The Catholic club asked for the enforcement of an ordinance which provided for a room for minors detained in this city. City Manager Holt said that a room was provided in the Salvation Army and that this was sufficient. The Catholic club is to be notified to that effect by the clerk.

A petition of Walter L. Douglas for permission to build at Blackhall and Truman streets was denied, as it was regarded that he did not have title to the specific plot on which he proposed to build. That property is one in which there has been controversy as to the street line.

The establishment of a property line at Shaw street and Woodbridge at the property of Paul Rogers was asked for. Referred to committee.

The police throughout the state have been requested by the New Haven police to be on the lookout for Mrs. Helen Young, wife of Harold Young, 935 Howard avenue, who disappeared from her home yesterday.

A dog was found dead in the highway of Pearl street, between Green and Union streets, tonight. It is believed that it was struck by an automobile and left in the road to die. Dog Warden P. Frank Martin disposed of the animal.

An automobile driven by George F. Collins, 21 Grove street and a car driven by Mrs. Mabel Colenaugh, Black Point, collided at the corner of Williams and Granite streets, this afternoon. Both automobiles were damaged and Collins sustained slight personal injury.

A municipal Christmas tree set up at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, State street tonight was illuminated with varied colored lights for the first time. The illumination will continue until after Christmas.

FUNERAL

Leroy L. Leister, Jr.

Leroy L. Leister, Jr., aged 10 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy L. Leister, Snowden street, Waterford, died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Sunday. The funeral was held this afternoon and burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery. Mr. Leister is supervisor of the Waterford schools.

George Cross, colored and John Vallas, white, both of Norwich, were in the justice court at Montville Sunday afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law. Vallas was fined $100 and costs on each of two counts, possession and transportation, while Cross was fined $25 and costs on a charge of transportation.

Augustus Roy, Bridgeport and Charles Comoloni, Hartford, were arrested in Waterford Sunday charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving automobiles equipped with defective brakes. Aaron Jacobson, Fire street, Waterford, was also arrested in that town and on a like charge by State Police Officer Donald Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ellery Allyn, of Waterford, spent the week end on Long Island.

Mrs. John Griswold is seriously ill at her home on Colt street.

Hugh M. McKay, cadet at Norwich university, Northfield, Vt., is with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Angus McKay, 35 West street, until after the holidays.

Miss Anita Sperl, 355 Montauk avenue, who recently underwent an operation at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, is gradually improving.

Mrs. Rodman Smith, of 36 Nathan Hale street; Mrs. Thomas Noble, Noank, Mrs. Samuel Feldman, 518 Montauk avenue; Miss Catherine Donovan, 9 Division street and John E. Bliven, Golden Spur, East Lyme, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

PEDRO SAUNAR GETS OFF WITH PAYMENT OF COSTS

Pedro Saunar, Filipino, stationed at the submarine base, was in Groton town court today charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving an automobile without a license. Sauner was arrested Saturday by State Police Officer Michael Murphy. When the driver presented himself in court the charge was nolled, but Saunar was compelled to pay the costs of the court, $11.55.

Case Continued

Patrick McNally, submarine base, was charged with evasion of responsibility and his case was continued a week, McNally being compelled to accompany his boat to Portsmouth, N. H. McNally was arrested by State Police Officer Charles Hill Sunday night following the former's automobile colliding with another car and McNally driving away without stopping to determine the extent of the damage caused.

Michael Thomashenko, of Providence, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving a motor vehicle registered in this state, but not being possessed of a Connecticut license. Thomashenko, who was arrested Saturday by State Police Officer Arthur Kathe, was using a license of Rhode Island issue to drive the car. The case was continued a week.

Mrs. Paul Gerity and infant daughter, of 154 Lincoln avenue; Frances Kelley, Willimantic; Mrs. Carl Burgess and infant son, 43 Henry street; Mrs. Pembrooke Perkins, Niantic; Joseph Verito, 817 Main street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were dismissed Sunday and today.

FUNERALS

Fred Morgan

The funeral of Fred Morgan was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his residence, Lakes Pond, Chesterfield and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Miller F. McCreary

Miller F. McCreary, about 52 formerly of New London, son of the late Chauncey B. McCreary, a former employe of the New Haven railroad, died in New York Saturday. Mr. McCreary had been a resident of that city for many years.

Mrs. Louis Young

The funeral of Mrs. Isabel B. Young, wife of Lewis Young, who died at Clarks Falls, N. Y., several days ago, was held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William Dunn, 77 Blackhall street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., pastor of the Second Congregational church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Miss Ruth Taylor

Miss Ruth Taylor, 61, daughter of the late John C. and Maria Holman Taylor, died this morning at her residence on Lake avenue, Niantic. She had long been ill. Miss Taylor is survived by a brother, Joseph Taylor, of Springfield, Mass.

H. E. SMITH, MONTVILLE, STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Henry E. Smith, 73, well known farmer, residing at Gay Hill, Montville, died suddenly of heart disease at his home Sunday afternoon. He is survived by a brother, George Smith, of Niantic. Mr. Smith was apparently in good health Sunday and about 2 o'clock went for a walk. He returned and was not complaining, but a short time after he entered the house he was stricken with a heart attack, collapsing in one of the living rooms. He lapsed into unconsciousness and expired before a physician could be summoned.

JOHN HARTE, FRANK PERRY, PAY FOR LAW VIOLATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 16—John Harte, employed at the club room, 207 Main street and Frank Perry, 38 Denison avenue, were in the police court today, both charged on two counts with violation of the liquor law. In addition, Perry was charged with violation of the gaming law inasmuch as a punch board was seized by officers who raided his home. Both men were fined $200 and costs on each count of liquor law violation and an additional penalty was meted out to Perry for maintaining the punchboard.

The club room and the Perry residence were raided Saturday night. A large quantity of beer, a small amount of whiskey and the equipment for manufacturing and bottling beer were found and seized at the club room and the private residence. At the club room 10 frequenters were arrested, but today their cases were nolled. At the Perry house, but two frequenters were found and their cases were nolled also.

Giordani Habarek charged with attempting to pass a worthless bill was fined $10 and costs. Habarek went to the union station Saturday night and going to the ticket office attempted to purchase a ticket, payment for which he tendered a confederate bill. When Habarek was informed that the bill was worthless he became abusive and insisted that the bill was legal tender and demanded his ticket, together with his change. Special Agent John Anderson, New Haven railroad police, was summoned and Habarek was arrested.

Alex Weizorek, 24 Harrison street, charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of his wife, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

Courtland Colver, Jr., of Gales Ferry was charged with reckless driving, but the charge was nolled. Colver was arrested Saturday night by Sergeant Frank Howard.

De Paulo Case Continued

Michael DePaulo, 176 Shaw street, charged with reckless driving had his case continued to Thursday next. DePaulo was driving his automobile on Bank street Saturday afternoon and when given a signal by Traffic Officer William Riordan to proceed, he guided the auto directly at the officer. The latter was struck and knocked down. He will not be able to perform duty for several days and it is possible that the officer sustained one or more fractured ribs.

COM'R GROVER WHALEN EXPRESSES GRATITUDE

Captain Charles A. Pinney of the New London police department, today received a letter from Grover Whalen, police commissioner of the New York police department, in which the latter extended his sincere thanks for the police escort given the body of Patrolman John J. Duffy, New York officer, who was fatally wounded in a gun fight with a thief several weeks ago. The body was brought to New London, acompanied by a captain and 60 patrolmen, and was buried in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery. The letter of Commissioner Whalen, read as follows: "Please accept the sincere thanks of the police department and its commissioner for the escort your department provided for the body of Patrolman John J. Duffy, Nov. 20. We appreciate your kindness and hospitality on this occasion."

Patrolman Antonio Turello discovered the transom of the rear entrance of the store of L. Taner, 446 Bank street, smashed last night. It was believed that a crook had used that means to gain entrance to the store, but when Taner arrived there it was found that none of the stock had been disturbed, although it was apparent that an endeavor had been made to obtain entrance.

An automobile driven by Louis M. Champlin, 10 Franklin street, struck and knocked down an unidentified youth on Bank street, near Tilley, last night. The boy declared that he did not sustain injury and refused to permit the driver to accompany him to a hospital for an examination.

The fire department was called out at 1:30 this morning in response to an alarm sent in from Box 517, corner of Lower Boulevard and Hillside road. When Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and four pieces of apparatus responded no semblance of a fire was to be seen, it being a false alarm. The same box was pulled about six weeks ago for another false alarm.

STARTING TOMORROW (WEDNESDAY)

HANOVER-CURLAND GREBE RADIO COUPONS AT EVERY SHOW

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Every doughboy and marine that actually smelled powder in the late war to make "the world safe for the democrats" will answer roll call for the three days starting tomorrow, when "The Battle of Paris" opens at the Broadway with a barrage of fun and gaiety and a lot of H. E. hilarity. It will go hard with any veteran if the M. P.'s find him A. W. O. L. on the eve of this engagement, for he'll miss seeing—and hearing—all the fun of "the biggest battle of the War."

A natural, thrilling human story painted against the background of Paris, that immortal city which never loses its fascination—the story of Paris, before the mobilization, a vivid sequence showing a Boche air raid on Paris during the midnight hours, and then the doughboys making "whoopee" in the approved A. E. F. manner on their famous "three days' leave." Scenes so real that the "vets'" hearts will beat a little faster—songs that every one of "this man's army" will remember every word and hum them as they are sung on the screen—even some of the petite m'amselles that made a furlough worthwhile before the dreary ride back to the lines—all are shown in vivid detail and in a manner to leave audiences cheering. Gertrude Lawrence, the sweet star of "O Kay," "Treasure Girl," "Charlot's Revue," and a host of other hits, is Georgie, the heroine of the picture, with Charles Ruggles at his best, and a long cast headed by Walter Petrie. The lighter side of war is presented in true "New Show World" manner in this alluring all-talking production.

The surrounding program is equally classy with a Laurel-Hardy all-talking comedy, Geo. Dewey Washington, the famous negro baritone, the latest Fox movietone news, George Ardath in "These Dry Days," Frank Silk, noted tramp comedian, and Deiro, the master of the piano accordion. George Bancroft's thrilling production "The Mighty," closes with today's showings.

PLAN MIDNIGHT SHOW AT PALACE THEATRE

The management of the Palace theatre are making plans for a gala midnight show at the theatre, New Year's eve. The show, which will start at midnight will run well into the early morning hours of the first day of the New Year. There will be a feature picture, special vaudeville acts and novelties of various kinds. The regular Palace orchestra will furnish music.

Breed Theatre

"When the cat's away, the mice will play" is the theme of "Why Leave Home?" the first musical comedy in talkie history, which is playing at the Breed theatre today and Wednesday.

Its flood of hilarious situations is caused by the efforts of three indignant wives to teach their husbands a lesson when the latter "step out." College boys and chorus girls are drawn into the various complications, with side-splitting results, and a number of snappy song hits add to the film's entertainment qualities.

Walter Catlett, Sue Carol and Nick Stuart handle the leading role with praiseworthy effect, and David Rollins, Dixie Lee, Richard Keene, Jean Bary and other favorites head the supporting cast. Raymond Cannon directed this Fox Movietone all singing, dancing production.

Beside playing a leading role, Catlett also wrote the dialog of this Movietone version of "Cradle Snatchers" which owes much of its charm to Raymond Cannon's direction.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

By popular demand the Palace theatre is bringing back to Norwich that greatest of the screen's musical comedy extravaganzas, "Gold Diggers of Broadway." Although capacity houses crowded to see that famous picture when it was shown here before, it was apparent that not half the people who wanted to see it, were able to attend. At least since that time, the Palace has received so many requests concerning a possible return engagement that it was decided to return the film for a three days engagement starting tomorrow and lasting through Friday evening.

Winnie Lightner Featured in "Gold Diggers of Broadway" A Warner Bros. Production

Once again Ann Pennington of the jet black hair, creamy skin and scintillating limbs will flash across the screen before a Norwich audience. Once again Nick Lucas of the incomparable tenor voice, will sing those unforgettable songs, "Tiptoe Through the Tulips," "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine," "In a Kitchenette" and others. Once again rowdy Winnie Lightner will thrill the fans with her inimitable wit and clowning tactics. Again Norwich movie-goers will be delighted by the love idyll played out by William Bakewell and his sweet faced partner, while Conway Tearle will again appear in his great role.

Today for the last time the Palace presents dazzling Irene Bordoni in her great success, "Paris." Here is another comedy revue with plenty of singing, dancing, color and melody. Jack Buchanan, who plays opposite her, has a splendid part, and Jason Robards lends marvelous comedy effects. The singing in this picture is superb, and Irene is as vivacious, as lovable, as irresistible as ever. No one should fail to see this play on its last showing here.

Announcement

All sittings made up to and including Dec. 20th, will positively be finished. Christmas eve. Open for sittings 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily. Desmarais Studio, 325 Main St., near Y. M. C. A. and post office.

Sale of Business on Bath Street

Clarence Sholes, real estate agent, has sold the great tea and coffee business of Mr. George Stanton that they have run for the last 60 years to Chester Appley of Norwich who will continue the same business.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Hooty Thinks Himself Very Smart.

Of wisdom it is ne'er a part
To think of self as extra smart.
—Old Mother Nature.

Hooty the Great Horned Owl was chuckling to himself. He chuckled and chuckled. It was a self-satisfied sort of chuckle. Could you have heard it you would have known instantly that Hooty was very well satisfied with himself. You see, he thought himself very smart. People do get that way sometimes.

The reason that Hooty thought himself so smart was that he was sure that Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy had no idea at all that he was watching them. Ever since Reddy Fox had told Hooty about the turkey dinner he had had, Hooty could think of little else. He wanted a turkey dinner himself. He wanted it with a very great longing, and, if it were a possible thing, he intended to have it.

"Sooner or later Reddy and Mrs. Reddy will try for another turkey," said Hooty, talking to himself. "They are bound to. Just as long as there are turkeys where there is any chance at all for those Foxes to get them, Reddy and Mrs. Reddy are going to try for them. He said those turkeys roost in a tree. Could anything be finer for me? A turkey in a tree is a dinner set for me. Those Foxes can't climb and I am glad of it. All I have to do is to find out where those turkeys are. They must be some distance from here, or I should have discovered them myself. I suppose I could make long trips all around the neighborhood looking for them and sooner or later I would find them. But the quickest way and easiest way is to keep watch of Reddy and Mrs. Reddy and let them lead me to the turkeys."

So, Hooty began hanging around the Old Pasture, excepting during the middle of the day. He pretended not to be watching Reddy and Mrs. Reddy. He pretended to be simply hunting. It didn't occur to him that Reddy and Mrs. Reddy might wonder why he had chosen the Old Pasture for his hunting ground, when never before had he paid it more than an occasional visit. He underrated the smartness of Reddy Fox. Yes, sir, he underrated Reddy's smartness. It doesn't do to underrate people. You are almost sure to lose out if you do.

So, Hooty took pains to be somewhere within sight of the home of Reddy in the Old Pasture late in the afternoon before it was time for Reddy to go hunting. Then he kept an eye on Reddy and Mrs. Reddy wherever they went. He did his best not to be seen himself. But he was seen. And all the time he was chuckling to himself and Reddy and Mrs. Reddy were chuckling to themselves. It was all a sort of game to see who could out-smart the other. And all the time the thoughts of all of them were concerned chiefly with turkeys.

Three days went past—three days and three nights. By day Reddy and Mrs. Reddy and Hooty slept much of the time. Late each afternoon all three were out and all night all three hunted, for such is the way of these folks. Hooty was beginning to get discouraged, for not once had either Reddy or Mrs. Reddy left the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. They had kept to their old hunting grounds. Hooty began to wonder if after all they had given up the idea of another turkey dinner. However, knowing Reddy and Mrs. Reddy as he did, he couldn't believe that.

"Patience," he would mutter to himself. "Patience. Nothing is gained without patience."

Curiously enough, Reddy was saying much the same thing to Mrs. Reddy. Both were anxious to get back for another try at those turkeys, but both realized that it would be wise not to go back too soon. Reddy had been shot at and stung by the shot. They knew that this meant that that farmer who had fired the terrible gun could be keeping a sharp watch over his turkeys for a while at least.

WESTERLY

DAMAGE OF $20,000 WHEN 22 BOX CARS LEAVE IRON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 16—Caused by a broken car wheel on the forward truck of a steel box car of the Lehigh Valley railroad, No. 134,955, twenty-two freight cars of a thirty-car freight left the rails of the west-bound tracks of the New Haven railroad, at 8:50 a. m. Monday, blocking both main line tracks at Westerly for three hours. Wrecked cars and damaged roadbed extended from just east of the Westerly block signal tower at the High street overhead bridge to the railroad bridge over Canal street. Several hundred railroad men were called to clear up the wreckage. The clearing-up process took all day and all night Monday. Railroad police were present in numbers and kept spectators off the tracks and up the embankments on either side to prevent accidents.

But one man was reported injured. Frank Baptiste, of 40 Pierce street, Westerly, local section hand, who stood with a number of other workmen near the section toolhouse as the wreckage was dragged past. He was struck by a flying bolt just above his left knee and sent sprawling across the tracks as he was running away from the on-coming wreckage with other workmen. He continued to work throughout the day.

The freight was known as K-N 1, or No. 3503, west bound from Providence to Cedar Hill, New Haven, in charge of Conductor W. J. Brain, South Braintre and Engineer D. Klem, Boston. Railroad officials think that the damage may amount to over $20,000. One of the biggest jobs on the railroad, an 125-car freight, east-bound, was stopped just before it reached the Westerly territory and a further crash and pile-up prevented.

Baggage Master Edward W. Pitcher of Westerly, was some 15 minutes earlier than usual in leaving the station platform and was looking out the window of the baggage room office as he heard the roar and saw the flashes of fire as the dragging wreckage passed the Westerly waiting station and immediately telephoned the train despatcher at the same time as Erastus Strong on duty in the Westerly signal tower was calling the despatcher, who had all trains stopped and railroad officials and workmen on their way to Westerly.

At Westerly freight office, Clerk Frank Collins had to go out on the freight platform and looking up the tracks heard the crash and continued roar, also saw the clouds of dirt raised by the wreckage. He climbed to the top of a box car and saw a freight car literally flying sideways along the track and passing the Westerly station saw the heavy iron fence separating the tracks mowed down like so much grass. The twisted iron fence, like so much folded ribbon was deposited on the Canal street bridge with derailed freight cars on top. These three or four cars which had fallen on the west-bound track were the first to be removed to allow trains to pass over this track.

The first passenger train to pull into Westerly after the wreck stopped east of the Westerly Lumber company plant at 11 o'clock, The west-bound passengers were taken aboard a New England Transportation Co. bus and carried to New London to make connection with the 11:40 train out of New London for New York.

In the nearly 2,000 feet over which wreckage was strewn, the largest pile of wrecked cars was just west of the High street bridge which carries the Noose Neck Hill motor traffic through Westerly. Just east of this bridge is buried a large water main of the Westerly Water works under the railroad bed. At the time the 22 cars left the rails no brakeman or crew of the freight was outside the caboose and there was no one standing in front of the railroad station as an open steel car sped by carrying with it nearly 500 feet of iron fence. Great balls of fire shot out from beneath this steel car as it swept the fence down and one piece of it, weighing about ten pounds, was hurled across the railroad property and Railroad avenue, landing in front of the Rossi filling station.

The box car which started the wreck was that which crashed into the truck of the car ahead of it and which had broken off from the engine, and a few cars which remained attached to it. lost its tow trucks at a point about 200 feet east of the passenger station, then being hurled a distance of about 100 feet through the air landed up-right on the eastbound track.

Ties were hurled several feet from the railroad bed and some of the trucks of the freight cars were embedded deep in the ground.

The best view of the wrecked freight cars was obtainable from the west side of the High street dry bridge, where there were ten or a dozen cars, one tight against the other and at right angles wit hthe tracks.

It was to get traffic by these cars that the cross over to siding was laid to carry the traffic on what is known as No. 3 track. Here the cars had dug deep holes in the roadbed and on the cement abutment of the High street bridge appeared a deep score where a freight car was dragged by and finally nested so close that signal wires had to be carried by under the bridge flooring to make room for the wreckers, the steam wrecker New Bedford from Providence working on this easterly end.

Following the piling up of the cars Station Agent Earl S. Bavier and Trainmaster Thomas Rawley listed the thirty cars of the freight, fourteen of which were empty cars mostly of other railroads; one car was filled with lumber and others were open cars with scrap iron and rails. Supt. H. A. Moynihan of the Providence division, was in early arrival and assumed general charge, and a temporary telephone service was established with division headquarters and the despatchers, from restaurants on the side of the section toolhouse on the site of the crash.

Inasmuch as various section men were to be engaged in putting in shape the newly-laid west-bound track rails, a large force of workmen was available to begin the job of cleaning up the wreckage.

While the workmen were engaged in spreading ties and laying rails for a cut-over from the east to the west-bound tracks, a wrecking crew with the wrecker from Midway, started at the west end of the wreckage. The first car removed was the open steel car which had come to a standstill on the Canal street bridge. The car was lifted by a crane and pulled down the line to the westward. The 500 feet of twisted iron fence was removed in one bunch.

The wrecker and crew then went on up the track and removed the box car which had left its trucks and landed on the east-bound track near the station. Work was then directed toward clearing the west-bound track which was blocked by three freight cars. When these cars were removed it was planned to send all passenger trains over this cross-over.

The crossover was completed at noon and train No. 10, The Bay State express, which left New York at 10 o'clock, due here at 1:23, arrived at 1:50 and crossed over to the west bound track and passed the location of the wreckage. The next train west was due here at 1:43, being the crack Pennsylvania R. R. Limited, No. 117, The Senator. This train was able to pass around the wreckage and proceed to Washington, on nearly schedule time. All trains are run slowly by the Westerly station and several days will be required to have everything in proper working order so that trains can pass at regular speed.

NO COURT SESSION HELD DURING MONDAY

MYSTIC

FUNERAL SERVICES MONDAY FOR MRS. F. ARMSTRONG

Funeral services for Frances Morgan, widow of Franklin Armstrong, who died in the Middlesex hospital, Middletown, Friday, were held from the home of her aunts, Misses Ruby and Helen Prentice of 20 Library street, Mystic, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. William G. Fagan, pastor of the Mystic Bridge Congregational church, conducted the services. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery. Mrs. Armstrong was born in Mystic, December 8, 1872, the daughter of Luther A. and Susan Prentice Morgan. She was a member of Williams Woman's Relief corps and on November 19, attended their meeting. Very soon after this she was taken ill and was removed to the hospital. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. G. Burns of Sanger, Cal., and two aunts, the Misses Prentice.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred E. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Spicer Brown were in Groton Saturday afternoon, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Wilfred Brown's mother, Mrs. S. Adelaide Spicer, wife of Edward E. Spicer of Groton. Wilfred E. Brown was one of the bearers.

Nearly all of Mystic radio owners tuned in to station WOR Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, to listen to the program broadcast by the New York Chamber Music society, Miss Carolyn Beebe of New York founder and pianist. Miss Beebe, her mother and sister, spend each summer at the Tift homestead on High street, Mystic, and she has many friends here. The program was broadcast from the Hotel Plaza, at which the society gives a salon concert regularly each Sunday. The announcer for station WOR noted that there were many distinguished people and artists present. The program Sunday evening was the first to be broadcast, and included selections from Beethoven, Saint-Saens, Brahms and Charles Maduro. The last named composed a selection especially for the organization's first performance. The New York Chamber Music society is made up of ten solo artists of international reputation, in addition to Miss Beebe.

Mrs. Albert Talbot and Miss Marian Gilfillan spent the week end in Hartford.

Winfield S. Lamphere Improving

Mrs. Leffingwell, of Norwich, visited her brother, Winfield S. Lamphere of High street, Mystic, Sunday afternoon. On December 7, Mr. Lamphere was knocked to the ground by a hit-and-run driver, and was bruised on his body and left leg. The left side of his face was lacerated badly. He is improving as well as can be expected. Mr Lamphere was walking along the Noank road and when in front of the residence of Walter Atwood, saw a car coming around the corner toward him, at a high rate of speed. He stepped off the road and waited for the car to pass, but evidently the driver could not bring his car back to the road quickly enough, for the machine struck Mr. Lamphere a glancing blow which threw him to the ground. The driver then speeded up and went on toward Noank. A motorist happening along took the injured man to his home.

HOW FRIDAY THE 13th UPSET THINGS IN THE VILLAGE

Friday the 13th was the last unlucky day of the year 1929. Max McCann started for his work in New London caught the six o'clock bus; that is the workingman's special. It was crowded and he was lucky to get a seat with a Wop. Setting his dinner pail alongside his friend, on getting off, he picked up the wrong lunch pail and started for his work. When the noon whistle blew he sat down to enjoy his lunch. He found that he had the wrong lunch pail—it had four onion sandwiches, a half loaf of bread with no butter. Mike remembered that it was the 13th, so he smallowed the lunch while his friend had whipped cream, steak, coffee and pumpkin pie. So his fellow workmen had the laugh on Mike, calling it his unlucky day. When he found out that he had forgot to put on his socks. Well, it beat everything for Friday! After his day's work was over Mike told his wife the hard luck story. She laughed and claimed "That is nothing' You know our yellow cat Clover? He got up a elm tree, 50 feet in the air, could not get down and was crying, so I felt bad and sent in a still alarm to the Smoke Eaters. They came down with the red fire engine and six men." The 80-foot ladder was broken out and up when Smoke Eater Carl Ashcraft to save Mrs. McCann's pet cat. He got there and was taking him down. The cat got to scratching but Hero Ashcraft held on tight. His face was marked like a prize fighter's after a hard battle, but the yellow cat, Clover, was glad to be free and in the arms of his mistress. The smallest fireman, Charles Ellis said, "Do you know what day this is? The 13th!" "Well," Ashcraft said, "that is my luck—instead of a fire, a cat up a tree!" Back to the fireroom they went and it sure was Friday the 13th for the McCann's! A certain grocery owner had a pitcher of coffee brought out by his wife and the lady bookkeeper had her cup with another cup left. With several in the store. She with a sweet voice said "Who wants a cup of coffee?" One fellow, Jake Barry, said "I do!" Soon the owner came in for his coffee and found it gone, so he got a big razzberry all morning. The owner had to lose his special coffee.

Miss Julia Cross was getting dinner ready for her mother was sick. She was playing the radio, with a roast of beef in the oven, table set and 12 o'clock came. She noticed the kitchen filled with smoke and something burning. She could not see across the room and she forgot the roast so they had to have crackers and milk for dinner and the family lost a nice meal.

Auto Owner Peter Grant started for New London to see a show. The fog was thick so he could not cut it with a knife. He could see only a couple of inches ahead. Taking a back road for a short cut, Driver Grant took the wrong turn, kept driving and thought he was near New London. He drove about two hours and landed in Putnam. So Peter Grant lost the show, was a long way from home, never got back to the fishing village until 11 o'clock, ran out of gas on the way back and was five hours driving in the fog. He lost not only a show but his supper. He sure was mad at Friday the 13th.

Jesse Bennett was going along with a piece of heavy lumber on his shoulder. His pocket caught fire from some matches, burned the pocket, also a $2 bill went up in smoke. The fire was put out by Buster Powers who threw a pail of water on the blaze, but that did not save the $2 bill. Bennett said "It sure cost me something! Ruined my pants, lost a half-day's work, and a good American bank bill. All happened on the 13th! Believe me I'll never forget this day!"

The people will talk about it until another Friday with two numbers reading 13, come around. Many don't believe in Fridays or signs, but look at all this proof!

LEADING SHARES CLOSED LOWER IN DULL SESSION OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.— (AP) — The stock market limped into the new week rather feebly today. Prices sank rapidly and trading dwindled off to the smallest proportions since the first of the month, only 2,592,110 shares changing hands. Leading shares generally closed 1 to 3 points lower, with some of the lightly traded specialties showing wider gains. The rally of the last two days of last week was largely cancelled.

The market appeared to have entered another period of uncertainty, and traders were inclined to lighten accounts pending signs of a definite trend. Practically no interest appeared in the bull side of the market, and speculators for the fall were but mildly active, apparently reflecting the old axiom in Wall street, Never sell a dull market.

Corporation news was meagre, and industrial statistics coming to hand of a character were to inspire further caution. The degree of general business recession in November, however as graphically portrayed by the department of labor's employment statistics, was moderate. A decrease from October appeared in employment of 3.1 per cent, and in payrolls of 6.8 per cent, but this is in a measure seasonal. The employment index of 54.8 was but slightly under the 55.4 of November 1928, and of payrolls, 95.1, contrasted to 96.1 for the same month a year ago.

Foreign trade statistics for November also attested the moderate decline of activity, exports amounted to $448,000,000, compared with $544,912,000 in the same period of 1928. Imports were $109,000,000 less than exports, and slightly larger than the same month a year ago.

A favorable survey coming to hand was a study of 1930 dividend prospects by David Friday, well-known economist, who found that if the present recession is as great as that of 1924, and most observers doubt that it will be, 1930 corporate earnings still will be well above the total of dividends paid in 1929. He pointed out that corporations generally have not cut into surplus to pay dividends in the past eight years.

Considerable disappointed selling of the rails appeared as a result of the non-appearance of the interstate commerce commission's consolidation plan over the week end, which had been expected in some quarters. The plan is widely expected within the next two weeks, however, and J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, stated that if it is a "logical, well-considered scheme," the coming year should mark a new era of prosperity for the railroads. He looked for the present recession to last not more than 3 or 4 months.

There was little change in credit conditions. Call money held officially at 4 1-2 per cent, but moved at 4 in the outside market, with demand slight. Conditions were eased slightly by a government overdraft of $250,000,000 in connection with the refinancing, but this will be rapidly reduced, $100,000,000 being paid up tomorrow, as result of cash payment for the initial issue of bills. Foreign exchanges were firm, and further large exports of gold appeared imminent.

U. S. Steel dropped 7 5-8 points, reflecting further reductions in steel mill operations to around 60 per cent of capacity. Such shares as American Can, A. M. Byers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Johns Manville, and Western Union closed about 6 to 8 points lower. Auburn Auto dropped 16.

Utilities were conspicuously heavy. American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, American Telephone, Columbia Gas, Standard Gas, Detroit Edison, Stone and Webster, and Brooklyn Union Gas lost from 4 to 10 points. Pacific Coast Co., which has varied holdings on the west coast, was a weak feature of the day, dropping 13 points to a new low of 10.

In the rails, Chesapeake and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Erie, Union Pacific, New York Central, and New Haven dropped 2 to 7 points.

Fox Film rallied in the morning on report of a favorable reorganization plan, but more than lost its gain later when official comment was withheld.

Grains were firm, in contrast to stocks. Wheat sold up 2 cents a bushel and more, reflecting small world shipments, and higher prices at Liverpool. Corn mounted about a cent. Cotton, however, was heavy and dull, also in sympathy with Liverpool. Closing prices were 70 to 95 cents a bale lower.

In the firm foreign exchanges, the German mark reached another new high for the year, the Canadian dollar rallied about 1-8 cent, and Sterling Cables held firm at $4.88 1-4.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Slightly firmer tendencies in the time money market curtailed trading in an already dull bond list today and many of the closing prices showed small net declines. Liberties, Treasuries and the first grade rails, however, met enough support to hold quotations steady, although it was apparent that large customers were making only limited inquiries for these prime investment loans.

Much of the interest was in the direction of new financing, both immediate and prospective. Several issues were announced for immediate offering, including a $30,000,000 5 per cent 25-year issue of Canadian Pacific Railway collateral trust bonds at par; a $2,300,000 issue of City of Cincinnati serial 4 1-2s to yield 4.20 to 4.40; and a $4,000,000 loan by the American Gas and Power company in ten year 6 per cent debentures at 95.

Several developments were reported in the foreign field. It was learned that an $8,000,000 loan for the province of Buenos Aires, the first piece of South American financing in months, had been arranged for flotation this week. The bonds, due in 1961, will bear 6 1-2 per cent coupons. Advices from Vienna reported that plans for a $100,000,000 international loan by Austria were making progress, while the City of Montreal announced that it would receive bids for an $18,000,000 long term bond issue.

Convertibles softened on the downward movement of stocks, but activity in the share privilege group was unimpressive, losses of 1 to 4 points developed on desultory dealings in American Telephone 4 1-2s, American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s, Atchison 4 1-2s, International Telephone 4 1-2s, New Haven 6s and American International 5 1-2. Chicago North Western 4 3-4s and Texas Corporation 5s were undisturbed by the selling tendency.

Gains and losses matched each other fairly well in the railroad group and most of the changes were less than a point in extent. Among the issues finishing with small net gains were Canadian National 4 1-2s, Illinois Central 4 3-4s, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4 1-2s, Reading General 4 1-2s, Union Pacific First 4s and St. Louis-San Francisco prior lien 5s. A few carriers advanced a full point. Changes on the down side embraced Baltimore & Ohio First 5s, Atchison General 4s, Rock Island General 4s, and Missouri Pacific 5s.

A few utility loans succeeded in rising about a point among them were Consolidated Gas of New York 5 1-2s, Federal Light & Traction 6s, and Laclede Gas 5 1-2s.

Industrials were quiet, with a moderate easing trend in evidence. Foreign bonds likewise inclined downward on small transactions.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Emphatic notice that the federal farm board is determined wheat prices must advance gave a touch of fire to wheat buying here today. The market jumped quickly and closed strong at about the day's top level. It was officially announced that unlimited funds are to be available for loans to wheat growers organizations, and that the rates for such loans are not to be changed because prices in various localities have dropped below the standard of values fixed by the board.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were buoyant, 2 1-8c to 2 5-8 a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 3-4c to 1 1-4c advanced; oats 1-4 at 3-8 to 5-8c up, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 1c.

Before word came that the federal farm board was taking an aggressive stand in favor of higher prices for wheat, the market here had shown considerable of an upward trend at times, but was beginning to drop when dispatches from Washington were received outlining the board's position. Throughout the remainder of the day, wheat gained rapidly in strength, and this was the case in particular during the final half hour of trading. Activity of buying continued unabated in the face of news that the United States wheat visible supply again showed but a disappointingly small decrease, 512,000 bushels reduction for the week.

Contributing to the strength of wheat values today, however, was news that the amount of wheat on ocean passage had fallen off more than 2,500,000 bushels since a week ago, and is now 26,664,000 bushels, compared with 54,984,000 bushels at this time last year, world shipments for the week being only 10,674,000 bushels against 17,257,000 bushels at this time in 1928. Moreover, stocks of wheat in Germany are 22,000,000 bushels smaller than a year ago, and harvest returns in South Argentina are turning out a good deal below expectation. Export business today in wheat from North America was estimated at 800,000 bushels with indications of a better demand developing, especially from European continental countries.

Corn and oats rose with wheat and as a result of mild damp weather unfavorable for the movement of the corn crop.

Provisions inclined downward on account of setbacks in the value of hogs.

LOCAL BUILDING OPERATIONS NOW IN MIDST OF THE SLACK SEASON

The slack building period has apparently struck on in earnest according to the records of new building at the office of Fire Marshal Henry R Taft. During the past week only two permits for new building were granted by the fire marshal and these were for garages. The first week in December saw only four permits granted bringing the total for the month to six, which to date makes this month the lowest of the year.

However considerable progress has been made on local building projects during these two weeks. At the Norwich inn the work has progressed to a point where the winter weather will not materially hamper the work. The building has been roofed in and the interior work from now on will progress rapidly. The building shows up extremely well on its ideal location and is attracting much favorable attention. It is very attractive in design and when completed will be one of the best looking buildings in this section of the state.

Excavation work for the new Norton gymnasium at the Norwich Free Academy is almost completed. Here the work is not being slowed to any great degree by the cold weather and it is expected that with fairly favorable weather the foundation will be in so that work on the superstructure can go ahead rapidly when the spring weather arrives.

The permits issued last week were as follows:

To Charles Ahlberg to erect a one-car garage at 147 Hickory street for himself. The garage will have a foundation of stone and cement and will be 12x12 feet. The exterior will be finished in clapboards with non-combustible shingles on the roof. The estimated cost is $100.

To the Misses Cogswell to build a two-car garage on Washington place. The foundation and floor of the garage will be of concrete with frame superstructure. The sides of the garage will be in novelty siding while the roof will be finished in non-combustible shingles. The garage will be finished in non-combustible shingles. The garage will be 18x20 feet. The estimated cost is $375.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were eight sales of real estate, one less than during the corresponding week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $432,333 and $21,868.

In New London there were nine sales of real estate during the past week as compared to 15 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $36,930 and $98,650.

BUILDING EXPANSION NEEDED

The most immediate response to President Hoover's business conferences, called to restore business confidence and bring out the fundamental soundness of real business conditions, has been sounded in the building construction industry. And there is ample guaranty that Connecticut will share handsomely in the expansion promised for the coming year by huge construction programs projected not merely as a support to the president's efforts but because this construction is actually needed and conditions are favorable for getting it under way.

MANY CONNECTICUT PROJECTS

Requests for an additional congressional authorization of $215,000,000 for the construction of postoffices and other federal buildings throughout the country will, if approved, allow for the further consideration of the need for new post office buildings in the following Connecticut cities and towns: Westport, Winsted, Fairfield, Plainville, Southington, Clinton, Danielson, East Hampton, Glastonbury, Manchester, New Canaan, New Milford, Salisbury, Shelton, Thomaston, and Thompsonville. In addition there is a recognized need for extensive dwelling house construction in this state, particularly in certain localities where dwelling construction, during recent years, has failed in large measure to keep pace with industrial development. In Danielson, for example, plans are being formulated for the financing of a housing construction project said to involve some fifty dwellings that are needed to relieve an existing shortage. Another case in point is the pending condition in East Hartford where at least one entire out-of-the-state industrial plant with a large working force is soon to commence operations. These are but a few of many instances pointing to broadly expanded building operations in Connecticut for 1930.

NEW LONDON

Building contractors got their first real weather setback of the season during the past week, and as a result some delay was occasioned on various jobs, particularly in cases where the work had not been inclosed.

Despite the weather handicaps, however, contractors are going ahead as fast as possible and are making use of various things by which winter building operations can go ahead much better now than in former years.

By use of canvas inclosures little delay is resulting from cold or stormy weather on most brick and stone jobs on which there is the danger of the mortar freezing. These inclosures are heated with coke and other types of heating units. By this same means concrete work is protected from the ravages of the winter season and very little work is now postponed because of the weather.

While there is not as much delay as in former years over winter weather the extra cost of construction still prevails to a certain extent and of necessity contractors must allow for extra labor to combat stormy weather on open jobs, particularly where snow is the difficulty. A general survey reveals, however, that these minor differences between winter and summer building are either balanced by disadvantages of a different nature existing in summer building or are of such a minor nature as to cause no hesitancy of prospective builders going ahead with their plans regardless of the season.

WESTERLY

Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi issued the following building and zoning permits up to the middle of December:

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP) — The impending consolidation plans expected to be announced soon by the interstate commerce commission is the chief concern of American railroads as they go into the new year, J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, said today. If that plan is a "logical, well-considered scheme for welding transportation facilities of the country into an efficient number of systems and each given a chance to earn its way," he added, "I should say that the coming year would make the start of a new era of prosperity for the railroads and that, of course, means prosperity for the country."

The Standard Gas & Electric company, it was reported today, will soon offer 100,000 shares of $4 cumulative preferred stock, the proceeds from the sale of which will be used mostly for investments in subsidiaries.

The board of directors of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has been increased from seven to nine members. Newly elected directors are L. R. Jackson, general sales manager, and B. M. Robinson, assistant secretary.

Contracts awarded for new buildings and engineering work in the metropolitan area of New York for the week ending Dec 13, were valued at $20,218,400, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation. This amount compares with $40,607,400 for the preceding week.

New life insurance written during November totaled $1,039,727,000, compared with $924,350,000 in the same month last year an increase of 12.5 per cent, the American Association of Life Insurance Presidents reported to the department of commerce today. The increase in November over October was 9.1 per cent.

PROPER USE OF HUMIDIFIER STOPS DUST

It is self-evident that the first function of a humidifier is to add the proper amount of moisture to the air. There are other factors, however, that are necessary for a really efficient humidifier to embody in its construction. It should protect the walls and draperies from streaking and becoming dust-laden by removing this dust from the air as it rises through the radiators. It should be supported by and add to the appearance of the radiator. Its finish or paint should harmonize with the general decorative features of the rest of the room or the radiator itself. It should require very little attention, no consumption of electrical power, or useless waste of water. Every bit of water used in filling the humidifier should be consumed. In this way we can check on the amount of water evaporated.

It should maintain a uniform degree of humidity, which is only obtainable in the case of our modern heating systems (steam and hot water radiators) when the heat and moisture come from the same place in proportional amounts. Thus, in the case of having a humidifier attached to each radiator, we obtain the necessary distribution of moisture throughout our homes as we obtain necessary distribution of heat by having a radiator and humidifier in each room.

The humidifier should be so constructed that "it cleanses the air you breathe." Clean, washed, moist air is your greatest protection gaainst winter ills.

ONLY EXCUSE FOR PAINTING BRICKS

Where one desires some special color effects to complete an architectural picture, or for contrast, painting a brick house is entirely excusable. But hardly otherwise. In no other way does it serve any beneficial purpose, for bricks are not improved in quality, or durability by its application.

Painting can be made, however, to enhance architectural harmony very decisively. Desired appearances of age also are hastened through its skilful use. And where one prefers a white house, yet insists upon it being built of brick, paint is the answer. The white house is always brightening in its effect upon the landscape and always shows to the best advantage in wooden setting. There, at least, painting helps.—Building Economy.

And lots of people who think that they have nothing but trouble don't know what trouble really is.

Three New Houses Built At The Corner of Newton and Asylum Streets

One of the sections in the city that has been rapidly developed during the past year is that part of the West Side in the neighborhood of Asylum and Newton streets and Grant court. The above picture shows three of the new houses built at the corner of Newton and Asylum streets by a local contractor who is building them for investment.

The first house is a two-apartment structure with all modern improvements and has not yet been completed, workmen being engaged in the interior finishing. The other two houses are single family houses which are neat in appearance and have every modern convenience. These two houses are now occupied.

This part of the city is ideal for building purposes and many houses are being planned for the coming year. It is a section where excavation work is easy and the cost of building is fairly low. These three houses face the east and a delightful view of the city is obtained from them.

Autumn Fashions

The Maple owned that she was tired of always wearing green,
She knew that she had grown of late to shabby to be seen!
The Oak and Beech and Chestnut then deplored their shabbiness,
And all, except the Hemlock sad, were wild to change their dress.

"For fashion plates we'll take the flowers," the rustling Maple said,
"And like the Tulip I'll be clothed in splendid gold and red!"
"The cheerful Sunflower suits me best," the lightsome Beech replied.
"The Marigold my choice shall be," the Chestnut spoke with pride.
The sturdy Oak took time to think "I hate such glaring hues;
The Gillyflower, so dark and rich, I for my mode, choose."

So every tree in all the grove, except the Hemlock said,
According to its wish era long in brilliant dress was clad,
And here they stand through all the soft and bright October days;
They wished to be like flowers, indeed they look like huge bouquets.

The Loveless Sea

The deep that lieth under
 Spake to the realms above—
"My works abound in wonder,
 But yours are crowned with love.

"Trust not that ancient story,
 Love rose not from the sea,
In heaven she sits in glory,
 O'er earth she wanders free.

"But through my wastes of water
 Her footsteps never stray,
Though seas run red with slaughter,
 She chides not them that slay.

"I nursed life's rude beginnings,
 On earth transformed they grow,
To count among their winnings
 The Love I ne'er may know.

"There, even the tigress mother
 Will die her young to save;
Heaven's birds love one another;
 Nought sives beneath the wave."

—Thomas Hornely in the London Mercury.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Dentist—You have a cavity in that tooth. What do you want to me to fill it with?

Little Jimmy—Fill it up with chocolate.—The Pathfinder.

He—Well, my father has another wife to support now.

She—How's that, is he a bigamist?

He—No, but I just got married.—Sun Dial.

Man (over telephone)—May I speak with Mr. Smith?

Self-important secretary—Mr. Smith is out; what can I do for you?

"Hang up the receiver."—Boston Transcript.

As the umpire dusted off his plate he asked his wife what there was for breakfast.

"Buckwheat cakes."

"I get you. Batter up."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"What did that traffic cop say to you?"

"I don't know," answered Mr. Chuggins. "I was so busy saying 'yes, sir,' that I couldn't hear him."—Washington Star.

The explorer was describing one of his narrow escapes to a crowd of people.

"I grabbed hold of the lion's neck, rolled over and over, and—"

Voice—And fell out of bed!—Tit-Bits.

"Oh, Jack, I'd just love to be on that ship bound for London."

"You'd be a mighty unpopular passenger."

"Why, dearest?"

"Because everyone on board wants to get to New Zealand.—Detroit News.

A certain church warden has his own way of dealing with cases of doubtful charity.

One Sunday morning he was on his way round with the plate, and at last reached a man of questionable generosity.

The latter, remembering it is finer that one should not publish one's good deeds too widely, concealed his donation in his fist and reached for the plate, whereupon the churchwarden, withdrawing it before he could reach it, said in a stern whisper: "Give it to me, sir. One has just come off my coat."—London Tit-Bits.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Rose fritters are a Chinese holiday dish.

Cigarettes with a self-lighting tip have been invented.

Coffee roasting on the Pacific coast has increased 223 per cent in 15 years.

Harmonica classes are fostered by the Flint (Mich.) Rotary club for boys and girls.

A survey of 124 farms in six Minnesota counties showed tenant farmers were better off financially than farm owners.

War veterans in a hospital at Muskogee, Okla., earn money by making poppies. They get a cent for every 10-cent flower made.

A prize collection of "outlaw" and Confederate money now in the museum of Emory university at Atlanta came from Fond du Lac, Wis.

Records in Hays county, Texas, show that $107 was sufficient to clothe, feed and support a 16-year-old boy in school for a year in 1845.

Wiping his glasses in the woods with a white handkerchief cost Ira Chapman of Kittery, Me., painful injury in both hads when a companion seeing the white flash, thought it was a deer's tail and fired. Chapman was obliged to submit to the amputation of a part of a finger on each hand.

A Pittsburgh (Pa.) woman and her children, visiting in the mountains of Arizona the last summer, had a great time mountain-climbing on burros. One day they had an opportunity to buy one of the "mountain canaries" for 35 cents and decided to ship it back home. They sent it by express to Pennsylvania and the bill was $168.

A record for unusual hunting goes to Ulysses Seiders, of South Waldoboro, Me. He set out, with his gun over his arm, for the region known as Far Meadows, and there discovered a full-grown bull moose caught in a 60-foot well. It is thought the animal tumbled into the shaft in the night. Returning for rope and tackle, Seiders succeeded in placing a turn about the moose and after much effort raised him to the surface.

There is a woman of wisdom down in Wellfleet. Going out for an evening stroll she was accompanied by several pet cats. As she turned back to the house they scampered ahead and one in the group didn't look familiar. When a light was turned on it was found that the extra kitty had a broad back and white stripes and had curled itself up in a corner of the room for the night. The woman left Mr. Skunk in possession, likewise left an outside door open, and went upstairs to bed. In the morning the uninvited guest had gone away, leaving no disturbing evidence of its sojourn.

Money can be lost in more ways than won.

LEGAL NOTICES

HARRIETT C. POTTER VS. FRED L. Potter, Order of Notice.
State of Connecticut, County of New London, December 12th, 1929.
Upon the complaint of the said Harriett C. Potter claiming for the reasons therein set forth a divorce, returnable on the first Tuesday of January, 1930, before the Superior Court in and for said County.
It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant, Fred L. Potter, formerly of Norwich, Connecticut, is gone to parts unknown.
It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendant by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, two days successively, commencing on or before the 25th day of December, 1929
WILLIAM H. SHIELDS, Jr.
Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 16th day of December, A. D. 1929.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of Abraham Jacobson, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.
Ordered, That the Administrator with the will annexed cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE
All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 167 West Main St., Norwich, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.
JOSEPH J. JACOBSON.
Admr. with the will annexed.

FLOYD R. MONROE VS. O. C. Wolfe Inc., Superior Court, New London County, December 13th, 1929.
NOTICE OF LIMITATION OF TIME FOR PRESENTATION OF CLAIMS
Notice is hereby given that in the above entitled action on the 6th day of December, 1929, the Superior Court for New London County, State of Connecticut, wherein the undersigned William Z. White was appointed permanent receiver of O. C. Wolfe Inc. on said December 6th, 1929, made and entered the following order limiting the time for the presentation to said receiver of claims against said O. C. Wolfe Inc.:
"That four months from and after December 20th, 1929, be and the same is hereby limited for the presentation to said receiver of claims against said estate; that all claims not so presented be thereafter forever barred, and that said receiver give notice to all parties concerned of said limitation, that all claims not presented within the time limited will be thereafter barred and of the address to which claims may be sent to him by mail, by publishing such notice in three issues each of the "New London Day" and the "Norwich Bulletin," newspapers published in New London and Norwich respectively, and by causing a copy of said notice to be mailed postage paid to each known creditor, all on or before the 19th day of December, 1929."
All claims not presented to the receiver within four months from and after December 20th 1929, will thereafter be barred.
Claims may be sent to the receiver by mail to the following address: William Z. White, Receiver of O. C. Wolfe Inc. Plant Bldg., New London, Conn.

Six New Pullman Cars

Carrying to its logical conclusion the thought in naming "The Senator," Boston-Washington limited, the New Haven railroad announces that six new cars for this train which are in course of construction by the Pullman company at Chicago, are to be named after six members of the original senate which ratified the constitution of the United States.

It's a question which are worse, shortcomings or long stayings.

GOOD CARD OF BOXING AT NEW LONDON ARMORY TONIGHT; CICCONE VS. OWENS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 16.—The first boxing show of the winter season will be put on here Tuesday evening under the auspices of the East End A. C., Joe "Pop" Connelly and Tom Eslahan, matchmakers. This show is the first since the dismal failure of the Arena A. C. early in the summer. The management of the show Tuesday evening, is endeavoring to give Norwich and New London fans plenty of action in this first card which is to be staged at the State armory.

The fortunes of Johnny Ciccone, hard punching Schenectady, N. Y. junior lightweight, against Marty Owens, Boston slugger, will command the immediate interest of spectators in the big national guard drill shed. However, the show will mean more than an exhibition of snout-busting and ear-scrambling. Its success or failure from a financial angle, will practically decide the course which Joe Connelly and Tom Eslahan, co-promoters, will follow in their future undertakings.

Three different promotorial combinations have tried their luck with the professional fight racket in this city during the past four years. The Thames A. C. attempted indoor and outdoor shows under two different managements and these were followed by the Arena A. C., which resulted in the erection of the Hamilton street arena for outdoor shows. All three groups ended in financial straits.

The Connelly-Eslahan combination, operating under the club name of East End A. C., has planned its first show with the expectations of a maximum "gate" of 2,500 paid admissions. With a full house the East End A. C. goose will hang high, but average figures in other promotorial enterprises indicate that the club must take in at least 1,500 paid admissions to make both ends meet. This estimate is based on the promotorial rule that a show costs between 50 and 60 per cent of the maximum cost.

In making the matches for tomorrow's show, Matchmaker Connelly intended that the fans should get plenty of action and judging from the card he has drawn up, there will be few dull moments.

The Ciccone-Owens bout should make a good impression with those who like healthy punching. Ciccone will take care of that if he is anywhere near the form he displayed when he defeated Bat Battalino in New Haven less than two years ago.

Coast guard fans will be interested in the fortunes of their favorite, Bobby Marriott, middleweight, against Eddie Dowd, of Boston, in the eight round semi-final. Marriott is a hard hitter but Dowd is not the easiest man in the world to hit.

A six rounder and two fours complete the card. In one of the preliminaries, George Anderstars, lightweight champion of the coast guard, meets Elmer Ciccone, brother of Johnny, over the four round route.

PHI DELTA NU FIVE IN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

In another game, which was not a Church league encounter, the All Stars beat the Gamma club, 38 to 27. This game was a substitute for the regular scheduled league game.

YALE NOT TO PLAY ON THE PACIFIC COAST

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Harold E. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic association, stated tonight that Yale authorities had heard nothing of the invitation from the University of California for a post-season game New Year's day, 1931, or during the last week in December, 1930, and that if it were received there would not be "a chance in the world of Yale going to the coast at that time."

Mr. Woodcock said the Yale board of athletic control had already established a football policy for 1930 and 1931, and that the trip to Chicago when the University of Chicago eleven will be met by Yale as part of the anniversary ceremony in honor of Alonzo Stagg, would be the only western trip made by the Elis.

PRO-AMATEUR STARTS TODAY AT SAN GABRIEL

SAN GABRIEL, Cal., Dec. 16.—(AP)—With the Catalina open tournament behind them, the army of divoteers today moved to the Oak Studded Country club here to test their golf clubs on the course where tomorrow they will compete for the top prizes of the San Gabriel $1,000 amateur-professional event.

Most of the outstanding golfers who have taken part in the other tourneys on the coast this winter will be present, including Tony Manero, New York professional who won the Catalina open Sunday; Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, who placed second, and Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., star.

The plan is to pair each professional with an amateur player for the two days of medal play.

GREENLEAF SETS TWO NEW POOL RECORDS IN MATCH

DETROIT, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf of New York defeated Frank Taberski, 125 to 9, in tonight's game of the world's championship pocket billiard tournament, and in doing it broke two world's records.

Greenleaf beated the defending champion in two innings, and made an unfinished run of 126.

This was the second time during the present tournament that two new world's records have been established in a single game. Greenleaf's feat tonight took the world's record run away from Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, who ran 111 last week. By winning in two innings, the New Yorker also snatched another laurel from Rudolph, who broke all previous records by winning in four.

A scratch in the first inning made it necessary for Greenleaf, who is a former world's champion, to run 126 balls to win the game. Taberski missed the only time he had a chance with the cue.

The remarkable performance of the New Yorker, however, left Rudolph with one world's record, which he acquired this afternoon by defeating Marcel Camp, of Detroit, in 10 minutes, the shortest time on record for a 125-point game. The best previous time was 37 minutes, made by Rudolph last week.

Rudolph still holds the lead in the tournament, having won five games and lost none, but tonight's victory places Greenleaf in second place, with four games won and one lost. Greenleaf and Rudolph will meet in one of the two games each still must play. One of the two men is certain to win the championship, with the possibility that they may play off a tie.

Rudolph's victory over Camp this afternoon was by a score of 125 to 9 in six innings and was featured by a run of 104. In the first game of the afternoon Spencer Livsey of Los Angeles played his final tournament game by defeating Joseph J. McCann of Jacksonville, Fla., 125 to 55, in 21 innings. This was McCann's sixth straight defeat.

WHITESIDE TO COACH CREWS AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 16—(AP)—Charles J. Whiteside, former freshman rowing coach at Syracuse, today took over his new duties as a member of the Harvard varsity coaching staff. After conferring at length with William J. Bingham, director of athletics, the new coach inspected the Crimson's rowing facilities.

Following the conference, Bingham stated: "Whiteside will coach whatever crews I designate, and he is not the new head coach at Harvard. In all probability, he will work with Bert Haines on the varsity and freshman eights."

Bingham, however, declared that his rowing plans had not developed to the point where he could name a successor for Ed Brown, who resigned as head coach early this fall. Since then, Haines, who refused the varsity position several years ago, has been supervising the varsity fall practice as well as that of his own freshman squad.

Brown, according to Director Bingham, will be in charge of the class crews next season.

Although Whiteside has never seen a Harvard crew row, it is likely that he will be named head coach as soon as he becomes accustomed to existing conditions.

Close followers of Harvard rowing pointed out that Haines would be able to supply him with all of the angles of the Crimson's rowing problems long before it was time to send the crews out doors.

ALL-EAST TEAM HAS WORKOUT AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—(AP)—The all-star eastern team, which meets a like squad of western stars in the annual New Year's day charity football game at San Francisco, went through a spirited workout at Dyche stadium, today, and then entrained for the Pacific coast.

All 22 invited players responded for the workout and Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern drilled them for more than an hour. Several new plays were given the squad, which is composed of eastern and middle western players.

While no announcement was made of the starting lineup, the coaches placed these men in positions during most of today's practices: "Frosty" Peters, Illinois, quarterback; Holm, Alabama, fullback; Brazil, Detroit, and Glasscow, Iowa, halfbacks; Tanner, Minnesota, and Booma, Dartmouth, ends; Sleight, Purdue, and Nagurski, Minnesota, tackles; Cannon, Notre Dame, and Anderson, Northwestern, guards, and Cox, Colgate, center.

LEONARD JREPARING TO COME BACK AS WELTER

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 16—(AP)—Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, is in training here for a comeback to the ring in the welterweight division.

Barney Ferber, boyhood friend of Leonard, who will manage him, announced this today. Ferber said that Leonard has been training for the past week.

For the present, Ferber said, Leonard will confine himself to taking off weight. Two hours every morning is devoted to road work and in the afternoon the retired champion works out in the high school gymnasium under the direction of Francis Johnson, coach of the Lakewood football team.

Ferber stated Leonard is confident he can put himself into condition for a match in the near future.

Susie Says

It seems to be "open season" on cops up in the Thread City.

The pleasant pastime of taking a sucker shot at a cop's jaw, however, has its drawbacks as Judge Foss has the last word which is "Six months in jail."

Twice, within a week, have officers, in attempting to make arrests, been handed a haymaker to the head but as is said of the Royal Mounted, "they got their man."

The first case was when Capt. McLean lost a decision to William "Young" Bicknell last week. Judge Foss, who was called into the matter as referee, finally awarded the verdict to the captain and disqualified Bicknell.

Bicknell has been suspended from Willimantic society for a period of six months and has taken up training quarters at the Brooklyn jail, but will swing no more haymakers, unless it is at a good rugged rock pile until next July.

But the strange part of the Bicknell-McLean bout is that it is said that Capt. McLean taught Bicknell all he knew of the manly art of self-defense.

It seems that a year or two ago, when amateur boxing was at its height, Capt. McLean, who was something of a pugilistic in his younger days, had a stable of young boxers to whom he was imparting his knowledge of the game. Young Bicknell was a pupil of his, so they say.

And now it looks like the pupil was more proficient than his master, and no doubt the captain with his cut eye and his split ear wishes he had not been so thorough with Bicknell's pugilistic instruction.

But all joking aside, it has come to a pretty pass when an officer can't make an arrest without taking a beating along with it. And when the judge gives 'em only six months it's just too bad he don't give 'em more.

But enough six month stretches ought to discourage the pugilistic aspirations of the boys whose aim and ambition is to beat up a cop.

CHANGES MADE IN HOCKEY RULES SLOW GAME

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—(AP)—Greater speed and higher scoring which have characterized hockey this season, promise to be considerably modified by action of the board of governors of the National Hockey league, who today approved an amendment affecting the forward passing rule.

The amendment forbids any player on the attacking side crossing his opponent's blue line ahead of the puck. Under the rule which has governed play this season, and which was responsible for more action and greater scoring power, there was no restriction as to who should cross the line first. The rule, before revision, permitted players to go down to the defending zaze and wait for team-mates to bring the puck down, similar to a "basket hanger" in basketball.

No change was made in the rule governing forward passing itself, indicating the governors wished to tame the game down only a little. The change was said to have been sponsored by Leo Dandurand, president of Les Canadiens of Montreal and Connie Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Managers Tom Shaughnessy of the Chicago Black Hawks, and Frank Frederickson of the Pittsburgh Pirates, declared the rule change would make it necessary for them to revise their methods of attack.

The amendment will become effective Saturday.

Two minor leagues, the Canadian-American and the Pacific coast circuit, were affiliated with the national organization, and will be subject to draft.

CALIFORNIA TO PLAY POST-SEASON GAME NEXT YEAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16—(AP)—University of California's Bears will play a post-season football game either on New Year's day, 1931, or during the last week in December 1930, with one of the outstanding eastern teams.

W. W. Monohan, graduate manager, made this announcement today at the annual meeting of the Pacific coast conference. He indicated that either Yale or Navy would be the eastern opponent for the game which will be played in the Memorial stadium at Berkeley.

CAST GUARD ACADEMY WINS FROM NORWICH

NEW LONDON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Coast Guard academy basketball team tonight defeated Norwich university by a score of 20 to 11. Defensive play featured the game.

Captain Maloney of the Coast Guard team scored six points. Sipsey and Hartford, scoring six and five points, respectively, accounted for their team's points.

Shires Gets $5,000 Offer

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 16—(AP)—Promoter Gabe Kaufman today offered Art Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman, $5,000 for a bout here with Nick Lutze, formerly of Notre Dame. Lutze has been performing as a wrestler but has announced his intention of changing to boxing.

Yanks Sign Painter as Trainer

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(AP)—The New York Yankees today announced the signing of E. V. Painter as trainer for the American League club. Painter last season was the trainer of the Boston Braves of the National League. He is a firm advocate of systematic calisthenics and Bob Shawkey and his players will be doing setting up exercises at St. Pete in the spring.

"THE GREAT" SHIRES TAKES PLASTERING FROM TRAFTON IN FIVE TORRID ROUNDS

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.— (AP) — The mighty Charles Arthur (the great) Shires, has fallen.

The great man was reduced to a first-class first baseman tonight — and how. Knocked to the resin twice in the first round Shires was decisively defeated in his five round fight with George (the supergreat) Trafton, Chicago professional football player before the largest crowd that ever jammed the White City arena.

The great one, although fighting a courageous, uphill battle against his heavier foe, was beaten so convincingly that not until an hour after the fight did he remember his proposed battle with Lewis (Hack) Wilson, Chicago Cub centerfielder.

Trafton, former Notre Dame star center, had a weight advantage of 40 pounds over the loquacious blond Texas youth, coming in at 218 2-4 to 179 1-4 for Shires, and this tremendous edge in poundage probably was the deciding factor in the battle.

Before a crowd of more than 5,000 frenzied customers who paid in excess of $15,000, Shires and his giant foe fought themselves into a state of exhaustion while the spectators screamed in the excitement of the uneven battle. Before the first round was finished, and Shires had been knocked to the floor twice, it was apparent the great one had met his master, if Trafton could manage to stick the limit. To Shires' credit, however, it can be said, he fought gamely, always tearing in, in the face of the tremendous weight handicap.

As the fight started, Shires, a trim, tense athlete flew into Trafton like a bantam rooster. After a furious exchange of punches, Trafton picked his right off the floor and sent it crashing against the tip of Shires' chin. Down he went, but jumped to his feet again, without taking a count. He proceeded to walk right back into the fire with the courage of a cub panther. Shires threw a few punches to the head and then opened up with another rally of his own, that made Trafton retreat. Just before the round ended Trafton shoved Shires into a neutral corner, whipped a left to the chin and knocked the great one to his knees. Shires remained on his haunches while the referee started his count. Before the count was finished, however, the bell ending the round was clanged.

The crowd was in such an uproar, however, that neither of the fighters, nor the referee, Norman Garrity, heard the bell. After a lot of confusion both fighters were waved to their corners by excited ringside spectators.

As the second round opened Shires' face was a bloody smear from a split lip. Both appeared to be tremendously tired, and Shires gave unmistakable signs of "dogging it."

They were so completely exhausted before the third round began that they stood in the center of the ring, each waiting for the other to throw a punch. Trafton lashed out and had the better of an exchange. They were fighting so furiously at the bell, with Shires sagging into the ropes, that again neither knew the round had ended.

When the fourth round started Trafton was so tired that his arms appeared to weigh a ton apiece, and his feet two tons each. Trafton, the football player, was taking time out to get his wind, with Shires walking around him like a school-kid waiting for a chance to knock a chip from his shoulder

The fifth was a repetition of the fourth, with Trafton, too weary to fight, walking around the ring glancing over his shoulder at Shires, and with Shires apparently unaware that a good wallop on the chin or a punch to the mid-section, might have knocked Trafton sprawling and out.

The fight was Shires' second professional ring engagement. Fight and baseball fans crowded the arena and the management turned thousands away.

Shires, despite his defeat, still wants to fight Wilson.

"I didn't want to fight Trafton anyhow," Shires said. "Think how much the guy weighs—40 pounds more than I do. If I knocked him out, what credit would I get? He was too big for me, he weighed too much. It was a sucker match. I'm going to tell my manager that when I see him, and if he gets fresh, I'll punch him in the eye. I still can fight. Get Wilson for me."

"Licking Shires was easier than getting kicked around a football field. If I had been in better shape, the great man would have been stretched on the canvas, dead to the world before the second round was over."

FRIEDMAN HANDS RAWSON A TERRIFIC BEATING

BOSTON, Dec. 16.— (AP)—Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, gave Big Boy Rawson, of Boston, a terrific beating here tonight, the referee stopping the bout in the fifth round. Rawson was on the carpet in every round and was unable to defend himself when the referee stopped the fight. Friedman spotted Rawson ten pounds in weight, weighing 181 to Rawson's 191.

Rawson, a hard righthand puncher, was unable to get set for his favorite blow, Friedman keeping him off balance with a stiff left to the head as he whaled his body with straight rights.

The "Big Boy" who has scored 23 knockouts out of 24 starts, tried to end the contest in the opening round but Friedman's ring craft stood him in good stead and he had his opponent swinging like a windmill.

Friedman settled down to his bruising work in the second, ripping both hands to the body and frequently snapping Rawson's head back with a left jab. Rawson started to weaken in that round and he was dismayed when he found it impossible to shake Friedman with his hard rights.

Rawson digested a terrific beating in the third and fourth rounds and was staggering helplessly when the fifth got under way.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER IS PLANNED FOR CAREY

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—William E. Carey, successor to the late Tex Rickard as president of Madison Square Garden, will be tendered a testimonial banquet here Jan. 14, by the "Six Hundred Millionaires" club founded by the famous promoter.

Mayor James J. Walker will act as toastmaster. Many famous athletes and prominent sportsmen have been invited to attend. The committee in charge is headed by James J. Bush, and includes Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., Walter S. Chrysler, Bernard F. Gimbel, Edward F. Hutton, Carle C. Conway, and Walter Camp, Jr.

AT LAST, AT LAST THE BROADWAY TRIMS PALACE

After tedious weeks of being the beaten team the Broadway theatre bowlers rose in their wrath and turning on the Palace Pin Plasterers drubbed them as soundly as a team was ever drubbed, last night at the Aetna alleys. The Broadway team crashed its way through the ranks of the Palace with ruthless abandon and the final check-up of the scores found the Palace prone in the dust a hundred or so pins in the rear.

The Palace team fought gamely but vainly to overcome the brilliant display of bowling by their opponents. The Palace had no alibis to offer, although it was obvious that Eddie Lord and Al Fairbanks, star men of the Palace, were suffering from severe headaches. And Charlie Oldham, usually steady as a rock, was very nervous due probably to the fact that a certain member of his family was present in the large gallery that watched the match. Another thing that contributed in no small way to the Palace defeat was the fact that Romeo Kane, mentor, advisor and coach of the team was conspicuous by his absence. The score:

Salsa And Shikat Draw

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Richard Shikat, who is recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and George Calza wrestled more than an hour and one half without reaching a decision in their title match tonight. The bout was halted after they had grappled one hour and 36 minutes on account of the ruling of the New York state athletic commission that all wrestling matches must end by eleven o'clock. It was declared a draw although Shikat held a slight margin up to the time it was stopped. Shikat weighed 216 pounds, Calza 222.

DANIELSON TEAM CLASHES WITH MILLVILLE FIVE AT ARMORY TONIGHT

The Armory A. A. will take on the fast Millville team tonight at the Danielson State armory in what is expected to be the fastest game of the season. As this is the fifth meeting of the two teams there is sure to be plenty of action as each team is out to win. Millville won last year's game in an overtime period and that made it two apiece.

The Millville lineup will include the same men as last year with the addition of Pelequin who is well known throughout New England. The Armory A. A., after getting away to a poor start last week, before a big crowd, are out for a win tonight and will put their strongest lineup on the floor.

The following men, Gaudreau, Pop Williams, Burke, Mondi Normandin, Armington and Jones have reported for practice this week and the starting lineup will be picked from them. A big crowd is looked for as usual when these two teams meet. There is plenty of room in the armory and also ample parking space for your car. There will be dancing after the game.

CHARGES OF INCOMPETENCY AGAINST ALBERT L. WATSON

WASHINGTON Dec. 16. — (AP) — Charges of incompetency were made against Albert L. Watson today as his nomination to be judge of the middle Pennsylvania district came before the senate for final action.

The charges were made by Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee and Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, in urging confirmation, said Watson had proved his ability as a judge of common pleas court in Lackawanna county.

"It seemed to me wise," Reed asserted, "to select a lawyer who had already made good as a judge than to select one who might make good."

LEXINGTON TO SUPPLY TACOMA WITH POWER

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 16.—(AP)—With the powerful generators of the airplane carrier Lexington tuned up to supply Tacoma with electric power, city engineers today were rushing to completion a transmission line to carry the electric energy from the navy ship, now berthed at a local dock, to the Nisqually sub-station, from where it will be distributed to the industries and residences of the city.

Rainy weather hampered linemen today but it appeared certain that the vessel would be hooked up with the city's distribution system in time to help carry the peak load tomorrow afternoon.

CANADIAN AIRMEN ARE TO HASTEN SEARCH

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 16—(AP)—Canadian airmen en route to Seattle today to start a search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, down somewhere with their plane near North Cape, Siberia, have about a fifty per cent chance of being successful, Major Howard C. Deckard, who will send the three planes and eight fliers north, said today.

"Everything possible is being done to hasten the start," Major Deckard said. "We will have the first plane in the air 24 hours after its arrival at Fairbanks. We have what I believe is the pick of northern fliers and they are being equipped with planes that can go anywhere."

SOIL IS BETTER FOR WINTER BULBS

For the benefit of those who enjoy having bulbous plants about the house during winter months, it may be interesting to know that better results are obtained by bedding the bulbs in soil rather than pebbles. It has become a somewhat general practice to set such bulbs in a bedding of pebbles; because, no doubt, they look quite attractive, that way. Some enterprising dealers have gone so far as to provide colored and vari-colored pebbles for this purpose, and they look quite smart and peppy.

Nevertheless, if the bulbs were consulted, or better, if an authority were consulted, it would be found that the plants thrive better, last longer and produce better flowers if bedded in soil. This is true particularly of the narcissus.

It may surprise some to learn how many varieties of bulbous plants can be grown indoors to advantage. These include the various dutch bulbs, daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and even the crocus. Most good bulbs are adaptable to indoor growth, according to authorities, provided they are given suitable soil, convenient containers and kept in a moderate temperature. It is a mistake to believe that such plants require a high temperature. They thrive best in a temperature of from 40 to 50 degrees at night, and from 10 to 20 degrees higher during daylight hours. They should have several hours of sunshine daily. Higher temperature is neither necessary nor desirable, for the plants produce less perfect blooms and do not last as long as in moderate temperatures.

They need a quick and perfect drainage and a generous supply of humus, such as good garden loam or a prepared bulb fiber. The best way to produce a good initial growth is that the planted bulbs should be placed in a dark, cool place and allowed to remain there until the root growth is well advanced, when it is proper to bring them out into the light.

GREENEVILLE

A requiem mass was offered Monday morning at St. Mary's Memorial church for the repose of the souls of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lejeunesse by Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor. Relatives and family friends were present.

The members of the Greeneville Congregational church entertained the patients at Uncas-on-Thames Monday evening with a radio playlet. The scene was a New England farmhouse where the folks, namely, Mrs. D. Louisa Attarbury as Ma, and Howard Spalding as Pa, and Honeysuckle, the Negro maid, acted by Mrs. Earl Christman, were listening in on the radio. The remainder of the cast was acted: Marjorie Hill, a Spanish dancer; Mrs. Raymond C. Brittin, and Miss Charlotte Fowler, soloists; Nell Finlayson and Scotty Fred Powers in a sketch; Joey Joy and Nell Kenyson, Marjorie Hill, Floyd Thompson and Josephine Gibson as the A. and P. Gypsies. Mrs. George Turner was station announcer. Russell Rydholm and William Wilson acted a Big Brother act; Russell Wilson, Krazy Cat; Earl Kramer and Nell Finlayson, Gold Dust Twins. The show was under the direction of Mrs. Lynwood Prentice.

JUDGE A. F. LIBBY SPEAKER AT MEN'S CLUB MEETING

The Men's club of St. Aandrew's Episcopal church held their December meeting Monday evening in the guild room of the church with a large attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. Lockart. The program of the evening was opened with community singing of America with Fred Geer at the piano. A. Parry recited two poems. A musical number followed with Mr. Raymond, piano, Santa Marie, violin, and Mr. Roach saxophone.

The speaker of the evening was Judge Arthur Libby of the city court, whose topic was Prohibition. Mr. Libby also dwelt upon the advancement of different lines, such as the radio, automobiles and other wonderful inventions which had come in the past 50 years. He also told of how the prohibitionists had labored for nearly a hundred years before their efforts were rewarded.

Following Judge Libby's address Alphonse DeMute sang two solos, When My Dreams Come True and If I Can't Have You. Refreshments of coffee and doughnuts were served. Lewis Mell rendered two solos. The meeting came to a close with community singing.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Heselton and children Kendall and Revela, have returned to their home on North B street after spending several days with relatives in Killingly.

To spend the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams and family of North Third avenue, Charles Adams, Jr., of Danielson, has been in town.

Stephen Patrylo of Voluntown was a Sunday guest of Peter Lukoff of North Third avenue.

Those of the Taftville Congregational church school who are taking an active part in the annual Christmas entertainment, plan a meeting tonight (Tuesday) at the church.

Ambitious youngsters of the town are doing quite a business in evergreen wreaths, which they sell from door to door.

OIL BURNER EXPLOSION CAUSE OF ROCKWELL STREET ROOF FIRE

An estimated damage of about $50 resulted by fire Monday evening at the home of Dr. David Sussler, No. 34 Rockwell street, when sparks from the chimney set fire to the roof. The blaze was discovered by a conductor on a Norwich-Yantic trolley car, who informed Dr. Sussler who called Engine Co. No. 3 by telephone. The call came in at 8:09 o'clock.

Engine No. 3, Engine No. 1, Squad A, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, responded. A chemical line was laid by Engine No. 3 and within a short time the blaze was under control. Squad A also laid a line of hose as a precautionary measure. The firemen had to chop away shingles in a number of places to get at the seat of the blaze.

It is believed that the blaze was caused from the explosion of an oil burner in the house, which set fire to the soot in the chimney and the burning soot, following on the dry shingles, set them on fire. Dr. Sussler was not aware of the fire until his attention was called to it by the trolley man who saw the blaze as his car was passing the house. The fire was just starting to gain headway when the firemen arrived.

CONTACT CLUB HOLDS WEEKLY NOON MEETING

The weekly noon luncheon of the Contact club was held Monday at the Waureegan hotel with the president, Ernest O. Rodier, in charge, and a large number in attendance. The meeting opened with the singing of America, Frederick J. Maples acting as songleader, assisted by Alexander M. Pasnik, Frederick Geer was at the piano. Several pleasing solos were rendered by Mr. Maples, upon request.

Secretary Walter Plicher announced that the Blues under the leadership of Francis T. Diggins were leading the Reds under John P. Lyston in the membership contest. A local crippled boy, who is being assisted by the club, is now working part time in a local store with an increase in salary, it was reported by Louis M. Crandall. The boy is receiving a free business education at the Norwich Commercial school.

James L. Case referred to the honor accorded the citizens of Norwich in having an opportunity to listen to Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown university, who is to speak at the Norwich chamber of commerce dinner next Friday evening. Mr. Case urged the members of the club to help in securing a large attendance at the dinner, suggesting that they each take the names of ten people and make an effort to persuade them to attend. By a show of hands the following members volunteered to carry out Mr. Case's suggestion: Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, Ernest O. Rodier, John P. Lyston, Joseph Fitzgerald, Abner Schwartz, F. Russell Smith, Alexander M. Pasnik, John Sullivan, C. W. Davies, Louis M. Crandall, Jeremiah J. Lyons, and Max Hanover.

Mayor Robbins was the guest speaker, giving a humorous interpretation of the origin of the club name, "The Contact Club" and also humorously referred to the membership contest between the Reds and the Blues.

Mr. Lyston announced that the members had contributed $37.85 for the purchase of new clothes for the worthy boy in which the club is interested. The entertainment programme was in charge of Mr. Crandall who introduced Richard Disco, who entertained with mystery, magic, sleight of hand tricks and mind reading, to the enjoyment of the members.

President Rodier thanked Mayor Robbins for his remarks and Messrs. Crandall and Disco for the entertainment at the close of the meeting.

NEW LONDON BUSINESS MAN FINED IN COURT

Harry Smith, a New London business man, charged with failure to grant the right of way, was presented in the city court Monday morning, found guilty and fined $5 and costs. The accused then intimated that he would prefer charges against Officer Hugh McAvoy, as he claimed that he had been humiliated while being placed under arrest Saturday evening. No action was taken by the New London man.

Following a slight accident about 6 o'clock Sunday evening on Franklin square near the Terminal restaurant between a machine driven by Smith and a car operated by Robert Frey of 84 Rowe street, Hartford, Smith was arrested by Officer McAvoy. It is understood that Smith pulled away from the curbing without giving a proper signal.

An effort was made to have the two men settle their differences on the scene, it was revealed in court by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy. It is understood that Smith refused to reveal the name of the insurance company with which he is insured and that he would not allow Officer McAvoy to ride in his machine to police headquarters, as they went to the station on foot.

Monday morning Smith explained to Judge Libby that he was willing to pay for the damgaes done to the other machine and asked that the case be dropped. The judge said that it was too late to drop the case.

MACDONALD ASKS PUBLIC TO SAVE ROADSIDE TREES

Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald Monday issued an appeal to the people of Connecticut to refrain from the destructive practice which has become prevalent during the past few years of cutting and taking for Christmas decorations evergreens growing along the highways. He also requested the cooperation of all motorists in preserving the beauty of the highways by immediately reporting persons seen in the act of removing trees or even boughs and branches of evergreen from the roadsides.

Since the start of its beautification program about two years ago, the highway department landscaping division has saved thousands of native evergreens, including pines, hemlocks, cedar, juniper and laurel, and has transplanted these trees and shrubs beside the highways in the sections where they might serve best in enhancing the roadside beauty of the state. A great many more growths of this type have been purchased from commercial nurseries and set out along the highways.

Evergreen growths have been used more prominently in highway landscaping than other types of trees and shrubs, since in addition to being native growths they possess year-around beauty. Removal of such natural parts of the roadside scenery for use as holiday decorations is nothing short of sheer vandalism in the opinion of the commissioner, and he has issued instructions to all highway division superintendents to the effect that persons who are discovered in that act of tree stealing may be prosecuted for theft.

Furnished Music

Through error, it was reported that Walter Sullivan and his son, Walter, Jr., of New London, furnished the music at the banquet of the United Hibernians of Norwich Sunday afternoon. The names should have been Walter Greenman and son, Walter, Jr., of New London.

Looking about for symmetrical Christmas trees for community use is an extra chore for town authorities in a number of places. A big one set up in Westerly was procured near Norwich.

JEWISH WOMEN NAME CONFERENCE DELEGATES

The Bozrahville section, National Council of Jewish Women, held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Libby, Monday evening, Mrs. Nathan Gilman presiding. The opening prayer was read by Mrs. Gertrude Siliberman. Reports of the various committees were then heard.

An interesting report was given by Mrs. N. Gilman, chairman of the peace committee of the local section, on the World Court campaign now being carried on by the major women's organizations which comprise the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War.

The council, as one of the constituent members of this great body, is actively cooperating in reaching organizations, ministers, and all influential bodies, with the World Court resolution which calls for the United States' adherence to the World Court and the urging of the senate to take the final steps which will take us into the World Court.

The fifth conference on the Cause and Cure of War will be held in the "Hall of Nations," Washington, D. C., on Jan. 14-17, 1930.

One morning of the conference will be set aside as a time for the delegates from the different states to present the resolution to the senators.

At the meeting of the Bozrahville council this World Court resolution was presented and adopted unanimously.

The following delegates were named to represent the local section at this conference: Mrs. N. Gilman and Mrs. R. Agranovitch.

A letter from Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the national committee on the Cause and Cure of War, in which she appeals for cooperation from all organizations in this coming campaign, was read.

Two sums of money were pledged by the Bozrahville council at this meeting, one to the farm and rural department of the National council for its Hebrew educational work and one to a needy family.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Sarah Landman, field secretary of the N. C. J. W. Miss Landman outlined the purposes of the National council, making a plea for better understanding between nations, between Jew and non-Jew, between communities and between organizations in communities.

From this better understanding, better cooperation will result. And better cooperation stands for better accomplishment by all.

Miss Landman further explained the fine work done by the emigrant aid department of the National council, citing as examples several interesting cases.

She described the hardships resulting from the separation of families, due to the new naturalization law. She showed how the council unites families having American relatives, sends money to sufferers in Europe, collects legacies and helps in numerous other ways, according to the conditions of the case.

After the business meeting adjourned, refreshments were served by the hostess.

PUBLIC HEALTH DEPT. ACTIVITIES IN NOVEMBER

The November report of the public health nursing department shows the following activities for the four-week period:

Patients under care Nov. 1, 1,301; new patients in November, 152; patients under care in November, 1,453; calls made by nurses in November, 1,198; attendance at Rock Nook clinic for pre-school children, 347; attendance at Well Babies conference, 50; chest examinations at the tuberculosis clinic, 25.

The public health nursing department is watching with keen interest the sale of Christmas seals in Norwich. At the present time seven patients referred by this department are being paid for at the state sanatorium by the Christmas seal fund. The most urgent cases of underweight children referred to the seals committee have been given extra milk during the year: 360 quarts of milk were paid for by seal money each month. For these patients and undernourished children the department hopes that each one will buy as many seals as possible between now and the New Year.

Our idea of a nuisance is a man who butts in when we are talking about ourselves.

MAN WILLING TO MAKE GOOD ON BAD CHECKS

On his promise that he would make good the worthless checks given by him in payment for an automobile purchased by him in September at the Eastern Motor Sales Co., Main street Rubin Kerachsky, 21, of Leonard Bridge, had his case continued to Dec. 31 at the city court session Monday morning. The accused was arrested Sunday by State Police Officer Johnson of the Groton barracks. He is still being held at local police headquarters under bonds of $200.

City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy explained in court that Kerachsky purchased a machine from the Eastern Sales Motor Co. on Sept. 20 and in part payment tendered a check of $150, which later was found to be worthless at a East Hampton bank, on which it was drawn. The young man said that through neglect he had overdrawn his account and offered to make good the amount of the check, paying down $7 in cash. Later he issued several small checks on a Windham bank and these were also found to be worthless when they tried to cash them.

It was also found, said City Attorney Cassidy, that the accused had passed a bad check in Hartford. Kerachsky said that there was no criminal intent on his part and that the affair had been caused through a misunderstanding between him and the banks. He told the court that if he were given ample time he would re-imburse the automobile company. A continuance was then granted.

HUGH CAMPBELL OBSERVES 87TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

The coming of Dec. 17 this year marks the 87th birthday of Hugh Campbell, druggist at Uncas-on-Thames, where his son is superintendent and where he himself is held in genuine affection among patients and staff. Mr. Campbell will observe the anniversary in a quiet way, just at the present time being in bed with a severe cold.

NORWICH TOWN

"When Christ Came," was the theme of the Sunday morning sermon by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey at the First Congregational church.

In the absence of Miss Eleanor Moore the assigned leader of the Young People's C. E. service Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Bailey was leader, ably treating the topic, "What Have Young People to Give?" II Corinthians, 8:1-15.

Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters of the First Congregational church will hold its meeting with Miss Michael Buckley of Town street, Wednesday evening.

Walter T. Camp, president for several terms of Norwich Rural association, has been appointed a member of the Christmas tree committee in preparation for the celebration Tuesday evening, December 24, on the Norwich Town Green. Mrs. Philip A. Johnson is chairman of that committee, the third member being Flint Brayton.

The December meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church has been planned for Thursday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. William Weaver, of Huntington Green.

At the Sacred Heart church Monday morning at 7:30, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, pastor, sang an anniversary high mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of James Filburn. Mr. Filburn was an estimable young man of this parish and community, until his death one year ago this month. There was an unusually large attendance of relatives, family friends and neighbors present. Under the direction of the organist, Mrs. William A. Murphy, the choir sang, and at the offertory Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis. At the conclusion of the mass she sang, Abide With Me.

At this church Wednesday, Friday and Saturday this week, are the quarterly Ember days, with fasting for some and abstinence from meat for all.

The Congregational church for the Yuletide season is to be decorated by the Y. P. S. E. flower committee, Miss Ida Beebe, chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer, of Webster, Mass., spent Sunday with Mrs. Dwyer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of Willimantic, were guests for Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver. In recognition of the 73rd birthday of Mr. Weaver Sunday a bountiful dinner was served by the hostess. Mr. Smith, a nephew of Mrs. Weaver, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, motored to Niantic Sunday afternoon to call on friends whom Mr. and Mrs. Weaver had not seen in 25 years. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aldrich. Mr. Aldrich was a neighbor of the Weaver family when residents of South Coventry. When returning to Norwich Town the party attended the special evening service at the Methodist Episcopal church.

Monday, Mrs. George Kahn of Franklin, spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver.

Crosby Peck, a student at Bryant-Stratton business college, Providence, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck.

GOV. TRUMBULL OPTIMISTIC ON 1930 OUTLOOK FOR CONN.

Believes the Coming Year Will Be One of Progress and Prosperity—Prediction Made in Answer to Question Asked by the New England Council—Asserts That Our Industrial Units Should Be Strengthened by the Stability of Credit Conditions Which Have Resulted From the Readjustment of Market Values—Does Not Believe That the Recent Depression in Business Will Cause Any Real or Prolonged Distress.

(By The Associated Press)

Will the coming year of 1930 be one of progress and prosperity for Connecticut? The question asked at the recent quarterly meeting of the New England council and answered by Gov. John H. Trumbull was that every factor pointed that way. He had estimated that between forty and fifty million dollars will be expended by the state, cities and towns for public undertakings during the year as a part of the Hoover program of stabilization.

The coming year in Connecticut will be without the excitement and agitation of a session of the general assembly but in its closing months there will be the stir of a political campaign to be climaxed with the election of a state ticket, and a new legislature besides the choice of five members of the national house of representatives. But before this campaign comes both the state and municipalities will be well launched upon their programs of undertakings which will be a part of their normal life in finance, business, industry and sports. On every hand those in authority look forward with optimism and confidence towards 1930.

Gov. John H. Trumbull in his views upon the outlook written for the Associated Press said:

"It has been the opinion of many whose expert knowledge of the present situation is considerably more extensive than my own that the recent increase in the prices of securities in no sense reflects or forecasts a diminishing prosperity. In this view I heartily concur.

"The essentially sound condition of our industrial units should be strengthened by the stability of credit conditions which have resulted from the readjustment of market values. Most Connecticut Manufacturers in particular have been able to meet a temporary situation without embarrassment by reason of their conservative schedules of production and careful business methods.

"We are in thorough accord with the program of continued activity advocated by President Hoover and with renewed confidence inspired by his and other factors there should be little doubt that the year of 1930 will be normally prosperous.

"Industrial relations in the state, it is predicted, will remain on the present high plane of mutuality, and that position comes from James W. Hook, chairman of the industrial relations committee of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut. Mr. Hook in his forecast said:

"Industrial relations in the state of Connecticut have seldom been better than they are today. For the most part, the employment situation is good. The recession in business has, of course, had some effect but it does not appear now that it will cause any real of prolonged distress.

"Connecticut industry, due to its diversification and essential character, does not feel recessions in general business like those sections do whose prosperity is linked with single item mass production. For the most part, Connecticut employers will probably meet such lower production schedules as may oome during the next month or two by shortening the hours worked per week. But no one who has studied the underlying statistics can believe that business can remain at low ebb so very long."

A substantial revival in business is predicted by Edward G. Buckland, chairman of the board of directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, speaking as chairman of the transportation committee of the Manufacturers' association. Mr. Buckland said:

"The volume of business on the New Haven for the first ten months of 1929 was very good, October being the heaviest freight month in the history of the company. Since that time business has fallen off somewhat and it is likely that the last quarter of the year will not be as good as the last quarter of 1928. Best estimates indicate that net income for 1929 will be about $5,800,000 higher than in 1928.

"It is difficult to predict what the business of the first few months of 1930 will be. People have lost confidence as a result of paper losses in the stock market; how long it will take them to recover from their baseless fears is anybody's guess. There are, however, indications that there will be a substantial revival of business after these fears have subsided.

"Practically all business is fundamentally sound; there are no inflated inventories, on the contrary stocks are low due to the excellent transportation facilities and must soon be replenished; high money rates due to stock speculation has diverted funds necessary for building programs, which should be helped by the cheaper money now in sight.

"Business generally has given its whole-hearted support to the efforts of President Hoover to maintain industry at a normal pace. Railroads have stated that they will carry out their usual programs of improvements, the New Haven having already appropriated $3,700,000 for electric engines and passenger cars as part of its program decided on some months ago, totalling $15,000,000 to be spent in 1929. All things considered it seems safe to say that 1930 will not be much if any behind 1929."

FIRST STEP TAKEN IN GIGANTIC STEEL MERGER

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Cyrus Stephen Eaton, who today completed the first step in a gigantic steel merger which is expected eventually to rival the great United States Steel corporation, is known throughout the nation for his operations in the financial world.

Eaton, a native of Nova Scotia, had scarcely become a naturalized citizen when his name first flashed across the horizon of the business world as the sponsor of huge utility mergers.

He introduced himself to the public as a young man who already had attained wealth and success in business without offering any explanation as to how he achieved his position. The story of his early life is his own secret.

Eaton has never talked about his education or his preparation for handling the huge financial deals in which he has been leader as the chairman of Otis and Company, an investment company here.

He prefers to keep silent and has let it be known that he is "interested in his enterprises and not in personal publicity."

He is only 46 years old, but he and his associates control public utility and steel companies scattered throughout the middle west that represent investment of $2,000,000,000.

VINCENT FAILED TO OBTAIN HIS RELEASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A supreme court justice in Brooklyn today dismissed a writ of habeas corpus intended to obtain the release of Joseph Vincent of Brooklyn, who is wanted in New Bedford, Mass., on a charge of grand larceny.

Vincent said that four years ago, when he lived at 230 Acushnet avenue, New Bedford, a letter arrived from California telling him of the death at Los Angeles of Mrs. Anna Vincent.

Vincent told his lawyer that he had an aunt of that name living in California so a letter was sent asking for a copy of the will. The will did not arrive, he said, but he received $1,000 from the estate.

It developed later that the woman was in no way related to Vincent but had a son, Joseph Vincent, living at 88 Acushnet avenue, New Bedford, and the first letter the defendant received had been intended for this son.

Vincent was placed in the custody of two detectives to be returned to that city to stand trial.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY DRINKING POISON

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Watts, 45, of 183 Geiston avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., was said to be in a critical condition in a hospital here tonight, following an attempt to commit suicide by drinking poison.

She came here yesterday and registered in a hotel. A chambermaid found her soon after she took the poison.

ROBBERIES AND SLAYINGS CHARGED TO F. R. BURKE

DETROIT, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Robberies totaling almost $1,000,000 and slayings of at least 12 men are charged to Frederick R. Burke, St. Joseph, Mich., gunman, and members of his gang, Inspector Henry Garvin of the police crime and bomb squad said tonight.

Burke taught Detroit gangsters the "kidnaping racket" and staged the only machine gun murders ever committed here, according to Garvin.

Burke, with four gunmen companions, heads "the most desperate band of outlaws in the country today," Garvin said. Not one of the gang, he believes, ever will be captured alive.

Members of Burke's gang, Garvin said, were Ray (Crane Neck) Nugent, of Hamilton, Ohio; Raymond McGinnis, alias Shocker, St. Louis; Gus Winkler, St. Louis, and Bob Newberry, St. Louis, the latter now a fugitive from Detroit, having jumped $10,000 bail on a robbery charge.

Garvin said he had identified the Burke gang with the St. Valentine's day killers in Chicago through a Chicago dentist who was kidnaped in Chicago after the affair and brought to Detroit, where he was turned loose.

12 HOURS WITHOUT NEWS FROM BRITISH AVIATORS

LONDON, Dec. 18—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Twelve hours had passed at 4 a. m. without news of two Royal Air force officers who began early yesterday morning an attempted non-stop flight to South Africa.

Their Fairey sesquiplane carried a special radio by means of which it had been agreed that the aviators would report every four hours. The air ministry said, however, early today that it had received no message since one yesterday afternoon reporting the plane as 50 miles northwest of Sardinia. A spokesman for the ministry suggested that perhaps the radio of the plane had failed. The ministry was keeping in touch with radio stations for possible news.

If the flight was still in progress it was estimated that Squadron Leader A. G. Jones-Williams and Flight Lieutenant A. H. Jenkins must have crossed Tunis and be somewhere over the French section of the great Sahara desert.

They hoped to complete the flight of 6,000-odd miles to Capetown before dark on Thursday.

WAS PERSONAL FRIEND OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Cal., Dec. 17—(AP)—Captain Charles H. Roland, 97, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and wartime comrade of General U. S. Grant, died here yesterday after a short illness.

Captain Roland became acquainted with Lincoln in the National capitol, while he and Grant had desks side by side in the war department. After being mustered out of the army Roland moved to Nevada, coming here in 1918.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Dec. 17—(AP)—The United States liner Leviathan, carrying 1,400 passengers and a big consignment of Christmas mails, sailed for New York today and will arrive on December 23. The Cunard liner Mauretania is sailing at about the same hour.

BOGOTA, Dec. 17—(AP)—Publication of cablegrams exchanged with Olaya Herrera, Colombian minister to the United States, offering him the presidential nomination of the liberal party, which he accepted with some conditions, resulted in great enthusiasm among liberal followers here.

LONDON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Open dissension on the government's coal mines bill, which has involved the labor government in disputes with both the conservatives and the liberals, appeared in the house of commons tonight when William Graham, president of the board of trade, began debate by moving the second reading of the bill.

CONG. TILSON HONORED BY THE KING OF ITALY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—Representative Tilson of New Haven has been signally honored by the king of Italy, who has bestowed on him the Order of Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy, as a token of appreciation of the friendly feeling and interest shown by Col. Tilson towards the Italian people. The Italian ambassador will present the insignia of the order to Col. Tilson tonight at a dinner given in his honor at the embassy.

Under the constitution of the United States Col. Tilson cannot accept the decoration of the order except by special act of congress, so it will remain in the custody of the state department until such time as Col. Tilson can lawfully accept it.

Mrs. Tilson will be a guest at the dinner occupying the seat of honor at the right of the ambassador. The only other Connecticut man ever to have received the decoration of grand officer is Dr. William Francis Verdie of Connecticut, noted surgeon. The order of grand officer outranks that of chevelier or other degrees of the order of the Crown of Italy.

SPECULATION ON DATE OF HELEN WILLS' WEDDING

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The date of Miss Helen Wills' wedding to Fred Moody, young San Francisco broker, became a subject of intense speculation today. It is going to be soon, it was learned.

The Chronicle said the world's woman tennis champion would be married before Christmas, probably within a few days, and sail on a private yacht for a honeymoon along the Mexican west coast.

Mrs. C. A. Wills, Helen's mother, told the Associated Press that the wedding would be "in the near future." She said plans were not completed but that setting of a definite date was a matter of hours.

The engagement of Miss Wills to Mr. Moody was announced about a year ago.

Under the California law a marriage license must be obtained three days before marriage. That does not mean, however, that sweethearts cannot elope to Reno and get the license and get married the same day.

CASES OF FOUR ALLEGED COUNTERFEITERS CONTINUED

WATERBURY, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edward J. Finn this morning on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government, four alleged members of a huge counterfeiting ring said to extend the length of the Atlantic coast, had their cases continued for a hearing on the 27th with bonds fixed at $5,000 each. The four men, three of them residents of this city and the fourth a New Havenite, were arrested yesterday and last night by U. S. secret service operatives in charge of Operative Gabriel Di Flore.

During their efforts in securing bail, the men were in the custody of the operatives today.

The accused are:

Joseph Karnofsky, of 278 Walnut street, Waterbury.

Anthony S. Ricca, of 2094 East Main street, Waterbury.

William G. Ohlsen, of 148 Plaza avenue, Waterbury.

George J. Pantages, 52 Gerard avenue, New Haven.

FORMER PROSPEROUS ACTOR GUILTY OF PETTY LARCENY

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Billy Montgomery, who with his wife drew $1,000 a week on the Broadway stage when that was important money, 20 years ago, today appeared in a new role.

He was in court today, still the actor, on a charge of petty larceny. A department store alleged that he came in to try on a new suit and overcoat Saturday and after changing walked out, neglecting to pay for the haberdashery. His old suit was left in the dressing room.

"How are you, gentlemen?" he addressed the judge and court attendants as he caught his cue and walked "down stage."

"Back again, Montgomery," said Judge Healy.

"Just in time for Christmas," Montgomery answered, smiling.

He was remanded to the Tombs for sentencing Dec. 23.

CHARGED WITH BREAKING, ENTERING AND LARCENY

BRISTOL, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Two Burlington men, William Krappatsch and Oscar Bredenfeld, were arrested today on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in connection with the theft of two calves and a quantity of canned goods and meat.

Police say they stole the calves from the farm of Albert Burnstein, near here, Nov. 28, and that they broke into the meat and grocery store of Michael Porat, Bristol, Dec. 12, and made away with cured meats and about 150 tins of canned goods.

Some of the loot, police said, was recovered in Krappatsch's barn.

ABOUT 100 BATHHOUSES DESTROYED BY FIRE

NORWALK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Fire of unknown origin tonight swept the bathhouses at the Calf Pasture municipal beach here, destroying about 100 of the 200 houses. The damage is believed to be about $4,000.

The thick fog hampered the work of firemen, who were forced to cut away several of the adjoining houses to prevent complete destruction of the long row.

The fire is believed to be incendiary, and is the fourth mysterious fire in a month.

Planning Big Strike Of Textile Workers

Would Cover the South, [illegible]ern Pennsylvania, [illegible] York, New Jer[illegible] and Connecticut.

NEW YORK, Dec. [illegible]—An intensive organization [illegible]ign with a view to calling strikes [illegible] textile workers in the south and in eastern Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, was announced today by the National Textile Workers' union, a left wing organization not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

A statement issued by the union said more than 300 delegates from "every textile center of the land, from New Bedford to Gastonia," would attend the convention.

Principal points to be considered, besides the general strike were announced as mobilization for further organization in the south, New England and other sections of the textile industry, and intensified activities to save the seven Gastonia, N. C., strikers convicted of the slaying of Police Chief A. F. Aderholt, from "going to prison for the best parts of their lives."

Delegates, the announcement said, will come from New Bedford, the south, Paterson, N. J., Philadelphia and Allentown, Pa., the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania, Providence, R. I., Pawtucket, R. I., Boston and Manchester.

Thomas F. McMahon, international president of the United Textile Workers of America, when informed of the National Textile Workers' announcement, said he believed that "this propaganda is solely for the purpose of raising funds."

"The textile situation in the south, he added, will be discussed at a meeting of the United Textile Workers' executive council in New York city Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

HELD IN $10,000 BONDS AS MURDER CASE WITNESSES

HARTFORD, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Umberto Strano and Fortunato Cappucci, held on breach of the peace charges since the killing of Alfonso Minniti in a Hartford speakeasy Dec. 4, were placed under bonds of $10,000 each in criminal superior court today as material witnesses in the murder case. Sebastian N. Allano, proprietor of the speakeasy where the killing occurred, is charged with murder.

The superior court jury deliberated a full hour today before returning a verdict of guilty in the case of Mrs. Marie Itzak, of Hartford, charged with performing an illegal operation. Sentence was deferred until Wednesday morning and the bond of $2,500 procured for her appearance in court.

Mrs. Itzak, a registered midwife, was accused by Dorothy Kast, of Windsor, herself on bond for embezzling $1,300 from her employers. In the investigation of the embezzlement charge, Miss Kast revealed that $100 had been paid Mrs. Itzak for the operation, Miss Kast was the principal witness for the state.

Bond of $250 under which Mrs. Elizabeth Gerrone, 67, has been at liberty since she was arrested Nov. 13 in an attempt to smuggle heroin to her son, Lawrence Ferrone, at the state prison, was forfeited when she failed to appear for sentence.

BOMB EXPLODED UNDER STREET CAR IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17—(AP)—A dynamite bomb exploding under a Napoleon avenue street car tonight injured four passengers on the car, none seriously. The explosion occurred at Washington and Hagan avenues, in an outlying section of the city, and was a recurrence of violence that has marked the protracted street car strike here.

Those hurt were:

A. Vaungh, 52; George Brown, 37, Negro; W. A. Delphi, 40; Thomas Pierre, 26.

All four received cuts and bruises, and all except Brown were taken to their homes for treatment. Brown's injuries were cared for at a hospital.

The bomb, set between the rails, exploded under the front truck of the car tearing up several floor boards and shattering a number of windows of the trolley. Although company officials estimated the damage at $250, the car was able to continue under its own power. It carried 15 passengers.

A motorist passing the scene just before the explosion, told officers he had seen two men seated in an automobile at the avenue intersection, and a search for the pair was begun.

INVESTIGATING SLAYING OF THREE GREEKS

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The slaying of three Greeks, believed to have been seeking illegal entry into the United States, is being investigated by Juarez, Mexico, police, following discovery of the bodies in an arroyo five miles south of Juarez. Two hunters discovered the bodies, which were buried in shallow sand graves about ten feet apart.

Mexican passports found in the rotted clothing of the victims identified them as Juan Pichacos, Teodora Hellotea, 17, and Manuel Almaros, 43. An autopsy revealed the men had been shot in the head.

A taxi driver is held for investigation. Police said he could supply information regarding the whereabouts of the man responsible for the triple murder. A Greek interpreter also was being held for questioning.

MEMORIAL FOR AUTHOR "THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS"

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—A memorial for Dr. Clement C. Moore, author of the poem "The Night Before Christmas," was erected today in West 23rd street on the site of the house in which it is believed the famous poem was written 107 years ago.

The memorial was in the form of a cornerstone laid for a $25,000,000 apartment house unit which is being constructed on the block in which the house stood. The stone was taken from an old brownstone Moore homestead.

Almost simultaneously with the dedication came a claim that the house in which the poem was written still stands in Elmhurst, Queens borough.

13 Bodies Recovered From Oklahoma Mine

It is Feared That Death Must Have Overtaken Most of the 62 Miners Who Are Entombed.

MCALESTER, Okla., Dec. 17—(AP)—With realization that death must have taken most of the 62 miners imprisoned today by an explosion in the Old Town Coal company's mine in North McAlester, hopelessness fell tonight on the efforts of rescue workers recruited from mines in the McAlester district.

Hopes, raised by the rescue alive late today of three men from their deep prison, fell with the assertion of rescuers that presence of afterdamp in the lower levels virtually precluded the possibility of any other victims surviving.

Of the 62 men, 34 were Mexicans and 15 were Negroes.

Thirteen bodies had been brought to the surface early tonight and taken to a morgue here.

Miller D. Hay, chief state mine inspector, arrived here from Oklahoma City late today and immediately entered the mine for an investigation to learn if possible the cause of the disaster.

Joe Ponsella, a Mexican miner, one of the three to be taken alive from the fifth level, said he had no recollection except a sensation of sinking. He heard no explosion, he said, and saw no flames. Ponsella was the least injured of the three.

There was little demonstration from relatives of the unfortunate men, crowded against the rope barriers thrown up about the mine entrance. An atmosphere of stoicism, bred from the hazardous nature of the miners' work, prevailed among the dependents struck by the disaster. Red Cross workers and volunteers from the McAlester post of the American Legion assisted a camp of national guardsmen in keeping order.

Eleven rescue teams of ten men entered the mine in turns. Each team would work in the gas-laden subterranean atmosphere as long as possible, then returned to the surface to be replaced by another team.

The local chapter of the Red Cross asked for a relief fund of $20,000 to administer of the immediate wants of the more than 200 dependents of the stricken workers.

STATE RESTS IN THE FRANKLIN MURDER CASE

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The state rested tonight in the Connie Franklin murder trial. The defense thereupon moved for an instructed verdict of acquittal of the four men charged with the murder of Connie Franklin on the ground the state had failed to prove the corpus delecti. Judge S. M. Bone overruled the motion and the defense proceeded with its attempt to prove that the Connie Franklin alleged to have been slain is now walking the streets of Mountain View.

The four defendants themselves were then called to the stand. They all denied that Connie Franklin was harmed on the night the state charges he was slain.

They said they saw him the next day. They said also that Franklin "drifted" away from the St. James community as he had "drifted" in.

FILIPINO CONVICTED OF EMBEZZLING STAMPS

MANILA, Dec. 17—(AP)—Florencio Reyes, former stamp clerk in the bureau of posts, was convicted today of embezzling stamps valued at 212,249 pesos. He was sentenced to ten years in prison and fined the amount of the embezzlement, about $106,000.

Reyes, property, which was seized some time ago, amounts to only a fraction of the sum of the fine. The sheriff is still busy locating the property of Jose Topacio, director of the bureau of posts, against whom the government has filed suit for 281,000 pesos ($140,500) alleging it lost that amount through his inefficient management of the department. Property amounting to $100,000 in Topacio's name thus far has been located.

PRESIDENT APPOINTS TWO MEMBERS OF I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Joseph B. Eastman, of Boston, and Robert M. Jones, of Knoxville, Tenn., both democrats were appointed today by President Hoover as members of the interstate commerce commission for terms of seven years beginning next January 1.

Eastman has been a member of the commission for more than ten years, representing the New England section. Jones, who is chancellor of the eleventh judicial district in Tennessee, will succeed Richard V. Taylor, of Mobile, Ala., appointed three years ago by President Coolidge to fill out an unexpired term.

LIFE SAVING MEDAL AWARDED GREENWICH MAN

GREENWICH, Dec. 17—(AP)—The Samuel Insull life saving medal tonight was awarded Arnold Crane Rathburn, of Greenwich, for saving the life of William June, a fellow lineman employed by the Connecticut Light and Power company last May.

The presentation was made by J. Henry Roraback, of Hartford, president of the company.

WOMAN WAS ROBBED OF JEWELRY WORTH $35,000

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 17—(AP)—Mrs. C. M. Branch, wealthy widow, reported to the police yesterday that she had been robbed of jewelry worth $35,000 while two women were telling her fortune in a darkened room.

HEAD WINDS WAS CAUSE OF FAILURE OF OCEAN FLIGHT

Plane on Projected Flight From Spain to South America Was Forced Down Near the Northeastern Coast of Brazil—Lieut. Challe Was Injured and Both Fliers Were Stunned When the Wheels of the Plane Struck Soft Ground—The Plane Was Wrecked.

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—After making the sixth successful crossing of the South Atlantic ocean, Major Tadeo Larre Borges, Uruguayan aviator, and Lieut. Leon Challe, French flier, were forced down in the darkness last night near Santo Antonio Do Salto, near the northeastern coast of Brazil. They failed to reach their goal, Montevideo, after setting out from Seville, Spain, on a non-stop flight attempt.

The airplane was wrecked in the landing, which was made between 9 p. m., and midnight. Lieut. Challe was injured and both the fliers were stunned, but their hurts were not serious.

Commander Petit of the Brazilian navy and a director of the French Compania Aero-Postale Latecoere at Pernambuco hurried to Santo Antonio by automobile. Physicians were sent from Natal.

Santo Antonio is remote and inaccessible, and it was some time before a coherent account of the landing could be obtained. Lieut. Challe was reported to be cut over one eye and severely bruised.

Major Larre-Borges, who went to Santo Antonio for aid after the fliers had been located by a party of horsemen, said that he and his comrade had struggled against head winds most of the way across the South Atlantic.

They gave up their attempt to reach Montevideo after a flight of more than 36 hours from Seville, which they left at 12:49 p. m., Sunday (7:49 a. m. E. S. T.) and covering 3,600 miles.

"For the first few hours of the flight the winds were favorable," Major Larre-Borges explained. "But after passing Cape Verde on the African coast we ran into head winds so unfavorable that about four o'clock in the afternoon we decided to ask the course to the nearest land and to head for it."

He said that they found it necessary to change their course from Pernambuco, where they had planned to land, and to make for the nearest point on the northeastern coast of Brazil. They had difficulty in finding their way because they were unable to get their position by wireless.

"Flying low to pick up the land, we could not see the lights of the coast towns and finally we decided to land as quickly as possible. The wheels struck soft ground and the plane turned over knocking us unconscious.

"I recovered first and found Challe pinned under the plane. I dragged him out and he soon recovered. He was not seriously injured. Then I started to find help and got to Santo Antonio, where the authorities aided me generously.

"The airplane was entirely wrecked."

He added that he and his comrade were exhausted when they made their landing and that their fuel was running low.

Major Larre-Borges and Lieut. Challe made the third direct flight from Europe to South America, their predecessors being the Italians Arturo Ferrarin and Carlo Del Prete, and the Spaniards Iglesias and Jimenez. The other fliers that crossed the South Atlantic made stops in Africa.

The immediate plans of Larre-Borges and Challe were not known in Rio Janiero this evening, owing to the absence of good communications with the Santo Antonio region.

CHALLE BROUGHA TO NATAL, BRAZIL, BY PLANE

NATAL, Brazil, Dec. 17—(AP)—Lieutenant Leon Challe, one of the two aviators who crashed last night after a transatlantic flight from Seville, was brought by airplane late today from Santo Antonio, the nearest town to where the forced landing was made.

Major Tadeo Larre-Borges, his companion, remained at a ranch near Santo Antonio to rest. It was he who had dragged Lieutenant Challe from the wreckage and then accompanied a party of natives to the nearest town with telegraph facilities. It was expected that he would be brought here by airplane tomorrow.

The pilot of the relief plane was the same man who brought the Italian Aviators Ferrarin and Del Prete here after their forced landing at Touros after their transatlantic flight. It was understood that both men would be carried later to Rio Janeiro, and thence to their original objective at Montevideo, by airplane within a few days.

Lieutenant Challe was taken to the hospital here although it was said that his injuries were not serious. He had a cut over one eye and body bruises. Both fliers had been temporarily stunned by the impact of their machine in landing.

EARTHQUAKE IN VICINITY OF ALEUTIAN ISLANDS

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Somewhere in the north Pacific apparently in the vicinity of the Aleutian Island chain where volcanoes recently have been stirred to eruption, a heavy earthquake occurred today.

Seismographs throughout the United States recorded the tremendous upheaval which lasted nearly three hours.

So severe was the vibration that it shook the east-west needle off the roll of the registering instrument at the University of Washington here. The quake started about 3:07 a. m., Pacific coast time.

The presumption that the disturbance was in the general direction of Alaska was supported not only by seismographic records but by recent reports of seamen and U. S. coast and geological survey officials that they had witnessed terrific eruptions.

WORK BY CHILDREN CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT BY ADULTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Dr. Owen J. Lovejoy, New York secretary of the Children's Aid society, today told the 25th annual conference of the national child labor committee that the employment in industry of 2,000,000 children in the United States was responsible in all probability for the unemployment of 2,000,000 adults.

Dr. Lovejoy said the fact that unemployment is a blot on American industry was recognized 25 years ago, and that its "trust is still recognized, but whereas it was then suggested that children should fill the ranks of industry so that none might remain unemployed men and women standing along the highways of our industrial significance to the fact of unemployment."

REVISION OF CORN BORER QUARANTINE REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A revision of the European corn borer quarantine regulations announced today by the department of agriculture will place 655 townships in nine states within the regulated area.

The towns were distributed as follows: Connecticut, 38; Massachusetts, 30; Maine, 111; New Hampshire, 30; Vermont, 102; Pennsylvania, 7; Ohio, 195; West Virginia, 28; and Indiana, 110.

No change was made in the areas under regulation in New Jersey and the whole of Michigan, New York and Rhode Island still remain within the regulated area.

DESPONDENCY MOTIVE OF SUICIDE OF HUNT WENTWORTH

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—Despondency appeared today as the only motive for the suicide of Hunt Wentworth, gold coast bachelor and sportsman and son of the socially prominent Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth.

Wentworth's body, a bullet wound in the forehead, was found last night in his mother's lake shore drive apartment, a revolver clutched in the right hand.

TWO INFANT SISTERS WERE BURNED TO DEATH

CALAIS, Me., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The two infant daughters of Mrs. Lewis Gordon were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the Gordon home on Lafayette street during the absence of the mother.

TESTIMONY ATTACKED IN RUM CONSPIRACY CASE

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Dec. 17—(AP)—Attorneys for 28 alleged rum conspirators today attacked the testimony of the state's first witness, but he clung to his story that the city of Mullan sold protection to vice interests and used the money for civic improvements.

M. D. Needham, former chief of police of the little mining town, told how he was given a list of bootleggers and operators of disorderly houses and gambling places by the "city fathers" and ordered to "collect." The prices paid monthly for protection, he said, were as follows: "Boozy joints on the Main street, $25; disorderly houses, $35; inmates of such houses, $115 each, and gambling dives $25.

The police chief was allowed to fix his own price for liquor and beer shops in the outskirts of the town, Needham said. With this money, United States District Attorney H. E. Ray said, the city councilors of Mullan paid their police force, paved the streets and performed other civic activities.

Attorneys for the 28 defendants in the so-called "Mullan rum ring conspiracy" attacked Needham's story, seeking an admission that he was discharged from his position and sought revenge on the city councilmen, who were since indicted, and charging that he encountered trouble while "collecting" because of his alleged friendship with inmates of disorderly houses. He admitted that he sought to force the Mullan councilmen to resign but denied other charges in the cross examination.

MONTE SOUFRINE GRANTED A DECREE OF DIVORCE

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 17.—(AP)—After several years in the courts, a solution of the marital difficulties of Claire Rosenblatt, of this city and her husband, Monte Soufrine, ex-convict, of New Haven, has been reached. Judge Carl Foster, in superior court today, granted Soufrine a decree of divorce on his counter claim against an action brought by his wife.

The couple was married on August 27, 1922, and lived together for four months when Soufrine was arrested for his activities in the Goldy-Singer automobile theft ring. He was sentenced to state's prison and while there his wife petitioned for and secured a decree of divorce. The decree was granted on May 29, 1925, by Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court.

Soufrine was paroled on September 25, 1925, and promptly brought an action to have the case re-opened, charging that he was not notified of the date of hearing. The action was heard and the divorce decree vacated.

Shortly after this Soufrine won a $3,000 verdict in the superior court of New Haven where he sued his wife's parents for alienation of affections.

HUNT FOR BANK ROBBER IS CENTERED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The hunt for Fred Burke, widely sought as a bank robber and slayer, focussed on Chicago tonight following an announcement by Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office that Burke had been seen in a hotel in Chicago's loop district today.

$15000 DAMAGE SUIT OPENS IN SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 17.—The civil case of Edwin Sugalski of Brooklyn, P. P. A., versus George Gendron, of Danielson, a suit in which the five-year-old plaintiff (through his best friend) is asking for damages of $15,000 for injuries, was begun at today's session of the Windham county superior court. Bad traveling conditions between Andover and Hartford caused Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Andover and counsel for the defense from Hartford to be tardy in arrival. As a result of this delay court was not convened until 11 o'clock. The first business was the selection of a jury to hear the Sugalski vs. Gendron case, the first of three cases listed for jury trial today. The jury selected to hear the case follows: Edwin L. Backus and William A. Burleson of Windham, Willis H. Carroll of Putnam, Edwin Buck and Edward Zeller of Ashford, Fred A. Card of Brooklyn, James Lewis of Coaplin, Ralph Seney and James Royce of Plainfield, Fitz H. Paine of Pomfret, Morrell Roberts of Scotland, Gustave Hagstrom of Thompson. Assistant clerk of the court, Miss Marjorie Bradford, of Putnam, administered the juror's oath.

The five-year-old plaintiff received injuries, alleged to be permanent, in an accident at Brooklyn on April 12 last. The boy was playing in his yard when a truck owned by Gendron and operated by Louis Goulet, also of Danielson, backed over him. Evidence was to the effect that the skull and left leg of the child were injured, according to the plaintiff, and that further the child is suffering from a nervous trouble, more or less of permanent nature.

The action was instituted on behalf of the boy by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Sugalski, claiming damages of $15,000 and represented by Attorneys Harry E. Back of Danielson and William A. King of this city.

Dr. Joseph Perrault of Danielson, who treated the boy until May 7, as the first witness called, testified that the injuries insofar as he was aware, were of superficial character.

Adam Sugalski, father of the child, said that the front wheel of the truck passed over the boy's head. He said the boy developed an ear trouble after May 7, and was bothered with stiffness of his left leg and a rigidity of the body during which his eyes would roll about in an uncontrollable manner.

Miss Lucille Whitman, a friend of the family, and Mrs. Catherine Sugalski, the mother, corroborated this testimony. Mrs. Sugalski said that her child had one of the nervous and rigid spells this morning, the spell lasting about two or three minutes during which time the body was stiff and the eyes rolled.

Arthur Cote, a neighbor of the Sugalski's, testified to events that occurred immediately after the accident.

Dr. Louis I. Mason of this city, considered an expert in accident cases, was then called. He occupied the stand from about 3 o'clock until the adjournment of court at 5 o'clock. Under direct examination by Attorney King, Dr. Mason testified that the injuries sustained by the boy proved to be serious and of permanent nature, according to an examination that he made of the child. He told of noting a slight limp in the left leg. Dr. Mason was cross-examined at length by Attorney Carpenter of Hartford, leading counsel for the defense. At the close of Dr. Mason's testimony it was decided to call in another physician to conduct an examination under the supervision of the court. The name of Dr. Paul Sweet was mentioned. This courtroom examination will probably be made Wednesday morning when the case will be resumed.

While it is hoped to conclude the Sugalski-Gendron case by about noon Wednesday, there is little hope of reaching the court and jury cases assigned for trial at Putnam, beginning Thursday, as three other jury cases remain to be heard here. The first of these is that of Jennie L. Farnum versus Edward A. Winter. The plaintiff, the former Jennie Lilly of this city and heir to the estate of the late George Wheeler, American Thread company employe for many years and famous prompter of years ago, is suing for the recovery of certain valuables of the deceased. At the time of his death Mr. Wheeler was making his home at the Hotel Hooker of which the defendant is proprietor. This case will probably be started late Wednesday forenoon or early afternoon.

Announcement was made that the case of Marian W. Fairbanks versus Theodore Marrotte had been ordered off the docket as the defense counsel was not prepared for trial. Court will convene at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

OLD HOME WEEK PLANS LAID BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 17.— A proposal to stage an Old Home, Old Church and Old School week in the town of Windham coincident with commencement week in the schools in June, was placed before the Willimantic Rotary club at the noon meeting today by Allen B. Lincoln of Westford and Hartford. The former representative had much to do with the success of a similar event held in 1913. The plan of observance will center around the outstanding institution of the community—the home, the church, the school and the civil government, mentioned in the order in which they are encountered in life from childhood to citizenship.

Invitations are to be sent to all parts of the country and many foreign ports where "old Natchaughers" now reside, asking that they return to Windham for the occasion. Anyone having direct or collateral interest in the community will be asked to return. The immediate purpose will be to have a good time in renewing old-time associations and friendships and thereby to exchange experiences.

The former celebrations centered about the schools. The pioneer event was the reunion of Porter B. Peck's pupils at North Windham, Thursday, July 1, 1897, with Mr. and Mrs. M. Eugene Lincoln as the prime movers in the project. Mr. Lincoln presided over a regular "school" session on that occasion. Miss Julia M. Peck, a niece of Porter B. Peck, and herself for many years an efficient and beloved teacher, of "Old Natchaug" was present as was also Robert Peck Bates, a grandson, for many years at the head of the Chicago Latin school and now living in retirement at North Windham.

The next event of this kind was in June, 1903, when pupils of Old Natchaug united here in honor of their former principal, John B. Welch, who came from Columbia, Mo., to attend the 25th anniversary of his graduation from Wesleyan university. There were 317 former pupils in attendance. As a result of this event the John B. Welch fund, now amounting to over $1,500, was established, the income to be awarded to deserving pupils of the high school, or for other purposes in promotion of high school excellence.

A decade later, in 1915, a more elaborate reunion was held and known as "Old Home and School" week. The board of trade co-operated in this movement. Over 2,000 attended the community mass meeting held at the state armory Sunday, June 21, 1915. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dinsmore and Rev. Oliver T. Magnell, former local pastors, delivered addresses on the theme, "The Moral and Religious Basis of Civic Life." Several churches held special services in the morning, and special programs were carried out in public and parochial schools.

Thursday of that week was the banner day when a grand civic parade representing all phases of community life was witnessed by some 15,000 people coming from everywhere. The parade and spectators journeyed to Recreation park where ex-President William H. Taft dilivered an address on Education. A banquet of former pupils in local schools was held Friday night with an attendance of 227. It was agreed to hold another reunion within ten years but industrial conditions here during 1925 caused there plans to be abandoned.

Mr. Lincoln is seeking the co-operation of the chamber of commerce and the local service clubs in making arrangements for the 1930 event.

Dr. E. H. Gumbart Rotary Speaker

The main speaker at the meeting was Dr. E. H. Gumbart, professor of economics at the Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs. His talk was on Relations Between the United States and Canada in which he gave a most interesting review of relations socially, politically, and geographically between these two countries.

Guests introduced by President Louis H. Arnold included Professor Charles A. Wheeler of Storrs, William G. Para, William S. Spencer and Arnold Smith, members of the Norwich Rotary club. The resignation of George H. Shafer, presented because of his inability to attend the Tuesday luncheons, was accepted with regret. The sum of ten dollars weekly, covering a one-year period, was voted to the Welfare bureau. The money is to be directed to child welfare. It was voted to omit the meeting of December 24, owing to its proximity to Christmas. A letter from Mrs. Theresa Peck Hodges, formerly of this city and wife of District Governor Vernon H. Hodges, of New Haven, was read, acknowledging a gift of flowers presented her during a recent visit here. The club welcomed two new members, Martin B. Robertson, rural school supervisor and former Putnam Rotarian, and Professor Benjamin W. Ellis, of the extension department of Connecticut Agricultural college.

WALTER NEFF BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 17.— Walter Neff, 19, of 64 Milk street, this city, was bound over to the next criminal term of the Tolland county superior court on a manslaughter charge under bonds of $1,000, at a session of the Mansfield town court held before Justice of the Peace Byron Houston at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Neff, through Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, pleaded not guilty and the defense did not introduce any testimony. Witnesses for the state were: State Policeman Terrill Cousens of the Stafford Springs barracks, Charles Potter of Perkins' Corner, an eye-witness to the accident of which the case is a result; Henry Miller of 23 Harvard street, and his ten-year-old son Junior. The accident occurred late on the afternoon of Saturday, October 12, last, near Perkins' Corner on the Willimantic-Stafford-Springfield highway. The Millers were headed westerly and Neff was driving toward this city in a new Ford. The machines collided almost head-on and the Miller car was turned over on its side. Mrs. Jennie L. Miller, 60, of Woodsville, N. H., and mother of Henry Miller, driver of the car, died the next day in St. Joseph's hospital. Mrs. Henry Miller was seriously injured and remains a patient at St. Joseph's hospital where there is little hope for her complete recovery. The Miller child was also hurt, but not seriously. Attending the session were Sergeant Harris Hulburt and State Policemen Henry Heinold and Charles Daley, connected with the Stafford Springs barracks.

OBITUARY

William G. Anthony

William G. Anthony, 93, for 60 years a prominent resident of the town of Scotland, died at St. Joseph's hospital this afternoon after a long illness. He had been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Walter Butler of 23 Ash avenue, for the past eight years, entering the hospital last Monday night. During his residence in Scotland the deceased held a number of town offices. He was born in Fairhaven, Mass., April 22, 1836, a son of Caleb and Aseneth Gammons Anthony. Surviving him are three sons, Louis A. Anthony of Springfield, Mass., Charles E., of this city and Henry H. Anthony of East Hartford; and two daughters, Mrs. Walter Butler and Mrs. David Wilson, both of this city and 40 grand and great-grandchildren.

Giovanna Mangano

Giovanna, infant daughter of Mariano and Anna Maria Mangano of 956 Main street, died at St. Joseph's hospital early this morning. Besides her parents she leaves six brothers: Antro, Baggio, John, Charles, Luciano and Joseph Mangano. The funeral was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon with burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of the Hurteau-Bosse Corp.

Captain Ellison S. Smith of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, gave notice of the annual federal inspection of drilling and equipment to be held Tuesday, February 14, by an officer of the regular army, at the weekly drill held tonight. The state property, including the armory and furnishings, will be inspected during the afternoon of February 14 by an officer of the state guard.

Judge Otto B. Robinson of this city, has been appointed chief clerk of the department of state agencies and institutions at the state capitol by Agent Raymond F. Gates of this city. He succeeds the late William E. Davison who held the position for a number of years. Mr. Robinson had resided here for many years and was judge of the probate court of the Windham-Scotland district for ten years, up to one year ago.

George Chewanse, of Columbia, received injuries and the team he was driving was damaged about 7 o'clock this morning when the wagon was struck on Columbia avenue by a coach operated by Samuel Popelsky of South Coventry. The wagon tipped over, throwing the driver to the ground, and inflicting an injury to his hip. Both vehicles were traveling in the same direction at the time. An investigation was conducted by Officer Arthur Hurley. Chowanec was treated by a physician.

FUNERAL

Miss Beda J. Peterson

Services for Miss Beda J. Peterson were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the mortuary parlors at 62 North street. Rev. Mr. Granquist of Pontiac, R. I., officiated. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were: Alvin Johnson, Aaron Anderson, Andrew Johnson and Fred J. Skoglund. Avery and VanZandt had charge of the arrangements.

A warning by Judge Frank H. Foss, of the police court, was issued today that those who are in arrears on probationary assessments for past arraignments must meet payments by January 1, or be subjected to a summons to court. These payments are to be made through Probation Officer William V. Palmer, Sr. Two cases were heard by the court this morning, one being that of James Friery of Putnam, who was sentenced to 90 days at the county jail for being a common drunkard. The other case was that of transient charged with intoxication. A sentence of 30 days in jail was imposed.

Professor William H. Darrow, apple specialist of the Connecticut Agricultural college, spoke on apple growing at the weekly dinner-meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this evening. President George H. Gurley presided and R. G. Remington introduced the speaker. In illustrating his talk with stereopticon slides, Professor Darrow said that the apple was probably the most famous and romantic fruit known, it having to do with the destiny of all mankind as a result of the part it played in the Garden of Eden.

One of the best records for holiday money order business is being established at the post office here. While there have not been as many foreign orders as last year, the total of money involved is greater. Over 80 per cent of the foreign orders were sent in aggregate order to the following countries: Sweden, Ireland, Poland and Italy. Beginning today the delivery of these orders by Christmas could not be assured. The biggest business in the history of the local office is reported in domestic money orders, Monday being the banner day.

Dr. Charles A. Jenkins has received notification from the war department of his name as an officer of the medical department of the U. S. army being placed on the officers' retired list with pay, dating from June 8, 1928. Dr. Jenkins was a veteran of the World war and saw service overseas with the rank of lieutenant, being attached to the British forces.

Leon Woodworth, of South Willington, graduate of Windham high school, class of 1929, has the distinction of being on the honor roll for the first 12-week period at Bay Path institute, Springfield, Mass. He is a junior in the secretarial department.

Miss Katherine Sears, art instructor at the Willimantic State Normal school, is making good recovery in Taunton, Mass., following an operation.

Charles Fenton, of the U. S. S. Oklahoma, is enjoying a ten-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Fenton, of Spring hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howie have returned to their home, 176 Prospect street, following a honeymoon journey to Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Ralph U. Weimer entertained the bridge club of which Mrs. Harvey H. Bronson is leader at luncheon at her home Monday afternoon. Mrs. Donald E. Crane won the first prize and Mrs. Margery B. Church, second.

Mrs. Horace J. Fenton, of Spring hill, entertained a bridge club of which she is a member, at luncheon and cards this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Handfield announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dora Handfield, to Alphonse Delude, of this city.

Miss Hilda M. Berard, assistant city clerk, is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bentley have returned from a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Derby, Bridgeport and Central Falls, R. I.

A slight improvement is noted in the condition of Mrs. C. E. Billings who is ill with pneumonia and pleurisy at the home of Mrs. Henry A. Bugbee.

NORTH STERLING

Ralph Hansen has been ill during the past week with a severe attack of influenza but is hoping to be able to resume his duties this week at the A. & P. store in Putnam.

Mrs. Arthur Miller has received word from New Rochelle, N. Y., that her father, Henry Downing, is not expected to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis, of this place, Charles Gunderson and family, of Ballouville, and Mrs. Katrina Gunderson, of Delaware, were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Winther.

G. F. Pierce continues to gain slowly.

Little Billie Rioux, who has been ill, is able to be at school.

Walter Minnaugh is not able to be back at school but hopes are held out that he will be there to greet Santa on Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the new school building where the public Christmas entertainment is to be held.

COLCHESTER

Many local people took interest in listening in the radio broadcast of the old-time dance music by Webster's dance orchestra from station WTIC, Hartford, Tuesday evening. The director of the orchestra, Elmer E. Webster, of Wethersfield, is a former well known resident of Colchester. In the early nineties he was a member of the well known George Jackson's orchestra here.

An error was made Tuesday when it was stated that the Junior C. E. society would hold its Christmas social and entertainment Tuesday evening, Dec. 17. It should have read Tuesday evening, Dec. 24.

Benjamin K. Singer, former clerk in the local post office, returned home Tuesday, from an eight thousand mile motor trip to Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, California. He left here Oct. 17, going via Albany, Buffalo, Detroit to Upsilanti, Michigan, where several days were spent with his brother, Abraham Singer at Michigan state college. From there, he went on to Chicago, St. Louis, Oklahoma City to El Paso, Texas. Stops were made to visit the oil fields in Oklahoma and the large cattle ranches in Texas. Continuing to Juarez, Mexico, Mr. Singer witnessed a bull fight later motoring to Phoenix, Arizona, where he visited the state capitol building. At San Diego, a visit was made to Balboa park and a 500-mile tour was made through Pasadena, Santa Monica, Long Beach, El Centro, Hollywood and Santa Barbara, California.

Louis Lefkowitz, of Norwich avenue, was in a slight automobile accident about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. His De Soto sedan, which he was driving from here to Hartford, turned over on the slippery hill just beyond the ten curves in the town of Glastonbury. As he was driving at a moderate rate of speed, Mr. Lefkowitz was not injured and the car was not seriously damaged.

The "Where Next" bridge club will be entertained this (Wednesday) afternoon by Mrs. Earl B. Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Bunyon and Mrs. T. S. Rathbun called on Mrs. Emma Bestor in Hebron, Monday.

Mrs. Lucy B. Allen and Miss Edna V. Strong were Norwich visitors, Tuesday.

COLCHESTER FARMERS GET AWARDS AT HARTFORD

Dr. George A. Works, president of the Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, and S. McLean Buckingham, state commissioner of agriculture, were the principal speakers at the fourth annual meeting of Jewish farmers of the state Sunday afternoon at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, when fourteen farmers several in this section of the state, were given awards offered by the Jewish Agricultural society for outstanding farm improvements. More than 150 men attended the meeting, at which Herman P. Koppleman, of Hartford, presided.

The Jewish Agricultural society is a national organization and the contest has been a nation-wide one, the fourteen Connecticut awards presenting a very good state showing, according to Gabriel Davidson, general manager of the society, who in distributing prizes yesterday said that farmers, their wives and children in the state have made an excellent showing. There were ten divisions in which prizes were awarded, with first, second and third prizes of $25, $15 and $10 in each division.

Commissioner Buckingham said the society "is one which is trying to do all it can for the farmer and put agriculture on a sounder basis."

President Work expressed pleasure at being able to participate in a meeting of such agricultural interests and gave his views on modern farming problems, especially the farmer's daily life which, he said, "is more significant than the life of the urban family." The president extended an invitation to the members of the society to visit the college, its experimental station and extension service.

The fourteen Connecticut awards were as follows:

John N. Elkin, of Colchester, was given first prize in the division of stock improvement; Solomon Klappersack, of Branford, first prize in marketing; Mrs. Esther Sigal, Colchester, second prize in home beautification; Mrs. Harry Neleber, North Haven, third prize in division of family health; Harry Engle, East Haven, second prize in marketing; Harry Neleber, North Haven, second prize in division of control of poultry diseases; Fanny and Celia Winckur, of Vernon, first prize in junior project work; Sam Dashevsky and Harry Shadick, of Colchester, first prize in junior project work for boys; L. Weistone and Sons, Ellington, honorable mention in division of important projects; Pauline and Beatrice Kahan, of Vernon, second prize in junior project work for girls; Paul Lavitt of Ellington, honorable mention in junior project work for boys; Sam Ehrlich, Addison, second prize in honorable mention in home beautification; junior project work for boys; Robert Fenster, of Stepney, third prize in junior project work for boys; Jacob Glaubinger, of Bradford, honorable mention in junior project work for boys.

MANSFIELD CENTER

An old time fiddling contest was held at Echo grange hall last week under the auspices of the December committee of the grange, Mrs. John Johnson is chairman. The contestants were Herbert G. Chappell and Frank M. Hall, Mansfield Hollow, Olin Whiton, Mansfield Four Corners, and Arthur Wood, Gurleyville. The judges, Arthur Hartley of South Coventry, Fred Green of Columbia and A. M. Bassett of Warrenville, gave the first prize to Frank Hall; second, Herbert Chappell; third, Olin Whiton. The first selection played by each was Turkey in the Straw and the following three selections of each were on individual choice. A lunch was served to the contestants and judges and their wives.

The Mansfield Hollow school will hold its Christmas entertainment at Echo Grange hall Thursday evening. The Sunday school Christmas program will be given at the church Friday evening. Monday evening is the date of the Spring Hill Christmas celebration.

The Ladies' Aid society will have a Christmas party at the parsonage Thursday afternoon as guests of Rev. Mrs. Jones.

The annual meeting and Christmas party of the church guild was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Edwin G. Clark with a bountiful dinner at noon. There was also a Christmas tree. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. George A. Little; vice president, Mrs. A. E. Anthony; secretary, Mrs. Edgar Manning; treasurer, Mrs. G. G. Porter.

At a meeting of the trustees and officers of the church, held at the parsonage Friday evening, it was decided to hold the Every Member canvass next Sunday and the meeting and dinner to which every member of the community is always invited January 1.

Rev. Hawthorne Jones is improving in health and is now able to be around the house. Mrs. Jones preached at the Center and at Spring Hill Sunday.

The community was saddened last week by the death of two members. The funeral of Edwin G. Hall was held at the church Sunday afternoon and that of Mrs. Charles Hobby at the church Wednesday afternoon. Both deaths followed long illness. On Thursday was held the funeral of a former resident of the village, Mrs. Olive M. Alexander, in Willimatic.

SOUTH WILLINGTON

Leon Woodworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodworth, has the distinction of being on the honor roll for the first term, (12 weeks), at Bay Path institute, Springfield, Mass. He is a member of the junior class of the secretarial department. Earl Potter, of Windham Center, a member of the junior class, normal department, is also on the honor roll. Both boys are graduates of Windham high school, Willimantic, class of '29.

The Get-To-Gether club held a community social at Hall Memorial school Thursday evening. A program was given by the Willington band and dance selections by Miss Roberta Cady and her dancing girls, of Stafford Springs. Following the entertainment an old fashioned and round dance was held in the gymnasium, with music by Neff's orchestra, with Jim Rhodes prompter.

Walter Mather, who has been a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, for the past two weeks, has returned home.

Miss Beatrice Malo, of Hartford, was the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Malo.

The Ladies' Aid and Missionary societies will hold an all-day meeting today, (Wednesday). In the afternoon, Mrs. Charles Vickery, of Hartford, will give the closing lecture on the book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem."

A supper is to be given in Hall Memorial church by the Ever Ready class. A program of Christmas carols will follow.

FITCHVILLE

HAMPTON ART TEACHER FOR SCHOOLS OF TOWN

At the December meeting of the Bozrah school board held the 9th, it was voted to engage a supervisor of art for the town's schools. Miss Ethel Cooke of Hampton has been appointed by the state board of education to have charge of this work. She made her first visit to the schools Wednesday, Dec. 11th.

Sam Delinsky of New York is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Delinsky, of Bozrahville.

Schools were closed in the town of Bozrah Thursday afternoon to enable the teachers to attend a meeting of the teachers from Franklin, Lebanon, Marlboro, Hebron, Bozrah and Colchester, held at the Day auditorium in Colchester. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Robertson, supervisor of schools, and his assistant, Miss Florence Battle. Miss Vincent, school nurse for this district, outlined work for the coming year. The meeting then took the form of a round table discussion at which teachers from the various towns outlined school activities taking place in their schools. A social hour followed, during which refreshments were served by members of the domestic science class of the Bacon academy under direction of the teacher of domestic science, Miss Pearl Tiffany.

Stafford Springs

The Christmas rush has begun at the post office. Postmaster Jacobsen has installed a receptacle for post cards in the lobby of the office with separate compartments for local and outgoing mail.

Orren Avery, who is at Johnson Memorial Hospital suffering from the effects of a fall, continues to improve.

Special exercises will be held in most of the public schools Friday, the closing day of the fall term. The musical play, "The Shepherds' Christmas Eve," will be given in the grammar school hall Thursday evening, with Miss Charlotte Beckwith, supervisor of music in charge.

The boys' basketball team of Stafford high school will play the first home game with Palmer high school at the grammar school gymnasium Friday evening. The lineup is: A. Bidorini, left forward; Dick Giacomini, right forward; Peter Wojtciewicz, center; Elio Scotta, right guard; Alexander Belovitz, left guard. The boys have been practicing for several days and Coach Chester E. Baston expects that they will give a good account of themselves when they meet the Palmer boys.

Miss Bete Mosley, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. T. Arthur Mosley, is at her home on Church street, recovering after an operation for appendicitis, performed at the Johnson Memorial hospital several weeks ago.

Mrs. Lavilla L. Newton, of New York, was a recent visitor with Mrs. John M. Leach.

Holden Daley, who had his foot badly cut while splitting wood a few days ago, has almost entirely recovered from the effects of the injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Krause, who have been occupying their cottage at Crystal lake all summer and fall, have moved to Rockville for the winter.

Miss Elizabeth Schreier is employed at the Fitzpatrick shop during the holiday season.

Charles Pebuda, of Hartford, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Schofield.

The members of the choir of the Methodist church are planning a visit to the Johnson Memorial hospital just before Christmas, to sing Christmas carols.

The Boys' club rooms opened Monday evening for the season.

DANIELSON

D AND L. DRIVE TO GET UNDERWAY THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 17—Following tonight's meeting of the Danielson Building and Loan association at the Danielson Trust company building the ambitious plan of selling 5,000 shares of a new series to be issued by the association will get underway. In this effort the organization will be undertaking a greater and more important task than it has assumed at any time since its organization, nearly a decade and a half ago.

Back of this laudable work is the object of relieving the housing shortage of this community by building at least half a hundred homes. There is immediate need of that many and more could be used. Though a large number of houses have been built here in the past 15 years, construction has never kept abreast of demand.

There is a fine enthusiasm back of the present project that would seem to assure its success. The shares to be issued will bear interest at the rate of five per cent, as have all series of shares of the association in the past.

A cantata of the Nativity is to be presented Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Baptist church. The presentation will be under the direction of the young people of the church, and is described as an acting of the Scripture in pantomine.

The Christmas tree service at this church is to be on Christmas night at 7 o'clock in the vestry and will be in charge of members of the Christian Endeavor group. An unusually good program, that includes musical numbers readings and the telling of Christmas stories, has been arranged. At this time there is to be a White Gift service, each person bringing a present to be ceremoniously presented. The gifts will go to a mission school. P. S. Santa Claus is to be present.

FUNERALS

Mrs. L. G. Dawley

Today at 12:30 at A. F. Wood's funeral home on Mechanic street funeral services for Mrs. Lilly G. Dawley of East Killingly were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. Relatives acted as bearers.

Mrs. S. I. Mathewson

At the home in East Killingly this afternoon funeral services for Mrs. Susan I. Mathewson were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong. Burial was in the Bartlett cemetery at East Killingly. The bearers were Elmer O. Mathewson, a son, Robert Sands, a son-in-law, Elmer Keene, a nephew and Warren Simmons. A. F. Wood had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Maria A. Rathbun

Following services held in Lowell, in which city she died, the body of Mrs. Maria A. Rathbun was buried today in Westfield cemetery. A. F. Wood had charge of the arrangements here.

OBITUARY

Joseph N. Mondor

A death last night at East Killingly was that of Joseph Napoleon Mondor, 50, who had lived practically all of his life in this vicinity, the majority of his years in the community where he died. Mr. Mondor was born in Putnam, August 1, 1876. During his active years he was engaged with mill work. He was a son of Albert and Auralie Belleveue Mondor. He leaves his wife and the following brothers and sisters: George, Hector, Peter, Arthur, Mrs. Celia Roy, Mrs. Josephine Desouneau and Miss Emma Mondor.

Miss Lena Kopecki

This morning the funeral of Miss Lena Kopecki was held from the home on South street, West Side, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem, at which a considerable number of relatives and friends were in attendance. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S. The bearers were Joseph Samborski, William Samborski, Antonio Samborski, Peter Samborski, Peter Kopecki and Timothy Kopecki. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Prospects of a quick harvesting of the season's ice crop vanished today as a heavy easterly rain beat down upon the bodies of water hereabouts from which the borough's supply is taken each year. The past week the ice had reached a thickness of 6 inches and was of excellent quality. That thickness was materially reduced this afternoon.

In honor of Miss Eleanor Egan of Wauregan about 35 of her friends gathered at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Heneault on L'Homme street to shower her with many gifts. The evening was very pleasantly spent there being a number of entertaining features and diversions. Refreshments were served. Guests were present from Cambridge, New Haven, Plainfield, Moosup, Wauregan, Putnam, Dayville and Goodyear. Miss Egan is to be married New Year's day to Chester Cacutte of Maple street, Danielson.

Thursday evening of this week students and teachers of the evening school meeting at Killingly high school will have a Christmas party, as is an established custom as the fall term closes. Members of the classes will bring refreshments, and the evening is planned to be a happy occasion for all attending. After Thursday evening the evening school will be closed for a week.

Non-resident teachers in Killingly's schools who will go to their homes for the holidays, leaving this week end, are: Evan C. Richardson, Mills, Mass.; Miss Roberta Horton, Pawtucket; Miss Margaret Stief, Philadelphia; Miss Emma F. Ihman, Bridgeton, N. J.; Miss Mary Cunniff, Brookline, Mass.; Miss Priscilla Brooks, going to Kentucky; Miss Theda Ray, Auburn, Me.; Mrs. Gladys Walford, Storrs; Mrs. Lydia DiCecca, Melrose, Mass.; the Misses Marion Dowd, Emily Mann, Alice Farrand, Eileen Germaine Worcester; Miss Ruth Preset, Manchester-by-the-Sea; Miss Rebecca Peass, Norfolk, Mo.; Miss Lania Wilbuck, Palmer, Mass.; Miss Etta Mellor, New Bedford; Miss Louise Perkins, Brockton; Miss Ruth Johnson, Southboro, Mass.

Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools in Killingly and Brooklyn said this afternoon that teachers in these towns are being organized into groups for the study and discussion having directly to do with their respective grades. The primary group is made up of teachers of grades one, two and three. The intermediate group is made up of grades four, five and six and the upper grammar group of teachers of the seventh and eighth grades. Mrs. Mabel Davis has been elected chairman of the upper grammar group. The intermediate group being larger there is both a chairman and a secretary, Mrs. Beatrice Beckett and Mrs. Marion Burnham, respectively. It was planned to organize the primary group this afternoon. The high school group is to be organized following the holiday recess. Each of the groups is to meet periodically, probably about once each month, but more frequently if it is deemed desirable.

Principal E. R. Warren of Killingly high school and Mrs. Warren are to spend the holiday season visiting with relatives in Tennessee.

Members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club have a turkey shoot planned to be held at their grounds off the Danielson-Wauregan state highway on December 22.

A midnight service, starting at 11:30 p. m., is to be held at St. Alban's church Christmas eve. The full choir will assist at this service at which there will be communion. The children of the parish are rehearsing a Christmas play to be presented shortly after the holiday.

Day by day the volume of mail matter being handled at the Danielson postoffice continues to mount, a fact that urges attention to the need of mail packages early if they are to be delivered on time.

Last evening about 35 persons were at the annual meeting of the Windham County Kennel club at American Legion hall. A turkey dinner with all the fixings was served. Officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Alexander Maitland, Thompson; vice-president, Joseph Birch, Danielson; secretary, Miss Ethel Birch, Danielson; E. L. Kelly, Putnam; general committee, Paul Bosse, Joseph Birch, Mrs. Hattie Miller, E. L. Kelly, Mr. Duffy, Putnam, and Walter Bromley.

Store forces are keeping a sharp lookout for shoplifters in these busy days before Christmas, mindful of the fact that a considerable number of losses were suffered by thieving patrons during last year's Christmas shopping season.

Many busy fingers are engaged in territory hereabouts this week in the making of Christmas greens, which are beginning to appear in windows of homes of the borough. A few holiday electrical displays are also to be seen at homes about the borough.

JEWETT CITY

MISS ELLEN PRIOR TO SING IN COLLEGE CAROL SERVICE

Miss Ellen Prior, a student at Brown, is to sing in the Pembroke-Brown carol service to be held this (Wednesday) evening in Sayles hall at the university, Thursday. Miss Prior, will be one of the voices in the Pembroke vesper service at the college Alumni hall, in Providence.

At the mid-week service this (Wednesday) evening at the Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. J. W. Carter, is to give a screen lecture. Sixty-six streoptican views will illustrate his subject, which will be, A Modern Tour Through the Congo in Africa. Thursday evening the Willing Workers' class is to be entertained at the home of Miss Harriet McClugage, in Sylvandale. The church choir rehearsal this week is to be with Mrs. Francis LaLiberty, of East Main street.

Tony Marinella, was in New York Monday, a guest at the wedding of a friend.

As the result of the reservoir gates being shut at Pachaug, the big pond is filling up. Where, all through the dry summertime, were to be seen, what appeared to be waving grass fields are now under water. In the upper reaches of the big reservoir, over in the Glasgo territory, more than a thousand acres, that were bare when the fishing season closed, are now flooded. Only a few years ago it would have been a matter not to be thought about, that the Ashland and Fisk mills could be operated without the use of their big turbines. Today, both plants are independent of the water supply, made possible with their electric equipment.

The bremium smile, was the facial expansion noted Tuesday, when a small boy not above three feet high, was allowed to carry up the street, the Christmas tree which his father had purchased. No king, prince or potentate in all his regal trappings, ever had anything on the pleasure that shone in that youngster's dancing eyes, as he informed his father, that it "wasn't heavy a bit."

A check-up on game secured by hunters, this past open season, goes to prove that, outside of a few male pheasants, there was but little legal shooting. Game wardens, have kept fairly close watch of quail and partridge covers, and believe that but very few took the pot hunting risk, which is a losing game. Gray squirrels once numerous along the roadside walls, are reduced locally to a few pairs, that are partly domesticated.

Lisbon grange is planning a Christmas party for Friday evening. There will be a tree on which each one present will place a ten cent gift, and in return will receive one. These will be refreshments which will not be solicited, but will be whatever eatable anyone may care to bring.

The first ice promise, received a knockout with the high temperature and rain. Four inch ice on the Ashland fields, was rapidly cutting out Tuesday afternoon.

Delighted audiences at the Finn theatre, saw the Hollywood Revue, Mr. Barnett ran the reel two days, that all might have an opportunity to see one of the season's top-notchers.

Mrs. Anthony Nowakowski, formerly Miss Mary Hrabosz, is back at the Langlen's parlors.

On account of the volume of parcel post mail, Postmaster W. T. Crumb has decided to use the rear room, recently rented in the Finn blck, for the delivery of this class of mail. For the balance of this month, when a patron of this office finds a card in his lock box, "Call for parcel," it will be necessary to enter the rear door in Fanning court, where parcel post delivery will be made by the clerk on duty, upon presentation of the card.

From the Hotel Adams, Phoenix, Arizona, Dec. 7, Mr. Ross writes:

We arrived here yesterday afternoon after a strenuous drive. The distance from Tucson is 135 miles but one-half of it is detour. You see my chauffeur is equal to any road. If there is a detour of a mile in the New England states it seems rather long, yet in the west we have detours of 25 to fifty miles.

Yesterday's detours were in the desert with the grand cactus on all sides of us, sage bush and mesquite growth. We crossed the Gila (pronounced Hila) on a bridge as long as from the railroad crossing in Jewett City to the end of the bridge in Lisbon.

There was not a drop of water in the Gila, two reasons for this, one is that at this time of the year there is never very much water in any stream in Arizona and the other reason is that what little water there is, is used for irrigating the land.

The Salt river, near this city, had a little water less than flows in Broad brook at home.

The Salt river bridge looked to me as if it was half a mile long. Where the land was watered by the Salt river water the cotton was very tall and was being picked by Indians.

There were very few houses from Tucson here, except in the towns, only three in 135 miles. We expect to see a town (city they are called) at a place called "Tennessee" but there was only a board with Tenn. printed on it. There were only a few roads leading off our highway and these looked as if they were going to some pass in the mountains.

One little road (10 feet wide) had a sign which read the Jumbo lead mine 11 miles.

The United States highway, No. 80, we have followed for more than 1600 miles and where it is finished it is very fine. Near larger cities it is sometimes 60 or 70 feet wide.

PUTNAM

NAT. RHEA CO. GIVEN PERMISSION TO SELL PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 17.—Attorney Howard C. Bradford, counsel for creditors of the National Rhea Co., a Rhode Island corporation, owner of a rayon manufacturing plant in this city, which filed voluntary bankruptcy petitions for the purpose of reorganization, said this afternoon that Judge Edward M. Yeomans at a session of superior court in Willimantic today granted a motion for the sale of the company's property at auction. Mr. Bradford said that the motion granted in the Connecticut court is identical with an order issued a week ago by a judge of the Providence county superior court in Providence, R. I. The sale of the plant will be made by Lewis Waterman, receiver of the corporation. The court order today in authorizing the sale of the Rhea company stipulated that the lowest bid to be accepted will be about $148,000,000, a figure agreed upon in the Rhode Island court.

Judge Clarence H. Child, life-long resident of Woodstock and prominent citizen of that town, whose obituary appeared in the columns of this morning's Bulletin, served as a representative in general assembly from the town of Woodstock during the sessions of 1919 and 1921. In 1923 he was elected state senator for the 28th senatorial district and re-elected again in 1925. Mr. Child entered public life of the town in 1902 when he was appointed to fulfill the unexpired term of office of Judge of Probate Lynde A. Catalin, who died earlier in the year. Mr. Child held this office until four years ago when he resigned upon reaching the age limit. He was at one time president of the board of trustees of Woodstock academy and was deacon of the Second Congregational church of Woodstock Hill. Besides a daughter, Miss Ellin Child, Mr. Child is survived by a sister, Mrs. Richard Carpenter, of this city.

In last night's round of the indoor sports tournament between the Masonic club and the Putnam lodge of Elks, the Masons were on the long end of a 9 to 3 score, their second victory of the season. The match was played at the Elks club rooms on Main street and was largely attended.

George Hinch, an employe of the New Haven film delivery service, who drives a truck for that company in delivering motion pictures to theatres in eastern Connecticut, was delayed Monday evening when he struck a deer on the Thompson road, en route to Webster. Hinch did not need a license to hunt the animal and was not even forced to leave his comfortable seat to bag it. As he was proceeding along the road his lights suddenly focused upon two shining objects less than 50 feet ahead. He could not make out the form of the animal until he came directly upon it. He tried to avoid striking the form he thought to be that of a man, but when he turned out the deer moved in the same direction and the front of the car caught the animal. The impact of the animal when hurled against the truck damaged the radiator to such an extent that he was forced to summon a mechanic to make repairs before he could proceed. It was afterwards learned that the antlers, which were long and large, penetrated the coil of the radiator. Hinch turned the carcass of his victim over to County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels of Plainfield.

District Governor Vernon H. Hodges of New Haven, who governs Rotary clubs in this district, has published his report known as "The Gold Book." It is a small pamphlet bound by a cover printed in gold leaf and contains attendance records of the various clubs in the district, established during the past year. The membership of the Putnam club, according to statistics in the book, in its entirety established a perfect record, thereby attaining the rating—100 per cent. Warren W. Averill, Ray C. Bosworth and Ellsworth L. Kelley, charter members of the Putnam club, are honored by virtue of their six years of perfect attendance.

Last evening at the Bradley theatre the motion picture production, "Live Love and Laugh," was presented as a benefit for the Putnam Parent-Teacher association. The high school orchestra, under the direction of Nelson Frink, played several selections during the course of the performance. The committee in charge of the event reported that the affair was a financial success.

A successful card fete and dance was held Tuesday evening in the Elks block on Main street and given under the auspices of the Cosmos club, a local organization of professional women. The affair was well attended and proceeds derived are to be devoted to the promotion of the club's charitable enterprises which are being conducted throughout the town on a large scale. In the banquet room of the Elks home several tables of bridge were in play during the evening, while in the assembly hall adjoining, more than 50 couples danced. Mrs. Bernice G. Delaney, president of the welfare society said this morning that the event has proven a complete success.

Mrs. Delaney, when asked, reviewed the accomplishments of the Cosmos club, which was organized in March, 1923, with a membership of 20 professional and business women of the city. Mrs. Harry E. Torrey of Bates avenue was the first president. The urban charity work, a major objective of the club, brought aid to many needy families and children hereabouts, and brought a widespread public recognition for the woman's society, enabling it to increase its membership to 30. Mrs. Delaney said that the only revenue the club received was its membership dues, which amounted to less than $100 a year, but with the aid of outside donations, various food sales, a dance at the Putnam Country club and a benefit theatrical performance and other minor social activities, the club has been able to supply nearly 3,000 quarts of milk for undernourished children here during the past year. Only the scientifically treated Pasteur milk is supplied for Cosmos cases, Mrs. Delaney asserted. The milk fund and other charity is distributed through an investigating committee, who probe a prospective case thoroughly before assuming charge, it being through this careful code of research that the worthiness of the case is established. Mrs. Delaney, in behalf of the Cosmos club, asserted her appreciation of the cooperation of the Putnam lodge of Elks, who cheerfully donated the use of their building to foster the milk fund.

Apparatus at the Central fire station in Union square responded to a telephone alarm Monday evening at 6:05 o'clock for a fire in a tenement at 65 Railroad street, owned by Warren McNally and occupied by Percival Tatoon. The fire originated in a chimney in the dwelling and was burning briskly when the firemen arrived, but was quickly extinguished with water and chemicals. Only a small fire loss resulted, Chief R. E. Thurston reported.

Captain of Police William J. Jarsz and his right-hand man, Officer Benoi Durand, began their daily rounds this morning armed with pamphlets issued by the recently created state department of aviation, containing laws governing flying in Connecticut. The captain and his favorite patrolman were confronted with a problem of going about the task of apprehending violators of the air. "I don't see how we're gonna do it," said the captain to Officer Bill as he looked at his little patrol wagon and then cast a glance into the sky, scanning the ceiling for a speeding skywayman. "Maybe Mayor Richard will buy us a balloon," returned Officer Bill nonchalantly. "Nope, that won't do, Mayor Richard's a horse-lover and a follower of the ponies," retorted the captain, eagerly awaiting an airplane flight at too low an altitude over the latest addition to the city's sky-line—the Cargill Trust Co.'s new block. Exhausting their mental resources for a solution to the aerial enforcement problem and coming to the verge of giving up in a fit of despondency—the mid-afternoon state of tranquility in the business center was suddenly thrown into turmoil by an eruption of horrible noises that sent a series of echoes chasing each other the length and breadth of the city. "Cover yerself, Bill," exclaims the captain to his subordinate as he reached for his arsenal 'neath his overcoat to peek around the corner of the White bank and gaze down Front street, known as the southern gateway of Windham county. To the captain's surprise, the thundering herd was nothing less than Sergt. George Liard's "Old Tinsides," attired in its unique winter dress, ankling its way through the city's most formidable area of congested traffic. With the cause of alarm ascertained, the police department, to a man, was seen to return to normality. "What's on your minds, boys," bellowed the genial guardian and caretaker of the city's morals after dark as he tossed a blanket over the power pact of his faithful charger. "Well," says the captain, "Bill and I got orders from Hartford today that we got to suppress violations of the air and we can't see how we're gonna do it." "Ho-ho," returns the sergeant in his customary manner, "easy as pie. The other day I was reading in The Bulletin where Charley Thayer's fire bell was heard over in Willimantic. Now here's where we give it a chance to do its stuff. The minute you see an aviator trying to cop the dome on the city hall, all ya gotta do is holler at him. If he resists just ring in Charley Thayer's fire alarm and within 30 seconds Captain McLean over in the Thread city will hear it and the arm of law and order will assemble over on Columbia Green and before you know it we'll have the guilty one up before Judge Geissler. How's that?" concluded the sergeant.

"Now, that's an idea," continued the captain joyously. "Charley Thayer sure does know how to make life easy for a policeman and, really, George, you ought to get a patent on that scheme of yours, becuz if anyone learns about it, they'll be sure to beat you to it," continued the captain as he scanned the sky for the last time before the evening star came out from behind a cloud to look over the fair city below. "I shouldn't wonder, Bill, I shouldn't wonder," put in the sergeant as he climbed aboard his trusty chariot.

Mrs. Genevieve Letters of Grand View, left today for a visit with relatives in Springfield, Mass.

George H. Gilpatric, Jr., a student at Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., arrived home today to pass the Christmas recess at the home of his mother, Mrs. Irene R. Gilpatric, of Church street.

MOOSUP

President Charles Roper presided for the executive committee at Young People's church Sunday evening. He called on the pastor to lead the singing. Two hymns were studied and sung. William Pratt read the Scripture, Charlotte V. Kitchin and Phyllis Sanderson assisted. Two visitors were present from Sterling Hill, Bernice and Russell Gallop. There were thirty present, including visitors. Lucius Cranska showed motion pictures of Alaska, also the Armistice Sunday motion pictures of local patriotic orders marching from church.

At 2:30 on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22, at the Boy Scout rooms, Ernest Goodrow post, No 91, of the American Legion, is to have a Christmas tree for all children of ex-service men. The mothers of all such children have been invited to accompany them and to enjoy the party. The post committee is Dan McArthur, Ernest Labeau, Fred Roberts. Steinman Brothers donated the handsome Christmas tree.

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Baldwin, of Fishers Island, are spending a few days with Mrs. Baldwin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Woodmansee.

The C. E. society held its annual meeting and Christmas party Monday evening in the vestry of the First Congregational church, after the business meeting. The following officers were elected: President, John G. Dodge; vice-president, Harold Hopkins; recording secretary, Ernest Plassman; corresponding secretary, Lena Butler; treasurer, Margaret Lees; Lookout committee, Rev. William Prentiss; prayer meeting committee, Mrs. John C. Kingsley; social committee, Marion Wilcox. The supper served consisted of sandwiches, olives, pickles, jello and whipped cream, cake, coffee and candy. Gifts were given to all. The vestry was artistically decorated with Christmas greenery and in the middle of the table was a Christmas tree. Those in charge were: Miss Mary Baldwin, Miss Marion Herbert, Mrs. John Kingsley. Reading by Donald Gallup and harmonica solo by John Holland were enjoyed.

Miss Florence Walker, of Boston, is spending a few days visiting friends in town.

The meeting of the Mission circle will be held with the president, Miss Frances Babcock, Thursday at 4 p. m.

HELPFUL DISCUSSIONS

With the Japanese delegates to the London conference spending several days in conference with the officials of this country at Washington, while waiting for their ship to carry them across the Atlantic, it is believed that good results will attend the discussions. It at least permits of a consideration of the question of limitation and parity before the big show opens and there is an opportunity in such discussions to come to a better understanding of what the respective nations are seeking.

The chief difficulty seems to surround the matter of 10,000-ton cruisers. Japan believes that it should have 70 per cent of the naval strength of the other countries—the United States and Great Britain. Difficulty arises in this connection because the cruiser strength of these two countries may not be the same. Under the distribution of cruiser tonnage it may be that the United States will have 21 of the large cruisers while the British may have only 15, the latter making up the difference with smaller cruisers. But is he in that difference that the Japanese puzzle has developed.

Japan is seeking a 70 per cent strength and naturally it would claim that it ought to have 70 per cent of the American cruiser strength. That would mean that it would have a larger number of the 10,000-ton cruisers than the British. It would mean that it would have to engage in construction instead of limitation. It would be just the same if the British cruisers were the larger in number since it plans to claim that it should be entitled to 70 per cent of whichever has the larger number.

How to unravel the tangle is the problem. Japan doesn't take the position that it favors naval expansion. On the other hand, it is favorable to limitation and would prefer an arrangement whereby it would not be required to build more ships. What the answer is going to be is not determined. It rests with the London conference to clear it up, but the airing of the matter during the stay of the Japanese delegation in this country should have a salutary effect. By clearing up any misunderstandings the conference deliberations should be greatly helped.

SETTLING THE DEBT

By a vote of two and a half to one the senate has passed judgment upon the outcome of the negotiations that were carried on by representatives of this country and France relative to the payment of the French debt. It was not without objection that the Mellon-Berenger agreement was approved in either house but the opposition was confined to those who can usually be expected to be on the opposite side of most any question.

That the president will give his approval to the agreement is a foregone conclusion and what had the possibilities of considerable delay will soon be cleared up. The French debt agreement means the funding of the debts of the last of the large country with the exception of Russia. It means that France will pay the sum of $4,025,000,000 with interest over a period of 62 years in yearly installments and that included therein will be the payments for the war supplies which had been carried to France and were purchased from this country to the extent of over $400,000,000.

That this matter is so near a settlement is cause for gratification in this country and it is believed it will be in France. There have always been claims to the effect that too much leniency was being displayed in the agreement, but it was balanced by the demands which have been made for the cancellation of all such war debts. France, on the other hand, has delayed the funding of the debt because of the feeling that too much was being asked and because it was believed to be a bigger burden than the country could bear. It was only by a narrow margin that a vote endorsing the agreement was obtained in the French parliament.

It was the claim of Senator Howell that the low interest rate which France will pay is far below what the people of this country are paying on the money which was loaned. The difference in the interest rate is perfectly evident but it is to be realized that all of the war debt adjustments have been made on the capacity of the respective nations to pay. That applies to France as well as the others and any difference in the basis must be attributed to the financial condition of the several governments. None is paying the full amount of the borrowings.

AUTO FATALITIES

There are times when it seems as if the occasional reports relative to the number of automobile fatalities amounted to nothing in the way of creating greater care on the part of auto drivers. This impression is gained because the number continues to increase. It increases even when the motoring public is told that it has a chance to lower the fatality records of the previous year. The gain seems to be a response to an effort to establish greater safety. And yet one wonders where the fatality record might rise to if such publicity should be withheld.

According to a report of the department of commerce for the year ending with November, there were 3,528 persons killed in motor accidents in 75 cities of this country. This probably doesn't represent a third of the fatalities for the entire country, but the figures are enough to show that in the 12 months ending with November there was a gain of 15 per cent in the number of auto deaths for the same period in 1928.

That tells a story which cannot be disregarded. It ought to make an impression upon those who are sick and tired of statistics. It ought to convince the driver who has become chronically careless that there is really reason for reform on his part.

While the number of motorists increases each year, better roads are provided and dangerous conditions on the highways are removed, the driving is done with a decreasing degree of safety. This would be expected if the fatality record in itself did not furnish the best possible reason for checking it. But with the facts and the figures frequently set forth there seems to be no plausible excuse for any such deplorable record.

With more than 25,000 persons killed by autos during the year, it is time to realize that the motor vehicle is causing more deaths than many diseases, more than typhoid fever and diphtheria combined. It is piling up a record from year to year that is worse than war, although spread over a longer period. We have recognized the need of adjusting international disputes by other methods. Isn't it time that we not only recognized the need of checking the auto fatalities but actually put it into practice?

ATTACKING 17TH AMENDMENT

What the effort being made by Congressman Underhill of Massachusetts to bring about the repeal of the 17th amendment, providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote, will amount to is a question, but it will occasion no surprise to many.

There have been repeated instances which have gone to prove that the change in the method of securing United States senators has neither resulted in eliminating objectionable conditions nor in getting better men for that body.

The constitutional amendment was supported in the belief that it would end conditions which had developed at different times in state legislatures when senators were being chosen. It was recognized that there were defects and there were occasions when much money was used in what was regarded the influencing of legislatures. To have the people themselves vote upon the senators was believed the solution, but it hasn't worked out as anticipated. The theory was a good one, but the practice has been quite different.

Under the present method of electing senators it has been disclosed that huge sums of money have been spent, and it has been contended that the money has been spent legitimately. Furthermore, it is maintained that it has become necessary to use large sums in order to conduct a campaign that would reach all the voters of a large state, and particularly so if there is a warm contest and stiff opposition. The fact is that it has become impossible for a poor man to think of entering such a contest. He is handicapped before he starts.

The Massachusetts congressman maintains that the present system displays a lack of constitutional balance, that it means greater expense, that it develops a lack of party responsibility, that it results in a local rather than a national point of view and that it produces an advantage of wealth and demagogy over statesmanship and qualifications.

Though he has launched his effort, Congressman Underhill doubtless realizes the difficulty in upsetting a constitutional amendment.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS

Because of the policy of economy that has been in effect in connection with government expenditures, the aim being to delay such outlays as were not necessary, there are many government building projects that have been sidetracked for better times. It cannot be said that the government has more money today than it knows what to do with, but the time has arrived when it is possible for government funds to be put to use for the purpose of reducing unemployment.

That was what was in the mind of President Hoover when he advocated increases at this session of congress and that unquestionably actuated the lower house of congress in voting more than a quarter of a billion for government buildings throughout the country. Some of these projects have been hanging fire for a considerable time. Some have been urged with much fervor before and, while it may be impossible to get down to the actual work of construction for some time, there will be the preparations and the knowledge of the future work to have their good influence upon the present situation.

In this matter the senate should be quite as much interested as the house. It means much to all sections of the country and particularly to the national capital. It will be a bit surprising if the senate doesn't give its approval to the plan, although there is no telling how much delay may be occasioned by the jockeying for larger or smaller expenditures which some of its members seem to think necessary whenever any proposition is placed before them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Senator Couzens says tax reduction plan is unsound. He could be relied upon to oppose anything that was recommended by Secretary Mellon.

The man on the corner says: It's a fair guess that there'll be those who will not have completed their Christmas shopping when Christmas arrives.

With the district attorney ready to ask murder indictments for surviving Auburn mutineers, it will probably be a cue for the sentimentalists to seek their pardon.

That person who asked Calvin Coolidge if he would run for the senate and got a "personal and confidential" reply knows the answer but what good does it do him if he cannot tell it?

THE WORLD AT FIFTEEN.

"What I fail to understand," began Ernestine gloomily, "is why parents are so very different on different occasions. If black is black it isn't green when the sun shines, and why any woman who can be calm in the face of great emergencies such as the water pipes bursting can go right up in the air over an utterly silly thing as my mother does is beyond me.

"Nobody ever could call my mother snobbish but if she admires a person a lot she certainly breaks her neck to impress her, and I don't know any one she admires more than she does Mrs. Morton Everneck. Why, when mother is talking to any one you would think she never could oppose anything. She looks so gentle and sweet and sort of helpless. And I'll tell the world she is far from helpless! She runs my father and she runs me, and as for our house, you'd think it was congress or the Woman's club from the efficiency she shows in managing it.

"Not that we mind letting her run us, because it does save an awful lot of thinking and making up your mind to have her decide things for you. I mean usually it does—because when it is something important that means a lot, such as about letting the boys call or staying out late or anything like that, it is a terrific strain to get your own way.

"I knew right away when I came in from school yesterday afternoon that something special was taking place in the living room. I heard my mother murmur 'Not really?' in her best society tone and when I looked in I saw Mrs. Morton Everneck and a lot of other women sitting around and remembered that it was a meeting of the reading circle.

"The waitress who always helps mother at parties was passing around things to eat and they looked so good that I went at once to the kitchen and, as I expected, found an extra supply all spread out. I ate quite heartily of the openfaced sandwiches and little cakes and salad and there was so much of the pineapple mousse frozen in the refrigerator that I realized twenty ladies never in the world could eat it all so I had all I wanted of that, too. And salted nuts. Heavens, how I love salted nuts.

"All the most expensive dishes and best silver and tea napkins, some monogrammed, were being used. Mother says of all the women in town she rather be friends with Mrs. Everneck than any one else because she is so brilliant and entertains so marvelously.

"The Everbacks have a house with about thirty rooms and complete sets of servants and are the kind of a family which has its breakfast sent up if it wants it that way and nobody thinks anything about it. At our house if you have your breakfast sent upstairs it is because you are too sick to care about eating anyhow so there really isn't any use in doing it.

"After I got through eating there didn't seem to be anything for me to do, so I went out again and happened to meet Gertrude Everneck, who is in my room at school, and we went down and had some chocolate sundaes. When Gertrude mentioned that her parents were going out to dinner, and my, how she loathed dinner with madamoiselle and the younger children, I remembered what my mother had always told me was the essence of hospitality and at once lightened her trouble.

"I said she was to come home to dinner with me. She had never been to our house and I knew my mother would be pleased to do something nice for Mrs. Everneck's daughter. There was no light in the dining room when we got home and I found my mother in the kitchen with all the party dishes standing around in piles.

"The kitchen table was set with three places and I must say there wasn't much to eat—just what was left from the night before. Cold lamb and part of jelly mold and some cold biscuits and apples and mother looking very disturbed and searching for the can-opener. How on earth, she said at once, twenty women could have got away with all she had provided, expecting plenty to be left over for the family dinner that night! Not a bit of the mousse nor the sandwiches, nor the little cakes, and as for the chicken salad the bowl almost had a hole in it so clean was it swept. So there was nothing for us but scraps after the afternoon party.

"I'd rather not say anything about what happened when I broke the news that Gertrude Everback was home with me for dinner—that's what I meant when I began by saying that parents certainly have very unexpected sides to their natures.

"Really," Ernestine concluded as she sighed and arose, "I had no idea my mother was so—well, so excitable!"—Chicago News

YOUR HEALTH

Have You Overlooked Something?

By George C. Ruhland, M. D., commissioner of health, Syracuse, New York

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

This is the near-holiday season—the season of cheer and gladness. Once again this old hard-boiled world is getting ready to soften and give itself up to the spirit of Good Will towards its fellow men. Once again we are getting ready to prove this feeling of mutual good will by giving presents to make someone happy.

Perhaps you are one of those fortunate and considerate persons who have attended to their Christmas shopping. If you have, you are to be congratulated.

But are you quite certain that you have not overlooked something? There is a gift that we suggest you include in your Christmas shopping. It is the Christmas seal—the little paper stickers that are sold for one cent by the National Tuberculosis association.

Every Christmas card, every letter, every package and gift ought to carry at least one.

Remember that the little holiday stickers which you may purchase are a real power for good. The money they bring is used by the National Tuberculosis association in its campaign against tuberculosis and through the years past they have stimulated and kept alive that good work.

More than six hundred hospitals and sanatoria have been established in the United States. Approximately one thousand open-air schools are in operation. As a result of the educational campaign made possible by the purchase of Christmas seals more than eleven thousand public health nurses are working in homes and schools in cities and in remote hamlets to educate children and adults to prevent tuberculosis. The death rate from this disease has been cut in half within the last twenty years, and for this achievement considerable credit is due the annual seal sale.

There still is much to be done to win the fight against tuberculosis, the great white plague. There are still thousands upon thousands of little children, youths, mothers and fathers, victims of tuberculosis, who need help. Other thousands will fall victims of tuberculosis, for lack of help. Many more thousands would fall victims to this disease if the campaign of education and protection were not kept up. The Christmas seals you may purchase will help. DO IT NOW.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—Luck was again Secretary Stimson, as far as time went, when he launched his second Paris peace pact gesture at the Sino-Russian dispute.

He was, no doubt, prepared for a reply from Moscow of just about the tart character of that he received.

But he could not have foreseen that the Haitian pot would be bubbling again and that the situation of the central government in China he addressed would have become rather alarmingly precarious through renewed civil warfare before the ink of his signature on the notes to China and Russia was well dry.

On the very day the Stimson notes were published, President Hoover expressed to congress in his annual message concern over the Haitian situation.

Before Russia's caustic rejoinder was received officially in Washington, Mr. Stimson had been compelled to recommend and President Hoover to order that additional marines start for Haiti.

Also, it became necessary to juggle war boats about in Chinese waters to provide against possible grave dangers to American nationals there.

Missed a Chance

Had the Moscow authorities waited a little, they could have made their answer even more pointed by direct reference to these now movements of American armed forces in other countries.

Defending Stimson's course in an address in the house, Representative Hull, of Illinois, said:

"The vehement protest of Russia would seem to indicate that what he (Stimson) has done has not been without effect."

And there is very little doubt that both Secretary Stimson and his departmental advisors feel quite that way about it. For what they were aiming at in again calling the attention of both governments to their Kellogg pact obligations was not so much the fear that an open declaration of war by either was to be expected.

They were convinced, instead, that Russian military maneuvering on the border and within Chinese territory, a hundred miles within it, was designed to exert pressure upon China in the now pending settlement negotiations.

And to do that, to use armed force for that purpose is just as much against the letter and spirit of the Kellogg pact undertakings as it would be formally to declare war, in the judgment of some of Mr. Stimson's advisers.

A Benefit Seen

At least one of these advisers, whom the Bystander chances to know well, felt at the outset that there was clear evidence of guilty conscience in the phraseology of the Russian note.

If Russia felt it necessary to defend herself with very sharp words against public opinion the world over, once the Stimson notes had turned the spotlight on what was going on in Manchuria, the objectives of the Kellogg pact already have been served in part.

"You cannot measure the results of Mr. Stimson's move now," said the official friend of the Bystander. "I expect to see it quite generally accepted two or three months hence that our notes were effective in expediting peaceful solution of that Sino-Russian muddle."

Little Talks on Thrift

End of Year Good Time to Make Thrift Plans

(By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift)

Within a few days we shall be face to face with a new year.

Not in recent years has there been a twelve months period in which the need of thrift has been so apparent as during 1929.

Literally millions of saved dollars have been swept away through lack of thrift.

Chasing after the will-o-the-wisp of easy money has brought about the financial downfall of many. Truly this end-of-the-year period is a good time to resolve to get ahead through the more practical but dependable practices of thrift.

Often during the year we have heard that statement that the old-fashioned idea of saving money for the purpose of getting ahead had about gone out of style. The great book of human experiences, however, does not relate such a story. It was through saving that such men as Carnegie, Wanamaker, Hill, Armour, Marshall Field, Pullman, Rockefeller and others of that school, who were at the heyday of their activity and usefulness at the beginning of the present century, laid the foundation of their future success. In the field of statesmanship, the book of experience tells us that Gladstone, Lincoln, Washington, Franklin, Jefferson and many others owed their success fundamentally to patient habits of thrift acquired in early life.

The rewards of patient saving and prudent investing do not always sound as attractive as the rewards that sometimes go to the reckless speculators. But no better proof of the wisdom of choosing thrifty plans is needed than the events of recent weeks. Here and there spectacular profits have been made but where there has been one such case there have been hundreds who have lost.

This writer is quite sure of the fact that firm resolve to stick to the safe, sound plan of getting ahead will bring gratifying rewards. It surely is worth trying for a year. Those who adopt such a course will, at the end of 1930, find themselves prosperous and happy, we are quite sure.—By S. W. Straus, president American Society for Thrift.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Did You Get Four Foreign Letters Last Year?

Do you receive four letters from abroad every year?

Do you send four letters to foreign countries every year?

During 1928 an average of four letters and post cards went out of the country and four came in for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Tests disclose that the number of articles, not counting parcel post, that enter the international mail bags of the United States number nearly a billion.

"The weight of mail going from the United States across the Atlantic in one year alone totals 40,000,000 pounds," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"The Leviathan, with her entire cargo-carrying capacity devoted to mail, would have to make nine trips to transport the mass of mail that goes to Europe annually.

"Foreign mail, it used to be called, and the section of the post office department that handled it, the division of foreign mails. No more! Perhaps it us because it has grown up; because it handles 8 letters now for every 4 handled in 1922. At any rate, the division has acquired a new name. When an American addresses a letter to Chique Chique, Bania, Brazil or Hodmezovasarhely, Hungary, he now intrusts it to the international post office service of the post office department.

"This is not to be confused with the Universal Postal union, which is the clearing house for postal problems of the world, and had its headquarters at Berne, Switzerland.

Air Mail

"The international postal service of the post office department has expanded rapidly in the last few years. Its growth has been due, partly, to the doubling of the quantity of American international mail in seven years. It is due also to the launching of international air services, which have begun to carry mail.

"The international postal service now places mail aboard planes traveling on six routes out of the United States. It loads planes in New York with mail that will be delivered six days later in Buenos Aires, cutting former traveling time by two weeks. Within the next year it expects to be regularly sending and receiving mail by still another long Pan-American route around the east coast of South America.

"Sea post service is now maintained by 51 clerks on 46 vessels sailing the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

"New York city sends and receives more over-sea letters than any other American city. While the rating of other cities in international mail is not known for certain, it is believed to run approximately in this manner: Chicago, Philadelphia, Buffalo, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Washington, D. C.

"Buffalo has unusually extensive foreign correspondence because of its very large Polish population."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Patience Is Rewarded

Be patient; it will surely pay;
If not just now, some other day.
—Hooty the Owl.

It was just as dusk was settling over the Old Pasture that Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy stood for a moment on their doorstep and then started off at a swift trot along a cowpath. Hooty the Owl saw them start and chuckled. He knew by the very way in which they were trotting off that they were going a long way. It was what he had been waiting for. "I knew," said he to himself, "that all I needed was to have overheard Reddy and Mrs. Reddy as they trotted along.

"Is Hooty following us now?" asked Mrs. Reddy "I cannot seem to locate him and I do not want to appear to be looking too much."

"Oh, yes, he's following us," replied Reddy. "Only a moment ago I caught a glimpse of a moving shadow just a little back of us. I don't have to look any more just now. A moving shadow means just one thing and that is Hooty the Owl. He's spying on us ever since I told him about that turkey dinner. He thinks that we're after another turkey. That is exactly what I want him to think."

"But, my dear, I don't quite see what your plan is yet,' said Mrs. Reddy.

Reddy chuckled. "You will, my dear," said he. "You will all in good time. I think myself it is a very clever plan and I think you will think the same thing."

So Reddy and Mrs. Reddy trotted along without hurrying and all the time Reddy took care to keep more or less in the open, where Hooty would be sure to see them. He didn't want Hooty to lose sight of them. To have this happen would have spoiled his clever plan. It was a long way over to that farm where the turkeys lived. Hooty began to understand why it was that he had never found those turkeys. He wasn't in the habit of flying so far from his home in the Green Forest. His hunting field had never extended as far as this.

At last Reddy and Mrs. Reddy stopped. They were still some little distance from the farm where the turkeys lived. "What are we stopping here for?" asked Mrs. Reddy.

"We don't want to get over there want to get over there until after the too soon," replied Reddy. "We [illegible] farmer has gone to bed. We don't want to be interfered with."

"Where do you suppose Hooty is now?" asked Mrs. Reddy.

"I don't know, but he is where he can watch us, you may be sure,' replied Reddy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Keep The Unemployed In Mind

Mr. Editor:—I am impelled to write this letter in behalf of the many idle men and women applying to the state free employment office for work

The local industries are either running part time or are closed down entirely and we are making strenuous efforts to obtain work of any kind for our worthy people.

Everyone knows that Christmas season is a mighty poor time to be without occupation and money.

Housekeepers and employers: If you have any kind of odd jobs, etc., please phone 18—The State Free Employment agency, 43 Broadway—and help spread a little sunshine to the unfortunate idle.

Stories That Recall Others

Good Brand.

Robert does the marketing at the corner grocery for his mother, who demands goods of a reputable brand. One day he returned with a shaggy, unkempt dog and asking whether he might keep the dog, said: "I know he is a good brand because the grocer said he wished I would take the cur home with me."

Serious Operation.

A little neighbor girl was telling that a friend of her mother's was to undergo an operation next day. Asked whether the friend's tonsils were to be removed she said:

"Oh, no! It's lots worse than that—mother told me what it was, but it's such a big name; but anyway, I think it means her liver and her gizzard!"

So Hooty followed along, flying back and forth

APPENDICITIS FATAL TO DISTINGUISHED SOLDIER

LONDON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Ross John Finnis Hayter, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., distinguished Canadian soldier, died here today from appendicitis. A son of Ross W. Hayter and grandson of John Hayter, court painter to Queen Victoria, he was born in Toronto in 1873 and entered the British army in 1893.

After fighting throughout the South African war, he served continuously with the Canadian expeditionary force from 1914 to 1919, as brigade major, staff officer, brigadier-general in command of the 10th Canadian infantry brigade; and finally in October, 1918 as brigadier general, general staff, Canadian corps. From 1919 to 1923 he served on the general staff of the western command of the British army.

Judge Allyn L. Brown, in the superior criminal court in Hartford, declared forfeited the $250 bond of Mrs. Elizabeth Perrone, 67, of New York.

Narrow Escape

Art Goebel, famous flyer, snapped after a narrow escape from disaster while flying over Long Beach, Cal. A dry cell slipped from its position while Goebel was engaged in stunting, striking him over the eye and dazing him. He recovered in time to land the plane safely.

URGES GREATER CARE IN GRADING APPLES

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 17—An exhibit by the state department of agriculture at a meeting of the pomological society in Hartford showed the necessity of greater care in grading apples, according to Dr. E. A. Perregaux, marketing specialist at the Connecticut Agricultural college, in a radio talk from radio station WCAC. Only one of seven bushels of apples bought on the Connecticut market by a representative of the department met the requirements of the Connecticut apple grading and packing law.

The Connecticut law states that all closed packages, including baskets covered with cheese cloth and barrels covered with burlap, shall be identified by grade; and that the facing in open packages shall be representative of all the fruit in the package, the state college economist pointed out, recommending the provisions strongly because of the protection to both producer and consumer. Grading not only makes fruit easier to sell but has a direct effect on the price for which it can be sold. A study by the state department of agriculture in Massachusetts, based on 190 boxes of apples sold on the Boston market in 1927, showed that the difference in price between the jumble and layer pack was 34 cents, quality and other factors being equal. While this figure may not apply directly to local conditions, it gives an indication of the situation on one market, Dr. Perregaux said.

MYSTIC SILK MILL WEAVERS ON STRIKE

About 125 weavers of the Sadonia Mills, incorporated, silk manufacturers of Mystic, walked out on a general strike Tuesday morning following company's orders that the textile employes run six looms, in addition to their present schedule. The weavers are unionized and following a refusal on the part of the employers to rescind the order the men left the looms.

Officials of the company announced that an arbitration meeting between strikers and officials would be held and expressed the opinion that the differences would be settled at the meeting.

The striking element includes weavers from both the day and the night shifts. The mill here has been operating steadily, night and day for several months.

OBITUARY

William G. Anthony

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 17.—(AP)—William G. Anthony, 95, a former member of the state legislature from the town of Scotland, died in a hospital here today. He was probably the oldest resident in the town of Windham.

He had been in ill health for several years, and last night was taken to the hospital. For eight years he had lived here with his daughter, Mrs. Walter Butler. Previous to that time he was for 60 years a resident of Scotland, where in addition to serving as a state representative in 1879 and 1880, he held practically every town office.

Mr. Anthony was first selectman for ten years, a member of the board of relief for 12 years and a justice of the peace for 25 years.

Three sons and two daughters, besides 45 grandchildren and great-grandchildren, survive.

Mrs. Marcellus Caulkins.

Mrs. Jennie E. Caulkins, 77, of Stonington, died at the Norwich state hospital Monday. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles Bingham of Stonington, with whom she has made her home, a son, William S. Caulkins of East Providence, and by two grandchildren. Mrs. Caulkins was the widow of Marcellus Caulkins and was born in Coburg, Canada, August 12, 1852.

James B. Hinckley.

James B. Hinckley died at his home in New Haven Saturday evening. He was born on Hinckley Hill, Stonington, June 30, 1856, the son of Henry and Prudence Mary Hinckley. He married Jennie Mershon of Norwich, March 25, 1885.

Mr. Hinckley is survived by his wife, a married daughter of Kalamazoo, Mich., a son, Gerhard Hinckley of New Haven, and a brother, Judge Elias B. Hinckley, of Stonington.

FUNERAL

Mrs. N. Hosea Whittemore

Funeral services for Ida Iantha Bullard, widow of Nathaniel Hosea Whittemore, were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the chapel of the First Parish Church, Lancaster, Mass. Mrs. Whittemore died Dec. 9th at the home of her son in San Francisco, the body arriving from California accompanied by a number of mourning friends. Funeral services were conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. Weis, who incorporated in the impressive service a prayer which had long been a favorite petition of Mrs. Whittemore. Rev. Mr. Weis also read the committal services in Eastwood cemetery, Lancaster, where Mrs. Whittemore was laid to rest with her husband and their daughter, Mrs. Ruth Whittemore Storer. There were exquisite flowers from friends on both coasts, and the funeral was largely attended.

Present from Norwich Town was Mrs. Whittemore's sister-in-law, Mrs. Maturin M. Whittemore, of Elm avenue. Among others in attendance from Boston were Mrs. Charles H. Dillaby and son, Frank H. Dillaby, formerly of Norwich.

Chelsea Savings Bank Elects

The directors of the Chelsea Savings bank, at a meeting Monday, advanced Grosvenor Ely to first vice president, James C. Macpherson to second vice president and Frank Hempstead was elected third vice president. Audit L. Payson was elected a director, Arthur E. Story secretary and Kenneth W. Fox, assistant secretary.

SACHEM CHAPTER, ORDER EASTERN STAR, HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Mabel MacDonald was elected worthy matron of Sachem chapter, No. 57, Order of Eastern Star, at its annual meeting, Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple, Sachem and Washington streets. Other officers elected are: Worthy patron, Alexander Finlayson; associate matron, Eunice Bernard; associate patron, Clifford Nay; secretary, D. Louisa Atterbury; treasurer, Emily H. Barber; conductress, Nellie Crowe; associate conductress, Isabel Rodier.

The installation of the newly elected officers and the appointive officers to be announced at that date will take place on Wednesday, Jan. 8, at the Masonic temple, following a supper to be served at 6 o'clock.

The annual reports of the officers and committees were rendered and approved, showing the chapter to be in a flourishing condition. As the date of the next meeting falls on Christmas night the meeting will be omitted.

Preceding the election of officers, a delicious supper was served the officers under the direction of Worthy Matron Catherine Chappell and Worthy Patron Paul Zahn. Each officer was presented a beautiful candlestick.

WARNS AGAINST SALE OF "BOOTLEG" THERMOMETER

Physicians, health officers and nurses in this state are warned by the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health, not to sell what is known as the "bootleg" clinical thermometer.

This thermometer is graduated in fahrenheit degrees, has all engraving in red ink, with the exception of the normal temperature markings, and has a cylindrical or "mouth" type of bulb. A so-called "certificate of accuracy" or "guarantee" accompanies the thermometer stating it is made and guaranteed by the Addis Instrument company, 31 Craig street, Watervliet, New York. One pharmacist stated his supply was purchased through a jobber, Alec Scott of Union City, New Jersey. The Addis Instrument company is a manufacturer not licensed to sell clinical thermometers in Connecticut.

One of these "bootleg" clinical thermometers was offered for sale this week to Connecticut state department of health inspectors and it is apparently being offered for sale over the druggists' counters in the state at the present time. Another was recently purchased by a family for "sick bed" use and later submitted to the bureau of laboratories of the department for test when it appeared to give faulty readings. Tests at various points at which the thermometer would be used to show fever readings showed the instrument to be inaccurate.

The Connecticut clinical thermometer law, Acts of 1921, Chap. 142, Sec. 6 reads: "Any person, who, by himself or by his servant or agent, or as the servant or agent of another person, shall keep for the purpose of sale, offer or expose for sale or sell any clinical thermometer which has not been sealed, marked or certified as correct by the state department of health or by the manufacturer as aforesaid, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars."

TWO CASES CONTINUED BY STONINGTON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Dec. 17.—Before Judge William A. Wilcox in regular session of the local town court, two cases set down for hearing were continued. The case of Mrs. Samuel Melanson vs. William Melanson, a charge of non-support, was continued for a period of six months, during which the probation officer of the town of Stonington has been ordered to make periodical reports on the conditions of the case. Attorney Benjamin G. Hewitt of Mystic represented the defendant.

The case of State vs. Henry Burbach charged with illegal possession and operation of a still on his premises was continued for one week, due to the absence of State Troopers Arthur Whitmarsh and Arthur Kathe, state witnesses, who were engaged on a case in another part of the state.

ARCANUM CLUB TEAM MEETS WESTERLY PLAYERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 17.—The duplicate whist team made up of Percy Hull and H. Brend of the Arcanum club of Norwich came to Westerly Tuesday of this and also of last week to play a duplicate whist team, chosen by Capt. William T. Stillman of the Square team of the Westerly Square and Compass club. In his knowledge of Westerly card players he chose Joseph Law of the Westerly Cycle club and Farquhar Smith of the Westerly Square and Compass club, the latter having played but one duplicate game previously.

The match resulted: Last week—460 plus in favor of Law and Smith; tonight—74 plus was the score made by Hull and Brend of Norwich, using the same cards played last week.

REPRESENTED CHAMBER AT HARTFORD MEETING

Walter H. Pilcher, secretary of the Norwich chamber of commerce, and Charles W. Taggart represented the local chamber at a meeting of prominent New England industrial executives at a directors' meeting of the Connecticut chamber of commerce at Hartford Tuesday afternoon. Business conditions in New England, in particular the prospects for 1930 was the general subject under discussion.

The speakers were Charles F. Weed, vice president of the First National bank of Boston; Charles E. Smith, vice president of the "New Haven" railroad; Robert H. Knowlton, vice president of the Connecticut Light & Power company; Leonard S. Horner, president of the Niles-Bement-Pond company of New York, of which the Pratt & Whitney company is a subsidiary; and James T. Moran, president of the Southern New England Telephone company of New Haven.

The plant expansion program of the telephone company during the year 1930, according to a statement by Mr. Moran, read at the meeting, will involve $13,800,000 compared with $11,750,000 during 1929. According to Mr. Moran's statement, this plan was adopted "after full consideration of all factors which might affect our business, and it may be added that our favorable view of the business outlook for 1930 is shared by all the companies associated in the Bell System."

"That fact is important in its relation to Connecticut industry," Mr. Moran's statement continued, "principally because in 1929 the Western Electric company, supplier for the Bell System, purchased $9,000,000 worth of supplies from Connecticut manufacturers and industries. There is very good reason to believe that the company's purchases will be even larger in 1930.

During the next five years the Southern New England Telephone company will spend approximately $68,000,000 on plant expansion in Connecticut, or $5,000,000 more than the present value of its plant and equipment."

D. A. R. MOTION PICTURE GUIDE FOR DECEMBER

The Daughters of the American Revolution motion picture guide for December, giving approved pictures, contains the following list:

Disraeli—Warner Bros. All Dialogue. A film classic—one of the outstanding productions of the year. The inimitable George Arliss gives brilliant portrayal of England's great statesman surrounded by spies, in story of mystery and intrigue. Absorbing and delightful entertainment. Notable cast includes Florence Arliss; direction by Alfred Green exceptionally artistic. Recommended for family.

Love, Live and Laugh—Fox. All dialogue. This wholesome picture deserves the highest praise. George Jessel as Italian lad radiates happiness and cheer throughout story intensely human in its emotional appeal. His devotion to Lila Lee, who takes the role of his American sweetheart, and faith under all conditions as shown in magnificent scene on Italian war front, is convincingly portrayed. Especially recommended for everyone. Direction by Wm. K. Howard outstanding.

The Viking—Technicolor Co.-M. G. M. silent with musical score. Historical romance based on the novel "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky." This realistic story of adventure on land and sea, made in color, depicting the roving life of the Vikings in ancient Gaul, provides delightful entertainment for everyone and is suitable for junior matinees. Direction by R. Wm. Neill.

Taming of the Shrew—United Artists. All dialogue. Co-starring Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Outstanding production. The true spirit of Elizabethan drama and the vigorous vitality which underlies it is caught in this adaptation of Shakespeare's roisticking comedy. Family.

Salute—Fox. Sound. A pleasing Annapolis story. Clean, highly entertaining light comedy. The type of picture patriotic organizations should support; popular for all ages. Family.

Evidence—Warner Bros. All dialogue. Modern English drama featuring Pauline Frederick with all-star cast. The story of the love and devotion of a mother accused of unfaithfulness, who is finally acquitted after years of separation from her family. Freddie B. Frederick as typical English child exceptionally well acted. Excellent entertainment for adults, somewhat mature for children.

Tanned Legs—R. K. O. All dialogue. A light musical comedy which provides fair entertainment for average audience.

South Sea Rose—Fox. All dialogue. This picture is based on "La Gringa" by Tom Cushing, featuring Lenore Ulric and Charles Bickford. South Sea and New England background, with catchy theme song and impossible situations. Fair entertainment only. Adults.

Hot For Paris—Fox. All dialogue. Story revolves around the first mate of Australian windjammer, who wins a million dollars and spends it on a cafe dancer in Havre, with Victor McLaglen, Fifi Dorsay and El Brendel. A light comedy with amusing situations. Adults.

The Dancing Gob—Christie Paramount. All dialogue. A vaudeville sketch of two partners who are mistaken for sailors and find themselves in many difficulties. Fairly amusing. Family.

He Loved the Ladies—Christie Paramount. All dialogue. A comedy about a husband who helps his wife to elope in order that she may appreciate him. Quite amusing in a sophisticated way. Adults.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT FRANKLIN SQUARE LIGHTED

The large Christmas tree in Franklin square was lighted for the first time Tuesday evening and attracted widespread attention. The colored lights, strung on Main and Franklin streets were also turned on Tuesday evening for the first time. The string of lights, red green and white, were erected by the Norwich gas and electric department, in cooperation with the local merchants, and will be lighted nightly until the first of the year.

The colored lights have been strung on both sides of Main street from Burnham square to Washington square, up Broadway to Union square and on Franklin street to a point in the vicinity of Willow street.

OCKOONEFF WINS $1,500 VERDICT AGAINST ALEXANDER

After deliberating an hour and a half, a jury in the superior court at New London, returned, Tuesday afternoon a verdict of $1,500 for Sol Ockooneff, New London jeweler, in his $10,000 damage suit against Hibbard N. Alexander, New London tax collector and Charles A. White, supernumerary officer of the New London police department. The suit was the result of an assault upon the jeweler, which had its origin in the lobby of the tax office in New London, July 29, shortly after noon time, when the tax collector, following an argument with Ockooneff ordered White to put him out of the office. This White did and in the city hall an encounter between the two men upon the floor resulted in a black eye for the jeweler in addition to other bodily bruises. Ockooneff sued for $10,000 damages.

The verdict followed a charge by Judge Simpson, who pointed out that in his opinion if the jury found that the tax collector was justified in ordering Ockooneff out out, and that there was little happened in the tax office lobby, and that the assault took place in the main lobby of the city hall after Mr. Alexander had closed the tax office door, then only White could be named in damages.

The jury reported at 1:05 o'clock through its foreman, Charles J. Luce, of Niantic. Attorneys Arthur T. Keefe and Leon Beisheim represented the plaintiff and Attorneys J. James Floyd and Arthur M. Brown the defendants.

The tax collector was in court throughout the proceedings Tuesday but White was absent.

Attorney Keefe opened his argument by stating that the facts were simple and then spoke of the complaint and its contents. He said in part:

"You have the case of an old man who went to pay his taxes. Not back taxes, but what we term current taxes. He was not pressed for payment and was meeting his obligations according to law. He is a citizen who has resided in New London for 36 years and has been in business here for 31 years. He is a man whose character has not been attacked one bit in this case.

"He is physically incapacitated, aged, and why about paying $100 towards his tax bill, but came as an honorable citizen and paid what he could.

"He was told that he must tell when he would pay the balance. The only reason given by the tax collector was that he wanted to make a showing for his own personal gain and to help him get a permanent job as tax collector.

"The young lady with whom he was transacting his business left him because she didn't have time and called Mr. Alexander and he attempted to intimidate the plaintiff.

"'Why, I'll put a sheriff in your place tomorrow,' was what Mr. Alexander told Mr. Ockooneff. Alexander became angry and called Mr. Ockooneff a dirty sike. He insulted a reputable citizen and followed it with body abuse."

Continuing Mr. Keefe declared that it was anger on the part of Mr. Alexander that precipitated the disturbance which ensued.

"They say Mr. Alexander was not responsible after the door closed. We say he was responsible. Everything was done under the direction and supervision and control of Alexander. He assisted, abetted and aided in the assault by failure to control White's action.

"I say the assault was made by White and Alexander together. There was a specific order to throw him out. It was done with reckless disregard of the consequences. White had no uniform or badge displayed."

WANTED TO SERVE SENTENCE WEEK ENDS

An unusual request was made by Julius Abbruzzese, 37, of Talman street, in the city court Tuesday morning, after he had been found guilty on a charge of violation of the liquor law and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail. After Judge Arthur F. Libby gave the sentence, the accused asked the officials if it were possible to make arrangements so that he could serve the sentence on Saturdays and Sundays. Through such an arrangement he would be able to do his regular work without interference, he said in answer to a question. The request was not granted.

The accused was arrested about 11 o'clock Monday evening at his speakeasy on Talman street after an actual sale had been secured by State Police Officer Kathe of the Groton barracks. The raiding squad seized eight cases of beer filled with quart Moxie bottles. The accused pleaded not guilty in court to the charges of keeping with intent to sell and to making an actual charge. Testimony was then given by Trooper Kathe, who claimed that he secured a quart bottle of beer for $1 and in addition paid $1 for cover charges.

Securing the evidence Trooper Kathe blew his whistle and Trooper Arthur Whitmarsh and Sergeant Matthew Delaney rushed into the building. Abbruzzese tried to get rid of the bills tendered him by the officer in payment for the beer and service, but he was caught in the act by Sergeant Delaney. The accused said in court that he did not remember what happened as he was drunk. He claimed that the beer was made for his own purposes.

TRIAL STARTED IN $15,000 DAMAGE ACTION

In the superior court at New London Tuesday afternoon trial was begun before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury of the $15,000 automobile negligence suit brought by Joseph Rappaport of New London against Frank F. and Margaret L. Mauer, also of New London.

The case arises from an accident on July 9, last, at about 7:30 o'clock, at night when Rappaport is alleged to have been walking on the northerly side of Truman street, New London, at a point opposite Blinman street, when he proceeded to cross the street.

It is alleged that the defendant, Mrs. Mauer, was then and there operating an automobile owned by her husband, in a southerly direction along Truman street, when it struck the plaintiff, breaking his right elg, fracturing a number of ribs and causing him other injuries.

FORMER NORWICH MAN LOCATED IN SOUTH

Robert S. MacDougall, formerly of this city, has been made superintendent of the color department of the Rock Hill Printing and Finishing Co., at Rock Hill, North Carolina, which was recently organized and will begin operations Jan. 1. Mr. MacDougall was formerly connected with the Apponaug Printing Co., in Rhode Island.

Winter Sports at Mohegan Park

Extensive plans are being laid for a winter of sports at Mohegan park. It is expected that several fast hockey teams will perform here against Norwich. Already a very attractive store is in operation at the park skating pond, where candy, foods, and drinks of considerable variety can be obtained. A very satisfactory feature in this connection is the opportunity to check shoes, as a great many pairs of shoes have been stolen from the park this year.

DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS START INSPECTING TROOPS

Deputy Scout Commissioners William M. Wyman, F. H. Wyant, and Walter Casey have started this week inspecting scout troops. These commissioners are charged with the responsibility of reporting monthly on the progress of the troops, of aiding the scoutmaster secure better committeeman support, etc. Some of the troops visited were Troops 6, 8, 9, 21, 5, and 12. According to the commissioners the troops range from very good to very low in their general standing as examplified by program, general appearance, conduct, patrol work, etc.

The commissioners were appointed to facilitate the efficiency contest which starts January 1 and runs through May. According to the local scout office a total of 100 points can be earned by a troop in one month. Troops receiving 75 per cent of this total will be awarded a streamer each month to be attached to the troop colors.

Prizes of nominal value will be awarded at the close of the contest for first, second and third place to those troops which make the highest average percentage in the contest.

Scoutmasters are not to be notified when inspections will take place. It is expected that all troops will have records in good order and that the boys will be prepared to stand inspection at all times. If a meeting is to be postponed or changed the scoutmaster should notify scout headquarters to prevent the inspector calling that evening.

Allotment of points:

Leadership, 20 points: (a) Meeting conducted with prepared program which includes instructions and recreation—4 pts; (b) Active troop committee with a member present at each meeting—5 pts; (c) Patrols organized with active patrol leaders showing evidence of patrol work—5 pts; (d) At least two meetings monthly on patrol leaders with scoutmaster, assistant or junior assistant scoutmaster—5 pts. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dale Duncan (Ida Crocker) are sending friends an original and ornate Christmas booklet designed by Mrs. Duncan. The booklet is vellum-covered and is illuminated in scarlet and gold, and tied with a red silk cord. The two illuminated stanzas entitled "The Gift" are the composition of Mrs. Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan reside at the Hotel Olin, Denver, the former being a Denver attorney. Mrs. Duncan is the daughter of Captain George C. Crocker, commander of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R. of Norwich.

NOLLE ENTERED BY COURT IN AUTO CASE

Harold Humphrey, 27, of Fourth street, charged with failure to grant the right of way, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning. An absolute nolle was entered in his case by Judge Arthur F. Libby as the state was unable to show any criminal negligence on his part. The accused was summoned into court after a slight automobile accident on Franklin square, Dec. 6, between a Dodge truck operated by him and a machine owned by Dr. N. B. Lewis. Humphrey testified in court that his machine was struck by the Lewis car when the clutch on his machine froze, causing it to stop quickly.

NORWICH MAN'S AUTO STOLEN IN WARWICK

Arthur C. Benoit, of No. 83 Church street, this city, had his Ford sedan, Reg. No. 14,369 Conn., stolen Monday evening in West Warwick, R. I., while he was eating lunch in a restaurant. He left the machine in front of the restaurant and when he came out it was gone. The owner notified the Danielson state police barracks of the theft and they in turn informed the police in other cities and towns.

BANK SENDS CHECK FOR POLICE PENSION FUND

A check for $50 has been received by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, which has been turned over to City Treasurer Charles Colt to be added to the police pension fund. The check from the Norwich Savings society was accompanied by a letter and in it was expressed the appreciation of the directors for the services of the police department. Christmas gifts from other banks have also been received for the pension fund.

$25 CONTRIBUTION FOR POLICE PENSION FUND

A contribution of $25 for the police pension fund has been received by Chief of Police George Linton from the United States Finishing company. Accompanying the check was a letter from John F. Rogers, resident manager, in which he expressed the firm's appreciation of the department's services.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR SALVATION ARMY CHRISTMAS FUND

Letters containing checks of various amounts for the Salvation Army Christmas fund are being received at the army's headquarters on Cliff street in response to a mail order appeal. So far only 250 answers have been received out of the 1,500 letters sent out by those in charge. The contributions from the charitable people of the city are to be used in bringing cheer on Christmas day to the local needy families.

Trees at Courthouse

Christmas trees have been set up in four offices in the court house building and will remain there until after New Year's day. As yet they have not been decorated, but will soon have their usual Yuletide trimmings. The trees are in the water dept., city treasurer, town clerk's and assessors' offices.

TWO WOMEN CANDIDATES NOW FOR NEW LONDON COUNCIL VACANCY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17.—The committee on administration of the city council will decide tonight what course to pursue in the Bates Woods matter, also on a successor to be recommended to the council to succeed the late John F. Murray. Mrs. Emily Speirs is a candidate and so is Miss Edna L. Tyler, the latter understood to be the choice of the League of Women Voters, which claims that the women taxpayers and voters of the city should have a representative in the council. They had such at the inauguration of the city manager form of government in Mrs. Annie C. S. Fenner, but Mrs. Fenner failed of election when she became a candidate the second time and no woman has been a member of the council since then. Mrs. Speirs has been a candidate for the council several times when she was voted for at the polls. Miss Tyler has never served in public office in this city though she has been very active in the League of Women Voters in city and state. Her mother, Mrs. Nellie Osgood Tyler, formerly of Norwich, was active in philanthropic movements in this city for a number of years.

Writing To Santa

The children of the city are notifying by letters Supt. Mansfield of the Learned Mansion as to their wishes from Santa Claus for Christmas. Some of them will get what they ask for probably, but many are likely to be disappointed.

BATES WOODS PROJECT WOULD FURNISH WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17.—The agitation in the city council that is expected to lead to employment of a considerable number of idle men in New London will, if it is carried to consummation, require a considerable expenditure on the part of the city. New London now owns the Bates woods property in the rear of Hillside home which was acquired during the term of Bryan F. Mahan as mayor. The land was acquired under legislation passed for the acquisition of parks. The property is in hand and cost nothing in the way of acquisition. To make it available as a park land must be obtained, however, on Jefferson avenue and that will require an outlay, for the property is built on and there must be a street leading from Jefferson avenue to the woods. The land is located so that a street can be cut through to the woods, and in the work of preparing it labor can be made use of under the direction of the highway department of the city. As City Manager Hole told the city council Monday evening, the laying out of a park in the Bates woods is a task for a landscape expert. The woods are the most romantic section of this city, for there are ledges there that are perhaps fifty feet in height and there are ravines. The place is wet for a considerable portion, a condition that can be remedied by filling and perhaps the changing of brooks that run through the land. The western outlet to the park would be on Chester street, a drive frequently taken by autoists and that leads to the Flanders road.

DRIVERS TO EXPLAIN TO STATE INSPECTOR

An automobile inspector of the state motor vehicles department will conduct hearings at the county court house here next Monday morning at 10:45 o'clock of ten drivers, charged with various infractions of the laws. They are: Isadore Lubchansky, 217 Main street, reckless driving; Alex Doughles, 47 Belden street, driving while under the influence of liquor; Delse Brouillard, 77 Crystal avenue, driving while under the influence of liquor; Harry Weinstein, 137 Shaw street, improper markers; Oswald Sousa, 35 Shaw street, conference; M. T. Takac, destroyer Shaw, U. S. Coast Guard, operating while under the influence of liquor; James T. Marshall, U. S. S. S—7, Submarine base operating while under the influence of liquor; Ervin M. Graf, submarine base, improper markers; Alfred Vallieri, Box 144, Montville, reckless driving; John Jeselenski Box 71, East Lyme, reckless driving.

JOY RIDER'S SORRY ENDING—LIEUT. NORMAN HABEL FINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17—In the police court this morning, Lieut. Norman Habel, submarine base, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of reckless driving, although when arrested Nov. 16, the officer was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Prior to the convening of court today the complaint was amended to the less serious charge, to which, Habel, through his attorney, entered a demurrer. This was overruled and the fine imposed. Habel and Lieut. John Waterman and Miss Phyllis Gagnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gagnon, 19 Mott avenue and Miss Alice White, Union court, were riding in Habel's automobile on the Boston Post road, Waterford on the night of the arrest. When near Station 7, Habel attempted to pass a machine driven by Arthur Martin, Waterford. Instead of passing Martin's car, Habel's auto side-swiped it, causing the latter's auto to overturn. All four passengers were hurled to the highway and Miss Gagnon was painfully injured, for she sustained a fractured skull, lacerations of the scalp and face, crushed left shoulder, contusions and abrasions and the loss of upper front teeth. She has been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital ever since, but will probably be dismissed during the month. Miss White, Lieut. Waterman and Lieut. Habel escaped with minor injuries.

WEDDING
Nichola-Foss

Frank W. Nichola, submarine base and Miss Myrtle B. Foss, of Hancock, Me., were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of Huntington street Baptist church by Rev. Richard I. Porter.

At the meeting of New London circle, No. 525, held last night in Moose hall, the following officers were elected: Chief companion, Mrs. Mae Wilbur; chaplain, Mrs. Julia Nason; sub chief, Mrs. Annie Burro; past chief, Mrs. Annie Briggs; recording secretary, Mrs. Blanche Craddock; financial secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown; treasurer, Mrs. Lucille Smith; right guide, Mrs. Lillian Appleby; left guide, Mrs. Florence Connelly; inside guard, Mrs. Christina Greig; outside guard, Mrs. Rose Minault; trustees, Miss Julia Bricca, Mrs. Alida Glynn and Mrs. Rose Saunders. It was voted to invite Unity circle, of Voluntown, to join with the local circle for installation in January.

COLONIAL SHOPPE SALE TO S. F. PETERSON DEC. 28TH

The Colonial Shoppe, Walter S. Garde, proprietor, 305 State street, is to retire from the restaurant and catering business the 28th inst. Mr. Garde has agreed to sell the stock, fixtures, betterments, etc., of the business to S. F. Peterson, Inc., on that date. A certificate of intention to sell the business has been filed with the city clerk and the certificate reveals that the corporation will acquire the business for $5,000. A deed transferring all title and interest in the Garde Catering company to Walter S. Garde, has also been filed for record.

William J. Morgan, proprietor of the Veranda house, 216 State street leased the two story building which contains 16 rooms, to William J. and Laura J. Bolton. The lease is for one year, starting from Jan. 1, 1930 and the rent will be $600.

Another Runaway Auto

An automobile owned by Julia Nason, 13 Cedar street in charge of A. W. Thompson, ran wild on Federal street this afternoon and came to a stop only when it crashed against the front of a residence. Thompson parked the car between Union and Huntington streets on a grade. He did not properly apply the brakes for the auto got into motion and descending the grade, climbed the curbing and crossed the sidewalk until it smashed against the house. No pedestrians were in the path of the driverless auto at the time.

Tug and Barges Floated

Tug Thomas J. Howard and two barges which grounded yesterday afternoon on Bartlett's Reef were floated during last night by the tugs Julia Howard and Myles Standish. The grounded tug was damaged, for she was leaking when freed from the rocky bottom but left under her own steam for New York, where repairs will be made. The barges were also leaking slightly and were towed into port.

Mrs. Theodore Hervin, of 12 Front street; Miss Marion Wilcox, 182 Gardner avenue; Leon Pinney, Stamford and Mrs. Vick Moretti, 206 Shaw street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS
Miller F. McCreary

The funeral of Miller F. McCreary, formerly of New London, who died in New York several days ago, was held this afternoon at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Henry E. Smith

The funeral of Henry E. Smith, of Montville, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home on Gay Hill and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Smith, pastor of the Montville Methodist church. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

OBITUARY
Patrick Donahue

Patrick Donahue, well known New London resident, died last night at his home, 170 Montauk avenue, having been in ill health many months. Mr. Donahue is survived by his wife, a son, Cornelius P. Donahue and two daughters, Miss May Donahue and Mrs. Joseph D. Gaffney. Mr. Donahue was a member of F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company and that organization held a special meeting this evening when action was taken on his death, including the appointment of a delegation to attend the funeral. Mr. Donahue resided in New London many years and was a moulder. His health gave indication over six months ago of breaking down and since that time he had been almost constantly confined to his home.

Alton T. Miner, administrator of the estate of Bryan F. Mahan, has sold a building lot on Rogers street to Omar Fayette and George S. Montrello.

FUNERAL
Louis Brodsky

Louis Brodsky, former well known New London resident, died yesterday in New York. He was of advanced years and is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Dora Wein and Mrs. Anna Nelson and by two sons, Samuel and Joseph Brodsky, all of New York. The body was brought to New London this afternoon and taken to the Hebrew cemetery in Jordan where burial took place in the presence of a large gathering of mourners. Mr. Brodsky resided in New London many years and about eight years ago, with his family moved to New York. He had long been a sufferer from asthma and a weakened condition of the heart. Mr. Brodsky was prominent in securing the two synagogues for this city, one on Shapley street and the other on Blinman street. He gave freely of his money and worked untiringly until both houses of worship for the Hebrews were obtained.

There was no session of the police court today. Only one prisoner occupied a cell at police headquarters last night. He was a youth of 19 and was arrested on State street by Patrolman Louis Fine when found intoxicated. Instead of being presented in court, he was given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

Patrolman Timothy Sullivan found a candy machine of the type used by confectionery stores and allowed to remain on the outside of the store for the purpose of obtaining patronage by the dropping of pennies into a slot. The machine was found in the yard of a residence on Williams street, near Manwaring and was taken to police headquarters. This afternoon it developed that the machine had been stolen from the front of the store of Jacob Lazarow, on Blackhall street.

FREIGHT WRECK CLEARING ENDS SUDDEN EMBARGO

Late Tuesday afternoon Track No. 1, or the westbound rails on which Monday's freight was wrecked, was relaid. On this track eight re-trucked cars were coupled and hauled away at 7 p. m. to go to the repair shop, leaving four or five cars yet to be replaced. With the clearing of the second track on the main line completed, train No. 23, westbound Gilt Edge express, at 7:03 p. m., was the last train to use No. 2 track siding and temporary cross-over.

Following the departure of the Gilt Edge express, two gangs of section men began the removal of the two ends of the temporary cross-over. The ends of the main line, track No. 1, were joined and traffic was carried on over the main line rails again. Following the installation of the temporary cross-over, the Westerly freight yard was isolated and this enforced embargo has lasted two days, switch engine No. 270, being left stranded in the yard and unable to get out.

During this time some 21 freight cars, including cars of beef for the Armour plant, bound for Westerly, have accumulated at Midway. Wednesday morning the Westerly freight yard will have its complement of service and Westerly merchants and manufacturers will have their freight restored. The "New Bedford" wrecking train, used Monday, was found to be too light for the demands made upon it and on Tuesday the train "Boston" was used to lift the heavy cars of scrap iron. The wrecker "Midway" was derailed for a short time Tuesday when a heavy freight car proved too great for the wrecker's blocking and dropped to the ties. It was replaced on the rails after a short delay.

MONTVILLE

At the regular meeting of Maple Camp, Royal Neighbors, Thursday evening, nine candidates were initiated, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Past oracle, Miss Carrie Simpson; oracle, Miss Emma Gauthier, vice oracle, Miss Mary Dombroski; chancellor, Miss Sarah Monohan; recorder, Miss Bertha Sarayusa; receiver, Miss Mary Stepanik; marshal, Miss Mildred Kornosewicz; assistant marshal, Miss Sophie Pecarific; inner sentinel, Miss Gladys Daniels; outer sentinel, Miss Pauline Stepanik; manager, John Lynch; physician, John J. Donahue, M. D. State Supervisor Mrs. Koenig of Hartford, Supreme Manager Mrs. Furness of Hartford and District Deputy Emma S. Bromley of Westerly were in attendance. Visitors were present from Elm Tree camp of Westerly, and Capitol City camp of Hartford. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed. The next regular meeting will be held on Dec. 26th.

Funeral services for Miss Mildred Chapman, who died Tuesday at Brattleboro, Vt., were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Union Baptist church, Rev. E. L. Nield, pastor, officiating. Miss Lillian Sawyer sang One Sweetly Solemn Thought and Nearer My God to Thee, accompanied by Mrs. Maude Rogers, pianist. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives and my floral tributes. The bearers were: Harry Bogue, Edward Chappell, Oliver Gardner and Bertram Edmonds. Burial took place in Comstock cemetery, Uncasville.

A special business meeting was held Thursday evening after the regular prayer meeting at the Baptist church, to take action on the resignation of the pastor, Rev. E. L. Nield, read the previous Sunday. By a unanimous vote the pastor was requested to reconsider his resignation and return to the meeting. The pastor in reply, said he thought it best to accept the resignation. The meeting finally voted to accept with regret. It was also voted to extend to the pastor a letter of commendation for his efforts here. The church also voted to receive candidates.

Among those from here attending the luncheon and card party given by the Good Cheer Sunshine society of Quaker Hill, Wednesday afternoon were: Mrs. C. Everett Chapman, Mrs. Burke Hewitt, Mrs. A. W. Avery, Mrs. James Bingham and Mrs. Harry Bogue. In pinochle Mrs. B. Hewitt took first prize, and Mrs. C. E. Chapman made low score.

The K. of C. minstrels given in the school auditorium of the Uncasville school, Thursday and Friday evenings, was very successful. All the parts were well rendered, and the boys were given much desired credit. Due to the inclemency of the weather, the minstrel may be repeated at some future date. Much credit is also due to the management, Armond Plouffe, chairman; Mrs. Loretta Morgan musical directress, and Patrick Monahan, stage manager.

The regular meeting of the Thimble club was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Allen of Maple avenue. After the business session, a social hour was enjoyed. Those present were Mrs. V. A. Rosenlund, Mrs. Martin Butler, Mrs. Robert Paton, Miss Justine Chapel, Mrs. Sadie LaGramme and Mrs. Charles Allen.

There was a good crowd in attendance at the dance held Saturday evening in Hickey's hall, and a fine time was enjoyed by all. Guests were present from New London, Waterford, Gilead, New Haven, Stamford and Montville.

Mrs. William Sisson of Main street was a caller in New London, Monday afternoon.

George Simmons of Norwich was a caller in town Sunday.

Henry Jenoks, the local confectioner, is at his place of business again, after being confined to his home for a few days by illness.

GALES FERRY

Twenty-two members were present at the all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society Thursday at the vestry of the M. E. church for tying order quilts. Six large quilts and one small one were completed. Mrs. Eugene La Fontaine arranged for the dinner, beef loaf, mashed potato, peas, pickles, macaroni and cheese, rolls, pie and coffee, being served by members of the losing side in the recent work contest. The business meeting was omitted.

Fletcher Wilson, who has occupied his cottage on the Bluff since early in the spring, left Saturday to spend the winter months with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Burr, at Lightwaters, Long Island.

Mrs. William Leonard and son, William, who left their cottage on the Bluff some time ago to take rooms at the Crocker house, New London, motored Saturday to Flushing, Long Island, where Mrs. Leonard is to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKennie. Mr. Leonard, who has been employed on the Bluff, is to return to New London.

Mrs. Guy Allen and children, Dolores, Marcia and Frederick, of Groton, were recent guests of Mrs. Orville D. Allen at Long Cove.

At the Community Methodist church Rev. Jerome Greer selected as the theme of his Sunday morning sermon, A Burning and Shining Light. There was community carol singing at the Epworth league evening service, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, leader. There were special songs by the junior girls. At the close of the service there was a social hour when candy was served.

The names of those on the honor roll for the church school sessions for November were printed on the church calendar. Twenty-four were present at each session for the month.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid society announced on the calendar for Friday afternoon, has been changed to Thursday afternoon on account of Christmas exercises at the local schools Friday. Three order quilts are to be tied.

Sunday evening, Dec. 22, at 7 o'clock an augmented choir is to give the Christmas cantata, The Prince of Judah, under direction of Mrs. Eugene La Fontaine, organist and choir leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Hartung were called to Newport, R. I., Friday by the death of a relative.

Mr and Mrs. Herbert Stewart of North Franklin visited Mr. Stewart's sister, Mrs. Orville A. Allen and family at Long Cove Saturday.

The teachers of the Ledyard schools met with the school supervisor, James F. Connolly, of Norwich, Thursday afternoon at Ledyard Center school. Supervisor Connolly spoke on the book The Child Centered School.

Wednesday, Supervisor Connolly, the school nurse, Mrs. Mildred C. Maher, of Norwich, and Dr. Prohaska of the state board of health, from Hartford, were visitors at the village school.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett T. Bruce of Long Cove, accompanied by Miss Mabel Smith of the village, attended the 25th anniversary exercises of Home Rebekah lodge at Odd Fellows hall, Groton, Thursday evening.

Dudley C. Perkins is ill with pneumonia at his home in the village, following an attack of pleurisy.

Mrs. Coleby Morgan, of Mystic, and her mother, Mrs. Delphine Fish, of the village, who is spending some time in Mystic, were callers at Mrs. Fish's home Thursday and attended the all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society.

WESTERLY

RUSH WORK ALL NIGHT—RESTORE TRACK CONDITIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 17.—By the light of carbide flare flood-lights, on portable tanks, the flares of acetylene torches, electric search and flood lights from wrecker cranes, the head lights of locomotives and numerous hand lanterns and storage battery lights, the hundred and more workmen toiled until 2:30 Tuesday morning to clear away the wrecked freight cars near the High street bridge. All the early Tuesday morning east-bound express trains were able to proceed on the relaid No. 2 main line track. Wreckers and crews were sent back to Midway and to Providence to return to Westerly Tuesday at 9 a. m., to renew their labors. Again, Tuesday and Tuesday night, workmen with lights rushed the work of restoring normal track conditions, giant cranes swinging battered and twisted cars to the roadbed side out of the way while re-tracking was pushed on the rebuilt roadbed.

With the No. 2 track again in working order and the No. 5 siding with crossover installed the movement of trains was expedited.

TWO PROMINENT ELKS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 17.—George A. Dolan, 42 Franklin street, and Dr. Harold A. Doyle, both past exalted rulers of Westerly lodge, No. 878, B. P. O. E., returning from Pawtucket, received painful injuries early Tuesday morning on the Noose Neck Hill road when their LaSalle car skidded off the highway, struck a pole, tree and rocks, overturned and smashed up. They had attended a visitation of the grand lodge officers and District Deputy Joseph Erwin of Massachusetts to Pawtucket lodge of Elks. It had begun to rain and the road became very slippery. The driver of a truck brought them to Westerly, where they were attended at the office of Dr. M. H. Scanlon. An x-ray taken at Westerly hospital Tuesday morning showed that Mr. Dolan had fractured two ribs and had a contusion of the spinal cord. Dr. Doyle, who was also taken to the hospital later Tuesday morning for an x-ray, was found to be suffering from a fractured rib, contusions and abrasions.

Messrs. Dolan and Doyle have been active in Elks' affairs, the former being chairman of the Christmas charities committee.

Probate Court Business

Judge Edward M. Burke, in Westerly probate court Tuesday afternoon, disposed of business as follows:

Estate Nettie S. Spencer. Petition received from Arthur Reed Spencer, Rochester, N. Y., for the filing of an exemplified copy of the proceedings of the New York surrogate court, that the deceased died intestate leaving valuable real estate in Shelter Harbor, R. I. Judge Herbert W. Rathbun appeared for the estate and on his motion without objection the copy was ordered filed and recorded.

Estate George E. Champlin. Petition received from son, G. Byron Champlin, that the testator died a resident of Westerly, District No. 6, leaving a will in which he was named executor and praying that the estate be admitted to probate and letters testamentary be issued him. Of the witnesses, Peter Girard and wife, Mary Girard, and Mary E. Kenyon, the first two appeared in court to testify. Will admitted to probate and G. Byron Champlin named executor. Bond made $2,500 without surety. Charles Henry Crandall was named appraiser.

Estate Henry Clinton Lanphear. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded. Also a petition received from Executor J. Perry Clark for leave to sell at private sale five shares of Universal Winding Co. stock. Granted, with sale price to be not less than market value.

Estate Harry A. Littlefield. Petition received from Administratrix Mabel Littlefield, represented in court by Attorney C. E. Roche, that the personal estate was insolvent and praying that a commissioner be appointed to examine claims. Attorney M. Walter Flynn was named by Mr. Roche and was confirmed by the court.

On the estate of Harry A. Littlefield, petition was received for a second six months' allowance for widow and family. Continued to Jan. 7, 1930, with order of notice.

Estate of Mary L. Toscano. Petition received and continued from Administrator Frank A. Toscano for leave to sell property.

Estate Charles F. Pryor. Inventory received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded. Petition also received from widow, Maude M. Pryor, to set off to herself an undivided one-half interest in real estate on Beach street. Continued to Jan. 7, 1930, with order of notice.

OBITUARY

Miss Ruth Taylor

A former registered nurse, of Westerly, Miss Ruth Taylor, 62, died Monday morning at her home on Lake avenue, Niantic, Conn., following a long illness. She was born at Cornwall, England, Feb. 12, 1867, the daughter of John C. and Maria Holman Taylor. She came to this country early in life and spent her girlhood in Niantic. For a number of years she maintained a private hospital at Westerly, but gave up that work three years ago, because of ill health, and went to Niantic. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Annie Payne of Niantic and Mrs. Stanley Edwards of Springfield, and a brother, Joseph Taylor of Springfield.

Workman Badly Burned

While clearing up the debris of the freight wreck Monday night, Joseph Demonico, 22, of 4 Grant street, Providence, operating an acetylene torch, was badly burned. The blowout of a pipe caused a deep burn on his right hand and wrist. He was attended by Dr. M. H. Scanlon and then put on a train and taken to his home in Providence.

Shortly before midnight the wreckers expected to have track No. 2, east-bound on the main line in working order before the wreckers stopped work for the night. Both wrecking crews are to begin work again Tuesday morning.

LOCAL SINGER HEARD AT LONG ISLAND WEDDING

Miss Marion McDonald, Noank songbird, has a sweet voice, and has sung on the stages around this part of the Thames river, also has got called out many times. Recently a letter came from Patchogue, L. I., from her cousin, Miss Mary Hammond, to sing at a wedding. The Noank song bird has never been away from home much, but taking a train from the Whaling City, in seven hours she was in Patchogue with her two by four suit cases loaded with wedding songs and a Japanese sleeping suit, she got lost looking for the white house of Miss Hammond. A young man named Earl Hammond was the day policeman and saw this strange girl wandering around. So the songbird from the fishing village told her story to the good-looking policeman. So the kind hearted cop took the wandering girl to her cousin's house. Smiling Mary Hammond had a Patchogue duck supper with radio cake. Marion was glad to get a rest and go to bed early, tired as a West Point cadet after a 15-mile hike. She got up early for it was the day of the big wedding at the Methodist church which was trimmed up with flowers. A radio broadcasting station was in the church, where a crowd of 600 people came from all over to see the wedding. Miss Dom was dressed pretty as a doll and walked in with her father. She was given away by him. When the organ played, Miss McDonald, songbird, sang O Promise Me, her sweet voice then singing through the radio for the first time, she was heard in her home town, over 400 miles away and one Noank woman thought it was in her own room, when she heard Miss Noank songbird. Over half the town heard her sing and was proud of it. Some day Miss McDonald will be heard all over the world on the radio for she sure has a sweet voice. The Long Island townspeople sure got a real day of it and they are still talking about the Noank singer and want her to come over often to sing over the air. She sang another song "We Will Always Be Happy Together." Miss McDonald worn a white dress trimmed with blue and carried sweet peas at the wedding. There was a large wedding cake and the good right arm of Policeman Hammond cut the cake. He was the hero who helped the song bird when she was lost. It was a real wedding, the biggest in that town in ten years. Miss McDonald was pleased over the trip and she told about the wedding to her friends who gathered at her home to welcome the young singer back. She was given a pin that had three Long Pearls as a gift from the bride and groom and her friends also had a surprise box for the singer. It was given to her by Miss E. Daboll, who told them all, "My pal and I have been playwrights since we went to school. It sure pleases all of us to hear that she sang over the air and hope we can tune the dial to 35 on the radio and hear my pal sing from a station in New York. With a little training we all know that Miss McDonald can make it all right so in behalf of your friends I take great pleasure in presenting this little remembrance and wish you all the luck in the world when you sing over the radio again!" Miss McDonald could not say a word for tears, but "I thank you!" She got a beautiful wrist watch of white gold. A lunch of potato salad, cake and sugar doughnuts was served with Down East tea. Then Miss E. Daboll played the piano as everybody sang. Games were played. A good night song was sung by the entire company.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Hubbies go hunting . . . with three chorus girls!

Wives go dancing . . . with three college boys!

They all find plenty of "game" at the smartest new roadhouse ever built.

Something bigger, better and brighter in the all-talking, singing and dancing Fox Movietone's musical comedy "Why Leave Home?" which closes tonight at the Breed theatre. And it's from that great stage success "The Cradle Snatchers" . . . something to hear and see and enjoy. Raymond Cannon directed. Its song hits, including "Doing the Boom Boom," and "Look What You've Done to Me," were written by the famous trio, Conrad, Mitchell and Gottler, who composed the numbers in the "Fox Movietone Follies."

Broadway Theatre

Funny thing about those doughboys "over there"—they'd come back to billets, shot to pieces, tired, dirty, hungry—worn out—but let the "top kick" suggest three days' pass to Paris—hot dawg!—all the misery, the noise, the rumble of the barrage, the chatter of the sho-sho's all forgotten in a minute!—police up, grab a pass, mebbe catch a lorry going thataway—and all aboard for the "Battle of Paris!" As one foot-sore vet remarked, "Aint it th truth—this man's war is just one damn battle after another—but that ol' "battle of Paris"—well, I'd go through that agin any time a-tall!" You bet they would—and every vet within shooting distance of Norwich is going to be at the Broadway for these three days to renew old times with the outfit—yes, and the family's going to be along, too, to find out just what did go on when the boys got to Paris on furlough. Oh, boy, those m'amselles, those vin rouge, those estaminets, those oo-la-la!—they're all in "The Battle of Paris," that rollicksome, frolicking all-hilarious all-talking production which opens at the Broadway today. Vivacious, dainty Gertrude Lawrence, star of "Charlot's Revue," "O Kay," "Treasure Girl," who is now playing in New York, is the star of the production, with Charles Ruggles, slightly "smeared" as usual, and a big cast in support. A terrifically realistic scene is the air raid on Paris by the Boche planes. Added talking featurettes are the latest Fox Movietone News; a Laurel-Hardy scream, "Unaccustomed as We Are"; George Dewey Washington, noted Negro baritone; Fred Ardath in "These Dry Days"; Frank X. Silk, well known tramp comedian, and Deiro, the master of the piano accordion. This big program paves a happy road toward the opening next Saturday of Metro's smashing collegiate fun frolic, "So This Is College."

Discharged From Hospital

The following patients were discharged at the W. W. Backus hospital Tuesday: Mrs. Mary Dougherty, 25 North Main street; Peter Anusiewicz, 16 Mountain street, and Mrs. Albert Passmore and infant son of No. 376 Main street.

POETRY

The Breed Of Men

You talk of your breed of cattle,
And plan for a higher strain,
You double the food of the pasture,
You heap up the measure of grain;
You draw on the wits of the Nation
To better the barn and pen
But what are you doing, my brothers
To better the breed of men?

You boast of your Morgans and Herefords,
Of the worth of a calf or a colt,
And scoff at the scrub and the mongrel
As worth a fool or a dolt;
You mention the points of your roadster
With many a "wherefore" and "when,"
But, ah, are you conning my brothers
The worth of the children of men?

You talk of your roan-colored filly
Your heifer so shapely and sleek,
No place shall be filled in your stanchions
By stock that's unworthy or weak
But what of the stock of your household?
Have they wandered beyond your ken?
Oh, what is revealed in the roundup
That brands the daughters of men?

And what of your boy? Have you measured
His needs for a growing year?
Does your mark, as his sire, in his features
Mean less than your brand on a steer?
Thoroughbred—that is your watchword,
For stable and pasture and pen.
But what is your word for the homestead?
Answer, you breeders of men!

—Rose Trumbull.

At Last

I once did dread your coming but you came,
And your two eyes, as deep in mystery
As is the sea
Set me aflame.

What the world was before, I know not now
Were the skies blue? And did suns rise and set?
I do forget,
O peerless brow!

In the deep joy enfolding us tonight
All past is dead, all future vague and dim,
Full to the brim,
Our souls' delight.

—Frederick George Scott, in Boston Transcript.

Extremely Fat Gentleman—Have you any loges for tonight?

Box Office Clerk (meaning well)—Yes, sir. How many would you require?—London Opinion.

"You're saved my life and I'd give you $5 but, fortunately, I have only a $10 bill."

"Never mind—jump in the river again."—Fliegende Blaetter, Berlin.

"Hans, did you hear the stepladder fall?"

"Yes, mummy.'

"I hope daddy didn't fall.'

"Oh, no, mummy, he's still hanging by his coat to the picture hook."—Montreal Star.

Magistrate (to prisoner arrested for gambling)—What trade do you follow?

Prisoner—I'm a locksmith, your worship.

Magistrate—What were you doing when Constable Jones entered the room?

Prisoner—Making a bolt for the door, your worship!—Montreal Star.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A great show which thrilled Norwich once before, has been brought back to this city for another engagement. Because of an overwhelming popular demand on the part of those who failed to find seats at the last showing of the piece, the Palace theater has decided to run again that delightful musical comedy hit, "Gold Diggers of Broadway." It starts at the playhouse today and will be kept there through Thursday and Friday.

Here is an opportunity for those who missed out last time. When a show of that scope and nature comes to town, theater mnaagers wish that their schedule permitted them to show it until everyone who wanted to see it, had attended. The management of the Palace hopes that with the return engagement for three days, nobody will feel left out in the cold.

Ann Pennington, Winnie Lightner, Nick Lucas, Conway Tearle, Nancy Welford, William Bakewell and a host of others take part in this all-talking, dancing, singing and musical extravaganza.

Scintillating, flashing, colorful, full of zest and vim, the "Gold Diggers of Broadway" has swept the country from coast to coast. Everybody who has seen it, is enthusiastic about it. Why? Well, because the best of everything went into the making of it. The best talent, the best melodies, the best songs, the best of the mechanical processes.

Al-Pierre, Willimantic

What will undoubtedly be greeted throughout eastern Connecticut's dance crowd as the banner event of the year is scheduled for the Al-Pierre ballroom, Willimantic, Wednesday evening, December 18. The event, which by way of box office attraction, is called "the grand frolic of the season" will feature the appearance at this popular ballroom of "Billy" Leonard and his Broadway Clown orchestra of ten pieces. Billy's clown musicians do something more than give the crowd the best in orchestration. They provide a versatile entertainment that is lively with gay singers, snappy dancers and mirthful humor. Billy Leonard and his clowns have enjoyed a very busy season and are considered one of the best dance hall attractions that can be booked. The management of the Al-Pierre ballroom, ever striving to get the best possible for its hundreds of patrons, consider it a big stroke of luck to have been enabled to secure Billy Leonard and his Broadway Clown orchestra.

The angle of the side of the mountain with the plain is 45 degrees. This is natural for if a man will pile small stones or sand in a pile, by shovelling to the center of the pile it will assume the shape of a cone of 45 degrees.

Of course the mountains in the great ranges are of all shapes. Some of them are saw teeth, others are level on top as if they were planed off with a plane. These last are called mezas.

There were along the way several dead animals—two horses in another place, a very large Hereford steer. They do not bury these animals, nor is there any odor from them as the sun dries the carcass so fast it does not have time to decay.

Some of the rivers sink into the ground and in going over them with horses it has the effect of crossing a bridge. The sound of the hoofs on the hard surface is like the sound on plank.

There are a great many Indians in this city and on the street we meet them. The men all have small feet and hands and most of them have bow legs. Nearly all of them over forty years old are pock-marked.

The smallpox of years ago was very prevalent and hardly any Indian escaped this disease.

Sensitiveness is not cowardice.

"Victim" Returns

Supposed to have been mutilated and burned alive by five men last March as he was escorting his sweetheart, Tiller Ruminer, to Mountainview, Ark., to be married, this man, claiming to be Connie Franklin, the victim, appeared just as the state was about to proceed with the trial of the alleged nightriders. Some have identified him as Franklin while others deny he is the man supposed to be the "murder" victim.

PLAINFIELD PROS HAVE STIFF TEAM AGAINST THEM TONIGHT IN N. Y. CLUB

Tonight at the Plainfield Community basketball surface the Plainfield Pros and the New York Colored Collegians will clash in what should be a real basketball attraction. The Colored Collegians are one of the fast basketball clubs in New York city and have a very enviable record, having beaten the Brooklyn Visitations, Bloomfield Big Five, Yonkers Whirlwinds, Rochester Centrals, Newark American Legion and Dave Meyer's All Stars.

The Colored Collegians stage a metropolitan colored championship series with the Renaissance Five of Brooklyn and to date the Collegians are only slightly behind, the Renaissance having won 20 games to the Collegians' 18. Any team that can win 15 games from the Renaissance club is a real basketball team and one that will give the Plainfield club a real battle.

The Pros are anticipating a hard game but hope to continue their winning streak. The fans are still talking about the great game of last week with the Boston Whirlwinds, which Plainfield won in an overtime period. This game tonight is expected to be equally as fast.

Manager Lester Salisbury has done away with all reserved seats and all seats are rush, at the popular prices. There was very little call for the reserved seats and many of them were not sold at the games, depriving others of what might be a good seat.

The line-ups for tonight's game:

Colored Collegians	Plainfield Pros
Rooney, lf	lf, Brusso
Mills, rf	rf, Kasper
Wright, c	c, Conway
Holt, lg	lg, Williams
Livingstone, rg	rg, Bernot
Steele, g	g, Dissinger

SHIRES IS DELUGED WITH FIGHT CHALENGES

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The ring future of Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires lies behind him. But if he still chooses to fight, after his disastrous engagement with George Trafton, 215-pound professional football player, the line of prospective opponents is beginning to form at the right.

The great man, decisively defeated and knocked to the floor three times last night, was deluged by challenges today. They came from all corners of the nation. The discovery that Shires, the conqueror of Lena Blackburn, late manager of the White Sox, and the dangerous Dan Daly, could be licked possibly stimulated the challenges.

Promoter Jim Mullen heard from Albert Spohrer, catcher of the Boston Braves. He wants to fight shires, so does Russell Crane, captain of the University of Illinois football team this year. Ray Fitzpatrick, a milkman friend of the Milk Man Mack Wilson, licked in the Cubs park two summers ago, also joined the line of challengers. Ray Kolp, the Cincinnati pitcher, another of Wilson's victims, was wanted as an opponent for Shires in Cincinnati, to decide the championship of the major leagues.

Mack Wilson, the Cubs centerfielder, has turned thumbs down on a move to wave him into the ring with the great Shires. According to word from Martinsburg, W. Va., Wilson's home, Mack has decided that inasmuch as Shires has already been licked, it would not add anything to his fistic reputation by trouncing the belligerent White Sox first baseman besides. Mack's wife also vetoed his ambitions to fight, at least in the ring.

After Shires attempted to soothe his bruised body and cut mouth with a saucer of bananas and a platter of bacon and eggs today, he was undecided as to his future. He gave consideration to an appearance in vaudeville at a thousand a week, and went around to collect $2,833, the amount he received for hitting the deck three times and for catching all those punches that Trafton, the 215 pounder, belted him around the jaw, on his nose and body.

"Trafton? Oh, yes, that big bum," Shires mused between gulps of coffee. "He played football or something, didn't he. And he had the nerve to fight me. Well, if the guy was anywhere near my weight it would have been a different story.

"How could they expect me to lick a guy weighing 40 pounds more than I did? I hit him with everything I had in the first round and when he didn't move I said to myself, 'What's the use? I might as well be slapping the hull of a battleship. Besides, I should have known better than to fight a football player.'"

Trafton was jubilant over his victory.

"Didn't I tell you I would silence that loudspeaker," he said.

DELTAS WIN FROM ROBERT FITCH KEAM

The Phi Delta Nu team of the United Congregational church, won their second game in as many days when they went to Poquonnock Bridge, Groton, and won from the Robert Fitch High school in one of the best played games yet. The score was 24 to 19. The Deltas, led by Armstrong and Holden who kept the team above a margin of defeat, received a scare when Fitch, with three minutes to play, scored two baskets and a foul shot. Bosworth, dominating forward played a brilliant game for the high school, and Weit, center did his part by adding 5 points to the total. The game was played in the gymnasium of the Robert Fitch high school and was well played throughout.

WAUREGAN MAN RECALLS GAME 27 YEARS AGO

Joseph Gorman of Wauregan writes The Bulletin recalling a game played early in 1900-01-02, between the Wauregan Greys and the Athletics of Norwich. He writes as follows:

"By chance there came into my possession a scrap book. Looking it over I saw baseball clippings of past years, 1901-1902 and 1903 being all represented. The games were played by the Olive well known Wauregan Greys who at that time were bad medicine judging by the scrap book. There are men in Norwich today who can vouch for this as Smith, who was once second base is boss dyer at Bean Hill, and Tim Fields, who caught is still in Norwich Town.

"As one looks at the records he cannot but wonder how a small country village could turn out such a nicely balanced bunch of ball players and hold them together so long. The team had hardly any weak spots as every man was well fitted to play his position and more than that played the game for love of it. It seems too bad that some of them did not go higher than they did. Burno the pitcher, was a bugbear to neighboring teams at that time and many a shut-out game is shown in the old scrap book.

"In three years this team never lost one game on home grounds and only three or four all together. What is more they refused to play no team and scalped every team on the line from Southbridge down to New London. More than once they met teams of imported players hired for the especial purpose of beating them and it was to such that they lost games but every one was bitterly contested.

"At that time Norwich had a team known as the Athletics and they met the Greys in due time. Well the game was a real ball game in every sense of the word and although they outhit the Wauregans, still they lost and what I more not one error is charged up against the Greys, while Norwich has four errors, which may have been costly.

"But four of the old team remain here now. Leach, right field, Burns, pitcher, Raymond, left field and Farrell the first baseman. All the rest are scattered to the four winds but still are all living as far as I can learn. Mr. Farrell stated that he hopes to have a reunion in the future but was uncertain as to the date. The box score of the game with Norwich Athletics follows:

FOUR KNOCKOUTS ON CARD AT NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Marty Owens, 134 1-2, New Bedford, Mass., scored a technical knockout over John Ciccone, 135, Schenectady, N. Y., here tonight. Ciccone's eye was cut in the third round and his seconds asked the fight to be stopped at the end of the seventh to save him from further punishment.

Bud Marriott, 164, Coast Guard, knocked out Eddie Dowd, 165, Boston, in the first round of an eight round semi-final.

Alex Tourain, 138, New Haven, knocked out Eddie Daly, 140, Boston, in the third round of their six rounder. John Londos, 136, New Bedford, Mass., knocked out Manuel Corriere, 136, Fall River, in the third round of a four rounder.

BABY JOE GANS KAYOES KAWLER IN FIFTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Baby Joe Gans, Negro welterweight from California, knocked out Nat Kawler of New York in the fifth round of their ten-round main bout at the Broadway arena in Brooklyn tonight. Gans had Kawler whipped from the second round on, but could not drop his man until the fifth when Kawler crumpled for good. Gans weighed 141 and Kawler 137.

Nestor Tax Takala of the Michigan State College of Mines scored a technical knockout over Joe Corbett of New Bedford, Mass., in the third round of a six-round bout. They are welterweights.

Frank Goosby, California Negro welter, stopped Young Chiantil of the Argentine in the third round of a four-round fight.

RUDOLPH BEATS TABERSKI FOR SIXTH VICTORY

DETROIT Dec. 17.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, defeated Frank Taberski, defending champion, 125 to 57, in 15 innings here tonight to take his sixth straight victory in the world's championship pocket billiards tournament.

Rudolph had a high run of 57. Taberski's high run was 27.

Rudolph will meet Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, tomorrow night in a game which may decide the championship. If Rudolph wins he will have a clear claim to the title, but if Greenleaf defeats him they will be tied with six wins and one defeat each, and a play-off will be held Thursday.

SHYMA BASKETBALL LEAGUE OPENS AT PARISH HALL

The Shyma club basketball league will open tonight at Parish hall, Taftville. The Yankees will meet the Giants in the first game with the Athletics and Pirates in the second tilt. The league is picked from the best players in the town, among whom are Jimmy Murphy, Lefty Dugas, Jerry Peltier and Lemieux. There will be no admission charged, everybody being welcome.

There is much interest in Taftville in this league and a large crowd is expected.

Susie Says

What's this thing we call "the Christmas Spirit?"

Is it just the exchange of pretty little doo-dabs to show that you think of your friends and loved ones or is it a sort of game where you see if you can get more than you give?

Whoever thought up this idea of giving presents at Christmas was no Scotchman, he was probably one of these high pressure sales-boosters. But believe me he did a whale of a good job and his idea went over big.

A lotta other birds have tried to ring in a number of other holidays but they didn't meet with much success. Once a year is enough to run the old pocketbook ragged.

And speaking of running the old pocketbook ragged, I was in a friend's house the other day when his wife came home from a shopping tour. She was loaded down with bundles, but she was happy.

She says to her husband, "I bought you just the nicest present you ever saw and you'll be surprised when you get the bill." Ain't that a hot one? Just imagine that, will you.

And here's another woman what give her husband a coffee percolator for Christmas. Now, what in the old Harry did he want of a coffee pot. He didn't want it, his wife wanted it. Tie that one if you can.

I wonder how she'd have felt if he had given her a coupla left-handed golf clubs 'cause he's left-handed. She'd have thought she had grounds for divorce.

Yep, this exchanging of Christmas gifts has got to be some problem and you got to use the old head or you're going to get stuck. Imagine giving Aunt Minnie a $4 pair of silk stockings and getting a religious calendar in exchange.

It may be more blessed to give than to receive but you sure are burning up. Then next year you buy her a 50-cent string of beads and she comes through with a $10 pair of gloves. Then you feel cheap as dirt.

Yep, it's a whale of a strain.

Wesleyan Beats Norwich

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Wesleyan university basketball team tonight defeated Norwich university by a score of 28 to 24. The issue was decided in the final minutes of play by goals by Owen and Nye.

Norwich overcame an early Wesleyan lead and led at half time, 14 to 10. Then Wesleyan changed its attac, and slowly forged ahead. Nye and Hartford, of Norwich, were the high scorers with ten points each.

Henderson Goes to Yanks

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 17—(AP)—The release of Bill Henderson, right hand pitcher, to the New York Yankees was announced today by Frank Connelly, treasurer of the Jersey City club of the International league. The home club will receive cash and players for the transfer of the pitcher's services.

NEXT LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP WILL CLAIM BUFFALO AS HIS HOME

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The next time "bellerin Joe" Humphries announces the new light heavyweight champion in New York state he will be "of Buffalo," regardless of his name.

The New York state athletic commissioners, in formal session today, cut themselves a large chunk of red tape and declared outright that the winner of a match between Jimmy Slattery, the veteran play boy, and Lou Scozza, a rough youngster, will be regarded here as the successor to Tommy Loughran, retired 175 pound ruler. Both Scozza and Slattery hang their gloves in the un-state center between tours of the various cauliflower patches.

The announcement of the fistic fathers met with some surprise despite the logic and satisfying speed of the commission's deductions. A few weeks ago the solons named Maxey Rosenbloom, the Harlequin of Harlem, and "Hold 'em" Yale Okun, both of New York, along with George Courtney, of Oklahoma, and Scozza for an elimination tourney to decide the prize.

Least favored of the entries was Scozza, who has never performed in startling fashion here, while Slattery, already beaten by Loughran in a title test, was not even mentioned. Rosenbloom was an outstanding favorite, due to a sensational victory over Joe Sekyra, the Dayton blonde, and through chastisement of almost every other contender in the light heavyweight and middleweight classes.

Shortly after beating Sekyra, however, Rosenbloom fought Jimmy Slattery in Buffalo and met with surprising defeat, Slattery's victory gave him Maxie's place in the tournament.

During the past week, the other pair of contenders was eliminated. Scozza put Courtney out of the running in Detroit by winning their match on a foul December 12, after Rosenbloom had obligingly obliterated Yale Okun with a decision victory in the semi-final of the Christmas fund card here December 9. These contests left Scozza and Slattery dead-locked for recognition in the eyes of the commission.

ARMORY FIVE LOSES TO MILLVILLE BY ONE POINT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 17.—The Armory A. A. was defeated here tonight by the fast Millville team in a very close and hard-fought game from start to finish by a score of 23 to 22. The first half opened with Danielson taking the lead and holding all through the half, the scoring being 13 to 11 in their favor at the half. The second half started with Millville tying the score in the first minute of play, the score remaining deadlocked until the last minute, when a long shot from the center of the court by Curran of Millville put them in the lead to win, 23 to 22. Curran and Connelly were the stars for Millville, while Goudreau and Normandin did the most scoring for Danielson. Armington played the second half for Danielson, replacing Jones, and played a wonderful game. The summary:

MASSIE MILLER TIES FOR THIRD IN PRO-AMATEUR

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Clance Clark, Tulsa, Okla., professional paced by a 17-year-old amateur with whom he was paired, today won the San Gabriel $1,000 amateur-professional best ball golf tournament by turning in a card of 63 to lead seven others who finished in a tie for second with scores of 64. Clark was paired with Nick McInery, of San Bernardino, Cal.

Playing with an eight stroke handicap, the 17-year-old San Bernardino amateur largely was responsible for his Tulsa partner's capture of the $350 first place prize. The youth capitalized on his handicap by turning in the low score on 11 of the 18 holes.

Jimmy Hines, New York professional, paired with Babe Julian, Los Angeles; Don Williams, Westfield, N. J., professional, and Cliff Castle, Los Angeles; Tony Manero, New York professional, and Bill Jaliffe, Los Angeles; Phil Hart, Wheeling, W. Va., professional, and Tex Schramm, San Bernardino, California; Johnny Rogers, Denver professional, and J. Berryhill, Los Angeles; W. Stackhouse, Hillsboro, N. H., and Marvin Morse, Los Angeles, and Lew Owen, San Bernardino, Cal., professional, and Gale Stockton, San Bernardino, all tied for second with cards of 64.

In a three cornered third place tie were Billy Burke, Portchester, N. Y., professional, and George Shaw, Los Angeles; Massie Miller, Norwich, Conn., professional and J. C. McDonald, Los Angeles; and Hal McGrew, Los Angeles professional, and George Martin, Los Angeles, all turning in cards of 65.

ARMY NOT TO PLAY AGAIN IN NEW YORK CITY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Major Philip Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the United States Military academy, said today the Army would play no more football in New York city unless authorities could guarantee "courteous treatment."

Roused by alleged discourteous treatment by city officials at the time of the Army-Notre Dame game in New York city November 30, Fleming said the Army was prepared to take not only the Notre Dame game but all other home games out of New York city.

"If New York city authorities do not give us courteous treatment," he declared, "we shall certainly take the games elsewhere. We have not signed a contract for the Yankee stadium."

Fleming said he intended to confer with Knute K. Rockne, Notre Dame coach, to determine where the game shall be played next year.

The graduate manager's statement was believed to have been influenced largely by the alleged refusal of Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen to provide a police escort for the Army players from their training quarters to the stadium on the day of the game. Whalen's refusal was withdrawn, it was said, at the last minute after Army authorities protested that an escort was being provided for the Notre Dame team.

"We couldn't understand the police commissioner's action," Fleming said. "It came as a complete surprise to us and we were very much astonished. Such escorts have always been furnished in the past."

He explained that the lack of a police escort might have delayed the arrival of the Army team because of traffic congestion around the stadium.

"New York isn't the only place we can play," he added.

"Of course we much prefer it because it is near the Point and the cadets are enabled to have a free evening in the city

CAUTIOUS OPERATIONS DOMINATED SLUGGISH TRADING IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The stock market reached a state of stagnation today such as had not been experienced in months. After a little more selling during the morning, a creeping rally set in, largely reflecting short covering, and several leading industrials and utilities closed with gains of 2 to 7 points. The market as a whole, however, was extremely narrow, and the majority of shares fluctuated less than 2 points. Total sales were only 2,438,080 shares.

The sluggish trading was dominated by the cautious operations of a few professional traders, together with a moderate amount of year-end selling to establish losses for income tax purposes.

In view of past experience, a period of dull and sluggish markets is regarded as a normal development when the early technical adjustments of a severe market crash have been completed.

Attention remained focused on the gold export situation. It was reported that officials of the treasury and the Federal Reserve view the outflow of gold as a normal return of metal attracted to this market during the recent period of high interest rates. Sterling slipped below the point at which gold may be profitably shipped, but in any case, further shipments would await the sailing of fast vessels at the end of the week.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

NEW INSECTICIDE MAY BE PRODUCED IN THIS COUNTRY

In the great war with insects man has a new and promising weapon in the form of rotenone, a crystalline material which is both a contact and stomach poison. This insecticide is especially welcomed by scientists at this time, when they are looking for organic compounds to take the place of lead arsenate which leaves an undesirable residue on fruit.

The demand for organic insecticides is much greater than the supply, according to Dr. R. C. Roark of the bureau of chemistry and soils, United states department of agriculture. The most widely used materials in this class are nicotine and pyrethrum flowers. Nicotine is derived only from the stems and floor sweepings of tobacco. Pyrethrum flowers are grown to a limited extent in California, but practically all of the 17,000,000 pounds used annually in this country is imported from Japan. This plant has been grown in the United States, but the cost of harvesting the flowers is a decided handicap to its production.

This leaves rotenone in a field where there is little competition. This material has been obtained mostly from the roots of derris, a plant grown in the rubber plantations of Sumatra and the Malay peninsula. Another promising source of rotenone is "cube," a wild plant which grows in the mountains of Bolivia and Peru. The indians of these countries use the roots of this plant to poison fish. Small amounts of the plant thrown in streams stun the fish sufficiently for the natives to catch them with spears or nets.

Due to the limited supply of nicotine and the dependence upon Japan for pyrethrum flowers, scientists of the department are looking to the production of insecticides of plant origin in the United States. Derris and cube are both promising sources of rotenone, although cube contains nearly three times as much of the active ingredient. Careful tests have shown that roots of this plant contain as much as 7 per cent rotenone.

Since derris is grown in the rubber plantations of the Malay peninsula, it is thought that this plant might be grown in the southern part of Florida. Cube grows at high altitudes in Bolivia and Peru and might be suited to the southwestern states. Very little is known about the plant at present. Its correct botanical name is not even known, but its action on aphids and other insects warrants a thorough study as to the possibilities of growing the plant in this country.

CHRISTMAS TREES TAGGED AS AID TO FOREST IMPROVEMENT

Wrongly cut Christmas trees may be a cause of considerable damage to forest stands, says the forest service of the United States department of agriculture. Rightly cut, the harvesting of Christmas trees is not inimical to conversation, and may even be a means of improving timber stands.

Santa Claus and forestry can remain on friendly terms if cutting is carried on as a thinning operation. The trees to be removed are those which are being shaded out by crowding and those which are crooked and stunted. The removal of excess trees in crowded stands permits those remaining to make better growth. This is the plan under which Christmas-tree cutting is allowed on the national forests. The thriftiest young trees in the stand should never be cut, according to the forest service, nor should the tops be cut out of trees.

The forest service strongly condemns the practice of taking young trees and Christmas greens from some one's property without permission, the promiscuous cutting of trees from places where their removal mars the scenic beauty, and the destruction of valuable forests by cutting all the trees for quantity shipments.

Growing Christmas trees in plantations near the large consuming centers has been found profitable by a number of landowners who have suitable location and facilities, especially in localities which are distant from natural sources of supply. The trees can be harvested in from four to eight years after they are planted at the rate of about 5,000 per acre.

The city of Denver has adopted a successful plan for doing away with reckless destructive cutting of Christmas trees. The local chamber of commerce, with the help of the United States forest service and other agencies, conducted a campaign to have all purchasers of Christmas trees demand certified trees. Certification is done by the state forester, and each certified tree bears a red tag showing that it was cut under methods which improved the forest.

GRASSHOPPER MICE VALUABLE AID TO MAN IN INSECT WAR

Grasshopper mice, unlike most of our native rodents, are "good little mice" as the bedtime story-teller would say. When first discovered in 1832 in North Dakota they were dubbed "grasshopper" mice because of their fondness for such insects.

Since then, however, much more has been learned of the characteristics and food habits of these interesting little animals. The biological survey of the United States department of agriculture says that they not only feed on grasshoppers but over their wide range in the western United States they are a check on numerous injurious insects and help to keep a wholesome balance among many groups of small-animal life, such as kangaroo rats, pocket mice, meadow mice, cotton rats, ground squirrels, and pocket gophers.

In general appearance grasshopper mice resemble the white-footed mice but are shorter and of heavier build. They have short, tapering tails and almost weasel-like expression of face. Their voices might be likened to the barking of a tiny terrier or to the howling of a miniature wolf, depending on their mood.

As pets for children or as playthings they have not proved a success, but they will rid kitchens, basements, cellars, or greenhouses of cockroaches and other insect pests. When so used they are easily handled and controlled merely by placing their open cages in the room and allowing the mice to run at large at night. They will almost invariably return to their cages by morning.

Generally the grasshopper mice are regarded as rather scarce or rare, partly because of the fact that they are hunters and wanderers, are not colonial, and do not follow definite runways. Then, too, they are nocturnal in their feeding habits. In favorable localities, however, considerable numbers have been found, indicating that they are more numerous than they sometimes appear to me. In many places, the biological survey says, they are present in sufficient numbers to have a decided influence on the abundance of the small-animal life that furnishes their food.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Forecasts of a cold wave that may endanger autumn-sown wheat in Kansas and Oklahoma led to considerable buying today of wheat future deliveries here. Accompanying upturns in wheat prices were also given force as a result of unfavorable threshing returns in Argentina and Australia. Many traders showed themselves inclined to believe that a steep upturn in wheat quotations at Buenos Aires today and simultaneous stoppage of gold exports from Argentina were directly due to wretched Argentine crop conditions.

Closing prices for wheat in Chicago were firm, 1 3-8c to 1 3-4c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4 to 1 at 1 1-8c advance, oats 1-4 at 3-8 to 3-4c up, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 10c.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Sharp declines in numerous South American obligations on the news that Argentina had closed the gold exchange office in Buenos Aires, thereby suspending the privilege of converting the paper peso into gold, featured the bond market today.

Argentine listings were heavily traded and tumbled 1 to 3 points. Colombians and some of the provincial issues declined to about the same extent, but Chilean bonds held steady.

Otherwise, the entire list, both domestic and foreign, was again extremely dull and prices drifted lower with the exception of the first grade rails, which scored a moderate advance. Firmness of the money market continued holiday withdrawals kept interest in the fixed income securities at a minimum and was reflected in slight declines by Liberties and Treasury certificates.

Indicted at Capital

Daniel R. Crissinger, of Marion, O., above, former controller of the currency under the late President Harding, has been indicted with five others in Washington, on charges of using the mails to defraud. The indictment charged the defendants organized diverse corporations for the purpose of hiding the operations of the company which they directed.

Ozark Murder Case

Reubin Harrell, 20-year-old deaf-mute shoemaker, above, a stranger in the community, is expected to be one of the principal witnesses for the state at Mountain View, Ark., in the murder trial of five men accused by Tiller Ruminer of mutilating and burning to death her prospective husband, Connie Franklin. Although the defense has produced a youth whom it claims to be Franklin, the prosecution is going ahead with the trial.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

The undersigned does hereby give notice that he will no longer be responsible for bills or accounts or debts contracted by anyone but himself.
REUBEN P. POTTER.
Norwich, Dec 17th, 1929.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a hearing will be held by the Zoning Board of Appeals for the Town and City of Norwich at the Mayor's office in the City Hall in said Norwich on Monday, December 23rd, 1929 at 11 a. m. for the purpose of hearing and deciding a certain appeal which has been taken to the Board by Robert T. Lillie from the action of the Fire Marshal of the City of Norwich in refusing him a permit to build a gasoline filling station upon his premises abutting on the Stonington Road which is in the Class A. Residence District.

Dated at Norwich, this 17th day of December, 1929.

The Zoning Board of Appeals for the Town and City of Norwich,
By Walter Camp, Secretary.

HARRIETT C. POTTER VS. FRED L. Potter, Order of Notice.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, December 12th, 1929.

Upon the complaint of the said Harriett C. Potter claiming for the reasons therein set forth a divorce, returnable on the first Tuesday of January, 1930, before the Superior Court in and for said County.

It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant, Fred L. Potter, formerly of Norwich, Connecticut, is gone to parts unknown.

It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendant by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, two days successively, commencing on or before the 25th day of December, 1929.

WILLIAM H. SHIELDS, Jr.
Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

FLOYD R. MONROE VS. O. C. Wolfe Inc., Superior Court, New London County, December 13th, 1929.

NOTICE OF LIMITATION OF TIME FOR PRESENTATION OF CLAIMS

Notice is hereby given that in the above entitled action on the 6th day of December, 1929, the Superior Court for New London County, State of Connecticut, wherein the undersigned William Z. White was appointed permanent receiver of O. C. Wolfe Inc. on said December 6th, 1929, made and entered the following order limiting the time for the presentation to said receiver of claims against said O. C. Wolfe Inc.:

"That four months from and after December 20th, 1929, be and the same is hereby limited for the presentation to said receiver of claims against said estate; that all claims not so presented be thereafter forever barred, and that said receiver give notice to all parties concerned of said limitation, that all claims not presented within the time limited will be thereafter barred and of the address to which claims may be sent to him by mail, by publishing such notice in three issues each of the "New London Day" and the "Norwich Bulletin," newspapers published in New London and Norwich respectively, and by causing a copy of said notice to be mailed postage paid to each known creditor, all on or before the 19th day of December, 1929."

All claims not presented to the receiver within four months from and after December 20th, 1929, will thereafter be barred.

Claims may be sent to the receiver by mail to the following address: William Z. White, Receiver of O. C. Wolfe Inc. Plant Bldg., New London, Conn.

Mystery Grows

Mystery of the disappearance of Dr. Ernest Watzl, above, Cleveland chemist, has been growing since the finding of his car, demolished by fire, at the edge of the Schuylkill river near Saratoga, Pa. Police, at first, believed Dr. Watzl had met with foul play, but this theory has been blasted by Vincent Benhard, of Philadelphia, who has revealed that the chemist sought to buy the use of his name upon which to obtain a passport to South America, a few days before the finding of the remains of Dr. Watzl's car.

ALL THE MONEY YOU REALLY HAVE IS WHAT YOU SPEND

By R. W. McNeel

Of course there must be intelligent provision for the future.

But when the epitaph is written the only things you will have will be represented by what you have spent—what you have intelligently spent.

Money DOES NOT represent wealth in the final reckoning. Wealth consists rather in human experience, in health, in happiness, in self-development.

Money hoarded is only money.

But money intelligently spent is money put back into the property.

Self-denial is no longer deemed a virtue.

In ancient times it was embodied into religion in order to content people with nothingness.

It was a necessary philosophy—for people had nothing, so poverty became a virtue

From the landing of the Pilgrims until the ending of the great world war, self-denial, extreme thrift and saving were inculcated in the minds of the American people.

That was a necessary doctrine in a pioneer country, where great quantities of capital were necessary for development. Only by national saving, amounting virtually to self-denial, could they be created.

Now that is all changed.

For the first time in our history we not only have sufficient capital for our needs but we have exported and are still exporting hundreds of millions of dollars.

We are now in a period when the maintenance of properity lies no longer in self-denial but in intelligent spending. In that way the full volume of the real wealth we are able to produce can be absorbed and enjoyed by the American people.

We are in a new era in the country's development based on new methods of production, new discoveries, new science, new improvements and inventions in transportation and commuication of ideas

All this means an almost unthinkable increase in our real wealth.

Apart from necessary provision for the future, unnecessary self-denial in this day, and unnecessary curtailment of spending, can only mean that we are not alive to the tremendous progress this country has made, to the tremendous strides we have made and are making, in all those things which contribute to the lightening of our burdens and the full enjoyment of life.

In the ultimate, we will find that apart from necessary provision for the future, the only money we really have is that we spend intelligently on ourselves, on education, on travel, on legitimate pleasures and enjoyment, on securing possession of goods which add to our comfort, peace of mind and pleasure—which enable us to lead broader, fuller and more enjoyable live

The great old countries of Europe have long since discarded the theories of self-denial.

In the fullness of their wealth and maturity they pause to enjoy the fruits of their labors as they go along

They hoard wealth perhaps, not for dollar-chasing, but in their quest for human happiness, for art, for travel, and for some leisure

It is due in part to the abandonment by the American people of the old and obsolete idea of self-denial as a virtue that the last five years have been the most prosperous in the history of this country.

They have been spending their money intelligently, enjoying the fruits of their labors.

It is largely upon this philosophy that the continuation of our great prosperity depends.

In this country the doctrine of self-denial, in contrast to intelligent spending, for more happiness, for bigger and fuller lives, is just as dead as a sound principle of economics as it is a sound philosophy of life.

Mrs. John Fontaine, of 230 Central avenue, and Miss Hanna Malone have returned from Hartford, after spending a few days with Mrs. Fontaine's daughter, Miss Gertrude Fontaine.

To Sing Christmas Carols

The Greeneville H. club held the weekly meeting Monday evening in the clubrooms on Fourth street, with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted with President Wallace Atterbury presiding. During the meeting it was voted that the members would meet at the clubrooms at midnight Christmas eve for Christmas carol singing, which has been a practice for the past four years. The carol singing this year will be in charge of Walter Moran. After the business meeting a pinochle contest was held.

The T. D. Sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. Sarah O'Brien, on Howard avenue, Monday evening, with a large class present. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles, after which a social hour was enjoyed with vocal and piano solos being rendered by members. Members each brought one present for the Christmas tree which was very prettily decorated in Christmas colors. The presents were made by the members attending the previous meetings. Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cakes, ice cream, assorted wafers, Christmas candy, nuts, fruit and hot chocolate were served by the hostess.

Maurice Piche has accepted a position with the United States Finishing Co. in the chemists' department, filling the vacancy of John Ryan, who has left for Providence, who is to learn the printing trade.

NORWICH TOWN

METHODIST C. E. SOCIETY ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Methodist Episcopal church Monday night in the vestry, reports of the various officers and committees showed that much work had been accomplished. The society has paid $140 into the treasury of the church for local expenses and will raise a balance of $110, before conference. The following were elected to office: Lewis E. Aldrich, president; Mrs. Albert Miner, vice president; Mrs. William Weaver, chairman prayer meeting committee; Miss Florence M. Bennett, chairman committee on lookout and missions; Mrs. Richard Carter, chairman social work committee; secretary, Mildred Carter; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Fulton; flower committee, Virginia Ward, Muriel Rose and Florence Gembel. Lewis E. Aldrich presided at the meeting and prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter.

Kelley Wins Cub Medal

At the meeting of the Wolf Cubs connected with the Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon the Cub master Rev. George Warren Potter announced the winners in the efficiency contest which ended December first. Walter Kelley won first place with a score of 830. He will be awarded a gold medal. Robert Barber won second, with 815 and will receive a silver medal. The other Cubs who scored high were John Gibbs 790 points, Frank Jordan 695, Willard Wilbur 645, Charles Browning 605, John Browning 600, John Yetke 530. There was an attendance of 20 including visitors. Asst. Cub master Donald Olsen had charge of the pack inspection and helped in the meeting. Next Monday the Cubs are to have an exchange of Christmas gifts at the meeting.

Scarlet fever—Groton, 2; New London, 3; Norwich, 7; Stonington, 1.

Canterbury, 1; Sterling 1.

Measles—Brooklyn, 1.

Whooping cough—Griswold, 2; New London, 1; Thompson, 3.

The average man wastes too much time feeling sorry for himself.

E. M. HANKS ELECTED WORSHIPFUL MASTER ST. JAMES LODGE, F. AND A. M.

The annual communication of St. James' lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M., was held at Masonic temple on Tuesday evening. The reports of the treasurer and trustees showed the lodge to be in a healthy condition. The following officers were elected to serve until the first Tuesday in December, 1930:

Edwin H. Hanks, worshipful master; Joseph T. Hynd, senior warden; William S. Huber, junior warden; R. W. Albert S. Comstock, treasurer; P. M. Walter M. Buckingham, secretary; Leonard G. Partridge, senior deacon; Albert M. Lamphere, junior deacon; Kurt W. Seifert, senior steward; Edward H. Smith, junior steward; Rev. Joseph Cooper, chaplain; P. M. William M. Wyman, marshal; J. Frank Corey, organist; Frank A. Cilley, operator; P. M. James C. Fitzpatrick, tyler.

Trustees—P. M. S. Alpheus Gilbert, Guy B. Dolbeare and Alexander H. Abbott.

Lecturers—P. Ms. John B. O'Brien, Gerard L. Ranger and W. Manley Eastwood, Jr.

Committee on dues—The master, secretary and R. W. Albert S. Comstock.

The officers were installed by R. W. Albert S. Comstock acting as grand master, assisted by P. M. Guy B. Dolbeare acting as grand marshal. A past master's jewel was presented to P. M. William Wyman and a year of prosperity under Worshipful Master Hanks is looked forward to. The deaths were, William H. Covey, Dec. 24, 1928; Reuben B. S. Washburn, March 7, 1929; John H. Powelson, March 30, 1929; Maxton Holme, April 8, 1929; Charles H. Preston, May 26, 1929 and Nathan A. Gibbs, August 29, 1929.

FOOD SPECIALIST SPEAKER AT CHILD STUDY GROUP MEETING

The child study group of the Woman's City club held its regular meeting at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the club room in the Wauregan hotel. Mrs. M. A. Dakin, food specialist of the New London county farm bureau, gave a most helpful and interesting talk on "Our Children's Food". Starting with the infant's feeding and working up through the years, she gave many new ideas about food selection and certain essentials in a well selected diet for the whole family.

A food selection score card, issued by the United States department of agriculture for cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics, was used in a demonstration in a most interesting way. Many questions were answered relative to problems in feeding children, much stress being laid on the forming of good habits in the very young children.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 28 when Mrs. John P. Huntington will be in charge. Her subject will be New Ideas About Children.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB UPHOLDS WORLD COURT

Two short talks featured the monthly business meeting of the Woman's City club at the Wauregan hotel Tuesday evening with the president, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, presiding. Preceding the business session a delicious supper was served during which Christmas carols were sung under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Schwenck.

Mrs. Richard B. Snow, of Taftville, gave a ten minute talk on the sale of Christmas seals, and the other talk was by Miss Elizabeth B. Huntington on the topic, World Court.

The meeting adopted a resolution that the club lend its utmost co-operation to the coming world court campaign, which favors American adhesion to the court, and voted to change the by-laws of the club's constitution. It was announced that the club will hold a bridge party the latter part of January at the Masonic temple.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY WILL INSTALL OFFICERS NEXT MONTH

Announcement was made at the meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 11, C. L. of C., Tuesday evening in the assembly hall, T. A. B. building that the newly elected officers will be installed on the first Sunday in January. State President Margaret Crane will be present at the installation exercises.

At the meeting Tuesday evening, in charge of the president, Miss Loretta Gadle, four applications for membership were received and a favorable report was given by Miss Marie Desmond on the matter of bringing Christmas cheer to the ex-service men at Uncas-on-Thames and the Norwich state hospital. Reports of the officers were also rendered.

Refreshments were served, after which gifts were distributed by Santa Claus, impersonated by Miss Mary Wagner.

WOMAN'S CRUSADE OF W. C. T. U. HAS INTERESTING MEETING

Despite the inclement weather Tuesday afternoon there was a good sized attendance at a meeting of the Woman's Crusade of the W. C. T. U. at the woman's room in the Central Baptist church. The president, Mrs. Nathan Gilman, occupied the chair and Mrs. Harold A. Johnson led the devotional period. Mrs. Olive A. Potter of the Central Baptist church choir, was heard in a group of most pleasing vocal numbers and Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg told the story of The Crusade Mother. Plans for future public meetings were considered. A feature of the meeting was the presentation of a gift of fruits and vegetables to the church caretaker, James Coggins.

CITY PINOCHLE LEAGUE SCHEDULE FOR TONIGHT

The following is the schedule of the City Pinochle league which meets this (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock at the Foresters club rooms: First half—American Legion vs. Thermos; Foresters vs. Icy Hot; Eagles vs. Duwells. Second half—Foresters vs. Thermos; Eagles vs. Icy Hot; American Legion vs. Duwells.

The prize winners for last week were Henry A. Congdon of the Foresters, first, score 7,955, and Cy Perkins of the Eagles, second, score 7,845.

CHILD STUDY GROUP HOLDS TOY EXHIBIT

An interesting exhibit of toys and games for the children was on display in the clubroom of the Woman's City club Tuesday afternoon and evening, the display being sponsored by the child study group and made possible through the courtesy of The Cranston Co. The varied assortment of articles was on exhibit for the purpose of acquainting the mothers with the proper toys to be given their children according to their ages. The display was in charge of Mrs. C. Edward Smith.

PRIZE WINNERS AT EAGLES WEEKLY PINOCHLE

Twelve tables were in play at the weekly pinochle conducted by Norwich Aerie, No. 267, F. O. E., Tuesday evening at Eagles hall, the prize winners being as follows: Mrs. Weiman, 7,540; Mrs. Herman, 7,160; Mrs. Herring, 7,050; W. Auson, 7,810; Mr. Maxon, 7,740; Mr. Howard, 7,430.

PLAINFIELD MAN AWARDED TWO WEEKS COMPENSATION

A finding in the case of Arthur Jarvis of Plainfield, an employe of the state highway department, has been filed with the clerk of the superior court by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey. June 12th, last, Mr. Jarvis, while at work on Laurel Hill in the employ of the state highway department, engaged in landscape activities, was injured while handling a scoop shovel. He claimed his chest was injured.

In his decision the commissioner finds that Jarvis continued working for the remainder of the day but was unable to work the next morning and he was taken by the foreman on the job to a doctor in Moosup, who prescribed some pills but made no examination of him.

From the testimony of an expert medical witness introduced at the hearing, Commissioner Bailey finds that some doubt exists as to whether or not the alleged injury played any part whatever in either of the periods of disability suffered by Jarvis. The commissioner, however, gives Jarvis the benefit of the doubt and allows two weeks compensation to him at the rate of $11.22 as well as reimbursing him for $4.50 for prescriptions.

BUILDING AND LOAN VOTES 6% DIVIDEND

A semi-annual dividend at the rate of six per cent per annum was declared by the board of directors of the Norwich Building and Loan association at the monthly business meeting Tuesday evening. This dividend, which will be credited to shareholders in January, completes five years of dividends at the rate of six per cent.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the opening of the 30th series of shares in January reported that the goal of 1,000 shares in the 29th series was exceeded and the goal for the 30th series has been placed at 1,200 shares. It was emphasized that this can be put across if each member will do his or her part in securing new share holders.

Committee reports were presented, routine business was transacted and new committees were appointed by President E. O. Rodier, to prepare for the annual meeting of the association on the third Tuesday in January.

Tenth Birthday.

Miss Betty Yerrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Yerrington, Jr., celebrated her tenth birthday with a party at her home, No. 23 Hamilton avenue, on Saturday afternoon from two to five. Games were played and prizes were won by Marion Heber, Anita Potter, Frances Sharpe, Dorothy Banker, Ruth Miner, June Heber, Ruth Leipold, Doris Gounond. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, cookies, ice cream, punch and candy were served. Miss Belle Spalding assisted Mrs. Yerrington in serving. Miss Betty received many pretty and useful gifts.

Those present were: Estelle Brunelle, Lucille Brunelle, Ruth Miner, Lois Miner, Ruth Leipold, Virginia hapman, Ruby Sharpe, Mary Sharpe, Frances Sharpe, June Heber, Marion Heber, Josephine Rogalski, Janice Jackson, Doris Gounond, Evelyn Thornton, Lola Grenier, Mildred Murray, Rosalie Yerrington, Helen Taft, Madelyn McMahon, Dorothy Kennedy, Irene Baranowski, Claire Doherty, Jean Wigley, Dorothy Banker, Anita Potter, Betty Packer, of Groton.

LOCAL DENTIST ADDRESSES WHITE CROSS COUNCIL

At the regular meeting of White Cross council, No. 13, K. of C., Tuesday evening at the K. of C. home, Broadway, presided over by Grand Knight James P. Sheridan, Dr. Edward J. Kirby, local dentist, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on The Use and Care of the Teeth.

The sick committee reported that John P. Corcoran, social service secretary of the council, who has been confined to his home for several weeks by illness, is very much improved. A message was read from State Secretary J. M. Phillips congratulating the council on the large number of new applications received and it was announced that a special meeting will be held Thursday evening at which a class of candidates will be initiated in the first degree. After the meeting a light luncheon was served all present.

CONFIRMS APPOINTMENT OF YANTIC POSTMASTER

The senate in executive session, Monday, confirmed the reappointment of the following Connecticut postmasters in this section of the state, as recommended by President Hoover: Claude M. Chester at Noank; Louis M. Phillips at South Coventry; Lewis B. Brand at Versailles; and S. Howard Bishop at Yantic.

NORWICH MAN HELD ON NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

Joseph Carrier of Norwich was arrested Tuesday by State Police Officer Johnson on a charge of non-support of his family. He will be presented in the city court this (Wednesday) morning.

Well Child Conference

The state department of health announced Tuesday that a well child conference will be held in the high school auditorium at Putnam, Tuesday, December 24th from 2 to 4 p. m.

TAFTVILLE

When the class of young ladies studying home nursing and hygiene met Tuesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building, Miss Louise Sigrist was the instructor.

The committee in charge of the annual Christmas entertainment of the Taftville Congregational church school held a meeting Tuesday evening in the lecture rooms of the church, and those who are to take part also attended for a rehearsal. The pageant of The Nativity is to be presented this year, after which the pupils will adjourn to the church vestry where the Christmas tree and a visit from Santa Claus will be enjoyed.

Arthur Lambert, of Bristol has been spending several days with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. David Lambert and family of South A street.

Miss Mary Nolan, Miss Sue Nolan of Providence street, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phalen of South A street are in Long Branch, N. J., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Charles Nolan, formerly of Taftville.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hanlon, who were in town to attend the funeral of Mr. Hanlon's brother, Terrence Hanlon, have returned to their home in Taunton, Mass.

INCOME TAX SHOWS INCREASE IN STATE

Increased prosperity in this state would seem to be indicated by the fact that the amount of income tax collected in the state by the federal government during the fiscal year of 1929 was 17 per cent greater than such tax collections in the state during the previous fiscal period, according to figures presented in the annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue made public today.

Individual income tax collected in Connecticut during the 1929 fiscal year amounted to $20,899,642.81 and corporation income tax collections totaled $19,359,366.85, bringing the income tax receipts in the state to an aggregate of $40,259,009, an increase of 17 per cent over the income tax collections of the fiscal year of 1928.

Total internal revenue collections in Connecticut during the last fiscal year, comprising income tax plus $1,956,109 in miscellaneous taxes amounted to $42,215,118, an increase of 17 per cent over such collections of the fiscal year of 1928, the percentage increase of total internal revenue being the same as the percentage increase of income tax.

Total internal revenue collected in the state during 1929 represented a per capita tax of $25.32 per resident, the per capita tax of nine other states being greater than that of Connecticut.

Potato Prices In State

Connecticut's native potato prices for the remainder of the season will depend largely upon the extent to which the surplus of tubers in Maine is absorbed in markets outside the territory usually supplied by that state, according to Dr. R. A. Perregaux of the Connecticut Agricultural college. This surplus available, in spite of the shortages in the middle west and the adjustments that take place through the movement of potatoes, is bound to hold down the local price, according to the economists.

C. V. RE-ORGANIZATION IS GIVEN APPROVAL

The interstate commerce commission has given approval of the re-organization plan for the Central Vermont railway. The Central Vermont Railway, Inc., a subsidiary of the Canadian National, was authorized to issue $10,000,000 of common capital stock, $5,000,000 of series A debentures, $12,000,000 of first and general mortgage gold bonds for the purpose of acquiring the property formerly owned by the Central Vermont Railway company. It also will assume obligations for $44,000 of equipment trust note, series E, and $287,000 of series F.

The order also permitted acquisition by the road of control of the Bethel Granite railway, the Southern New England railway, the Southern New England Railroad corporation, the Montreal and Province line, the Montreal and Vermont Junction, the Spanstead, Shefford and Cambly, and the Central Vermont Transportation company, by purchase of capital stock and the New London Northern railroad under lease.

The Canadian National is permitted to acquire control of the line by accepting its capital stock, and the commission dismissed as premature the application of the Central Vermont for authority to acquire unissued stock of other railroad corporations.

To Be Buried In New London

Undertakers Cummings and Ring sent the body of Otto Therse, 47, who died here Monday, to New Haven on the 12:42 o'clock train Tuesday afternoon from New London.

FURNESS-BERMUDA LINER WAS RAMMED AND SUNK IN LOWER NEW YORK HARBOR

The Port Victoria Was Proceeding in Haze When She Was Struck by the Clyde Liner Algonquin—280 Passengers Were Taken Off the Sinking Steamer—All Members of the Crew Were Saved—A Large Hole Was Stove in the Bow of the Algonquin, Which Anchored in Ambrose Channel With All Her Passengers and Crew Aboard.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Rammed by another vessel at the fog-blanketed entrance to New York harbor, an ocean liner bound for Bermuda sank tonight but not before all of her passengers and crew had been taken off without loss of life.

With 280 passengers aboard, the Furness-Bermuda liner Fort Victoria, was feeling her way out to sea in a blinding haze late today when she was struck a powerful blow by the liner Algonquin, bound for Galveston, by way of Miami, with 188 passengers. The crash occurred near Ambrose lightship.

Instantly the dread distress call of the sea—the SOS—was sounded and ships scurried to aid the Fort Victoria.

A series of radio messages then told how the passengers were quickly taken from the Fort Victoria and placed aboard pilot and tug boats. Into these boats, too, went all of the members of the crew except the captain and six men, who decided to stand by their ship as long as possible.

For several hours conflicting reports of the Fort Victoria's condition came out of the fog by radio. All reports agreed that she was listing rather badly.

Then, shortly before 9 p. m., the coast guard radio station here intercepted a radio message from Captain A. R. Francis of the Fort Victoria, who was at that time apparently aboard the tug Columbine.

Fort Victoria sank at 7:30 p. m. Everybody saved. Passengers on way to pier 95, New York," the message said.

Another radio message, picked up by police headquarters, said that the six members of the crew who had lingered aboard the vessel were safe, apparently aboard the same tug as the captain.

Before the vessel sank, the boats bearing its passengers had started their tortuous journey through the fog back to land. The pilot boat Sandy Hook landed the first contingent of passengers 144, in all, at Staten Island, other boats bearing the rest of the persons taken from the stricken vessel headed for piers in the North river.

The Algonquin, which is a Clyde line vessel, anchored in Ambrose channel with all her passengers and crew aboard. The vessel was reported damaged but was apparently in no danger. Observers ashore said the fog was so thick that the vessel probably would have to remain in the channel all night.

In the meantime conflicting reports of just how the collision occurred came out of the fog. Exactly what happened was not known.

The collision occurred shortly before 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The Fort Victoria was struck amidship on her port side and all messages agreed that before she sank she was listing badly. The Algonquin had a large hole in her bow, but this was reported to be above the water line.

When the coast guard pilot boat Sandy Hook arrived at the Staten Island pier, doctors immediately went aboard to treat possible injuries but their services were not needed.

Upon learning that the Fort Victoria had gone down, the rescued, many of whom were women, took the news calmly.

One elderly woman exclaimed:

"There goes my clothes!"

A young woman turned to her companion, saying:

"I guess we will have to make the best of it. I lost all my clothes except those I have on, but what's the use of worrying now? It might have been worse."

When the Sandy Hook arrived at the Staten Island pier the police there found themselves in a quandary as to what to do with 28 Chinese among the rescued crew. Pending receipt of instructions they decided to hold the crew and passengers aboard the Sandy Hook.

Passengers from the Fort Victoria said the ship was virtually motionless near the Fairway lightship when the Algonquin suddenly slid out of the fog and struck her.

Apparently the Bermuda-bound ship had slowed down to drop her pilot. Painted a dull gray, low-lying and with a single funnel, the Furness liner, it was pointed out by maritime men, would have been almost invisible in the misty murk.

It also was recalled that the voyage was the first one outbound for the Algonquin and her skipper, Capt. J. W. McKenzie since the Ambrose channel light vessel was moved Dec. 11 a mile and a half south and west of the position where she had ridden for 26 years as a guide to mariners entering and leaving the port of New York.

The impact, as the black bow of the 398-foot Clyde liner with the weight of the ship's 6,000 tons behind it, cut into the middle of the Fort Victoria, and even larger vessel of 412 feet and 7,500 tons, was tremendous.

After a hasty survey of the huge hole cut in his ship's side, Capt. Francis immediately ordered his wireless men to request all ships to stand by, and almost at once followed it with an SOS.

The response was immediate and seagoing tugs and coast guard boats were soon on the scene.

Late tonight two more groups of the Fort Victoria's passengers arrived at Pier 95 in the North river in two tugs.

While the flashlights of photographers boomed, the passengers left the tugs. Many of them were laughing as though nothing had happened while others wore frightened or bewildered expressions.

Most of them had lost their baggage when the liner went down but all expressed thankfulness for their rescue.

SENATE HESITATES ON NOMINATION OF JONES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The senate today sent back to the interstate commerce committee for further study the nomination of Robert M. Jones of Tennessee, to be a member of the interstate commerce commission, after confirming Joseph B. Eastman of Massachusetts for another term on the commission.

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, protested immediate consideration of Jones, who will replace Richard V. Taylor, of Alabama.

He raised the question of Jones' party membership.

Chairman Couzens of the interstate commerce committee, said Jones was a republican but that Eastman was a democrat. Answering Senator Black, who questioned Eastman's party affiliation, Couzens said that Eastman had told him today that he voted for Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential nominee in the last election, and also for other democratic presidential nominees in recent years.

CONFERENCES CONTINUE OVER NAVAL AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Their visit to the United States climaxed by a state dinner in their honor at the white house, members of the Japanese delegation to the London naval parley were prepared tonight to conclude their conversations with American officials and continue their trip to the British capital.

The second and final conference between the delegates and American officials will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the state department. Those participating will be former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief delegate; Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, delegate; Hiroshi Saito, secretary of the delegation and interpreter of the conversations in Washington; Secretary Stimson, William R. Castle, Jr., ambassador to Japan, and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Senator David A. Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, American delegate to the London conference.

WORST FOG IN LONDON IN LAST TWENTY YEARS

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Northern London this afternoon and tonight experienced a fog so dense that a funeral procession became lost and was only reunited hours later.

It was said that the fog was one of the worst remembered in the last twenty years. The funeral was en route at high noon to the suburban Edmonton cemetery when the following automobiles became separated from the hearse in the dense mist. The pallbearers and mourners halted until the fog lifted slightly when the procession was reorganized and proceeded to the burial ground.

CHICAGO GUNMAN WAS CAPTURED AFTER SLAYING

CHICAGO, Dec. 18—(AP)—An ex-convict killed one man, wounded two others and spread consternation among Christmas shoppers today, after he was caught shoplifting on the fifth floor of a loop department store. He was captured.

Seeing that he was observed in the act of stealing a pair of gloves, the shoplifter fired at Douglas Richardson, superintendent of maintenance for the Boston Store and struck John Concannon, superintendent of the cashier's office, on the head with the revolver.

Running through the excited crowds, he shot James Freeman, store detective, in the leg as several other detectives closed in and arrested him.

Richardson died a few moments after he was taken to an emergency hospital.

The assailant gave the name of J. E. Grant and said he came to Chicago a few days ago.

$1,290,000 MEDITERRANEAN FRUIT FLY BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—An emergency appropriation of $1,290,000 to carry on eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly was passed by both houses of congress today and sent to the president for his approval.

The money would be available until June 30, 1930, and the secretary of agriculture is given the discretionary authority to make no expenditures until sums "adequate to state cooperation" have been appropriated.

One million dollars of the emergency fund would go toward actual control and eradication work, while the remaining $290,000 would be used to reimburse the plant quaranting and control administration for a line expenditure for fruit fly activities.

LIFE TERM FOR WRECKING AND ROBBING A TRAIN

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Tom Vernon, ex-cowboy, was sentenced to life imprisonment in Folsom penitentiary in superior court here today for wrecking and robbing a Southern Pacific passenger train near Saugus last November 10. He was given two sentences of life, one as a habitual criminal. He confessed and pleaded guilty.

COMPLAINT OF BALTIMORE DISMISSED BY THE I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—(AP)—A complaint of Baltimore business interests, asking for a revision of export and import rates applying to that port to and from the interior be revised, in order to bring about a more favorable relationship to rates applying via New York, was dismissed today by the interstate commerce commission

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

NICE, France, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Baron Flamintus Raiberti, minister of war in 1920 and minister of marine in 1922, died yesterday. He served 40 years in parliament.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The house of commons was told that Italy had established two small naval bases in the Mediterranean since 1921 while France in the same period had closed down a West Indies base and Great Britain had abandoned seven bases.

MADRID, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The official Gazette decreed that all state employes of Spain may take their wages two months in advance in order to take care of urgent necessities. It also established the terms for repayment, to save them from becoming victims of usury.

TOKYO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Having obtained the permission of Emperor Hirohito, Viscount Chifuyu Watanabe, minister of justice, today ordered the indictment of General Hanzo Yamanashi, governor general of Korea, whose regime had been charged with the acceptance of bribes.

THREE MEN SLAIN BY AN INTOXICATED MAN

ROMNEY, W. Va., Dec. 18—(AP)—Seeking vengeance, authorities believed, upon those who had sent him to jail, an intoxicated man set forth with a shotgun and a "death list" here today killing three men and wounding two women and a child.

Walter Crabtree, 36, the killer who was released from the county jail two weeks ago after serving a sentence for possessing liquor was held tonight in a cell at Keyser, in an adjoining county, authorities fearing the possibility of violence.

Sheriff J. B. Saville, who said Crabtree was intoxicated when arrested, expressed doubt the man was crazed by liquor. He believed Crabtree sought out his victims in revenge for his incarceration.

On Crabtree's person, the sheriff said a list of names including those of two of the three men slain, was found. This was regarded by Saville as a "death list" which Crabtree had intended to complete by adding the sheriff and former Sheriff Joseph Ruckman to his victims.

The slayer first visited the home of Asa Wolford, 28, and killed him as he sat at the bedside of a sick father. The killer then shot Mrs. Grace Wolford, mother of the slain man, and Mrs. Carrie Wright, a visitor. The women escaped serious injury.

County authorities could not explain why Wolford was shot. They believed, however, the slayer might have mistaken him for another man, as his name was not on the "death list."

From the Wolford place Crabtree went to the home of Mrs. Blaine Hott, where he shot and slightly wounded Mildred Hott, 11. The reason for Crabtree's attack on this home likewise was a mystery.

Crabtree next went to the home of Justice of the Peace H. C. Inskeep, 50, the sheriff said. Inskeep, who had figured in Crabtree's arrest, was called to the door and killed.

Crabtree returned to his home after shooting Miller, the sheriff said, but set out again. He went to the home of Dr. J. S. Easton, where the physician was treating Mrs. Wright. When a knock at the door was unanswered, Crabtree fired through the door, investigators said.

Crabtree was arrested about an hour later at his home by the sheriff and a state policeman. He offered no resistance.

$85,000,000 INCREASE IN VALUE IN CROPS THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—This year's crops of the American farmer were worth $85,000,000 more than last year's harvest despite a production decrease of 4.8 per cent.

The crop reporting board of the department of agriculture today estimated that the value of 50 leading crops was $8,580,528,000 compared with $8,495,788,000 last year. The area harvested was 367,032,000 acres or about one per cent more than last year's acreage, but widespread drought cut yields 5.3 per cent under last year's and 2.2 per cent below the average of the last ten years.

Principal increases in value were reported for hay, fruits, vegetables, and sugar crops; principal decreases reported were for grains and cotton.

TESTIMONY CLOSED IN TRIAL OF SHERIFFS

BURNSVILLE, N. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Rebuttal witnesses called to the stand by the state in an effort to refute statements by defense witnesses bearing out the defendants' pleas of self-defense, brought testimony to a close today in the trial of eight sheriff's deputies charged with second degree murder of six men in a textile strike disorder at Marion on Oct. 2.

W. L. Hicklin, a reporter for the Asheville (N. C.) Citizen, who witnessed the clash of officers and mill strikers, was the last witness called. He said he interviewed Sheriff Oscar Adkins of Marion, after the battle and asked him what part he took in it.

Adkins told him, he said, that while the shooting was in progress he was grappling with James Jonas, one of the men killed. He said he then asked Adkins what he did when he got away from Jonas and quoted the sheriff as replying, "I said, for God's sake, men, don't kill any more of them."

WIFE BRINGS SUIT AGAINST WILLIAM FARNUM

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Trial of a suit for separate maintenance brought by Mrs. Olive Ann Farnum, against William Farnum, the actor, was postponed until tomorrow after a crowded superior court calendar forced continuance of the proceedings which had been set for hearing today.

In the suit, Mrs. Farnum seeks $2,500 monthly allowance. She accused her husband of misconduct with Isabella Major, a writer, on a train trip. Farnum will be represented by deposition. He is living in New York.

In reply to the suit, Farnum said he recalled a trip across the country in which he met the writer but had no recollection of any misconduct. He proposed an allowance of $100 a week for his wife and division of their community property in Hollywood.

LORD BYNG WILL SAIL FRIDAY FOR SOUTH AFRICA

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Daily Mail tomorrow will say that Lord Byng will sail for South Africa on Friday on the advice of his physicians. The newspaper also will predict his early retirement as commissioner of the London police, Lord Byng was in better health this afternoon after a setback yesterday.

Reichstag Approves $100,000,000 Loan

Finance Ministry Has Been Negotiating With Dillon, Read & Co., New York.

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Reichstag today voted 239 to 138 to authorize a loan of 465,000,000 marks ($100,000,000) for which the ministry has been negotiating in Dillon, Read and company, New York. It was said that delay in granting the loan must still postpone New York.

A representative of the New York bankers is now in Berlin and is personally handling details of the loan which is expected to tide the government over its rather severe deficit.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, had opposed any foreign loans at this time until the government should contrive to raise an additional $125,000,000 by taxes. However, President Paul Von Hindenburg called him to a conference and it was understood that as a result Dr. Schacht had withdrawn his objections. The Reichsbank head had been at odds with the government for some time and had been publicly outspoken against it but Finance Minister Hilferding a few days ago won a vote of confidence in the reichstag for his financial program.

PLEADED GUILTY TO OPERATING ILLICIT STILL

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP)—William Buck of Carroll, Clinton county, pleaded guilty in federal court here today to operation of an illicit liquor still which was alleged to have caused the death of a number of fish in the head waters of Fishing Creek, Clinton county. He was sentenced to six months in the Clinton county jail at Lockhaven by Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson.

Wardens expressed the belief that the upper reaches of the creek had been polluted by the dumping of mash from Buck's still along the bank. Buck was charged with illegal manufacture and possession of liquor. Buck denied ownership of the still and said he had been employed by another man to operate it.

EDGE BECOMES A FULL-FLEDGED AMBASSADOR

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Walter E. Edge, who succeeded the late Myron T. Herrick at the American embassy in Paris, presented his credentials to President Doumergue in a simple, but impressive ceremony today and became a full-fledged ambassador.

Mr Edge dispensed with the French calvary escort usually provided for such occasions and went to the Elysee palace in one of the president's automobiles. He was accompanied by M. Beco De Fouquieres, master of ceremonies at the palace.

President Doumergue greeted him with more than ordinary cordiality and replied to his remarks with real enthusiasm.

RUM CASE WITNESSES THREATENED WITH DEATH

COUER D'ALENE, Idaho, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Anthony McGill, government witness in the rum running conspiracy trial, probably barely missed being shot to death today, police said, following testimony he gave that was interpreted as damaging to Mullan city officials.

A mysterious man was said to have entered a restaurant with his right hand concealed in a paper bag, and searched the place for McGill. Guards had been placed over witnesses after McGill and M. D. Needham, former Mullan police chief, declared they had been threatened with death for testimony against the alleged liquor conspirators.

MISS HELEN WILLS TO BE MARRIED NEXT MONDAY

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Miss Helen Wills, women's tennis champion, and Frederick S. Moody, Jr. San Francisco broker, will be married next Monday noon, the bride-to-be's mother announced today.

The tennis star and the young broker have been engaged about a year. He is 28 and she is 23. The wedding will take place in St. Clement's chapel here, Rev. Lindley H. Miller, rector of the church, officiating.

Only members of the immediate families of the young couple will witness the ceremony. The same group will attend a wedding breakfast afterward in the Wills' home here. Plans for a wedding journey were not revealed.

GREEK TEMPLE UNEARTHED ON THE ISLAND OF CYPRUS

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A Greek temple of the sixth century, B. C., with 150 life-size statues, has been unearthed on the island of Cyprus in the Mediterranean by the Swedish professor, Einar Gjerstad, and his associates.

In the remains of the recently excavated palace of Vouni of the same island, dating from the fifth century, B. C., Professor Gjerstad found a room to which water was led in three conduits and then boiled in order to heat the bedrooms on the second floor with steam.

The results of his researches show that Cyprus was colonized by the Mycenean Greeks about 1200 B. C.

BODIES OF 59 MEN RECOVERED FROM MINE

McALESTER, Okla., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The bodies of 59 miners, victims of the explosion which yesterday made a tomb of the Old Town Mining Co. here, taxed morgues to the utmost tonight while weary rescue workers sought the bodies of two more men believed to be buried in wreckage.

Only five of the men who were in the workings at the time of the explosion had survived; two having fled to safety before the onrushing billows of smoke and gas, three having been rescued from a chamber of the mine in which they had been imprisoned for hours.

FRANKLIN MURDER JURY LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 18—(AP)—After deliberating the Connie Franklin murder mystery for 30 minutes, the jury of mountain farmers was locked up at 10:35 tonight, with instructions from Judge Bone to resume deliberations at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

British Fliers Killed In Flight To Africa

Both Pilots Met Death When Their Craft Crashed in the Zaghouan Region of Tunis.

LONDON, Dec. 18—(AP)—Two distinguished pilots of the Royal Air force met death in an attempt to fly without stop from Cranwell airdrome in Lincolnshire to Cape Town and thereby establish a new world distance record.

Lord Thomson, air minister, late tonight announced that the plane which natives earlier today had reported crashed last night in the Zaghouan region of Tunis, in northern Africa, was the Fairey monoplane of the British pilots and that both had been killed. He had no further details but it appeared that they had struck the mountainside soon after nightfall.

The men were Squadron Leader A. G. Jones-Williams and Flight Lieutenant A. H. Jenkins. They left Cranwell early yesterday morning and had kept the air ministry informed by radio of their progress until they were about 50 miles northwest of the Mediterranean island of Cardinia yesterday afternoon.

More than 30 hours of silence followed and anxiety for their welfare rapidly mounted here. After Lord Thomson informed newspapermen of the fatal ending of the flight he carried the news to the house of lords which still was sitting.

"I am sorry to say," he told them, "I have just heard that the Fairey-Napier monoplane crashed 20 miles south of Tunis (the city) and both occupants were killed. I have no further details. The report was undated and comes from the consul-general at Tunis."

The air ministry announced that the crash occurred last night. The News was confirmed by the French resident general at Tunis who reported to Paris that the airplane had been identified as the missing British craft.

REPORT REBELLION IN CHINA BROKEN

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18.—(AP)—President Chiang Kai Shek announced today that loyal forces had broken the back of the rebellion which had brought the nationalist government "to the brink of collapse." The government forces, he had asserted, had been victorious in the several areas in which the rebels took up arms.

The revolt, however, said Chiang, was the most serious crisis which the government had experienced. For a time, he admitted, "our fate hung by a single hair—the loyalty and bravery of officers and men of the nationalist army, whose courage never faltered."

POPE WILL HOLD PUBLIC CONSISTORY THIS A. M.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Borne aloft on the "Sedia Gestatoria" by eight stalwart bearers in crimson silk costumes of the Renaissance period, Pope Pius XI will enter the Hall of Benedictions of the Vatican tomorrow morning to hold his public consistory for the imposition of the traditional red hats upon six new cardinals.

This ceremony, which is one of the most colorful in the course of the ecclesiastical year, already has brought a great number of foreign Catholics to Rome.

IS NOT THE MISSING BOY, MELVIN T. HORST

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Joseph A. Turner assured county authorities late today that a five-year-old boy who answered the description of missing Melvin T. Horst was not the Horst boy.

Dr. Turner corroborated the statement of Mrs. Caroline Ward of Columbus that the child's name is Lawrence Smith and that she is his grandmother. Dr. Turner said he was present at the child's birth.

Mrs. Ward has had the boy in her possession since he was seven weeks old.

VARE HAS NO INTENTION OF RETIRING FROM POLITICS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 19—(AP)—William H. Vare, intimated today through his daughter, Miss Beatrice Vare at their home in Chelsea, that he had no intention of retiring actively from politics.

The statement was an answer as to whether he would retire as a result of his recent illness. "Father has not retired from politics, and any statement to that effect is untrue," said Miss Vare.

"Does that mean he will remain in the senatorial race?" she was asked.

"Well, you can take it that way," she replied.

Mrs. Vare is fast recovering from the setback he got more than a week ago.
